It will at once be seen that such a system as this is not one most commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does in justice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada, are attained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, [illegible] Bonuses, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 25, 1880.

THE "MAIL" ON MR. BLAKE.

The Toronto organ of the Government is evidently uneasy concerning the future consequences of Mr. Blake's accession to the ranks of the Opposition in the House of Commons, and it makes its uneasiness manifest in a manner not a little ridiculous. It makes a studious effort to represent him as a man of bonhomie, of assumption, of arrogance, of incapacity, and of uneasiness. The following extract from a leader of that organ-last week is a fair illustration of its habitual reference to the member for West Durham:

> Mr. Blake's airs are of the unctuous order, . . . He quotes from a statute familiar to every student, so as to say, "I'm sure they never heard of that before." He proposes bills of fancy legislation, which commence with kicks out of the House with contempt. He assumes the rule of constitutional opposition, and yet, the public knows very well, Mr. Blake never did while in office or in Opposition cause find himself successful in his contention concerning any great constitutional question. In such matters as the Governor-General's commission, he did indeed obtain alterations of a satisfactory nature; but this was merely a matter of routine, or perhaps a mere matter of policy. No great legal question was involved. This question, whose consequences have been so many and so striking, nevertheless poses himself and tries to impend, as it were, over the House of Commons, expecting it to be awed by his majestic presence.

Fortunately, both the Mail's habits and Mr. Blake's public and private character are so well known to the country that the organ's attempt to detract from Mr. Blake's reputation as a public man by misrepresentations, falsehoods and envious sneers, will only be laughed at. It is the snarl of the jackal at the lion. Of all the political leaders of the House of Commons Mr. Blake is decidely the most unobtrusive, the most unassuming, and the least self-assertive, as he is unquestionably the ablest and the most powerful in intellectual vigor and in patriotic integrity. The Mail refers to Mr. Blake's legislation and to his contentions upon constitutional questions with an impudent disregard for the truth, that would be amusing if it did not evince a moral obliquity and a contempt for truthfulness altogether shameless. Mr. Blake's legislation has almost invariably been successful in the House. Even in the palmy days of 1872, when his measures for prevention of corrupt practices at elections, and trial of controverted elections by judges, were voted down because it would have been inconvenient for John A. to have had his Pacific Scandal corruptions submitted to their operation, yet they were passed the next session because the voice of the country demanded them, and Sir John dared no longer refuse. It is true that a few days ago an arrogant Parliamentary majority "kicked out of the house" the bill for the repression of crime, for no other reason than that Mr. Blake was its author; yet that bill will still become the law of the land. Party arrogance will not long be suffered to sacrifice the interests of society to its envious malice against an opponent. The Mail makes light of Mr. Blake's achievement concerning the Royal Instructions, knowing, as it must know, that Mr. Blake's success was one of the most signal ever accomplished since we acquired constitutional government, inasmuch as it completed the freedom of the Canadian Executive from Downing Street influences, and perfected the responsibility of the head of the Executive, through its advisers, to Parliament. The Mail forgets, moreover, the strong opposition of its Chieftain to the assertion of the financial responsibility of the Canadian Executive—how he warped Parliament that this measure was unconstitutional, and how he said "a little bird" had whispered to him that it would never be assented to by the Imperial authorities. Yet Mr. Blake triumphed over Sir John on that question, and was able to so impress the Imperial authorities that this clause of the Supreme Court Bill, reserved for her Majesty's pleasure, was duly ratified. The fact is, Sir John may vote down Mr. Blake's measures for the time being with the brute force of a subservient majority; but it has been the experience in the past, as it will be in the future, that upon every contest of opinion between them, upon moral, material or constitutional legislation Mr. Blake's views have been vindicated by time, because they have always been based upon right and justice and a patriotic sense of duty. The ill-mannered mouthing of the Mail at Mr. Blake, is the outcome of sheer envious malice, not unmixed with an apprehension that in the not distant future it will be the hand of Edward Blake that will cast out the money-changers from our political temple.

THE CASE OF MR. HOOPER.

Most of the organs supporting the Dominion Government have been saying severe things about Mr. Casey, the member for West Elgin, for his action in asking Parliamentary investigation of the matters related in a petition of electors of the county of Lennox, alleging Mr. Hooper's unfitness to sit in Parliament for that county, inasmuch as he was convicted by the facts ascertained in an official investigation, of having defrauded the county, while Treasurer, out of a sum of money stated at some $32,000. When the matter was brought up in the House of Commons, Mr. Hooper was allowed to make a statement in which he denied the charge, and on the strength of that denial Mr. Casey's motion to refer the subject to the committee on Privileges and Elections, was refused. Mr. Casey then declared the object of the organs' abuse, as if he had attempted an injury to an innocent man, instead of wishing to take a course which would either exonerate Mr. Hooper, or purge the House of the presence of a member entitled to sit in that body. Lately we have not heard so much from Mr. Hooper's quondam defenders, and no doubt with good reason. At the last meeting of the Lennox County Council, Mr. Hoopin, who had promised proceedings to bring substantiation of his boasts made which would set matters right, and to appear before the Council and explain matters, did not file an appearance, neither did any person in his behalf. He had had no examination of his books made, neither had he any justification to offer. In fact he confessed judgment, and by his failure to attend pleaded guilty to the charges made against him. More than this, his sureties paid in the amount of their bonds, $4,000 each, and were released. The sum of $12,000 has already, by these sureties and Mr. Hooper's friends, been paid in towards the amount of the late Treasurer's defalcations. And yet Mr. Casey has been denounced as a persecutor of injured innocence, and Mr. Hooper held up as an honest man, and not a dishonest defaulter! We trust the people of Lennox are proud of the preference they gave to this man who had just ability enough to plunder them, over such a man as Sir Richard Cartwright, a gentleman who has never been guilty of a dishonest or dishonorable act, and whose abilities as a statesman are such as reflect honor upon any constituency that might be fortunate enough to have him for a representative. It is well known that Mr. Cartwright's defeat was not secured by fair and legitimate means; but it will not probably ever be known how much of the cost of defeating him, and electing the virtuous Mr. Hooper, was contributed by forced loan from the County Treasury of Lennox.

Opinions of the Press.

TILLEY RAISING THE WIND.
(From the Irish Canadian.)

Mr. Tilley's scheme of paper-money is prompted by the necessity of "raising the wind." It is but another form of plunging the country into debt. In that light we suggest to the Honorable gentleman that he may as well—unless he has concluded to stop the eternal system of mortgages on the public—obtain all he can from it by saving the application of any part of it to the unnecessary purchase of the $1,900,000 in gold. Unless there have been some intimation in England that our credit there is approaching its limit, this currency-means of borrowing at home is one of questionable policy.

ONLY ONE RETAINED AND THE REASON WHY.
(From the Hamilton Times.)

The only weight and measure inspector west of Hamilton appointed in Mr. Mackenzie's time and still retained, is one Young, a Reformer, we believe, in the county of Waterloo; but the reason for his retention is not that he is a competent man, which we believe is the fact, but because he is brother-in-law to Mr. Krans, the Tory member in the Commons.

WISE AS SERPENTS.
(From the Hamilton Post.)

The Tory administrators are wise as serpents. They spent $7,000 in going to Halifax to meet the vice-regal party, and charged it all in three items. No disgusting details about apollinaris water or "sundries" at Halifax.

St. Andrew's Church.

The annual meeting of the members and adherents of St. Andrew's Church was held last week, the pastor, Rev. Alex. Bell in the chair; Mr. MacDougall, Secretary. The pastor gave a statement of the numerical standing of the congregation, showing 128 names on the roll at communion in April last. Up to last February communion 21 names had been added, and seven removed by certificate and otherwise, a gain of 17, making the communion roll number 142. Since that time the roll has been decreased by one death and four removals.

Mr. D. Pentland, Superintendent of the Sabbath School, reported 120 names on the list with an average attendance of 90. The contributions of the children had been in the year $93, and a special collection for the library had brought in $50.

Mr. Geo. Edmison, Chairman of Sessions, reported the actual receipts at $1,329; expenditure, $1,535. Rents in arrears, when collected, would reduce the deficiency to about $100.

A special committee, to urge upon members and adherents a more general adoption of the envelope system, consisting of Messrs. Pentland, McClelland, J. C. Brown, and Carnegie, was appointed.

Messrs. Macdougall and Fitzgerald, returning managers, were re-elected, and J. C. Brown appointed a Manager in the place of Mr. Edmison appointed as Elder.

After a vote of thanks to Miss Landy, Mr. McClelland and others in connection with the choir, the meeting adjourned.

On Wednesday evening of last week, the children of the Sabbath School were entertained at a successful tea-meeting, at which a magic-lantern exhibition conducted by Mr. Wm. Cameron, aided by singing by a choir of little girls under the leadership of Miss Cameron, was a most interesting feature.

Tay Bridge Disaster.

Inquiry into the Tay Bridge disaster is now proceeding at Dundee before the Board of Trade. The painters who painted the bridge last summer testified that they saw numerous bolt holes empty. Bars were loosened and nuts unscrewed. One of the supporting columns of the high girders, cracked from top to bottom was held together by four hoop bands. Sometimes the oscillation of the bridge was so great they feared it would fall.

The evidence created considerable sensation, but its value cannot be estimated until the Railway Inspectors are heard.

Several moulders, employed by the contractors of the Tay Bridge, testified that the quality of iron used for the castings was very inferior. The columns were frequently defective, of unequal thickness, cracked and scabbed, and the cracks and holes were filled with putty or cement painted over.

Hanlan and Courtney.

Mr. James Douglas, Mr. Hanlan, and the representatives of the Toronto press had an interview with Mr. Soule at the Walker house Toronto on Saturday 13th inst., and satisfactory arrangements were concluded for a race on the 24th May. Mr. Soule proposes addressing a letter to Hanlan and also to Courtney inviting them to row a race on the above date for the celebrated purse of $6,000 under the rules of the National Amateur Rowing Association. In case Courtney refuses to row, Riley has promised to be on hand; and in the event of neither of them putting in an appearance, Hanlan is to receive the money. It is [illegible] Mr. Blaikie is to be referee and [illegible].

The Provincial Death Rate.

From the Registrar-General's report for the quarter ending June last it is learned that the present couple married were aged 30 and 24 respectively. The oldest were married in Wellington, the bridegroom being 78 and the bride 70. The same county gave the oldest bridegroom, a fishing old youth of 82, who married a lassie of the tender age of 34, and also the oldest bride, who found a companion—and, we presume, "married" with—a youth of 25. Bathurst gave the highest death rate (31.7 per 1000, and Stormont the lowest, 8.5. Toronto gave 20.66; Ottawa, 20.6 plus; Cobourg, 17.3; Hamilton, 16.7; Kingston, 16.4; Brantford, 12.2—the average Provincial rate being 14.6.

The Firemen—Station and Road Tolls—Athletic Club Organization—Opening of Navigation—Attempted Incendiarism—Young Men's Reform Association—Appointing a Gate-Keeper.

(From our own Correspondent.)

COBOURG, March 21.

Our Firemen are worrying the Town Council for new uniforms. The old ones are certainly very shabby, and the boys want new togs before the summer tournaments come in. They are certainly a very efficient body of firemen and deserve what they are applying for.

The Sentinel-Star is agitating the market and toll-gate questions. It wants to retain the fees, but to have the gates abolished. The latter is certainly a sensible proposition; but we fancy the scheme of getting the Council of the United Counties to buy up the roads will not work. In the greater part of Durham the gates are long a thing of the past, and the people will not be willing to be taxed to open the roads in Northumberland. It would be more feasible to group the Northumberland municipalities for this purpose. The tolls are certainly a great drawback to the prosperity of Cobourg.

"Our boys," have set an example in regard to athletic sports which Peterborough may benefit by. They have instituted a general Athletic Club, the President of which is the Mayor, and other officers prominent citizens. This is divided into departments of Cricket, Baseball and Lacrosse, with a general executive committee, and committees for each department. Thus the strength of the whole organization will be given to the enterprises of each department and the result cannot fail to be advantageous.

MacDougall & Lodgate's lumber yard has been leased by Mr. George Spence.

It is a singular illustration of the peculiarity of the season that at the very time the carriers are winding up their season's play, the vessels in harbor are preparing for the business of navigation; the schooner Caledonia left on Wednesday for Brighton to take a cargo of ice to Rochester. This is the earliest opening of navigation known here for many years.

Some wretch on Monday night last fired a portion of the stabling at the agricultural grounds. Fortunately it was discovered by parties near by in time to prevent serious damage.

The first annual supper of the Young Men's Reform Association of Cobourg, will be held on Wednesday next, when a most successful celebration is promised.

Richard Hines, of Alnwick, assaulted and battered a gate keeper on the Baltimore road a few days ago to the extent, in the magistrate's opinion, of $5 and $2.95 costs. The defendant's neighbors, who looked on the offence as one rather commendable than otherwise, clubbed together and paid the fine

Millbrook.

Village Gossip—Old Resident Gone—Sad Fatal Accident in Cavan—Concert on St. Patrick's Day.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MILLBROOK, March 20.

Mr. Weller, barrister, a son of your County Attorney, has started a branch office at Bethany. He has excellent prospects here.

The many friends of Miss Maggie Eyres, who formerly resided here, are pleased to hear of her appointment in the Winnipeg Public School at a salary of $450.

Mr. Bateson and his son, carpenters and contractors, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Bateson sr., carrying on the business.

The funeral of the late Wm. Greer, one of the oldest residents of the place, took place on Wednesday of last week, and was largely attended.

Much regret is expressed in Cavan at the untimely death of Edward Elliott, a highly esteemed young man residing on the 11th con., which took place on the 11th inst. Death resulted from a kick on the chest by a horse he was feeding two days previously. Despite the best attendance inflammation and mortification set in. Dr. Kincaid, of Peterborough, was one of his attendants

On the evening of St. Patrick's day a very successful entertainment was given in St. Thomas church S. S. room. Mr. Geddes' "Tim Flaherty" was the piece of the evening. Miss Annie Kells played the accompaniments in her usual brilliant style.

The Port Hope Times of Thursday contains the following:—"Miss Lizzie Lang, a buxom young lady of seventeen or thereabouts, left her brother-in-law's (Mr. Bateson's) house in Millbrook for the avowed purpose of going to her house about three miles from Emilsboro. That was four weeks ago Sunday. Although a slight search in the woods has been made to discover the young lady she has not been seen since. The reason of her strange disappearance, as well as the strange apathy which exists as to the institution of a thorough search for the missing girl, has not been ascertained definitely, although we may say that ugly rumors concerning the whole affair are rife." It is said Miss Lang has gone to Port Hope with a club in search of the writer of the above.

The Irish Relief.

Disposition of Canada's Contribution of $100,000.

LONDON, March 17.—The Dublin Mansion House Relief Committee announce having received £355 from the New York Relief Committee, £60 from the Oxford University, £165 from Wellington, New Zealand, and £100 from Burlington, Iowa. A letter was read from Bishop Logue, Chairman of the Donegal Central Relief Committee, asking further aid, and stating that there are 75,000 individuals in Donegal needing relief. Bishop Logue says the distress is increasing, and it will not decrease till August. A grant of £2,000 was made for Donegal. A letter was read from Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Colonial Secretary, stating that the grant of $100,000 voted by the Canadian Government has been left to him to decide the way it should be applied, with the stipulation that it should not be expended so as to deprive the recipient of the right of franchise. The Colonial Secretary proposed to hand the amount of the grant to a Committee of three members of the Mansion House Relief Committee and three members of the Duchess of Marlborough's Relief Committee, and suggests that it be applied in representative works, such as providing seats, nets, etc., for fishing purposes. The Committee have resolved to accept the offer, and have appointed the Lord Mayor of Dublin one of the three members to represent the Committee, and asked him to nominate the other two. The Lord Mayor said he felt no alternative was offered. Although the Committee were of opinion that all the money that could be had would be needed to purchase food, fuel, and clothing; yet if enough of the money could be spared for wages immediately, it would indirectly purchase food, etc.

It is the testimony of all men who have lived to the "Mystery of Mary" element that the great secret of success in any business is the employment of the people's minds and their hearts in the work. The reason for the success of Hop Bitters is found in the fact that they are the best and most perfect combination of the medicinal virtues of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, Man-drake and Nervura, and the essence of all diseases arises in the stomach.

North Monaghan Council.

NORTH MONAGHAN March 9th, 1880.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment, all the members present, the Reeve Henry Collins Esq., in the chair, minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed.

A petition signed by Robert Goodfellow and nineteen others was received, asking the Council to grant them the sum of fifty dollars to aid in cross-ways the road between the 8th and 9th concession in said township.

A petition from Dr. Kincaid and thirteen others was received, the petitioners requesting the Council to open the road on lot No. 13 in the 11th concession of North Monaghan also part lots No. 3, 4, and 5, now enclosed, for the benefit of the public. The report also stated that the road now travelled on was in a bad condition, and a petition from D. G. Hatton and fifteen others asking the Council to open a new street on the road allowance laid out on the registered plan of the Clonsills property in the Township of North Monaghan.

On motion of Mr. Howden seconded by Mr. Brealy the petitions were ordered to be laid over for further consideration.

Moved by Mr. Howden seconded by Mr. Dunlop that the clerk be instructed to hand back to the auditors their report for correction.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Brealy seconded by Mr. Howden that the Council go into committee of the whole on the second reading of the By-Law for the appointing of Pathmasters, Fence Viewers and Pound Keepers.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Howden seconded by Mr. Forster that Councillors Brealy, Dunlop and the mover and seconder of this resolution be a committee to examine the road way in connection with the petition of Robert Goodfellow and others, and report at the next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Howden, seconded by Mr. Brealy that Alfred Crawford be notified to move his fence forthwith off the road allowance referred to in the petition of Dr. Kincaid and others.—Carried.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 25, 1880.

A CONTEMPORARY ASTRAY.

Our contemporary, the Belleville Intelligencer, quotes from the EXAMINER as follows:

"The price of wheat in Canada is, or should be, RELATIVE TO THE PRICE OBTAINABLE IN THE MARKETS OF THE WORLD. This was before the N. P. interference, but now the price of wheat, since last summer, has been APPRECIATIVELY lower. Take the market price in Chicago and Toronto as a criterion, and it will be found that before the N. P. wheat was higher in Toronto, but under the N. P. it is higher in Chicago, so that the direct effect of the change in the tariff on the farmer, has been indirectly to lower the price of all he has to sell, and positively to raise all he has to buy.

Our contemporary, after a withering allusion to the above "as a fair sample of unscrupulous vindictiveness," goes on to state that had we consulted the Globe's commercial reports of the 17th, we would have found that

"—on the preceding day (the latest accessible), wheat was from 7 to 9 cents per bushel higher in Toronto than in Chicago, the street quotations being for spring wheat $1.26 to $1.29; and No. 2 spring wheat, as telegraphed to the press, $1.29 to $1.30. In Chicago, on the same day, the price of No. 2 spring ranged from $1.18½ to $1.20, closing at $1.19½."

Our contemporary is entirely too fast. In the first place, either through obtuseness or intention, it puts a construction on our article which common sense ought to tell it is entirely unwarranted. We referred to the price of wheat in Toronto and Chicago "relative to the price obtainable in the markets of the world," stating that wheat was higher in Chicago, from that point of comparison, than in Toronto. Our contemporary attempts to make a comparison between the prices at Toronto and at Chicago, and does so fairly, no doubt, as far as its knowledge permits. It takes Toronto "street quotations" against the wholesale price of the Chicago Corn Exchange, which is entirely wrong, though it does not materially affect the result. The price of No. 2 spring at Toronto, in the report it alludes to was $1.28. The Intelligencer evidently does not understand that this quotation is for wheat free on car. It gives the Chicago quotation for No. 2 spring on the same day, as $1.18½ to $1.20, closing at $1.19½. Assuming $1.19 as the average price at that date, does not the Intelligencer know that the quotation it gives is for wheat in warehouse, and that to fairly compare it with the Toronto price it quotes, it must give the price free on car, which would be $1.22 per bushel, three cents per bushel being the cost of putting it on car from the warehouse. Actual comparison shows, therefore, that wheat was, on the day it indicates, only six cents higher in Toronto than in Chicago. Now, let our contemporary turn up the files of September, 1878, and make the same comparison which we have made, and it will find that at that time, before the N. P. came in to blast our industries and to rob the farmer of his legitimate profits, wheat was uniformly thirteen cents higher in Toronto than it was in Chicago; and the difference between thirteen cents and six cents is exactly what the N. P. takes out of the pocket of the Canadian farmer on every bushel of grain he sells, to say nothing of the higher prices he has to pay for everything he has to buy. We will let our contemporary ruminate upon these facts, and perhaps it may come to have its eyes opened to the "unscrupulous vindictiveness" of the N. P. towards the farmers of Ontario.

THE Mail seems to be surprised to find the following in "a sturdy Reform paper" like the Ex. Thomas Journal:—

"Canada is proud of her Judiciary. Her law and criminal courts are presided over by men of unquestioned ability and integrity. The present First Minister of the Dominion is charged with the commission of many reckless and cruel acts, but he has ever been careful of the credit. He never sullied the good reputation of our courts by questionable appointments to the Bench."

Sir John Macdonald's zealous care for the honor and integrity of the Canadian Bench is the one bright feature of his political career, and shows how great and useful a statesman he might have been had he been guided in all his labors by equally high motives, and not been led by the lust of power to sacrifice his principles and honest convictions to every passing political expediency. No Liberal journal need begrudge Sir John the meed of praise which is his due in this respect, and they can only regret that his general public conduct does not give them other reasons for approval.

TRIANGLE AND TRIANGLE.

To the careful student of contemporary history, the present time is one of serious moment if not of positive apprehension for the future of the Dominion. The general trade of the country shows no elasticity. The great wealth-producing class are, in some localities, actually getting poorer, and mechanics, who usually depend on farmers for employment, are leaving the country by the scores, while at the very culmination of a great trade depression extending all over the world, we have entered upon an experiment by adopting a policy of protection, of which no one can foretell the consequences. This theory of taxation had fast adherents and no public exponents in Canada until the parliamentary session of 1874-5, when a small but noisy knot of politicians, principally from the cities, brought up the matter in Parliament, alleging, as a reason, that owing to the extreme depression in the United States, manufacturers in that country were making Canada what was called a "slaughter market" for their goods, and selling them at such low rates as to ruin the home trade. This, no doubt, was a great hardship, but one that was inevitable from the terrible trade depression in the United States and the comparative prosperity of Canada at that time. In the first years of the third Parliament of Canada, no prominent public man took sides with the protectionist clique. Sir John Macdonald had again and again avowed himself as a theoretic free trader, and only believed in taxation for revenue purposes. Sir Charles Tupper was so ardent a free trader that when Sir Richard Cartwright proposed the change in the tariff in 1874 from 15 to 17½ per cent, he was denounced by Sir Charles for making the proposition, as in his estimation it was nothing but the insertion of the "thin end of the wedge of protection," which neither he nor his colleagues would tolerate. Times and opinions change. The present Government, when in opposition, were newly in need of a cry to get back to power, and as the gloom of the world-wide depression began to be felt in Canada, Sir John Macdonald saw that this cry of protection might be made use of, and in the most barefaced manner he adopted it as his own. Then the most wonderful but not unexpected result took place. The rank and file of the Tory party wheeled into line at once and shouted for protection. The most prominent free-traders, men like White of Renfrew, and Wallace of Norfolk, at once threw their principles overboard, and followed their leader in his new assault on the treasury benches. The question of protection having been brought into the political arena by Sir John Macdonald, and adopted as a Conservative plank, the usual sides were taken and the question was made a political battle cry. Fortunately there is a class of electors who judge by the logic of events, and to them we look to see the country again put on the right road to lasting prosperity. Having promised protection in all its phases during the campaign of 1878, the Conservative party brought down the measure in 1879. The condition of the country had, up to that time, been getting worse, and Sir Samuel Tilley formulated his tariff resolutions with a great flourish of trumpets. He was supported loyally by the following at his back. They were prepared to vote through anything and everything he proposed. "The tariff, the whole tariff," was the cry. No factious "Grit" was to be allowed to make the smallest of amendments—all were called upon to worship the production of that whilom free trader, the Finance Minister. And now confidence was to be restored. Oil the machinery and start it up—good prices are to be had for all manufactured goods! Let the farmers get ready their seed wheat and barley—they are now protected! Workingmen to the front! Now is your time—Sir Leonard has ordained that plenty of work and nothing less than $2.50 per day is to be had by every one. Open wide the coffers of the Dominion; hitherto there has been a deficit, but they will now flow over. A steam of wealth shall flow into them from the east and from the west — all nations shall contribute to our revenue, but principally the Yankees! The Minister of Finance would bring them to their senses. Jubilation and triumph sounded in the Conservative ranks; they had redeemed their pledges, and the country was on the high road to prosperity. Alas, for human hopes and human devices. The gloom only thickened all through that dreary summer. The N. P. was tenderly watched by its sponsors, but it was lifeless. Trade would not revive, but gradually month by month got worse, until many of those who had hoped against hope prepared to leave the country altogether. There came a gleam at last, a gleam of sunshine, in the early fall. Business began to revive in the United States. The very country our Finance Minister had legislated against was to aid us on our way back to prosperity. Business could not improve there without creating a demand for our great staple, and on the demand and price paid for lumber hangs a great deal of the business prosperity or adversity of Canada; but even the most benighted believer in the N. P. will not claim that the new tariff has benefitted or can in any way benefit lumbermen.

A year has passed under the operation of the tariff and the most notable feature in the recent Budget Speech of the Finance Minister is its apologetic tone. In 1879 it was almost a shout of triumph; now it is a dirge. He it was, in 1879, who, by his financial genius and the N.P. combined, was to wipe out all deficits. No doubt he would have to increase the burdens of consumers. He proposed taking ($7,000,000) seven millions out of their pockets and dividing it, two millions to the Government and seven millions to the manufacturers. The Government have not received their share and with the exception of Redpath, the sugar refiner, we have a shrewd idea that the manufacturers have not received their share either. Considered either as a revenue producer or as a means for enriching manufacturers, the new tariff has been a total failure. There is estimated to be two millions of a deficit for the year ending July, 1880, and we would like to poll all the manufacturers of the country to-day on the question whether they would have the old tariff or the new. Considering the state of the public finances in Canada at the present moment, it is no wonder the Budget Speech was commenced by an enumeration of the difficulties the present Government had to contend with. If the difficulties had been surmounted he might have magnified his office at their expense; but the difficulties are still there; they must be faced; the public credit must be sustained. How comes the corollary of the N. P.—the cheapness of the tools is to be raised; their cost allowed to continue a blight; we are to have eight millions of deficit then not give them other means for approval.

The returns of gold mines for their next completion have been ordered to 15 pennyweight. We hope this is not the beginning of the end. There are a small number of Conservatives now in the House, who advocate the issue of paper money without any gold reserve whatever, and if their views prevail, or if the extension of the old charter-cullers demand it, imagine the condition of the country for many years hence if Mr. Wallace's proposition were to carry—that in future all pub lic works shall be paid for with Government money—twelve or fifteen millions of irredeemable money circulated over the country over year! Are we to adopt what the United States, after the most terrible struggle and suffering, has abandoned? Will their experience not avail for us? It is hard to say after our experience of 1878 what may not be done. In view of the question looming up in the future, and our present experience of what Protection has done for us, it behooves every true patriot to assist in getting rid of this incubus of Protection, to resist the blandishments of the rag baby, and let his voice be heard as an advocate for honest money.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE great University Boat Race, between Oxford and Cambridge, was rowed on Monday, and was won by Oxford by three lengths.

FOR THE Belleville Intelligencer and other journals of like opinions, we beg to quote, from an sound a Tory organ as the Hamilton Spectator, the statement that the farmers of Canada "HAVE NOT OBTAINED THE PRICES WHICH, DISTANCE CONSIDERED, CORRESPOND WITH THE HIGH SPECULATIVE PRICES IN CHICAGO."

WE regret to learn of the death of Hon. Benjamin Seymour, which took place on Tuesday morning at his residence, Port Hope. This leaves a vacancy in the Senate, to which, if the Government recognize political services, experience and ability, Hon. Sydney Smith ought to have the first claim.

AS SOON as Hon. James Cockburn has earned his sessional allowance at Ottawa, is understood there will be a vacancy in the representation of East Northumberland. Mr. Cockburn is to be appointed Chief Justice of Manitoba in the place of Hon. Chief Justice Wood, who will be superannuated. How much reason there is for superannuating Justice Wood, beyond that he is a Reformer, may be gathered from the fact that he will resume the practice of his profession at Winnipeg. An opening in West Northumberland will give Mr. Kerr the opportunity of testing the feeling of the farmers on the N. P.

THE statement is made that Hon. John O'Connor is about to retire from the Cabinet to accept a judgship in British Columbia, and that Mr. Costigan is to take his seat in the Privy Council, and to seek a constituency in Ontario. Formerly this Province was accorded five ministers out of twelve. Should this arrangement be carried out, it would leave Hon. Mr. Bowell the only Ontario member of a Government of fourteen Ministers in the House of Commons. The ascendancy of the enemies of this Province in the councils of the Dominion Government becomes more and more marked.

OUR TRULY paternal Government have given us another sample of wretched maladministration. The New York Bulletin in announcing that the Welland Canal will not be opened until some time in May, says the "owners of vessels that have "been laid up all winter on Lake Ontario, "complain of the bad management which "has thus delayed these repairs until so "late in the season, and allege that there "is no reason why the canal should not "be thrown open for business while the "repairs are progressing. As the Erie "Canal will open early in April, the best "thing shippers can do is to use that, and "let the slow-going Canadian route take "its time." Navigation is now open, and it appears that through the bad management of the Minister of Railways and Canals, the Welland Canal will be closed to our vessel owners for some six weeks or more yet. Meanwhile the most profitable cargoes from the western shipping ports, will not only be driven from the Canadian route to the Erie, but will be lost to Canadian vessel owners. It was bad enough that the ridiculous duty on grain should be enacted, with the effect, if not the intention, of driving business from the Welland to the Erie, and reducing the revenue of our canals; but that the evil effects of a bad policy should be aggravated by the wretched mis-management which has brought about the state of affairs which exists now at the opening of navigation, is simply intolerable.

THE Review RESORTS to a petty quibble to evade its mis-statement of the purport and object of Mr. Kidd's resolution in reference to the Collegiate Institute. It pretends that it cannot print the resolution because it is not among the records of the Council. In our report of the County Council proceedings it was stated that Mr. Kidd's motion was withdrawn. The Review challenged the correctness of our report in a most offensive way, stating that "it, (the EXAMINER) omits to re-"port that Mr. Kidd's motion depre-"cated the action of the Board, because "it proposed to reduce certain salaries. "* * * And it caps the whole "by saying that Mr. Kidd withdrew his "motion, whereas a majority of the "Council killed it." The italics are given as they appear in the Review. Now the writer of the Review, who is also Session Clerk of the Council, knows very well that every motion brought before the Chair, that is not withdrawn, appears in the records, and therefore when it states in its issue of Monday that "the "resolution in question cannot be pro-"duced by us, simply because it is not "among the records of the County Coun-"cil," it convicts itself in the clearest possible manner of what we will not characterize. So far as its statement of the effect of Mr. Kidd's motion is concerned, that it "deprecated the action of the Board because it proposed to reduce certain salaries," we say again, as every member of the Council knows, that nothing of the kind was expressed or implied in Mr. Kidd's motion, and no one knows this better than the writer who made the statement, who heard the motion read. The motion referred to the resignation of the teachers as affecting the standing of the school, and simply expressed the hope that the Board "would maintain the status of the school as it existed when the County Grant was made." That was the whole scope of the motion, and when the Review states otherwise, it states deliberately that which it knows to be untrue. Were it not that the Review had such peculiarly excellent opportunity for learning the truth, we might believe that it had misapprehended; but under the circumstances there is but one conclusion—that, for party object as readily, the truth did not concern purposes.

Gerrard Grimo, who recently applied to our Council for a license to establish a restaurant bath-house, has made similar applications to Port Hope and Lindsay. Gerrard is evidently prepared to patronize any town that will furnish the necessary capital to set him up in business. There doesn't appear to be much of a "chance" in the house line, though.

AT LAST THE Government have boldly shown their hand, on the question of Ontario's Western Territory. An extra of the Canada Gazette issued on Tuesday evening proclaims the disallowance of the Act of the Ontario Government, for the Administration of Justice in that territory, thus distinctly repudiating the claim of the Province.

"THE QUEBEC AND ONTARIO Railway Company" with a capital stock of $5,000,000, to build a railway from Quebec to Toronto, is seeking incorporation at Ottawa. The Provisional Directors are W. Wallace, C. J. Courset, the Hon. R. Thibaudeau, E. O. Bickford, E. A. Prentice, E. Elliott, Geo. Hilliard, J. G. Hargart and J. Barnhart.

ON TUESDAY of last week an emigrant train left Ottawa, which conveyed four hundred and fifty persons emigrating from Ontario. Of this number there were four hundred and forty-seven bound for Dakotah Territory in the United States, and THREE only for the Canadian North West. This is no doubt the result in part of the Yankee emigration pamphlets circulated by Hon. Mr. Pope at the expense of the Government, and in part of the land-lock-up policy of Sir John Macdonald. Verily this is "Canada for the Canadians" with a vengeance. If this state of affairs keeps on, the next census may exhibit a startling state of affairs. The Ottawa Government should hang out their true motto, which is "Canada for the United States!"

THE Review expresses its profound and unfaltering conviction "that it is about "as difficult for the EXAMINER to change "the tactics which gave it an unenviable "notoriety in the past, as for the leopard "to change his skin, and that when you "scratch its back you will find that the "change which has taken place in its "management of late years is more pom-"inal than real." These euphemistic observations appear to have been inspired by a feeling of exasperation at finding itself impotent to maintain an argument in which both truth and reason were opposed to it. We have heard before of an honored metaphor about the leopard and his spots, and the Ethiopian and his skin, but doubtless long unfamiliarity with the text has slightly confused our contemporary's recollection. Or maybe it was not the good editor but one of his wicked partners who has been thus improving upon Jeremiah of old. Was it the back of the leopard that our contemporary has been metaphorically scratching, under the mistaken impression that there has been some "change in the management" of the animal? Our contemporary is unnecessarily exercised about the management, past and present, of the EXAMINER. We might suggest to it, that it is a tradition that a man once made a large fortune by minding his own business. If the success of the management of the EXAMINER, since it has changed ownership, has disappointed its credulous and senile anticipations, and rankles in its not too amiable temper, it would do itself more credit by wrestling with its affliction in private, than by parading its chagrin in ill-conditioned and envious references such as we have quoted above.

Port Hope.

The Great Car Contract Question—A Newspaper War—Navigation—Sailors' Tag—Illness of Senator Seymour.

From our own Correspondent.

PORT HOPE, March 23.

Our newspapers, and we are blessed with a superabundance of them, both daily and weekly, appear to have come to the conclusion that their "whole duty to man" consists in exchanging abuse between one another, and if we are to take their words for it, one testifying to the character of another, they must be a bad lot. All the trouble seems to have arisen out of that car contract which didn't come to Port Hope. It seems that Mr. Hayden was awarded a contract, for building a number of cars for the Government, whereat the Times rejoiced greatly and magnified our member to no end. It is true that if the tender was the lowest, there does not appear any great cause for glorifying Col. Williams; and if it was not the lowest Col. Williams would be rather open to blame than otherwise, if under such circumstances he procured the tender for Mr. Hayden. However, the contract was secured and all Port Hope was a-tip-toe with anticipation, for surely at last the great N. P. was smiling upon its worshippers. Then there came a pause of apprehension, and afterwards a thunder-clap of disappointment; Port Hope wasn't going to get the contract after all! Somebody must be blamed, and the Times opened out on Mr. Helm of the foundry, who it said by unreasonable conditions had made it impossible for Mr. Hayden to carry out the contract. Then ensued a warfare of words in which Mr. Helm, Mr. Hayden, and Mr. Randal fought a triangular duel of contradiction, while the Times and Guide, like good seconds, took up the quarrel on their own account. The Times alludes to the Guide as the "tail-end of journalism," and the Guide says the article of the Times "could only have been penned by an ignorant ruffian," and so it goes on. I can assure you the people are tired—very tired—of it. As to the car contract, if Mr. Hayden had no facilities for carrying out the work he should not have tendered, and if he contemplated using Mr. Helm's property he should have made his arrangements with him beforehand. Mr. Helm has certainly the right to ask what he pleases for his property, either to sell or to rent.

Navigation is now open here and there has already been an arrival and one or two clearances.

The sea-dogs and the captains of vessels are to celebrate Good Friday by a spell for $25 a side. The stakes are not to go to the Irish poor; but will probably be liquidated in town.

Senator Seymour has been compelled by illness to return home from Ottawa, and I regret to say that it is not likely he will be able to resume his duties there this session.

LINDSAY, March 23.

Our town has been blessed with divers sensations during the past week. To begin with we are in the throes of an election. It is only a school-trustee election, it is true—still there is as much excitement about it and as much pains seized up with it as if the great N. P. itself were at stake. Mr. Mason having resigned his seat at the School Board, Mr. Barron was nominated as the Reform candidate, and Dr. Burrows as the Conservative. The voting is going on to-day.

Then, we have the old question "usual day or election?" to decide. In answer to your Chief Constable's [illegible] hosts have laid against him with [illegible] will require his removal; [illegible] unable to bring [illegible] Mr. [illegible] Mr. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE FAR WEST.

Return of Mr. G. A. Stewart and Party.

Encouraging Accounts.—The Construction of a Waggon Road Through the Mountains.—Settlers Arriving.—Supplies from the Land of Promise.—Great Enthusiasm as to Prospects.

Mr. Geo. A. Stewart and party, who have been engaged in surveying townships in the far west, and concerning whose safety no little apprehension was felt here at one time last winter, arrived in town on Saturday night at eleven o'clock by special train, having missed the connection with the regular train at Port Hope, and were warmly welcomed by their families and friends from whom they had been so long absent. In a brief conversation with Mr. Stewart on Monday our reporter, in answer to copious queries, gleaned the following information:

THE PARTY LEFT PETERBOROUGH

on June 20th, 1879, and consisted of Mr. G. A. Stewart, Engineer in charge, and Messrs. T. Hay, Roland Brown, R. Brown, Walter Stewart, Louis Stewart, R. Seiber and J. H. Hammond, being joined at Port Hope by Geo. Whitehead, who completed their number. From Peterborough they took with them tents and such equipage as was convenient to carry and could be advantageously procured here. They proceeded direct to Winnipeg by rail, and there they completed their outfit for the season's work. Having procured everything necessary they embarked on the steamer and were conveyed from hence to Portage La Prairie, distant from Winnipeg 120 miles west on the Assiniboine river. At Portage La Prairie they procured five Red River carts, an institution peculiar to that country, made with great broad wheels so as to draw to better advantage over the soft roads across the prairies. Having bestowed their tents, camp equipages, necessary stock of supplies, instruments etc. in these, the party set out on foot towards their destination, the waggons being too heavily laden to permit of riding, which, indeed, at the rate of progress, would not have been entertained as a great luxury. After a march of eight days they reached a Hudson Bay Post, in charge of Mr. J. C. Andy, the Factor, by whom they were hospitably received and handsomely entertained during the two days they camped there to recruit, and whose kindness they desire to acknowledge in many things during their entire stay. After this brief halt, they proceeded to the scene of the season's labor, and struck their first camp twenty miles north of Riding Mountain House, and commenced operations. The work to be done was to locate concession lines on a block of four townships, six miles square each, the whole block containing 144 square miles, and the length of line to be run aggregating about 340 miles. Owing to the broken nature of the country, the work was attended with a good deal of difficulty, and they were considerably delayed during the most favorable part of the season by sickness in the party, brought about by the change in food, exposure etc. However Mr. Stewart had a medicine chest with him, and has the medical skill acquired by experience in such cases, and sickness was finally banished from the camp. The visited them on the 29th of October, and from that time until they left—March 9th, at which date the survey was completed—the ground was continuously covered. When they left Riding Mountain House, on the date mentioned there was 3 feet deep of snow on the ground. During the winter the snow was very deep, and being very light and dry, did not admit of snow-shoeing, a fact which made the work still more difficult and disagreeable. The cold too was very intense. During December the thermometer registered 37° and 38° and on the 18th it burst with intense cold, so that they were unable to keep any further record. They learned from Shoal Lake, the Post Office point, some 30 miles South-West, that the cold reached the rather startling intensity of 52° BELOW ZERO.

RIDING MOUNTAIN HOUSE,

The fare of the party during their campaign was of the most primitive description. The water was very brackish, and utterly unfit either to drink or for cooking purposes. It had to be boiled, to make it at all fit for use, and they had more or less difficulty about the supply, as their camp was moved from place to place. At their last camp they had to melt snow for all purposes all the time they remained there. They took up with them pork, beans, dried apples, sugar, rice, and canned vegetables, but these were all gone, with no means of replacing them, during the summer months. They had plenty of good bis[illegible], but neither sugar or milk. The[illegible] occasionally some potatoes sent up by Mr. Andy, but these luxuries were [illegible]rity. They killed a little game occasionally, such as a prairie hen, but they had no time to look for game. In the severest part of the winter their fare was pork and beans without variation, and sometimes short supply of that. It was for breakfast; beans and pork for dinner; pork and beans for supper—pork and beans, hot; pork and beans cold, and pork and beans warmed up. They had plenty of flour; but then they baked their own bread. Being out for no such longer a time than was anticipated, they had to depend in the winter upon supplies from the Hudson's Bay Company, and as, through deep snow or other causes of delay, the supplies did not always come to hand within a day or two of the time ordered, the camp had frequently to be put on very short rations indeed to enable them to hold out till the relief came. The H. B. Company charged them the modest price of $25 a cwt. for pork, and for other things in proportion. However, with hard work and hard fare, they continued to maintain good health, and brought their work to a conclusion, as before stated, on the 9th inst. The townships on which they were engaged on the western slope of Riding Mountain, were very rough, broken with small lakes and streams, and rocky.

Except some few hundred acres of excellent prairie land along the river, this section is not at all favorable for settlement. Nevertheless it will be valuable, and is even now being taken advantage of, for its timber. It is and poplar, and will furnish lumber to the more southern and western sections where timber in the chief desideratum. While Mr. Stewart was engaged in his survey, there were three lumbering shanties in the section. One belonged to the Hudson's Bay Company, who were getting out timber for a mill to be erected at Riding Mountain House, where the machinery is expected from Montreal this summer. The mill is for the manufacture of lumber. The firm of Winnie & Roberts had a shanty getting out timber for a mill at the Big Sand of the Saskatchewan, and Mr. Armitage was getting out logs for a mill at Prairie City, the point at which the Pacific Railway is expected to cross Saskatchewan, and which Mr. Stewart thinks is destined to become an IMPORTANT CENTRE IN THE GREAT WEST.

There were no settlers in the townships surveyed, but when the party left a few were coming in with a view to locating for next season. During their stay, their post office was Shoal Lake, thirty miles distant, and they received mails every three weeks, their mail matter being brought for them to Riding Mountain House through the kindness of Mr. Andy. The country south and west of Riding Mountain, however, is settled very rapidly, and there can be doubt of its future. One of the men employed in the work came from Shoal Lake. He informed Mr. Stewart that he had, last summer, produced on one acre of ground, 700 bushels of potatoes. Think upon that, O famine-stricken Ireland! He had produced

FROM ONE ACRE OF WHEAT

20 bushels of clean threshed grain. Mr. Andy, at Riding Mountain House, had a considerable garden in a favorable condition, when the party passed through in the summer, and grew every kind of vegetable for kitchen use. Another settler, who worked with him, told an equally flattering tale. On being asked how the value of labor, men for men, compared with farming in Ontario, from which province he came, he said that one man in the west was equal to three in Ontario, in the saving of labor. He had sown his wheat on the virgin soil, ploughed it in, and reaped an excellent crop. All the settlers south and west, where there is better land, were well satisfied with the country and with what they had accomplished, and were enthusiastic over their prospects. They can right where they are, and will continue to do so for some few years at least, [illegible]ering to the number of new settlers constantly coming in, who have to buy everything, and the wants of trading parties, lumbering shanties, etc. Potatoes brought 50 cents and 60 cents per bushel. They can sell all the oats they can raise for 50 cents and 60 cents. Wheat is about the same price. Coming home, they met large bodies of settlers going out, taking advantage of the sleighing, and when they came through Winnipeg there were large parties leaving there. They appeared to be mostly hardy well-to-do men, taking with them large quantities of agricultural implements, reaping machines, stock, etc., and are the kind of settlers to make the new country flourish. At Winnipeg, Mr. Stewart left his son Walter, Geo. Whitehead, and Edward Brown, who had made up their minds to try their fortunes in the great west, and proceeded directly home, arriving, as before stated, on Saturday last.

An Explanation.

To the Editor of the Peterborough EXAMINER.

DEAR SIR,—Your correspondent has alluded to a lecture delivered by me in Apsley in aid of the Temperance Society's funds. Is no doubt suits his wise cranium to omit stating facts. At the appointed hour I entered the Hall and found in it two solitary individuals; half an hour after two more made their appearance; and at the very reasonable hour of half past eight the good attendance of about twenty had assembled. At the close of a short address, (suitable as I thought under the circumstances) but most certainly not intended as a lecture either on the Crimean War or Indian Mutiny, a vote of thanks was tendered me and the meeting dispersed. Had I exhibited a long-tailed monkey or a dancing bear, accompanied by a hurdy-gurdy, your correspondent no doubt would have been delighted. The monkey was evidently there, but no'er a hurdy-gurdy. It is a pity that he was sold for the small sum of ten cents; he surely could not have been sound.

Yours truly,
T. O. BRIDGEWATER.

ANOTHER DEFAULTER.—Mr. H. Davis merchant of Fenelon Falls, having lately put up his shutters in honor of the N. P., it was thought advisable to call a special meeting of the School Board, of which body he was Secretary-Treasurer. The meeting was held on Saturday evening 13th when the chairman Mr. Fielding, read a statement showing that the treasurer was a defaulter to the tune of $1,444 15; less some $30 for board and goods furnished to one of the teachers who resids with him. Of the large sum missing, $863.33 may have been appropriated long ago, that amount being the balance that ought to have been in his hands at the close of last year, but the blackest feature of the case is that, a few days before a writ was issued against Mr. Davis, he demanded and received from Mr. Cameron, the village treasurer, more than $1,100 raised for school purposes and immediately made away with nearly $900 of it. His statement is that he paid it to his creditors. In addition to the $1,400 of school money which either Mr. Keith or the Trustees will have to make good, four or five of Mr. Davis's friends have endorsed his notes to the aggregate amount of at least $1,500, which they are now being pressed for, so that the case against the defaulting treasur or appear's to be a very black one indeed.

A large seizure of arms and ammunition, and also two hundred arrests have been made at Kieff.

The Physical Paradox.

It has been said that "the blood is the source of life." It is as truly the source of disease and death. No life, that is to say, no healthy there can be preserved from impure blood, no organ of the body can normally perform its functions when supplied with impure blood. The food that others carry life and health to every part, carries only disease and death. Blood is the source of life when it is pure. If it has become diseased, it must be cleansed by proper means, or else every function of the human heart sends a wave of disease through the system. To cleanse the blood of all impurities, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the most effectual alterative, tonic, and cathartic remedies yet discovered. They are especially adapted to correct disease. 13-14

Brain and Nerve Food.

The loss of memory, the nerve and exhausted debility, the despondency, with the result of one's life, the dull, weak, confused sleep, the want of appetite, and nourishment, are simply the cry and nervous calling for the necessary food. For sale by dealers. 13-6m

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam has a tonic effect on the stomach and the digestive organs, without any bad effects on the system. It allays irritation, relieves pain, and by its healing and renewing the phlegm from the air cells to the throat; at the same time it tones and strengthens the diseased parts. We have never known it to fail in a single instance, when [illegible] according to directions, where [illegible] consumption or any other affection of the throat or lungs existed in its incipient stage. DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fourth Parliament—Second Session.

The Late Hon. Mr. Holton—Honor to His Memory—Trouble in the Tory Camp at Ottawa—The Cabinet Divided being Re-organized—The Acton Mines—Langevin and Poor Jack—Proceedings of the House.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

OTTAWA, March 22, 1878.

The proceedings of the House of Commons during the past week have been of a very mild and subdued character, the House having been apparently unable to shake off the impression made by the awful and sudden manner in which a week ago the common enemy of humanity had introduced its dread presence amongst them. No removal of a member of the House, since the confederation, not even the tragic death of D'Arcy McGee, has ever elicited so striking an expression of that one touch of nature which makes all the world akin, as did that of the late Hon Mr. Holton, and it is little wonder that after the touching scene in the Chamber on Monday, when political opponent and political friend alike did justice to his memory, and after the adjournment of House on Wednesday to allow members to attend the obsequies of the deceased statesman in Montreal, there should be an indisposition to immediately revive the acerbity of debate, which in the midst of its bitterness was cut short, as it were, by the dread messenger who, bearing away the noble victim, left a grim warning for those who remained behind.

The following members of the Ministry and House attended the funeral at Montreal on Wednesday:—Hon. Mr. Blanchet, Speaker of the House, Hon. J. H. Pope, Hon. Mr. Mousseau, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. Mr. Anglin, Hon. Mr. Laurier, Hon. I. Burpee, Hon. Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. D. Mills, Hon. D. A. Smith, Hon. Wm. McDougall, Hon. Mr. Geoffrion, Senator Hope, and Messrs. C. W. Ross, E. H. Chandler, Fleet. Thompson (Cardwell), Thompson (Haldimand), Spinner, Beldon, Casey, Cornet, Geoffrion, Gilmour, Cathey, Haddow, Jackson, Killam, Plumb, Oliver, Wright, Cosgrain, Fleming, Scoreball, Weldon, Sproule, Scriver, Bourassa, Bechard, White, Wright, Olivier, Rogers, King, Gillies, Wiser, Larose, Trow, Paterson, Gunn, Robertson, Cockburn, C. Burpee and Bain. The funeral was a spontaneous tribute by the citizens of Montreal, of every nationality and interest to the worth of the deceased gentleman. The following distinguished gentlemen were the pall-bearers: Sir Alexander Galt, Sir Francis Hincks, Mr. Thomas Workman, Mr. Thomas Ryan, Hon. Edward Blake, Hon. L. S. Huntington, Chief Justice Sir A. A. Dorion, Hon. A. Mackenzie.

The Free Press remarks that: "The simultaneous presence in Ottawa of the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, Premier Chapleau, and Treasurer Robertson, confirms the rumor that Mr. Chapleau, not being certain of a majority, asks for a dissolution, and Mr. Robitaille wants to know the opinion of his leaders and advisers, Messrs Langevin and Caron. How can Mr. Robitaille dissolve the House at Mr. Chapleau's request, after having refused the same thing to Mr. Joly? Perhaps he wants to be able to color his note, and Mr. Langevin, who advised him when the Joly Government fell, is still his adviser when the Chapleau Government is in danger. Mr. Robitaille steps at Mr. Langevin's, which is a very significant fact in itself. It is well known that it was Mr. Langevin who prepared the answer of His Honor to Mr. Joly's demand for new elections." There appears to be little doubt that there is a serious split in the Quebec Tory camp, and it is a fact that some of the Liberal leaders have been approached with a view to forming a coalition which would throw out the traitors Flynn and Paquet.

The exodus of people from this city and district continues at an alarming rate, the destination being principally to the Western States. This is attributed in a measure to the effect of the American advertisements in Hon. Mr. Pope's pamphlets. It is believed that if the the emigration continues at its present rate, after the census of 1881 the city of Ottawa will only be entitled to one member instead of two as now.

The attacks of the Ministerial press on Mr. Sandford Fleming, coupled with the fact that the Government disregarded his advice in reference to the Pacific Railway in order to further their own schemes, give credence to reports of important changes in the engineering staff of the C. P. R. It is believed Mr. Fleming has resigned his position.

A circular of the English Company owning the Acton copper mines in the Eastern Townships have disclosed a very rich deposit of copper ores, chiefly red (Erubescite), copper ores, associated with yellow sulphurites. The report from the superintendent states that the prospects of a large profitable yield are highly encouraging. This, it may be observed is one of the mines for which Hon. Mr. Huntington negotiated the sale, and which his political opponents have so often declared to be worthless.

At the opening of the Academy of Arts, Mr. T. R. O'Brien, the President, a conscientious Tory, being desirous of introducing his political leaders to notice in his address, referred to the portrait of Mr. Langevin, over the desk, as "The sweet little cherub that sits up aloft,

To keep watch o'er the life of poor Jack."

Langevin is anything but a cherub, either in appearance or disposition, but most decidedly he keeps close watch upon "poor Jack."

The following is a synopsis of the proceedings of the week:

MONDAY, 15th.

In the House of Commons to-day no public business was transacted, on account of the sudden and untimely decease of Mr. Holton, member for Chateauguay.

At the opening of the sitting the attendance of members was unusually large, and when Sir John Macdonald rose to move the adjournment of the House as a mark of respect to the deceased, the stillness of death passed over the assembly. The Premier's speech was sympathetically real and earnest. He spoke with considerable emotion, and entirely free from any attempt at dramatic effect. The key note of his remarks was his unbroken and personal intimacy and friendship with Mr. Holton extending over a long political career—a friendship and intimacy he was now pleased to say had never been marred by personal differences, although during the whole period they were respectively ranged on opposing sides of politics. He kindly alluded to the grief which he knew the Opposition must experience at losing a trusted and valued colleague and leader, but he bade them remember that the whole Dominion as well as the House had also sustained an irreparable loss and had shared in their mourning.

While he was speaking several in others on both sides of the House were observed to be visibly affected. For once political bitterness and asperity were cast aside, and both political parties offered their devotions at the shrine of common humanity.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie rose to second the motion. He characterized the decease of his trusted friend and colleague as a national calamity, and he was proceeding to eulogize the memory of the deceased when, as was not quite unexpected, he was completely overcome by emotion. The opening words of his best endeavor fell with a mournful cadence on the ears of the House. He faltered the words, "I feel myself utterly unable to say"—when he was confused by emotion. He made an apparent effort to continue, but failed. His grief and emotion spoke far more eloquently his thoughts than mere words could express.

Mr. Laurier followed, and notwithstanding the manner in experienced paid a grateful tribute to the memory of our late [illegible] a personal friend and [illegible].

Mr. Alpheus Wright, who speaks neatly, but always well, said in quiet and subdued tone passing a note of Orange glee as the utterances are reviewed and respected.

Messrs. Langevin, Cornet, Richard Hanson, and Tassé, e, behalf of the French Canadian element paid tribute to Mr. Holton's memory.

Mr. Gault, on behalf of the city of Montreal, contributed to the eulogy of one of her adopted sons.

Mr. Plumb said that Mr. Holton had won the warm favour of Manitoba like; and Mr. Macdougall, as an old colleague of the deceased, as one who had been intimate with him for thirty year, held up his life to the young politicians of either party to mould their careers upon, and when they came to terminate lives of usefulness they would pass away deeply and sincerely regretted by the Dominion at large, as he had.

The motion was carried and the House adjourned at 4 o'clock.

TUESDAY, 16th.

A number of petitions against marriage with a deceased wife's sister were presented from confederation of the Anglican Church. Several returns demanded by the House were laid on the table.

Mr. Mackenzie embarrassed the Minister of Agriculture somewhat by enquiring when copies of the immigration pamphlets asked for so long ago were to be brought down, but the Minister would give no satisfactory reply. It is strange that it takes so long for the Government to submit to the House sample copies of pamphlets, thousands of copies of which have been distributed broadcast in the Mother Country. Possibly a new title page has to be printed for all the pamphlets purchased from Hon. Peter Mitchell. On the back of the title page of this Yankee brochure, 30,000 copies of which were purchased by the present Government, appears an advertisement offering for sale lands in Minnesota.

The Premier moved that when the House to-day it should stand adjourned till Thursday. The motion was unanimously carried.

A Government motion who next adopted. It provides that Thursdays during the remainder of the session shall be Government days.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on resolutions submitted by the Hon. Mr. Baby relating to the inspection of smoked red herrings, and the imposition of a fee of two cents upon each box of herrings inspected. The Committee reported progress.

The debate on the Budget was resumed by Mr. McCallum, who retained all the old charges against the late Administration. He also offered a rambling defence of the National Policy, spoke favorably of the national currency proposals, and applauded the Government protective policy because it would facilitate the speedy formation of a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States.

Mr. Clarke, of North Oxford, spoke after recess. He prefaced his remarks by referring to the tendency of the present tariff to bring about annexation and disruption of the Province. He rallied the Government with having appointed a Yankee as Dominion Commissioner to the Sydney Exhibition, and quoted from an English paper to show that since the introduction of the tariff Canada's loyalty to the British Empire was being questioned. The National Policy had utterly falsified the predictions of its sponsors. Instead of benefitting the agriculturists it had imposed additional burdens upon them. In concluding, he commented upon the serious aspect of the country's financial situation, and claimed that the time to call a "halt" to any further excessive expenditure on capital account had arrived.

Mr. Sproule, defended the National Policy from a farmer's standpoint, and Mr. Gigault spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. King, of New Brunswick, followed, and assailed the National Policy from the standpoint of a representative of that Province, pointing out the lamentable results which had followed its adoption in the destruction of the shipbuilding industry, the crippling of manufacturers, and the depletion of population. Especially severe had the policy been in exercising its baneful influence upon the city of St. John, which Sir Leonard Tilley represented. His speech was an effective impeachment of Sir Leonard's claims respecting the influence of the National Policy in New Brunswick.

Mr. Domville moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House rose at 11.10 p.m.

TUESDAY, 18th.

Sir L. Tilley in reply to a question was forced to admit that the details of the expenditure incurred by the Cabinet Ministers who went to England required special preparation.

The debate on the Budget was resumed by Mr. Domville. In the course of his address he threw out the suggestion that the duty on coal should be removed and placed on iron, so as to encourage all industries interested in the production of raw material.

Mr. M. C. Cameron (Huron) addressed the House until recess in the general interest. He assured the House by reading the previous speeches of Mr. Domville, and citing his votes in the Dominion Board of trade against any duty on breadstuffs or coal. Mr. Cameron twitted Sir Charles Tupper with being jealous of Sir L. Tilley, who was a joint colleague with himself to the Premier's boots, and protested to the House an array of facts, collected from every Province of the Dominion, showing the detrimental effects of the National Policy and its utter failure as a scheme for the fostering of native industries.

After recess

Mr. Boultbee argued that the country had demanded the N. P., and its desires were accorded to by the present Government.

Messrs. Wallace (York) and Arkell followed in a similar strain, and sketched wonderfully beneficial results to the N. P.

Mr. Paterson (Brant) dwelt at length upon the folly of agricultural protection, the injustice of fostering such monopolies as that of the Redpath Sugar Refining Company, and the failure of the tariff to protect or foster the mass of industries. Last session of Parliament he claimed in his speech on the tariff that the N. P. would be judged adversely in the then imminent Ontario Provincial elections. This prediction was accepted by the hon. Minister of Agriculture and Mr. Boultbee, both of whom hoped that the Liberal Opposition would continue assailing the N. P., because it would materially injure Mr. Mowat's success in the Ontario elections. The Mail even gave the prediction editorial reference, and expressed itself glad that the N. P. was to be the issue. He claimed that his prediction was realized, that it became an issue, and that the N. P. was condemned. As proof of the latter statement he quoted the speeches delivered by the Premier and Sir Leonard Tilley and Sir Charles Tupper during the contest. In conclusion he expressed a fear that the Government's scheme of forcing a loan of eight millions of dollars from the people of Canada was a second step taken by this Government in destroying the confidence of the Motherland in Canada, and rupturing the ties which bound the two countries together.

Dr. Orton defended the Government's attempt at agricultural protection.

FRIDAY, 19th.

The situation of the House was dressed by Mr. Gault to a renewed misappropriation by the English Tory Government of the $200,000 granted to purchase food for the relief of the starving poor of Ireland by the Canadian Parliament. From telegraphic reports it appears that the Imperial Government have determined to expend the money cent for the purchase of food in the promoting of fishing boats and fishing nets for the fishermen of Ireland. A discussion participated in by Sir Leonard Tilley and Messrs. [illegible] McClung (Prince Edward) [illegible] which Sir Leonard pronounced [illegible] the resources, and extensive [illegible] tion.

A few days ago a petition was [illegible]

Regarding the Government [illegible] signed by fifty-six inhabitants of the Province which pays to the Dominion Treasury [illegible] to the House from Hamilton. A reference of this petition to the Committee on Immigration and Colonization brought into spirited action the Government supporters from Ontario who moved by Mr. Bunster (Hampton). Mr. Blake suggested that the motion involved a committing expenditure, and was out of order. This objection was sustained by the Speaker, who added that the Government could not consent to the proposition at the present time. The motion was withdrawn.

In debate on the Budget [illegible] Mr. Weldon, of St. John, N.B. He resented to the injurious effects of the tariff upon the city of St. John and the Province of New Brunswick, and argued that the intention of this policy was a gross violation of the pledges made to induce the Province to enter into Confederation, one of which was that the tariff should be moderate and for revenue purposes alone.

Mr. Devil, as the representative of a coal producing county, argued that the tariff had benefited the coal mine workers.

Messrs. Bourassa and Robertson (Hamilton) continued the debate on the Ministerial side, and spoke until recess, after which several private Bills were advanced a stage, including Mr. McCarthy's Bill to define shares twelve of the Act incorporating the Northern Railway Company.

The Budget debate was continued by Mr. Robertson (Hamilton), who concluded his speech.

A number of reasons were advanced and illustrations cited by Mr. Casey to show that the Government's much vaunted protective policy was abortive so far as fostering native industries was concerned.

Mr. Benson, much moved by the, as he claimed, erroneous arguments advanced by the Opposition, gave the House the benefit of his judgment.

Mr. Cockburn (Muskoka) made a few common-sense suggestions as to the cause of the of the increased activity in commercial circles last fall, which activity, he claimed, was entirely due to natural causes.

Mr. White (Cardwell) moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House rose at 11.45 p.m.

How to Make Money.

A horse dealer residing in the vicinity of Keyport, N. J., and who buys up horses for the New York Market, purchases "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" by the dozen and feeds it to his horses; he says it is superior to anything he has ever used as a conditive medicine, that the horses are so much improved by its use as to sell more readily and command higher prices. Two other horse dealers, one residing at Headingdon, the other at Glen Cove, L. I., also purchase it by the dozen and for the same purpose; these men, as well as many others similarly engaged, knew too well the value and importance of this medicine ever to be without it.—Remember the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop and Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Indubitable Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye, Eyelids, Granulation of the Eyelids, Inflammation of the Eyes, Weak Eyes, and Weakness of the Vision Arising from any Cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflammation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic instrument and eye-crushers. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Pettit's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery formaking a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Electricity.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC ELECTRIC OIL WORKS THE THING IT'S WRIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity knee joint of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical:—J. Goldard of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me a dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now, its cures are wonderful."—Wm. Morris, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent has, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now."—H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out; nothing equals it."—J. Bouffet, Thamesville, writes, "Send me at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such general satisfaction."—J. Thompson, Woodford, writes, "Send me some more Eclectric Oil, I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it."—Miller & Reid, Riverton, P. Q., writes, "The Eclectric Oil, is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. — Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are shown in the bottle and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—Eclectric—Selected and Electrized

WHEN YOUR HORSE IS LAME and you have tried every remedy without success and you despair of curing him, and begin to think of trading him off—before doing so, obtain a bottle of Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia, and see its effects in twenty-four hours. These are the kind of cases Dr. Giles likes; where all other remedies fail, his is the one that never disappoints. The doctor will willingly prove and demonstrate what he says on application to him at his office, 120 West Broadway, N.Y. Sold by all druggists. Send for pamphlet. Dr. Giles, 120 West Broadway, N.Y. Trial size 25 cents.

Ordinary Prudence.

Two or three colds in succession will, with many constitutions, severely establish the seeds of consumption in the system, thus converting what was originally a simple, curable affection, into one generally fatal. Ordinary prudence, therefore, makes it the business of every one to take care of a cold until it is got rid of. Fortunately, "Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam" are thoroughly adapted to counteract speedily all colds, coughs, and sore especially of the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs, and is sold by all druggists and country dealers; price 25 cents per bottle.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876: Cash Bonus	For 1876: Bonus	For 1877: Cash Bonus	For 1877: Bonus
1	Life	$50,000	$2038.50	$774.50	$2317.50	$854.50	$2558.00
7	10 Pay'm't Life.	5,000	209.45	112.10	297.00	123.60	328.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PARTICIPATING PLAN, allowing a bonus of 2½ per cent. payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash.....$97.25. Bonus.....$253.00
" 7. " " " 26.00. " 132.00

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are attained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 1, 1880.

VIEWED WITH SUSPICION.

It is a piece of the stock in trade of the Conservative press to assume that their leader, Sir John, possesses some mystic influence with the Imperial authorities; that he possesses an influence at Downing Street which no mere "Grit" could ever hope to exercise, and that in fact there is a feeling among British statesmen, to say nothing of the Queen herself, that the integrity of the empire, and the durability of the silken cord which binds this Canada of ours to the motherland, are only out of danger when the conduct of affairs in the Dominion is vested in the hands of the Chieftain. We say this is, assumed because as a matter of fact it is very decidedly not the case. On the contrary, we have the most excellent reason for believing that the Chieftain is rather looked upon with suspicion than otherwise. At all events we know that they have not that confidence in him which he has in himself. A very marked illustration of this is found in the manner which Sir John's attempt to procure imperial assistance to build the Pacific Railway was received. It will be remembered that in the session of 1879, the Minister of Railways introduced a series of resolutions, which were adopted by Parliament, of which the following was the most important:

"Resolved,—That in view of the importance of keeping good faith with British Columbia, and completing the consolidation of the Confederation of the Provinces in British North America, and for the purpose of extending relief to the unemployed working classes of Great Britain, and affording them permanent homes on British soil, and in view of the national character of the undertaking, the Government of Canada, is authorised and directed to use its best efforts to secure the co-operation of the Imperial Government in this great undertaking, and obtain further aid by guarantee or otherwise in the construction of this great national work."

The seventh resolution provided for the creation of a commission, by joint action of the British and Canadian Governments to manage the sale of 100,000,000 acres of land to be set apart for railway purposes. In speaking of this scheme for inveigling the Imperial Government into joint responsibility for the construction of the work. Sir John was seized of the spirit of prophecy, and delivered himself in the following glowing and confident terms:

"Just consider what a hand—if I may be allowed the simile of a gamester—the Minister will have who goes to England! Not only is the credit of Canada pledged, but there are 100,000,000 acres of land and the future earnings of the road. It must succeed! It will succeed! * * I believe that when the scheme is presented to Her Majesty's Government, the imperial importance of the project and enormous advantages that would accrue to the overcrowded population of the Mother Country in having the opportunity to make for themselves homes in the North-West, they will grant a guarantee where they have granted it before, with this security which, without costing England a sixpence, will enable us to float on the market all that is required to build this great work on as advantageous terms as if it were a direct liability of England."

The Session being over the First Minister, and the two deputants for reversion of his portfolio, Sir Charles and Sir Samuel, proceeded to London in state, at the public expense, and remained ... lengthened period, in furtherance of his mission. On their return anxiety was naturally felt as to the measure of success which attended their mission, and it was finally announced semi-officially in the Mail, that the results of their visit had been eminently satisfactory. In this ballot the organs great and small piped their ... of the sagacity, and success of their idol, until the time approached when the actual facts of the case had to be laid before Parliament. Then it was seen that these gratulations were altogether premature—that in fact the visit of the three knights to England had been as barren of result as the exploit of the famous king of France who

"With twenty thousand men,
Marched up the hill, and then marched down again."

Sir John was forced to make the humiliating admission that all his confident anticipations had been sadly disappointed, and that the Imperial authorities would have none of him, or his land or his railway. In truth, notwithstanding the bravado of the Conservative press, Sir John is not only without influence at London, but he is viewed with suspicion, as a statesman with a tainted record. Nor is he likely to ... in the estimation of the ... in England. His anti-British ... policy, the insults heaped by his followers in Parliament upon the Queen's son-in-law, and his ardent disposition to Americanize our currency as has our civil service, are not likely to increase him in the respect or confidence of the British people.

It is not a little amusing to note the cool assurance of the Peterborough organ of the Dominion Government, waxing fat in the clover of departmental advertisements. Our censure kicks at everybody and everything that does not appear to approve its patrons, in a manner quite wonderful to behold. Its latest effort is an attempt to prove that Sir Charles Tupper is not responsible for the fact that the Welland Canal is not to be opened for weeks after the American Canals, but that Mr. Mackenzie is to blame; the delay, it alleges, being due to the contracts made by the late government. If our contemporary had taken the trouble to read the Mail, it would have seen, by a report of a meeting of vessel-owners at St. Catharines, that the contractors are endeavoring to obtain the release, but are ready to have the canal opened whenever notified. The Review refers to those opposed to it as "the more reckless Reform politicians and the lower portion of the Reform press," etc. Probably the Reverend gentleman does not read any other Reform paper than the one which ... [illegible] ... by a donkey, who expressed the conviction to the last that it was "only a journey eastward."

ISSUING OF LICENSES.

The License Commissioners of the County have now in their hands the applications for licenses for hotels and taverns for the ensuing year, in the town and county. It is to be hoped that they will make their duty more than a mere formality, and scrutinize carefully every application brought under their notice, taking into consideration all the circumstances that ought properly to bear upon their decision. They should avoid, except where it is clearly in the public convenience, increasing the number of licenses to be issued, and should seek rather to diminish the number where it can be done without depriving the public of those advantages to secure which the licenses are granted to public houses. Where it appears that licenses have heretofore been in improper hands, or where the laws regulating the sale of liquor and the general conduct of public houses have been notoriously violated, further licenses ought to be refused, and that essentially in the interests of those hotel-keepers who are honorable and law-abiding. Having granted the number of licenses which may be regarded reasonable with due care and circumspection, it should be the next duty to see about a strict enforcement of the law. We are told that in this town there are nearly as many unlicensed houses selling liquor as of houses that are properly licensed. Possibly this may be over-stated, but it is certainly generally admitted that unlicensed liquor selling is carried on to a most undesirable extent. Every dollar of business thus done, or business done illegally after hours by one hotel-keeper to the disadvantage of others, is taken from the legitimate trade, the right to which is guaranteed to the hotel-keeper when he purchases his license. As the trade is legalized, and as those who carry it on are compelled to pay heavily for the privilege, it is right and just that they should be protected in it, and it is also in the interests of society that these safeguards which the law provides to prevent that which is designed to be a public convenience, from becoming a public abuse, or worse, are rigidly applied. All this it is the duty of the License Inspector to see to. The position is a delicate and trying one, and one surrounded by not a little difficulty; but it is most desirable that its duties should be faithfully, strictly, and energetically carried out. No hotel-keeper who ought to be entrusted with a license will complain if the law be strictly carried out in every case. In fact, we believe, they would rather assist the Inspector than otherwise in the discharge of his duty, more especially if he were by vigilant, determined and wary inspection to stamp out the sale of liquor in unlicensed houses. The law is not made to harass hotel-keepers and should not be so administered. It is in fact when properly observed the best means of maintaining the business in repute, and preventing it from inflicting injury upon society which is sure to result from neglect of or carelessness in its enforcement.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

DR. TUPPER'S Province demands from the Dominion Government either a million of the Fishery Award, or "better terms."

THE OLD LADIES of the Upper House at Ottawa appear determined to enforce vi et armis, those marks of respect they consider their due. They have enacted that pages and messengers must salute by doffing hats when they meet one of these solons, and that the general public must uncover when entering the precincts sacred to Senators and senility.

THE Review professes to be very strongly convinced that "it can work nothing but injury to the country to abandon the gold standard or basis for our circulation," but it is quite satisfied to see the gold basis reduced from 20 per cent. to 15 per cent., whilst the currency is inflated from $13,000,000 to $20,000,000. These twenty millions of money will only be guaranteed by $3,000,000 in gold, and that fetched from the banks to the injury of their credit and the lessening of their usefulness.

THE Toronto Telegram says:—"The opening up of the question in the Dominion Parliament will put Sir John Macdonald and his supporters in an awkward pass. If the Ontario members stand by Ontario they will have to oppose Sir John, and if they stand by Sir John they will have to go against the interests of Ontario. The subject is not a political one at all, and should be dealt with on its merits But the trouble is that these party men drag politics into everything, and drag everything into politics."

THE Fenelon Falls Gazette returning to the rumor that Mr. Hector Cameron, member for North Victoria, was to be taken into the cabinet says:—

"We are just now more with inclined to credit that Mr. Cameron will be able to secure a seat in the Cabinet, even if it should be offered him, on account of the action he assumed in the Government in their refusal to ratify the award of the Ontario boundary arbitrators, which would certainly hamper his re-election, should he again run for a seat. No newspaper was this section of the country at Ottawa with the Ontario Legislature, had they been more outspoken in condemning the action of the Government in repudiating the award of the arbitrators. Mr. Cameron is not the man to be bought by ... Therefore, he is a true Reformer, and, to put it mildly, is there glad to see the move of for that."

THERE is no secret or patent in the production of "Myrtle Navy" tobacco It could be produced by any manufacturer but no manufacturer could make it pay at the price, unless he could purchase on a large scale and sell on a large scale. GREAT BRITAIN vs. UNITED STATES.

It was claimed by Sir Leonard Tilley and his friends, when the new tariff was brought into operation, that its effect would be prejudicial to the manufacturers of the United States and in favor of Great Britain. This year in his Budget Speech, after quoting statistics, he says: "These facts go to show that while the object designed and the intention of the Government was not to legislate directly against any particular country, the effect of the tariff has been to diminish less the importations from Great Britain than those from foreign countries or the United States." In proof of this statement he read from a return before the House representing the imports for the six months ending 31st December, 1879, as compared with the imports of the first six months of the last fiscal year. Imports of iron and steel from Great Britain under free list in 1878, $961,672; in 1879 they amounted to $1,599,183; under the heading of dutiable in 1878, for the same period they were $1,491,897, and in 1879 they amounted to $1,626,614. In 1878 the imports from the United States under free list were $148,974, and in 1879 they were $169,913; under the heading dutiable imports in 1878 they were $1,795,000 against $1,388,080 for the year 1879. Under the heading of cotton goods, and quoting from the same return, the imports in 1878 from Great Britain were $1,894,921, as compared with $1,806,812 last year. From the United States in 1878, cotton goods, $1,136,000, and in 1879, $745,000. Here we have a noticeable change as between the imports of those articles from Great Britain and the United States, which the Finance Minister innocently ascribes to the action of the new tariff. We charge exactly the same duties on English as on American goods; there is no discrimination whatever; our market is open to English and American wares on the same terms. What the tariff proposed to do was to discriminate in favor of Canadian manufacturers, but all others are left on an equal footing. We must look further if we want to find out the real cause why, during the half of 1879, there should be a change of the kind as compared with 1879, and it must be looked for in the condition of the two countries themselves. What was the condition of Great Britain as compared with United States in 1878? Nobody could say there was any great difference, both countries being in the extremity of business depression. If anything, the United States was in the worst plight, as they had been suffering for the longer time. In 1879 there was a marked change in England, the harvest gathered was one of the very worst for many years, necessitating heavy foreign purchases of grain; whereas in the United States the harvest was more than abundant and [illegible] on a large scale, of their surplus grain was immediately commenced, and millions and tens of millions of dollars were poured into the United States for the grain. And what was the effect of it? Railroad companies, that had been steadily going backwards, suddenly found themselves overwhelmed with business; vessel property that was looked upon as worthless became valuable; a demand was at once created for new rolling stock; the iron trade in all its branches, revived on account of the increased demand; workingmen were fully employed at better wages. So strong a demand was experienced in the United States, during the last six months of 1879, for iron and manufactured goods, that with all their facilities of production, the United States became heavy importers. It was their demand in England that first sent the price of iron up. It was their demand in London that sent up the price of wool, and in our own experience here in Canada, we saw a fair wool dealing creep away every lb of surplus wool in Canada. The revival of trade was so strong in the fall of 1879 in the United States, that it has stirred the whole world into increased business activity. This home demand in the United States has only to be stated to show how riotously it would be to suppose that the manufacturers could afford to throw their home competition at low prices for Canadian trade, when they had the best market in the world at home. What they exported would only be those goods that they had special facilities for making, or where the style or design sold the goods. And as it happened, as was to be expected, that an increased portion of our trade went to England, [illegible] the natural portions of the United States trade went also to England. The importation of wood rails, bar iron, pig iron, that had almost entirely ceased from England to United States, again assumed large proportions, showing the turn trade had taken in the fall of 1879, and it is this very source, stemmed in its character, that the Finance Minister takes as a period of comparison, and childishly ascribes the decreased imports from the United States, and increased imports from England, to his "N.P." We had a personal request for Sir Samuel Tilley; but if he expects the people to believe twice over, the same silly twaddle, he is much mistaken. It was easy enough to prophesy what the N. P. would do before we had it, but now that we have facts to go upon, the N. P. has a different phase. It is before the people in its true aspect as a tax master, grinding the face of the poor, and compelling them to an enforced economy in both the luxuries and necessaries of life.

To prove that the Finance Minister is wrong in ascribing the present course of trade to the National Policy, we have only to go back a few years and examine the statistics of trade as between Great Britain, the United States and Canada, comparing them with the actual condition of the several countries. The value of goods entered for consumption into Canada from Great Britain and the United States for several years each, was as follows:

	Great Britain.	United States.
1872	$8,146,726	$8,629,899
1873	8,238,775	47,720,267
1874	6,076,467	44,387,417
1875	6,247,697	35,966,999
1876	6,357,000	33,956,000
1877	5,874,599	34,267,000
1878	5,961,672	34,795,000
1879	9,599,183	42,720,259

the fiscal year ending 30th June each year.

The years 1873 and 1873 will be remembered as the years of inflation. The fall of 1873 witnessed the collapse in the United States. Prices of all kinds of goods began to fall rapidly from that time. The United States, having a small export trade, and a comparatively large manufacturing capacity, endeavored to force their goods on other countries, below the cost of production. Canada, lying contiguous to the United States, was naturally one of the countries on which they forced their low-priced goods. As the depression deepened from year to year the pressure to sell became greater, until in 1877 we actually imported more goods from the United States by $11,740,450 than we did from Great Britain, whereas in 1873 we imported more goods from the latter country by $30,787,695. The reason of this is plain and obvious. England having the market of the world in which to dispose of her wares, hardly felt the depression for some years after its appearance in the United States. English goods came down in price very gradually, while in the protected United States they came down with a rush, sending that country for a time, and at a terrible loss of wealth, to export more of their manufactured goods than formerly. We have given above the total imports as showing the course of trade. Were we to confine ourselves strictly to manufactured goods and take as example "cottons," statistics show that our imports from England decreased, and increased largely from United States in the same period. Now that we have a different set of circumstances—trade brisk in United States with a heavy home demand in that country and advancing prices—it is just what any ordinary business man would expect, that importations from Great Britain would increase, and decrease from the United States and yet the Finance Minister has the effrontery, in his Budget Speech, to tell Parliament and the country that it is all owing to the action of the N. P. The claim would be almost sublime, were it not so very ridiculous.

TOWN TRADE.

The Toronto Globe of the 13th ultimo, contained in its "Canadian news" items the following paragraph:—

"Peterborough manufacturers complain that they do not get enough business, day to day, being Saturday."

We do not know what the Globe's authority was for the publication of such a statement, which is calculated to have a prejudicial effect upon the interests of the town and the credit of the merchants. It was certainly not taken from any of the Peterborough papers, nor would any person be warranted in making such a statement by any facts that exist. The Globe should either give us the authority on which the paragraph appeared, or retract the libel on the town which it conveys. Our contemporary, the Review, seems to know something about the authorship of the objectionable paragraph since it is able to say that it was sent from Peterborough. We do not believe that to be the case; but if it be so we trust the Review will not hesitate to point out the enemy of our welfare, in order that he or she may be properly held up to merited reprobation.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Ontario Government has issued a proclamation offering a reward of $4,000 for additional information leading to the conviction of the Donelley murderers.

NOMINATION took place in Chicoutimi on Saturday, to fill the vacancy in the Quebec Legislature, created by the resignation of Mr. TYTH, M. P. P. Mr. Beaubien, the Conservative nominee, was elected by acclamation. This is a gain of one for the Chapleau Ministry.

THE WAY for a new election in the County of Chateauguay, to fill the vacancy created by the lamented death of Hon. Mr. Holton, has been issued. Nomination will take place on the 10th inst. Mr. Edward Holton, son of the late member, is the Liberal candidate, and Dr. Laberge the Ministerial nominee.

THE Review seems to have got Blezard on the brain lately, and the member for East Peterborough is trusted in several editorials during the past week to an unlimited amount of misrepresentation and abuse. We regret that pressure of news matter on our columns prevents our disposing of our contemporary's absurdities this week, and will give them some attention in our next issue. Meantime, Mr. Blezard has the satisfaction of knowing that the Review stands in the best estimation of character he could have among the electors of East Peterborough. Mad our contemporary attempted to fasten its approval upon him, his constituents might have reason to be suspicious.

THE GENERAL elections are progressing in Great Britain, and the campaign is proceeding with the most intense effort. Since the behalf of both parties. So far as can be gathered the prospects are good for the Liberal party, and strong hopes are entertained of securing the long sought for Tory rebuffs.

THE new "Act to Prevent the Spread of Canada Thistles" amends the present law by taking away its optional character and making it imperative on pathmasters to see that its provisions are carried out, without having first obtained the consent of the Municipal Council. It also empowers the notice to the owners of land overrun with thistles to be served on them not later than the 25th of June.

THE GENERAL freight offices of the Midland Railway have been removed from Port Hope to Peterborough, as more central and convenient for the transaction of the rapidly increasing business of the road. The Port Hope papers express regret at the loss of a good citizen in the removal of Mr. White, the efficient General Freight Agent, from that town. In this respect Peterborough has the consolation of knowing that their loss is our gain. We are glad to know that there is every indication that the volume of business to be done this season by the Midland will show an unprecedented increase over any previous year, and energetic efforts are being made to supply adequate rolling stock to accomodate the demands of trade.

IT is nearly two years since Sir John Macdonald at Parkhill solemnly said that "if the Conservatives gain a majority "there will be a return of confidence at "once, and even before the new policy "can be introduced the manufacturers "will have such hopes for the future that "they will be employing more men, cir-"culating more money and increasing "their business." On Monday morning last seventy mechanics left the city of Ottawa to seek in a foreign land that subsistence of which they have been deprived by the N. P. at home. One of the number, on the morning of their departure, wrote as follows to the Ottawa Free Press: "Go where you will throughout the Do-"minion there is no work. We must go "to the United States if we want to live. "I am one of seventy carpenters and "joiners of this city who leave to-night "for New York, where we are getting "$2.25 per day for the whole summer "and fall, but we have to leave our "country and our families, actually com-"pelled for self-preservation sake to leave, "all through the results of the National "Policy." What a commentary on the promises of the Tory party before coming into power! What a rebuke to the wild harangues of Dr. Tupper on the benefits of the N. P.! Even here in Peterborough, where the abundant harvest of last year and the good prices have given trade exceptionally favorable conditions, we have seen petitions carried around by deserving workingmen, asking our citizens to subscribe money to enable them to leave the country, as they could get no work and had used up all their little savings to keep their families through the winter. Nero fiddled while Rome burned. Our rulers, in this state of affairs, ask the people to be happy, and burden them with ten million dollars more debt, and its consequent taxation, to build a section of railway in British Columbia! Could political chicanery and reckless knavery further go?

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

Serious Accident—Steam Making—Elopements—Around again—Preparing for navigation—Smashup—Societies—Business.

From our own Correspondent.

LAKEFIELD March, 31th.

Last Saturday, a man called George Lander, about 28 years of age, met with an accident while working in Mr. Trennum's shanty on Sandy Lake, Harvey, which may cause his death. It appears that he was engaged in falling a pine, which in its descent struck a dry basswood stub which broke off and struck Lander full in the face, felling him to the ground. His brother, who was working near, saw the accident and hurried to his assistance, but thought him dead; he brought others to the scene of the accident and had him removed home, and Dr. Ball, of Lakefield, sent for, who has but little hopes of his recovery at present.

The main roads are now well dried up and in splendid condition for this season of the year.

The cold frosty nights and bright warm days which we are favored with at present, causes the sap to run freely, and as a result large quantities of sugar and syrup are being made by those who own or can rent maple woods.

About three weeks ago Mr. Sawtell missed a revolver and several other articles from his store; the cellar door had been forced open and the trap door gave entrance to the cellar. He did not mention his loss, except to one or two friends, but waited to see if he could not get a clue. Last week a young man called James Jamieson left a revolver and knife at Mr. Harper's harness shop to get covers made for them. Mr. Sawtell was notified, and he at once identified the articles as his property. A warrant was issued by John Hall, J. P., and the young gentleman arrested and brought before him. A search in his trunk revealed a number of other articles, all of which he acknowledged to have taken. Mr. Hall committed him to "Cobourg McWilliams" for trial before the first court having jurisdiction. His disgrace should be a warning to other young men here who are too fond for their own good or that of others.

We are glad to see George R. Shields again on the street. He has not yet fully recovered from his accident, but is able to be around with the aid of a cane and crutch.

The Steamer Chippewa which for some time past has been undergoing repairs has been returned to her native element and is now receiving the finishing touches required before she enters on her season's work.

A farmer from the North of Smith who was in the village on Monday got a little too much of the "ardent" inside and went for our barber's sign post, mashing it up, for which he had to pay for same before sober.

Orange Lodge No. 129, meets next Monday evening in the Orange Hall. The young Canadians met in the same place on Tuesday evening and the members of Otonsoti Lodge meet in their Hall, while on Thursday evening the Foresters met in the temperance Hall.

Another butcher has started here, while G. Mallmoyl has taken out a livery license and got a big white horse to take turns with the grey, or for use of a dark night.

We regret to learn that we are soon to lose several of our citizens. Mr. Sawtell our leading merchant is removing to Orangeville where he go into business; Mr. Blezard ship carpenter has bought a farm near St. Catherines and leaves for it, and Mr. Walton druggist has sold out to Mr. Jas. Bird and intends to try and better his fortunes in the North-west.

Port Hope.

Weights and Measures—Harrower Scoops.

"Mr. Wilkinson is progressing with the verification of the weights and measures of the town.

"The steamer John Foley, of the steamer Norseman, had a narrow escape from an instant and horrible death about one o'clock this afternoon. He was standing outside of the Midland R. R. track just opposite the steamer, and was intently watching a Grand Trunk train pass over the track. The Midland employees were engaged at the time in shunting a car of ice on the track he was standing over. Mr. Foley did not see it, and it struck him in the back, fortunately touching him clear of the track. If he had fallen on the track he would have been cut in two, beyond a doubt. His injuries are not so severe as to lay him up.

Bible Christian Quarterly.

Special Sermons were preached in the Bible Christian Church, Ashburnham on Sabbath last. The Pastor took the morning and evening services and in the afternoon the Rev. Mr. Shaw discoursed to a large congregation from "I am the light of the World." After a suitable introduction the following topics were ably discussed: The World's need of light—The Gospel is that light—and the duty of Christians to disseminate it.

THE TEA MEETING.

At an early hour on Tuesday evening there was quite a large gathering at the Town Hall Ashburnham, to participate in the tea-meeting given by the ladies of the Bible Christian Church in aid of the building fund of the church. A most bountiful provision had been made by the ladies, and it was done ample justice to by some two hundred persons who sat down to the "cup that cheers but not inebriates," and the other creature comforts. The ladies who had charge of the affair were Mesdames Joy, Tennyson, Dawson, Downer, Smith, Hamilton, and Wand, and Misses Minoggs, Jennie Davison, and Martha Minoggs, and that their duty was well performed, everyone bore ready testimony.

After the tea was disposed of the assembly adjourned to the Church building across the street, where came another feast, not quite so material but quite as enjoyable. The meeting was called to order by Rev. Mr. Roberts, when the choir sang the 266th hymn. Rev. Mr. Roberts then called upon Rev. Mr. Malthorn to engage in prayer, after which a motion was carried unanimously that Mr. Wm. Yelland take the chair.

Mr. Yelland said he generally managed to get into trouble in affairs of this kind, but he would promise not to inflict any long speeches upon them. He called upon

Rev. Mr. Malhorn, who related a humorous anecdote about a "Miscellaneous" speech and said he would take a similar subject. On the street in the morning he had heard a remark made with a great deal of earnestness and pleasure by a merchant. Said he, "I saw a robin this morning!" It seemed to be as glad did tags to him as the dove that carried the message to the ark, and so it was, as it said that winter had gone and the spring had arrived; we will soon have concerts in the open air for which there will be no price of admission. The robes of the forest will be filled with God's songsters. That reminded him of the important place that singing occupied in God's work and God's worship. He related an anecdote of a missionary who had entered the house of a notorious infidel and blasphemer and asked leave to read the scriptures. The infidel said he would ask him one question about the bible, and if he did not answer it he would throw him out by the heels. He asked how often the word "girl" appeared in the bible? Could any one tell him? (A voice—"once.") Right; it occurs but once, in Job 3rd chap., 3rd verse,—"They said a girl for wine to drink it." The infidel said "That beats me; you may sit down and pray all you want to," and he was finally converted. Returning to the singing of the birds. The first mention of singing in the bible he thought was the song of Moses at the Red Sea. He discoursed the children of Israel on the shore after the Red Sea had swallowed Pharoah's host—the stories lined with horses and chariots and the bodies of warriors thrown up by the deep which disdained to give them burial—and Moses' recognition of the body of Pharoah. He recalled Pharoah's boastful question, "Want is the Lord that I should serve Him?" and reflecting on the goodness and power of God, they sang the inspired song. He would not wonder if Noah sang in the ark where he saw all the wonders of the deep, and certainly there never was such a deep since. Did they ever compute the size of the ark? It was 450 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 48 feet high. He did not doubt that they sang there, and well they might, and well might they who got into the anti-type of that ark sing songs of rejoicing, when they were received into Christ, the ark of salvation. No doubt Tubal Cain who made the first musical instrument, sang with his harp, and no doubt Mother Eve sang a lullaby to her babe, the first babe in the world. Coming down on the other side of the Red Sea, the highest period of Jewish history was also the highest period of sacred song. Coming into the New Testament there was a great deal of singing. The Saviour and His disciples doubtless sang the sacred Hebrew melodies, and of one thing they could be certain, that inasmuch, the redeemed will sing the song of Moses and the Lamb, louder and sweeter than if was ever sung before—the song of the Redeemer in the temple not made with hands. They would gather at the river that runs under the Tree of Life, and under the Tree of Life would sing the song of Moses and the Lamb. He urged them so sing more and work more to the praise of God, that they might be better prepared to join yonder in that glorious song of the Redeemer in heaven.

After an exercise by the choir the chairman called on

Rev. Dr. Harper, who expressed the pleasure he always felt at being with the pastors of this church, and with the christian people who assembled here. He liked to share in their christian enjoyment, and to sympathize with them in their efforts to free themselves from a church debt. He could do that from experience. When he heard anyone speak of a church debt he always felt like selling them, that "we can do better than that." A debt on a church was a great impediment to christian labor; it weighed down their energies and discouraged all their efforts, and he didn't know any better way of getting rid of such an incubus than paying it off as soon as possible. Other people could pay their debts by going into bankruptcy, and perhaps coming out of it better off than before, but churches couldn't do that. Referring to Rev. Mr. Malhorn's subject he thought the first singing mentioned in the Scriptures was when the stars sang together, rejoicing at the creation. He dwelt at length upon the usefulness of churches in the diffusion of knowledge. It was the duty of the pulpit to spread knowledge and especially that highest knowledge that led the way to salvation. To do this they must be seekers after all wisdom, and the more they got the better and the more readily they could illustrate the highest lessons they had to teach, and the more effectually impart Christian knowledge. He thought the power of the pulpit for good would only be fully appreciated if they were deprived of it for a season, and instanced the terrible condition of society in the western territories where ordinances prevailed Christian labor. The pulpits were worth a great deal more to society than goals, for it cost more to punish than to prevent crime. He dwelt upon the importance of the preservation of the Sabbath as a day of rest and recreation and religious instruction, especially in the interest of the poor man, and was glad to see that recently the Courts at Toronto had censured the maintenance of the Sabbath. The church was the great conservator of human rights. True liberty was the enjoyment, every man of his own rights, and that the church secured. It was also the best and the cheapest means of diffusing knowledge, and especially of the highest knowledge necessary for the welfare of man. It was a rule in the church that they should not incur debt where there was not a reasonable probability of payment, but unfortunately the rule was not observed in the branch than the observance. It was unfortunate for a church to be in debt, but God in his own good time would put it into some man's heart or consciences to put his hand down deeper into his pocket and relieve them.

After some remarks by the Chairman the choir sang another hymn.

Rev. Mr. Roberts next, speaking of church debt, he had to speak to debt in church and denominational debt that the mention of the subject made him shudder. He explained the financial condition of their church. It had cost for building, lot, &c., $6,200; this had all been paid but $1,600, and the object of this meeting was to pay the balance.

Owing to the hard times the interest had not been collected. If Dr. Harper had only $1,600 to contend with no doubt he would soon have it paid, but in a country where money is heavy land and a great scarcity of cash [illegible]

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fourth Parliament—Second Session.

Last Week's Proceedings in Brief.

On Monday, being private members' day, the order papers underwent an extensive clearance. At the request of the Government Mr. Charlton's motion respecting land regulations in the North-West stood over, as also Mr. Blake's bill respecting the extradition of criminals. A large number of returns, none of them of any material importance, were presented. A Government motion was passed adjourning the House from Wednesday night to Tuesday of the following week. The Senates' request for a joint committee to consider the propriety of amalgamating the Law Departments of both branches of Parliament was concurred in. Sir Charles Tupper stated that the Welland Canal could not be opened for traffic earlier than usual, but promised to endeavor to hasten the opening of the Lachine Canal. The bill confirming the purchase by the Government of the Rivere du Loup Branch Railway was read a first time. Sir Samuel Tilley stated that the Government would issue $80,000 of "shin-plasters," of the $5 and 10 cent denominations. Mr. Macdonald moved that the House into committee on resolutions declaring the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Quebec, to have a right to distributive shares of the Fishery Award, and an acrimonious debate ensued, when a motion to adjourn the debate by the Government supporters from Halifax was carried by 111 to 48. A motion for copies of the celebrated Yankee emigration pamphlets issued by the Department of Agriculture brought up a debate in which Hon. Mr. Pope was made to occupy a very humiliating position indeed.

On Tuesday, after several anti-Mongolian immigration petitions had been received, "our own racy, versatile, Scent Tom White" took the floor on the tariff debate, speaking, till nearly recess, when Mr. Cosgrain took the floor in condemnation of the tariff, being followed by Mr. Cameron who supported it. Mr. Charlton made an able speech in favor of reverting to a tariff for revenue purposes only, after which the privy Plumb occupied the floor till nearly one o'clock, when the House adjourned.

On Wednesday the time for receiving petitions for Private Bills was extended for three weeks, Sir John promising, in answer to remonstrances by Mr. Blake, that in future no such extensions should be made, admitting that they tended to be hasty and ill-advised legislation. In answer to various questions it was stated on behalf of the Government that they intended to look into the state of the supervision fund; that there had been no communication with Mr. Wharton Baker respecting commercial union with the United States; that action would be taken to compel railway companies to pay funds in hand into court; that they would endeavor to expedite the passage of patents for lands in Manitoba from the Department to members of the Senate and Commons. After some discussion the debate and the House were adjourned till Tuesday 30th.

Grand Liquor Selling.

(From our own Correspondent.)

NORWOOD, March 29.

On Saturday the 27th inst, the Licensed Inspector, Mr. Hugh Dunn, brought Richard Wilson of the township of Monaghan before the magistrate on a charge of selling liquor without a license as required by law. He was convicted and fined $20, and $7.25 was to be allowed him for twenty days in gaol at hard labor. The fine has not yet been paid, and the penalty should be enforced.

British General Elections.

Last Day's Polling—Liberal Victories—Conservative Defeats.

London, March 27.—Tuesday's great political excitement was in political activity, and not attending declarations in favor or dissension from numerous candidates, including Hon. Wm. H. Smith, at Westminster. The total number of returns now in reach is near 1,100, comprising 499 Liberals, 466 Tories, and 97 Home Rulers. Parliamentary managers say the contest is unparalleled in its generations. The betting at Carlton Club, favorably 3 to 1 on a Tory majority, is now even.

The alarming reports of Mr. Gladstone's illness are without foundation, except a bilious attack and over fatigue. It is expected that more votes will be cast than any previous general election.

The crimes Parnell is pursuing is deemed somewhat detrimental to Liberal interests in Ireland.

London, March 28.—Shaw, Home Ruler, addressing the Cork Farmer's Club on Saturday, suggested if the Conservatives were again returned to power and the Irish party were denied the justice they asked for Ireland and Irishmen, they should leave Parliament. (Loud cheers.)

Parnell, attempting to address an election meeting at Enniscorthy last week, was received with yells, greens and a discharge of rotten eggs, by persons belonging to a rival faction. Parnell gave up the attempt to speak. He was hit on the face by an Orangeman, who caught him around the waist and nearly hurled him from the platform.

School Board.—There will be a meeting of the Board of Education held on Tuesday evening next.

Another Victim.—"Our own military reporter," who writes in a local contemporary, is presumed to be the last victim of the 13, 10, 14 fund.

Postal Revenue.—By the last yearly return of the [illegible] Peterborough last office yielded $7,401 revenue; Port Hope, $7,019; Cobourg, $6,476; Lindsay, $6,327.

Rink.—Skating still continues good at the Rink, and the boys and girls during the past week have been making the most of it, realizing that the amusement will soon be among the things of the past for this season.

Comment on Mildmay.—A correspondent at Mildmay sends a long account of a concert given there on the 26th March. Among the prominent performers were Mrs. Bowman, of Peterborough; Mr. Reynolds, of Millbrook and Mr. Williamson, of Omemee. The concert was a great success, and Mrs. Bowman's singing was loudly applauded.

Navigation.—It is thought navigation between Peterborough and Hastings will be open before the 1st of May, and the Golden-Eye and King-Fisher are being got ready for the season's operations, which, we trust, will make the conveniences placed in the reach of the public by Mr. Calcutt, a source of profit to himself also.

Mooney Company.—This newly organized Company of the Peterborough Rangers, under command of Capt. Dean and Lieut. Campbell, were inspected on Wednesday evening last by Lieut.-Colonel Rogers and Major Bell, who expressed themselves highly pleased with the promise afforded by the young company, both in point of intelligence and physique.

Selling Liquor without License.—On Saturday License Inspector Cox had Peter Lamaille, of the Township of Smith, before the Police Magistrate here on a charge of selling liquor without a license contrary to law. The offence being fully proven, he was fined $20 and 37 cents, and given to the 31st to pay the same. The License Inspector is determined to put down the illegal liquor traffic, if summary dealing with offenders will have that effect.

Accident.—About noon on Good Friday as Mr. Charles Stapleton and Mr. Harry Calcutt were conversing in front of the Post Office, waiting for the mail to open, their respective dogs entered into hostilities of a very decided character. Mr. Stapleton seized his dog, and while endeavoring to choke him off was severely bitten on the wrist by the other animal. Dr. Boucher cauterized and dressed the wounded, though painful, is not serious.

The Rum at Lakefield.—R. Graham, at Lakefield, has been getting in his stock of general dry goods during the past two weeks, and has now one of the most complete assortments of goods on his shelves ever offered in Lakefield. His selections have been carefully made, comprising all the latest styles and novelties, and what is a great point with the purchaser, were bought for cash and will be sold at the very lowest prices. All Mr. Graham asks is that the public inspect his stock and note the prices before purchasing elsewhere.

Impounding Pigs.—Bellhouse.—Some street merchants have instituted a "run" in plate-glass, single plates for show windows being put in in the place of two or more lights in a sash. The following stores will be then improved:—John Cameron, single plate for each window, ordered by Mr. Stevenson through Mr. Hall; Fairweather & Co, two plates, Munro & Alexander two plates, the store lately occupied by Farley & Co. (now re-building) two plates. P. D. Doran one plate and Munro & Sanderson one plate, ordered by Messrs. Stevenson & Rose; Bertram & Co. have ordered eight plates for the fronts of the stores in the Clarken block, which will be distributed as follows: Bertram & Co. two plates, J. Hackett two plates, Mason

Honor all Men.

(Written for the Examiner.)

In hovels of misery, and dens of crime,
Amid those surrounded,
For purposes of mutual good,
Just as our common brethren would
Were they in our position;
To cry "Stand off!" to those we find
Who have not fortune's favors shared,
Who have not riches, pelf or land,
Who, lonely sobbing, seek his own.

O ye who sit in places high,
Remember that a Christ-like part
Is your all, thy power can wield,
Is your all, thy power can do!
Then dost on frail mortals look,
Thy bounties then, God grant's shall be
For common favors given free.

Discourse of such gifts unto hand,
That while you shelter the hard, and feed
The hungry, and clothe the naked,
Is counted best, as counted well,
And then you humbly take that meed,
Yet like the Master, modest be,
With loving smiles awards to bless.

Thyself a benediction free
Thy presence shall the best gift be,
Comforting hopes, encouraging,
Assuring for mankind's honor-endowed.
A helping hand, and sympathy
That hearts draw near by love to woo
Their count ever like unto thine,
Bestowing honors so bequeathable.

To heavier cares can all upon trust,
The Great Approver gently groan
At thyself in Heaven's light to run
The Christian race with patient grace,
Can ever cause grief to thee,
To them who by thy deeds shall know
Did not the Lord of Glory show
Respect to "powers that be" below!

There not aside, the spring claim
Thy honor, for they keep the name
Human divine, through which we find
Thyself as a brother, All Souls' kind
The All Free, Holy, Eternal One,
Toward all of such who to Him come
Is not the way of Heaven's Throne
Honor all men, above, below,
Or equal to thee, but humanity
Thy power to put loving on display,
Why love thy fellow-men as such
And have the same reward in view,
For claim the highest can, for know
Why God sent Christ, for whom
With rewarded hosts more than value.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 1, 1880.

FOR LIBERTY AND LIFE;
OR,
THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE.

BY R. W. PHILLIPS IN ROW BELLS.

I.

THE HOOTED FUGITIVE.

Christmas Eve! At home in England does wave roaring, yule logs crackling; but for years Australia had not experienced such a summer. The thermometer stood at 100 degrees, except when it rose higher. At Moonta and Wallaroo water had failed entirely. All that the inhabitants could procure was distilled from the mines, and then hardly drinkable.

The rivers had dried in their beds; cattle perished daily, while the pretty, graceful shell parrots dropped dead from their perches among the burnt-up foliage on the dusty road beneath.

In this fair land of promise to the emigrant, these that the excessive heat did not seem to affect, were the placid, orange-skinned Chinese and the snakes; the weather apparently made the latter more vicious and their bite more deadly.

It was about two hours past noon when the solitary expanse known as Grey Scrub Flat, lying east of Adelaide, was cultivated by the figure of a man.

He was above the middle height, and well-made. Those features which a thick, red-brown, unkempt beard and moustache left visible were handsome, while the complexion was turned to a dark bronze.

His attire consisted of a pair of trousers, a cotton shirt, both much worn, and a pair of shabby, cracked half-boots.

As he entered upon and cast his eye across the sun-parched Flat, a groan escaped his lips.

'More of it,' he muttered. 'Will it never end? After all, wasn't I best off with the chain about my ankle? Wouldn't death be better that either? What is life to me—hunted, disgraced, parched by thirst, and starving! Why fight against destiny? Why not go back? It would be preferable to dying like a dog in the bush.'

He had halted while soliloquising, and wearily drew his tattered sleeve across his heated forehead. Should he go back?—should he go on?

How sweet is liberty, culler what we may! A sound in the scrub made him start in alarm. was it his pursuers? No; only a small specimen of the marsupial tribe, which, by a succession of rapid springs, fled in an opposite direction.

The incident aroused the man's energies.

'No,' he remarked, limping on again; 'I'll not give in yet. If death is to befall me, best do free. But I mean't die!' he added, abruptly tossing the hair out of his eyes, shining with a fierce light. 'I've much to do, which without liberty I cannot accomplish. Oh!' and he flung up his clenched hands, 'for ten years to bear such a lot! to revenge too much to ask!'

His arms dropped back to his side, the fire in his eye faded; silently he limped forward, frequently going out of his way to obtain the shade of any clump of trees that he chanced to collide across.

Before him ran a fine range of hills, well covered with vegetation. Could he but reach them he would feel safe, and might rest. Also it was his only chance to procure water. Pulling himself together, he proceeded, now and then casting anxious glances back along the track he had come. But no figure except his own broke the shimmering, hazy white heat that, like a cloud, hung over the Flat.

Two hours later he entered a dense scrub. The sun was less fierce now; the shade greater; but he would not rest yet.

Suddenly he halted, and, with an exclamation drew back. What was that under the bush yonder? A man—asleep.

Was he asleep? How still he lay. How strangely. Prone on his face, which rested on the left cheek, one arm thrown out, the other under his body. The first impulse of the man seemed to be retreat. But after a moment he moved cautiously round to the opposite side of the prostrate figure.

He could see the face now. A tanned one, like his own.

The eyes were partly open: The man, leaning forward, softly touched the extended hand. The hand was pressed by hers; one perspiration stood in heavy beads upon his own skin—but no sun would ever again warm those cold, stiff fingers.

'I thought as much, whispered the man, as persons do when in that grim presence. He is dead. I wonder who he was?'

Gently he turned the body over. The attire was that of a farm-servant; the face delicate, refined, educated. In that land a man may not be judged by his clothes.

The convict, for such he was, knelt regarding him.

'A case of sunstroke, I suspect,' he said, thoughtfully. 'A poor Christmas for him; to die in the bush and be food for the dingoes. Ah, Heaven?—and he leaped up, shuddering—'that may be my own fate to-morrow! At any rate I must get shelter to-night.

As he moved away, his gaze rested on the well-shod feet of the dead man. The convict was struck by an idea. The clothes were no longer of service to the owner; to him they would be invaluable. Surely there could be no wrong in making an exchange?

Speedily it was effected. A few minutes later the convict apparently lay dead at the feet of the servant. Nay, what was that in one of the pockets?

An old purse. In one compartment were a few shillings, in the other a folded paper. As the convict opened the latter open, his eyes sparkled, his heart beat fast. It was a letter of introduction to the name of John Cannon.

'Truly Heaven must at last be for me!' he exclaimed. 'The wheel of Fortune for once turns in my favor! This treasure me both Cannon and pounds. Thereafter I am Cash, and John Cannon lives!'

Carefully extending the gentleman to the grass, with raised hopes and renewed strength he sprang on towards the ranges. Hardly had he gone twenty yards than a man, dressed like a mounted trooper, rose up from the bushes, and looked after him until he disappeared, then slowly followed in his track.

II.

ON HE TURNED, HERE ON ALIVE.

On the evening of that same Christmas Eve a Colonel Formby, in a cool suit of linen, sat under the verandah of his station, enjoying a cigar and his daughter's society.

The red light of the sun, which like a huge beacon-fire was mounting the heaven, fell in a flood upon 'Formby's Station,' that, in its dwelling-place, bright, well-tended flower beds and outbuildings, bespoke opulence—for, bolstering in the ridges, 'Money makes money,' the Colonel had brought capital from the Old World to the New.

The station and extensive sheep-run had been advertised in Scottish papers, and the Colonel, who had a taste for farming, becoming its purchaser, had, eight months previously, brought over his only child and his sister to their Australian home. They had been but a brief space there before they began to benefit from the pure, healthful air, that had not, like that of cities, been breathed by some hundreds of lungs before.

None enjoyed the change equal to Kate Formby. As the Colonel reached her light, springy step, the healthy color on her cheek, the sparkle in her violet eyes, and heard the hearty echo with her happy laughter, he found it difficult to realise that this was the same languid, pale Kate Formby whose doctors had looked grave about—had hinted avoidance of night air, and prescribed doses of cod-liver oil. Always pretty, now, as she sat attired in a soft muslin dress, her graceful head nestling among the rose-wreathing the trellis her eyes dreamily fixed upon the sun—whose rays glinted in her golden hair, and illumed her clear, transparent complexion—she looked beautiful.

'A penny for your thoughts, Kate,' said the Colonel, breaking the pause.

'I'll sell them for less, papa,' she laughed. 'I was thinking how, if we had been in England, we should now be crowding round a fire, with holly all about the walls.'

'And discussing prospectively pat, the merits of the Christmas turkey, roast beef, and plum-pudding.'

'Oh, the beef and plum-pudding we may have here. We might even descend to mag-dragon, country dances, and blind man's buff, yet, fail in this host, and with such a sun and heat-range before us, to realise that this is Christmas.'

'We shall get used to it in time, Kate. He when birth Christmas commemoration was not born amidst snow and icicles,' remarked the Colonel, rolling a cigarette between his fingers. 'By the bye, where is your Aunt Margaret?'

A shadow swept over the girl's face—a shadow of sadness. Her voice fell as she answered, 'She went to her own room, after coffee, papa. It is her custom, you know, to spend the evening alone on this day.'

'Poor Margaret!' sighed the Colonel, thoughtfully, yet rolling the cigarette, as if unconsciously. 'How she has, and will suffer!—for too long, long years!'

There was a short silence, then Kate Formby, moving her stool to her father's side, and resting her cheek against his shoulder, said, 'Papa, I think that Aunt Margaret has recovered more than usual this Christmas Eve. You see, she is so much nearer to him than when in England. Greatly indeed has she suffered, though, for our sake, she has tried to hide it.'

'It is likely, pet; yet her chief inducement to come to Australia was to be nearer to him.'

'How she must have loved him!' murmured Kate, compassionately.

'How she does love him, Kate; and will so her dying day.'

'Though he is a murderer, papa?'

'She does not, nor never will, believe him guilty.'

'Did she, she could not love him. Do you know, papa,'—and Kate whispered it—'that Aunt Margaret says she is sure she shall see him once again, either dead or alive, before she dies?'

'Poor Margaret!' repeated the Colonel.

'Papa,' asked Kate, after another pause, 'do you really think John Holder shot his step-brother?'

'I fear there can be little doubt about it, Kate,' replied the Colonel. 'He bore him no love, and had no cause to like him; but had bitter provocation to feel the contrary. John had been grievously, cruelly insulted; and was heard to say that if they ever met he would not be able to keep his hands off Hugh. They did meet; and when Hugh Holder was last seen alive, John, your Aunt Margaret's betrothed, was with him. Hours later, the elder brother was found near the spot, shot through the heart.'

'How horrible!' shuddered Kate Formby. 'And you, papa, were the chief witness against John Holder?'

'Much against my inclination,' answered the Colonel; 'for I knew my words must condemn him, he having, in the moment of his justifiable passion, made that confession of hatred for Hugh to me. I was forced to appear, and had to speak the truth. Those lawyers are sure to worm it out, however you try to hide it. I shall never forget John Holder's face. He saw, as did every one, that there was no hope for him after my examination. He who very pale. His eyes were full of bitter reproach as he fixed them on me.

'"Heaven forgive you Colonel," he said. "Would that I could. You have doomed an innocent man. The time must come when bowdy you will regret this day."'

'What did he mean papa?'

'What could be. Kate, save declaring his innocence. He intended to imply that I should regret helping to punish a guiltless man. Had he only known how I suffered at being forced to speak?'

'I am sure of that papa.' And Kate drew the soldier's face nearer, to kiss the bronzed cheek. 'Not wilfully would you have harmed him, for Aunt Margaret's sake.'

'Yes; her happiness ended with his. There, Kate, enough of so painful a story for, who in that coming down the road? He looks done over, whoever he be. His bee hardly the appearance of a leading squatter.'

The man who had attracted the officer's attention was the convict. Weary, exhausted, he had tramped until fate had brought him to Formby's Station.

On his coming in sight, by an effort, he pulled himself together once more, and advancing to the gate, looked over it at the two beneath the verandah.

As he did so a dizziness seized him. He reeled like a drunken man, and had to clutch the gate for support. It was evident he was ill.

Rising, the Colonel stepped from the verandah, followed by Kate. On perceiving them approach, the convict seemed to make an effort to move away; but hunger, thirst, fatigue, had weakened him. His brain swam—and yet holding the gate his hat pulled low over his brows, he watched them nervously as they came.

'What's the matter, my man?' asked the Colonel. 'You appear upset.'

'I've been for days lost in the bush,' replied the convict, huskily, keeping his back to the sun. 'I am famished.'

'You want food and shelter,' said the Colonel, his hand on the gate-latch. 'In the bush that is never refused. Come in.'

'I want more,' was the rejoinder; 'I want work.'

'Well, first, two, might be provided. What can you do?'

'I would do anything that would earn me bread.'

'What are you?'

The man paused. His brain yet seemed dizzy. He passed his hand to his head. Then, taking out John Cannon's purse, gave a moment's hesitation he continued the perilous.

'I am a ticket-of-leave man!' said the Colonel, involuntarily drawing back as he said.

'Exactly,' rejoined the other, bitterly. 'Knowing that, I suppose I had best consider on my way?'

'No,' answered the Colonel, gravely; 'you have expiated your crime, and won this release. Come in. You shall have food and shelter.'

'And work, too, papa,' said Kate; 'then, in an eager whisper, 'This is Christmas, and—think of John Holder!'

The convict cast a sharp glance at her from under the shadow of his hat, then quickly averted his gaze.

'That we will see about later, my love. But this is Christmas Eve, and to-night you shall have Christmas fare.'

Having summoned a servant, and given the convict into his care, the officer and his daughter were yet standing at the gate, when the measured stillness of the bush was abruptly broken by the clatter of horses' hoofs, and a gentleman, in the uniform of the mounted police, appeared, coming at a sharp pace towards the station.

'Why, papa!' cried Kate, 'it's Captain Remson.'

'So it is, pet! Whatever can bring him in this direction on Christmas Eve?'

And the officer noted the bright blush on his companion's cheek the question would have been answered. Three minutes later Captain Remson, a tall, handsome young man, with a frank, brave, fearless face, had sprung from his horse, and, entering the gate held wide for him, was exchanging the season's greetings with the Colonel, though his brown eyes strayed past him to the graceful figure of Kate Formby.

'What has brought you in this direction, Remson?' asked the Colonel, as the three moved back to the house.

'Partly the pleasure of wishing you a merry Christmas,' replied the other, glancing at Kate fondly, 'and partly, Colonel, to let you know that the notorious bushranger, Mike Bawn, and his gang are supposed to be some where in the ranges, so don't let your cattle stray far.'

Kate gave a little cry, then exclaimed, 'Oh Captain Remson!—and you have ridden here alone?'

'Why not, Miss Formby? The road was clear enough.'

'It might not have been,' hesitated Kate, 'and I thought——'

'That Mike Bawn has sworn to take my life, in revenge for my having trapped and captured two of his most valued and villanous gang,' laughed the young captain of police. 'Well, yes, he has; and Bawn, I confess is a man of his word. But I go armed, and shooting is a game two can play. Why'—and he stooped quickly to her ear, as the Colonel's attention was drawn off by a servant who came round the corner of the house—'do you think fifty Mike Bawns would hinder me of the opportunity of seeing you even for a few secret moments?'

'But,'—and wistfully her eyes met his—'the danger, Henry?'

'Hon, love; in my profession never be of it,' he rejoined; then drew himself erect as the Colonel returned.

'Remson, I've just sent word about the cattle to Clarkson, my new stock-keeper. I can't say between ourselves, that I much like the fellow,' said the Colonel, as they stood beneath the verandah. 'By the way, there is something upon which you may give me information. The owner of this,' extending the ticket of leave, 'is in want of work, while I am in want of a shepherd; and Kate pleads his cause. Do you know him?'

Cure Your Horses.

It is to the interest of all who own horses to keep them in a healthy and sound condition; experience has proved that "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" is the most efficacious, and has been used by thousands who will cheerfully confirm this statement. For Heaves, Coughs, Colds, and all diseases which affect the wind of horses it has no equal, nor is it equalled as a condition medicine; it purifies the blood corrects and improves the appetite, and softens the skin; in fact, no great is the improvements in the condition and appearance of the animal as to have led many to doubt if it could be the same horse. Remember the name and see that the signature of Hord & Co. is on each package. Northop & Lyman Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

A Common Cough or Cold Should Never be Trifled with.

Often when neglected it is converted into a serious and generally fatal pulmonary disease. The more prudent, aware of this, promptly use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers," a curative which has sustained its reputation for over twenty years. They are always efficacious and exert a most beneficial influence on all the bronchial and pulmonary organs. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents per box.

The Most Valuable Gifts—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonee Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not begrus people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonee Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonee Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for biliousness, Sick Headache, and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mitchell's Rotiandena Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Caoutchouc—better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is all of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hogshead of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn for days casually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess the wonderful drawing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, PIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plaster contains, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a confirmed Consumption.

Prepared by GEORGE B. MITCHELL, Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. 40-19 o o w.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

'EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.'

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876. Cash	For 1876. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$236.90	$71.40	$167.50	$83.50	$235.00
2	10 Years' Life.	5,000	237.50	115.10	197.20	120.00	243.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary Premium and Plan, allowing a bonus of 3½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash..... $97.20. Bonus..... $191.60
" 2. " " ..... 63.25. " ..... 183.35.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profits remain, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada and abroad by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 10 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recent y published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 8, 1880.

"DISHONEST POLITICIANS."

It strikes one rather comically to read such a heading as this in the columns of the Review, in reference to the leaders of the Liberal party. Could it but see itself and it friends as other see them doubtless it would hesitate to offer such exaitement to the risibilities of its readers; but it perhaps anticipated correctly, that merriment would give way to amazement, when, under such a heading the following choice morsels of "dishonesty" and downright perversion of the truth appeared:—"And the man who are "dishonest enough to invent such "falsehoods to injure their own country, "venture to accuse the Government of "spending tens of thousands of dollars "for pamphlets advertising lands in the "States. The debate that they impra- "dently forced on the Commons showed "plainly, however, that it was their own "friends, their own organ, that had paid "for and published the pamphlets in "question, and that the Ministry had "neither ordered them nor paid one cent "for them." Perhaps the Review relied upon the fact that it does not report the debates of Parliament to cover up the glaring wantonness of such an untruth. Why, the facts of the case, as elicited during the debate of March 26th, showed that the pamphlets issued by the Government of Canada, with the official imprimatur of the Department of Agriculture, exhibited on the reverse side of the title page itself the following advertisement:

FERTILE LANDS—RED RIVER VALLEY State of Minnesota. The St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Manitoba Railway offer for sale two millions acres of cheap wheat land; $8 to $6 per acre: easy terms of payment.

It contained a map giving a border of about three-fourths of an inch vaguely devoted to Manitoba, apparently lying contiguous to the North Pole, and the balance a good map of the United States with especial reference to Dakotah and Minnesota, the competitors of the North-West for immigration. Thirty pages of the pamphlet are devoted to a glowing description of the lands open for settlement in Minnesota, while the reference to the North-West is confined to a description of a trip to Portage La Prairie, and a condemnation of the route of the Canada Pacific Railway. It was the most damaging pamphlet that could be published in regard to our North-West Territories, and the very best that could be devised in favor of Minnesota and Dakotah. The Railway Corporations owning the lands there ought to give the Hon. Mr. Pope a liberal bonus for this effort in their behalf. And what makes the matter the more injurious, and the more to be regretted, is that all these statements, so damaging to the North-West and so beneficial to the Minnesota territories, are issued with the authority of the Dominion Government that they are true. We do not say that Mr. Pope knew what he was about when he issued these pamphlets from the Department—it was no doubt due to his blundering stupidity; but the Dominion suffers none the less that this publication was allowed to be made on behalf of the Government at the expense of the taxpayers of the country. The Review would do better were it to direct its efforts to inducing the leader of the Government to put some man of average common sense and ordinary capacity at the head of the Department of Agriculture, than by attempting to brazen it out in the style we have quoted from its columns. "Dishonest Politicians," forsooth! Our contemporary, as the Italians say, "is enough to make the chickens laugh."

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

It is with a sigh of a relief that the country will regard the stand taken by Hon. Mr. Blake in regard to the proposed expenditure on the Canada Pacific Railway in British Columbia. The appalling magnitude of the engagements entered into by the Government has become so strongly impressed upon the public mind, and people are becoming so sensible of the ruinous results which must ensue from handicapping the industry of this country by a burden far beyond its capacity, that any who cries halt! to the outpour of the millions to borrow which the country is being overwhelmed with mortgage, will receive the hearty approval of every man having a stake in the progress of the country. Already more than thirty millions of money have been expended on the Canada Pacific, and yet but barely one-fifth of the route, and that the easiest of construction, has been placed under construction. From all these millions there is no return whatever, nor will there be for years to come; yet we cannot regard that as an unprofitable expenditure if the original design be carried out. It is a necessity that we shall have access by rail to the heart of the great grain-producing prairies of the west, in order that commemoration may be opened up, and a market afforded to those settlers who have already staked their fortunes there, and offered to those who may contemplate going there to settle, and the country would therefore be prepared to submit to some sacrifices to secure the establishment of that communication. In addition to the portion of the line already built and under contract, it is a necessity, if the future welfare of the country, and the interests of those who are immediately taxed for all this outlay, are to be considered, that in order to ensure a return for the enormous expenditures involved, connection shall be at the earliest moment established between the railway systems of Ontario and Quebec, and the railway contemplated westward from Prince Arthur's Landing. To effect that result, in itself, tax to the utmost the energies and resources and credit of the Dominion; and yet that sufficient is necessary to be borne, in order to open up to the Ontario manufacturers and lands of the great West, of course the settlers a market, and to make remunerative these millions which have already been expended. But it would seem that the policy of the Government is deliberately contrived to chant the railway of its legitimate results, and to add the burden of maintenance to a public work made unremunerative by the course of those who have it under control. The first action of the present Government, on attaining to office, was to cancel the contract for the Canada Central Extension, which was to afford connection with the Canada Pacific to the railways of Ontario and Quebec, and to thus delay, for two years, the ultimate benefits which would be derived from that connection. The link of the road from Lake Nipissing to Prince Arthur's Landing has been thrown altogether in abeyance, nor does there appear to be any disposition whatever on the part of the Government to recognize the importance or the necessity of the earliest possible establishment, in the interests of both the manufacturers of Ontario and the settlers of the west, of a railway communication with that vast grain-producing region, which would be available all the year round. Instead of that we find them recklessly entering into contract, without the authority of Parliament, for a section of railway in British Columbia requiring an immediate outlay of $10,000,000—a portion of the work which must remain not only unproductive, but a heavy burden of expense on the Dominion for many years to come, and, in fact, until the whole line shall have been completed. Were that money to be expended in completing the line from the Quebec and Ontario Railways to the heart of the valley of the Saskatchewan, the taxpayers might submit to the heavy burden involved, in the hope and the certain prospect of an immediate and direct return in traffic now going to benefit American railways, and an indirect but equally certain return in the market opened up to our manufacturers. But the government have chosen to plunge the country into debt for an outlay utterly inexcusable, utterly objectless, and almost ruinous. That expenditure of ten million dollars has been entered upon without the authority of Parliament, and it is on that ground that Mr. Blake seeks to interpose a check upon the fatuous and suicidal policy which the government appear determined upon pursuing. The railway resolutions of 1879, upon which the government assume the responsibility of letting this $10,000,000 job, has for its basis the following:

"Resolved,—That in view of the importance of keeping good faith with British Columbia, and completing the consolidation of the Confederation of the Provinces in British North America, and for the purpose of extending relief to the unemployed working classes of Great Britain, and affording them permanent homes on British soil, and in view of the national character of the undertaking, the Government of Canada, is authorized and directed to use its best efforts to secure the co-operation of the Imperial Government in this great undertaking, and obtain further aid by guarantee or otherwise in the construction of this great national work."

Had the assistance sought been secured, the Government would then, under the resolutions, have had the authority of Parliament for proceeding with the construction of the whole line, but failing in securing that assistance, as they have failed, they had no authority whatever to proceed without further consulting Parliament, and the letting of these contracts was a mere executive act, which constituted an assumption of power altogether at discord with the established principles of Parliamentary Government. Should Parliament, setting aside all partizan feeling, join with Mr. Blake and refuse its sanction to this wild and wasteful squandering of ten millions of the people's money, it will but record the will of nine tenths of the taxpayers whose faces are being ground with such cheerful recklessness by the government, and will save us from another burden which might prove to be the "last straw" upon the back of an already overweighted and tax-ridden people.

MR. BLEZARD AND THE TORONTO & OTTAWA R. R.

The Review is much troubled over the course of the member for the East Riding in the past session of the Ontario Legislature, and makes an attack upon him in reference to his vote upon a clap-trap motion of Mr. Meredith brought up a few days before the prorogation of the House. The Review quotes the following from Mr. Blezard's address previous to election:—"I am disposed to advocate "aid to such railway schemes as may "appear to me most in the interests of the "whole country, without regard to local "sympathies, believing that it is my duty "to do what I can to promote the "prosperity of the largest portion of the "Riding—which every representative "should, above all things, seek to "promote;" italicising the three words which it proceeds to use for a text, (after the manner in which the Evil One is said to quote Scripture,) upon which it bases a homily, the effect of which is that Mr. Blezard was bound to do, "above all things," whatsoever the writer of the Review might list to suggest. Mr. Blezard made the very plain and honest declaration that it was his duty to do what he could "to promote the prosperity of the largest "portion of the riding, which every "representative should, above all things, "seek to promote." That was the course which Mr. Blezard laid out for himself when he entered the Legislature, and that has been the course which he has faithfully carried out in every vote given by him since he was entrusted with the franchise of the electors of the East Riding of Peterborough. The Review quotes the motion of Mr. Meredith, to which we have alluded, as follows:—"While this House is ready to vote the "sum of $50,000 for the purposes "recommended in the supplementary "estimates of the 1st March, 1880; and "while it recognizes the propriety of "exercising great caution in the granting "of further aid to railways, it does not "approve of the railway policy of the "Government as announced by the "Commissioner of Public Works, and "has the inequity to recommend to favour- "able consideration the claims of the "Canada Central Railway Company, the "Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company, "the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, "and the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company, "which, if carried out, would involve the "Province in an expenditure of many millions "of dollars, and would entail upon the people "of this Province a heavy burden of taxation, "which they are unable to bear, and which "would be unjust to impose upon them." The Review says:—"Mr. Blezard voted for the motion, and he would have affected nothing in favor of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, but would, on the contrary, have precipitated the Government from whom it seeks aid, against it, and would have been recreant to every pledge he had given to his constituents, by voting for an empty want-of-confidence motion in the Government whom he was sent to Toronto to support. And it is well to remember that the Government has not refused to grant aid to this enterprise, but that there is every reason to believe it is strongly disposed in its favor. So far as Mr. Blezard's action in reference to that railway is concerned, his colleague, Mr. Scott, will bear testimony that in committees, on deputations, and privately, Mr. Blezard fully carried out his promise to give that enterprise the benefit of his earnest support. We are sure that Mr. Scott will fully admit that the resolution of Mr. Meredith was in no way calculated to further the interests of the railway, and we believe, moreover, that Mr. Scott himself would not have voted for it. In fact he did not vote for it; and only twenty-four members out of a House of sixty-six did so. The Review accuses Mr. Blezard of "playing into the hands" of the Grand Junction and the Grand Trunk—an accusation so utterly baseless and so impudent that it needs no denial. So far as that goes, it would appear that the very object of the Review's attacks on Mr. Blezard and its misrepresentations of his course on this subject, is to force Mr. Blezard into hostility to that road, and to array its interests in antagonism with the Government of Mr. Mowat. It would seem that its whole effort is a cunning intrigue, with the object of damaging the Toronto & Ottawa R.R., by attacks feigned to be in its interests, upon its friends, and we are quite sure its course will by no means meet the approval of those who, without regard to politics, are striving in the interests of the County to bring it to a successful issue. Has Mr. Blezard any object to serve, or anything to gain, by playing into the hands of the Grand Junction? Every man in the county knows he has not. Has the writer of the Review any axes to grind by "playing into the hands of rival companies of the Toronto and Ottawa"?—any five per cent. on the $75,000 which the Grand Junction is endeavoring to force the County to pay, against the protest of every ratepayer in it? The Review can tell us; but if such be the case, it is certainly taking the very course which is calculated to prejudice and injure an enterprise of which it pretends to be in favor.

Terribly Sudden Death—Removed from Two Sweethearts to Eternity—Chase and Rande—The Toll Gate Abolition Question.

From our own Correspondent.

COBOURG April 3rd.

A very sudden death occured last week. An old woman named Marry McCarty who lived alone in the eastern part of the town, took tea with a neighbor on Wednesday evening, appearing to be in very good health, excepting having a trouble-some cough. A neighbor going to the house the next day, and not receiving an answer to a knock, entered, and found the old woman dead in bed, death being caused by a rupture of a blood-vessel.

Mr. J. R. Barber, superintendent of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway, arrived home on Circassian on Tuesday last.

Cobourg Conservatives consider that the Ottawa government did a very unhandsome thing in slighting Hon. Sidney Smith in filling the vacant Senatorship.

The Farwell House has again changed hands, Mr. George Brathwaite being now the proprietor.

The Sentinel-Star appears to take issue with my statement that in some parts of Durham, toll-gates are long a thing of the past. I would advise the editor to take a trip through Clarke and Darlington, and count the number of toll-gates on his thumb. It however falls in with my suggestion that those portions of the County which are suffering from this plague should buy up the roads and make them free for trade. It says; "We do not advocate the purchase of the public roads, and spreading their cost over all the municipalities, for that would be neither just nor reasonable. Municipalities in which the roads are already free should not be charged with any portion of the burden, and our plan would be simply to assess each Township with the amount of the actual cost of acquiring the roads within its boundaries, and the Counties, Council would, in that case, be only the medium through which the roads would be bought and paid for." Here it is right and I hope its agitation will have the desired result.

The difficulty among the Maccabees has been amicably settled. Mr. Osborne, the objectionable member has "stepped down and out." Mr. Bradford, of Brantford, has been elected Excellent Sir Knight in his stead, and the new constitution has been adopted.

Eschinger's Worm Powders are perfectly harmless in their effects upon the system, and mothers should not fail to use them when there is the least suspicion of worms, and should worms not exist, the Worm Powders will be found beneficial to the most delicate constitution, and one advantage at least gained—a knowledge that the disorder proceeds from some other source than the presence of worms. They are safe and reliable. For sale by all dealers. Price 25 cents. 14-26m

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 8, 1880.

A STUPID LIBELLER.

For a couple of weeks past the Daily Review has presented all the symptoms of the mountain in labor, and on Thursday evening, its time being judiciously calculated to evade criticism for another week at least, it brought forth its mouse—and a "ridiculous mouse" it is, in very truth. In the Toronto Globe of the 15th inst. appeared, as we noticed in last week's issue, the following paragraph :

"Peterborough shop-keepers complain that they do not pay expenses from day to day, barring Saturdays."

Ever on the alert (!) to guard the interests of the town, our perspicacious contemporary discovered this paragraph some two weeks after it had appeared, and forthwith despatched its interviewer to visit some of the merchants, ostensibly to ascertain the "state of trade," but in reality, we understand, with the object of endeavoring to connect the EXAMINER with the paragraph in question, and of deliberately canvassing a gratuitous falsehood to that end. The result of its labors it paraded in its columns of the 21st of March, and, introducing them, it made the following remarks :

"We found a very general feeling of indignation among our merchants at what they characterize as a malicious falsehood. Some of them express an opinion that it could not have been written by a Peterborough man, but must be some one having little interest in our prosperity and quite willing to damage it, the slanderous paragraph being on a par with others concerning our town which have recently been sent to the Toronto papers."

Had the Review had no other object in view than the mere contradiction of a mischievous statement, it would have at once stated, as it was perfectly aware, that the paragraph originated in the columns of the Port Hope Guide, but to have told the truth would have been to have exposed the sin and the object of the dishonorable attempt which had been made to fasten it directly or indirectly upon the EXAMINER—to say nothing of the fact that honesty and straightforwardness would have been an experiment altogether too sweeping and radical to have at all occurred to a mind essentially crooked and hopelessly wedded to devious and dishonest paths. In last week's EXAMINER we referred to the matter briefly, but in such a manner as to disabuse the minds of any who might have been misled by the malicious insendos of the Review, whereupon our contemporary returns to the congenial task of misrepresentation, and in doing so convicts itself of its own dishonesty, in a most exemplary manner, and far more conclusively than any mere words of ours could do. The Review says:

"The libellous paragraph first appeared in the Port Hope Guide, and was thence extracted by the Toronto Globe. We were unwilling to assume that the Guide had gratuitously invented such a slander on our town, and therefore carefully searched the columns of our two local contemporaries, as being the most available source from which the Guide could obtain information about our town. Unhappily for the credit of Peterborough we discovered two paragraphs in the Examiner of the 15th inst., published on March 5th, which no reasonable man can doubt inspired the Guide with its idea of the state of our trade."

It is a proverb that "liars need have long memories." The three line paragraph which has so disturbed the balance of our contemporary's understanding, and drives its wit to the humiliating resort of deliberate falsification, appeared originally in the Guide about the beginning of the month, and was published in the Globe of the 18th ultimo, A WEEK BEFORE THE PUBLICATION OF THE EDITORIAL REMARKS IN THE EXAMINER, which the Review has the impudence to say "no reasonable man can doubt inspired the Guide" "with its idea of the state of our trade!" As our contemporary has thus nailed its own ears to the pillory, we might be content to leave it there. Its ribald stone and disingenuous misrepresentation of the EXAMINER, we can afford to overlook. A foul stream flows naturally from an impure fountain, and neither correction nor rebuke would be likely to have any effect upon habits which have become incorrigible, and which have become innocuous through being universally recognized. Nothing which has appeared in the columns of the EXAMINER can, by any ingenious prestigiary of captiosk, dexterity in quotation, or sinister suggestion in interpretation, be twisted into a foundation for the statement that "Peterborough shop-keepers complain that they do not pay expenses from day to day, barring Saturdays." The only effect of our contemporary's distinguished effort, has been to give a number of our merchants gratuitous advertising, of which they were too shamed not to avail themselves, and which we trust will prove beneficial to them. But it is observable that in all the statements made by various business men, there is not a single insinuation that the trade of the town is in a prosperous condition, or that those benefits have been in any way realized which were promised to the people of this town in 1878, as the immediate results of the National Policy. Merchants claim that they are doing a fair business, as we have no doubt they are doing, and that business has increased from year to year, as is natural and inevitable in the ordinary course of things. But that we have experienced anything like prosperity, is not claimed by anyone. Several of the most prominent interviewed admitted "the present depression in trade," and give as a reason extravagance in the late good times, which has undoubtedly curtailed the purchasing capacity of the consumers. Others, like Mr. Menzies, do "not think there has been any improvement over last year and cannot say that it is any worse." He "does not think there has been any money made." Mr. Hackett thinks "trade has been about the same as last year." T. Dolan & Co. report business "during the first two months of 1880 equal to the first months of 1879." T. W. Robinson & Co. report an increase of 10 per cent.

"Other grocers speak equally encouraging, while there are a few who say that there has been some falling off in their trade during the first two months of 1880 over the same months of 1879.

Messrs. McKEE & DAVIDSON, hardware, "notice no special difference in trade this year, except during the month of February, as compared with that of last year, which was dull."

Messrs OSSOOD & WALSH, druggists, etc., say "their business has been steadily increasing from year to year, and their sales during the first months of the new year has shown a slight increase over that of the corresponding last year."

Mr. MCKEE, of Kinsey's drug store, "does not think the shopkeepers as a rule have been justly censured as represented. Some few, no doubt, are going behind, but not as a general rule."

"J. D. Tully & Co., shoeing and draggists, in answer to our enquiry how he found business, replied that he had every reason to feel content. He had been established for nine years, and during that time he asserted as that his business record showed a steady increase every year up the to end of December, 1879."—

—a significant commentary on the Review's description of trade previous to the adoption of the Taxation Tariff. W. J. LARMOUR says :

"His trade, he thinks, would have been increased considerably had travel and the weather been favorable."

Such is the general tenor of the statements collected by the interviewer, who appears to have given a very fair and straightforward report, and was probably much more honest than his editorial commentator would have wished him to be for the object in view. These statements go to show that so far from the National Policy having brought prosperity to the merchants, those of them who have survived the vicissitudes of the past few years, have been able, by careful management and judicious use of printers' ink, to fairly hold their own. One statement in particular is worthy the attention of the Review scribe. Messrs. T. Dolan & Co. report that

"The business of this firm has shown a constant increase since they began in 1876. The increase in 1877 over 1876 is over 15 per cent., over the year 1877, 25 per cent., and over the year 1878, 33 per cent."

This shows that the increase in 1877 over 1876 was 60 per cent, and that during the period in which the Review was seeking to make the people believe that the policy of the late Government was ruining the trade of the country, and that nothing but Sir John and the N. P. was going to intervene between the merchants and universal bankruptcy. Perhaps we may throw some light upon the evident darkness of the Review as to the state of trade now under the N. P. and previous to the institution of that fiscal nostrum; and we shall not go to any individual merchant to ask him whether he is making or losing money, but shall take an unprejudiced and indisputable authority, showing the whole volume of trade in the last fiscal year, under the auspices of the N. P., comparing it with that of the previous year under the benighting influence of Mr. Mackenzie at Ottawa. The Trade and Navigation Returns, brought down to Parliament this session by Sir Samuel Tilley, show that the amount of goods entered for consumption in the Port of Peterborough on the fiscal year ending July 1st 1878, amounted in value to $141,943. The tax imposed upon these goods under the Revenue Tariff policy, that is to say, the duty collected, amounted to $11,840. A similar statement for the year '79 shows the goods imported for consumption to have been $122,128, a falling off in the goods sold from merchants' shelves of $19,815, nearly one-seventh. And mark the effects of an increase of the tariff. Although the volume of business was thus decreased the taxes levied upon the consumers were increased to $14,901.14, an increase of $3,061, nearly one-quarter on the revenue charges, upon one eighth less value of goods. And how is it with our exports? In the last year of the late tariff there were exported from Peterborough goods to the value of $48,379. In the first year of the N.P. these exports were reduced to $25,896—a decrease of more than two-fifths. Now let us see what we were promised by the Review and Mr. Hilliard previous to the elections of 1878. Here are some quotations from the columns of the former :

"It would hardly be necessary to disclaim any intention to intervene between the two parties in Conservatives, and of these Reformers who have learned to believe in a national policy, but for the persistent and wilful misrepresentations of the Ministerial organs. They state—though they know they speak falsely, or else they are grossly ignorant of the policy clearly set forth by the Opposition—that the advocates for protection for native industries demand an increase of taxation and the imposition of additional burdens on the people"

"With prosperous manufactures giving employment to our own people, the present general depression would rapidly pass away, and the whole community would feel the benefit. It is readjustment, not increase of taxation, that is necessary to bring about this satisfactory result."

"It is no trifling question—as mere choice of one set of men or another to construct our public policies—but the issue is distinct as to whether Canada shall be great and flourishing or lie prostrate and poor."

"As the National Policy still continues to be misrepresented by its opponents in spite of repeated explanations, we will put it in terms too plain to be misunderstood by the dullest mind. The present revenue appearing sufficient, if it is not proposed to increase taxation or to raise the tariff. It is proposed to readjust the tariff, so as to raise the duties on some articles and lower them on others, leaving the total amount of revenue the same as at present."

"The Opposition propose to [illegible] would so adjust the tariff as to foster our own industries, to develope our rich resources, and to secure to the farmers of Canada the custom of the multitudes who would be then employed in our own land. Our factories would then be busy manufacturing goods now made in the factories of the United States—our rich iron ores would be mined and smelted here instead of being conveyed or [illegible] to foreign furnaces—our farmers would have a home market and no unfair competition from without—in short every industry in the country would prosper."

"Sir (Sir John) promised a readjustment of tariffs, he says, and therefore it is apparent that he advocates raising the duties of some goods, and has no wish to deny the fact. But while making some duties others would be lowered, and the tariff, as a whole, would not be increased. Sir John's policy, in fact, is not to increase taxation, but to raise the requisite revenue by a readjustment of the duties on goods which it is advisable to encourage or to prohibit. It is certainly to be commended if it can be carried out in the manner he proposes, and the matter is worthy of consideration, which it is advisable to inquire will be [illegible]."

Mr. Hilliard was equally as explicit. He is reported in the Review as having spoken as follows :—

"Addressing each of Peterborough, on the 2nd of June, Mr. Hilliard said that if he [illegible] work, and [illegible] would be [illegible] And this was found to be the case in one of the most [illegible] Canada. Must then [illegible] Peterborough was raised up to [illegible] by means of that protective [illegible] [illegible] Peterborough at your doors would be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 8, 1880.

April Showers.—The first Spring rain visited town on Friday evening last.

Lacrosse.—The lacrosse players of town are about organizing for the operations of the ensuing season.

Acknowledgment.—The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home acknowledge with thanks, the receipt of a bag of flour sent anonymously.

Resumed Work.—McDonald's mill, at Point St. Charles, has commenced work for the season. It will now be in order for the Review to announce the re-opening of this mill as another "new" industry under the N. P., as it did last year.

Rowing Accommodation.—There is a good opening in town for the first enterprising man who affords the proper facilities for the cultivation of that virtue said to be next to godliness. Properly conducted bath-rooms would be a boon to the public and could not fail to be remunerative.

Protection Hook and Ladder Company.—On account of the resignation of Capt. Hughes and Lieut. Pegram, who have left town to seek work in Bay City, Michigan, this company held a special meeting on Wednesday evening last, when Mr. Fred. Weir was chosen Captain and Mr. Geo. Erskine, Lieutenant.

An Early Start.—[illegible] Robinson, of Monaghan, commenced the seeding operations of the season by sowing spring wheat on Friday the 2nd April. This is the first sowing in the township, and we favor the fact to the district. If any one got closer in on the heels of the winter, we should like to hear from him.

Improvements.—Mr. A. Rutherford has received instructions from Mr. George Dansford, to add a third story with a Mansard roof to his building on corner of Water and Hunter streets, in accordance with plans by Mr. J. E. Belcher, Architect. This will form an extensive addition to Mr. A. P. Morgan's hotel. Work will be commenced at an early day.

Street Watering.—The contract for street watering during the present year will include not only the portion of the town covered by last year's contract, but Water street as far north as London street, and the cross streets to George street. The Fire, Water and Gas Committee are instructed to make the necessary arrangements.

Street Cleaning.—Now that the Spring has made its first appearance, and laid bare the accumulated refuse left by the winter in the streets, polluting the air, offending the sense and endangering the health, the work of cleaning not only the thoroughfares but the by-ways and alleys should be thoroughly accomplished. The scavengers have already commenced work, and should be kept employed till all the streets are put in a proper condition.

Ashburnham Council.—This Council met on Friday evening last, when several accounts were passed. The sum of $2.80 paid by the Bible Christian Church for use of Town Hall for their Anniversary Services was ordered to be refunded. The Pathmasters were instructed to have the various crossings re-planked, as they needed it, and several applications for charity were disposed of, after which the Council adjourned.

Complimentary Supper.—On Thursday evening last, Messrs. Edward Hughes and Geo. Pepple, who have been compelled to go to Michigan to obtain employment, among other beneficiaries of the N. P., were entertained by the members of Protection Hook and Ladder Company at an oyster supper at the Commercial House. The second was all that could be desired and the affair passed off very successfully. The usual toasts were [illegible] and regret expressed at the departure of the ex-fellows of the company, with the best wishes for their future welfare. The chair was occupied by Capt. Weir, and the vice-chair by [illegible] Erskine. [illegible] the proceedings were enlivened by songs from Chief Mitchell, Mr. Cooke, A. Browne and others.

Oddfellowship.—From the circular of the Grand Secretary of the I.O.O.F., a Ontario, just issued, we gather that there are [illegible] with a membership of 12,228 in the province. During the year 1879 1,398 were initiated, 148 admitted by card and 126 reinstated. No less a a sum than $83,288.39 was expended for relief during the same period—an average of $130 per lodge. For sick benefits the payments were $13,858.79; support of widows, $4,252.22; charity, $4,623.57; burying the dead, $2,672.25. The death rate was one in 135). The receipts of subordinate lodges were $103,945.57; the current expenses, $27,144.35. The per centage of expenses to receipts was 25.70, and of relief to receipts, 25.61. The general fund of the lodge now amounts to $203,681.39; widows' and orphans' fund, $37,122.24; contingent fund, $6,522.17.

Band Concert.—The Fire Brigade Band gave a free concert at the Drill Shed on Saturday night last, when notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, there was a large turnout of citizens. The music furnished on the occasion consisted of a number of operatic selections, and the manner in which the various subjects were treated showed that the band is fully maintaining the high standard it has attained, and which won it distinguished honors last year. Constant practice is kept up, having in view the intention of the band to compete at the Provincial band tournament next summer, and steady improvement keeps pace with practice. The band should be liberally supported by the citizens during the summer, to aid them in their effort to again bring home first prize from the hands of the Province. The following programme was given on Saturday night:—

Quickstep..... "Jolly Dancers."..... H. Round Selection..... "Bonnie Dundee"..... Round
Polka..... "Immortal"..... H. Round
Selection..... "Round the World"..... H. Round
Waltz..... "Messenger of Love"..... Chas. Coote
Finale..... "The Relief of Ekowe"..... H. Round
"GOD SAVE THE QUEEN."

Peterborough Rowing Club.—The annual meeting of this Club was held at the Rowing House on Monday evening, Mr. F. J. Lewis in the chair. There was a very full attendance of members. The reports of the Secretary-Treasurer, in reference to the finances, and of the Captain, recommending last year's committee, were received and adopted. Election of officers then took place with the following result:—F. J. Lewis, President; Rev. V. Clement, Vice-President; R. H. Edwards, Captain. Mr. A. H. Macdougall was unanimously elected Secretary-Treasurer. The ballot for Committeemen resulted as follows:—Gen. C. Rogers, A. J. Belcher, R. H. D. Hall and R. E. Weir. Messrs. Gen. C. Rogers and R. H. Edwards were elected delegates to attend the meeting at Toronto for the purpose of organizing a Provincial Rowing Association. A Committee was appointed to engender a programme of athletic sports for Queen's Birthday. Another Committee was instructed to request the Mayor to call a public meeting to devise means to augment the membership column. A number of names were proposed for membership, and the meeting adjourned.

Orgue Recital at St. Luke's.

The Church of St. Luke was filled to the doors on Thursday evening last, with an audience invited to attend an Orgue Recital, held for the purpose of raising funds for the new organ. Every seat in the church was filled, and the aisles were packed with chairs to accommodate the audience. The proceedings were opened by Rev. Mr. Rowsell, who briefly introduced the programme of the evening, but with a few appropriate remarks, reminding the audience that that was the House of God, and that the proceedings partook of the nature of a service of praise; consequently no applause would be allowed, nor were any encores solicited.

The organ forms a new attraction to this handsome church, adding greatly to the appearance, and it is a most decided acquisition to the musical services. Its tones are remarkably sweet and admirably modulated, and it is in fact, a superior instrument in every respect. The first piece on the programme was the "Priest's March from Athalie," Mendelssohn; an organ solo by Mr. Hemsfield, which was rendered with precision and sympathy. Miss Farris, of Kingston, then gave the solo "Consider the Lilies," which she did in a manner that rendered it a difficult matter for the audience to refrain from expressing their appreciation by applause. Miss Farris has a voice of great range and volume, trained to an unusual degree of perfection, and under admirable control. The choir then gave the chorus, "In Jewry is God known," in a very creditable manner, the soprano part receiving assistance from Miss Farris, which added greatly to its success. Mr. Davis sang the solo "One evening solemn thought," in excellent voice and with accurate reading. The choir then gave Spohr's "As pants the Heart," which was very well rendered. Mr. Hemsfield followed with selections from Weber and Schumann, and acquitted himself as a master of the instrument.

The next part of the programme was furnished by the audience, in the shape of a contribution towards the organ and the expenses of the entertainment, and it was certainly cheerfully given, as every passer-by appeared could not but fully appreciate the rare treat provided by the ladies and gentlemen who contributed so constant an entertainment of music and song.

The chorus "O taste and see," was, in our opinion, the best success achieved by the choir during the evening and reflect credit upon the capacity of the members and the efficiency of the instructor, Mr. Hallet. Miss Farris sang Handel's beautiful composition, "Angels ever bright and fair," in a very superb manner. The chorus "O Lord, how beautiful," was admirably given by the choir, and was followed by an organ solo by Mr. Hemsfield. Mr. Temple on Brown gave the somewhat difficult solo "Lord Remember David" (Handel) very correctly, and the programme was concluded by a really excellent rendering by the choir of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." The audience throughout were delighted with the programme so admirably carried out, as they had every reason to be. The following ladies and gentlemen took part in the chorus:—Sopranos.—Mesdames Bradshaw, Morgan, Sheffield, Meeks, Butcher, and Misses Adams, Strickland, McNab and Harris; Altos, Mrs. Meeks, and Misses Mowbray, Revel, Rickey. B. Rickey and Stratton; Tenors, —Messrs. Butcher, F. Miller, J. Mothersill, G. Johnston and Mr. J. Miller; Bassos.—Messrs. A. Elliott, T. Rush, W. Brown, J. Bell, R. H. Rogers, W. P. Shaw, R. Chown, W. Hill, E. C. Hill, F. W. Hamilton and D. E. Barrett.

On Monday evening another recital was given with the same programme as to choruses, Miss Farris rendering a selection from Judith with great power and brilliancy, and singing "There is a Green Hill Far Away," in a very superb manner. Mr. Davis was unable to be present. The church was again filled with a most appreciative audience.

COUNTY COURT.

A sitting of the County Court term for April was held Saturday His Honor Judge Donaldson presided.

WATSON VS. MERRIMS.—Mr. D. W. Dumble appeared for plaintiff, and Mr. W. H. Moore for defendant. Rule nisi granted for a new trial during last term was argued. Judgment reserved.

DEAN VS. CHAMBERLAIN.—Mr. D. W. Dumble for plaintiff, and Messrs. J. F. Deanstoun, Q. C., and H. H. Smith for defendant. Objection taken by Mr. Dumble that no rule for enlargement was made last term. Rule nisi that term lapsed. Objection sustained.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

—P. M. Easton was able to attend to his duties on Thursday last, having been deterred for a few days by the effects of the accident which befell him while inspecting Bradburn's Hall Roof.

—John Montgomery brought an accusation of abusive language against his brother David, and the charge being borne out by the evidence, a fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

—Michael Hattrick was brought up by Constable Craig, of Ashburnham, on two counts, one for being drunk and disorderly, and another for assaulting the constable in discharge of his duty. To the former defendant pleaded guilty, and was fined $1 and costs. To the latter he denied the charge, but was convicted on the evidence of the constable. As to the assault he professed ebullitions of remorse. The Magistrate refreshed his memory with a fine of $2 and $5.30 costs, making the total cost of the jamboree $13.30.

—On Friday a case of Simon Weir against Wm. Turcotte was called. Defendant not appearing, a warrant was issued and the case enlarged.

—On Saturday Wm. Morgan pleaded guilty to having assaulted J. A. Armstrong, and was fined $1 and 30 cents costs.

—The case of License Inspector Cox against John O'Neill for selling liquor without license was called, when defendant did not put in an appearance, and was consequently nonsuited. The Inspector called Patrick Daly, who appeared to be considerably "under the influence," and who refused to be sworn till he was paid. The magistrate said he must be sworn and give his evidence, after which he would decide whether he should be paid or not. Witness insisted on having the money in advance, declining in the most positive manner to give the Court any credit whatsoever, as he was doing a strictly cash business in the witness line. The law was read over to him, but he still refused, though the Inspector expressed his readiness to pay him as soon as he should have testified. Daly persisted in his refusal, when the Magistrate committed him to the cookroll till he should feel him, self ready to testify. The case was enlarged till the following Tuesday to give him ample opportunity to think the matter over.

—On Monday His Worship the Mayor presided at the justice dispensary, the Magistrate being unable to appear.

—James Masten was charged by P. C. McGhee with furious driving on George street, in the course of which he ran into Mr. Carpenter's buggy, and threatened timid pedestrians with annihilation. He was fined $2 and $1 costs. The same defendant was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the street. He admitted having been so drunk that he couldn't remember whether he had been disorderly or not. A fine of $1.40 was imposed.

—Jane Turner, Ontario, an undertaker, was up on a charge of acting in a disorderly manner on the streets. She was sent to gaol for twenty-one days.

—On Tuesday the case of Mrs. Ellen Brown was called, before Mr. Easton, P.M., when after hearing evidence the Magistrate committed her, on a female suffering from melancholia, to the gaol to await the action of the Provincial authorities.

—The case of Sly Lipsett Inspector against John O'Neill came up, the complainant witness having been subpoenaed up by his three days recognizance, and consequently his evidence to be written. He remembered the 25th of March, and remembered having seen defendant partaking freely of spirits at Bennett's, between the hours of twelve o'clock and one. Further than that he could not remember getting any liquor in the establishment, and knew nothing of the whole transaction save for Mr. O'Neill, who further denied under oath selling any liquor whatever on the days being discussed, or any other days.

—The case of Inspector Cox against Francis Quinn was called, but on account of the defendant's non-appearance till the 15th instant.

If any one going to the North-west or elsewhere needs a tent they had better call at L. Symonds'. They have on all sizes and prices.

BRITISH ELECTIONS.

GREAT LIBERAL TRIUMPH.

Gladstone, the "Complete William" Once More—Beaconsfield Unquestioned—How Edmund Ministry to be Formed.

LONDON, April 3.—The defeat at York City of Right Hon. James Lowther, Conservative and Chief Secretary for Ireland received with wild delight by the Home Rulers and Nationalists of Ireland. Sir John Lubbock, Liberal, who was defeated at Middlesex, will probably stand for Rochester district in the event of the Marquis of Hartington being successful in North-East Lancashire, the latter having been elected for Radnor district and not for Lancashire, as previously announced.

A Berlin correspondent says the universal belief in Germany is that the peace of Europe would be much more assured under a Tory than under a Whig Government.

The best opinion now is that Earl Beaconsfield will resign shortly after the return of the Queen from the Continent. His health is far from good, and his spirits are said to be much depressed by the results of the election.

The Saturday Review (Independent) says:—

The contingencies could not have given a much more decided answer to Beaconsfield's appeal, but why they have given it nobody can exactly say. Probably many electors were tired of the Government merely because it has been six years in office, but some things the elections have placed beyond contest. They show that the politicians have not estimated the expected influence, that the Liberals were not divided by crotchets, that their party organization is much improved, and the moderates have, as a rule, voted with their party.

The Spectator (Liberal) says:—

Nothing surprises the people more than the evidence the elections give of how easy it is to live in England and not know anything about the real opinion of England. Wherever you went you were told that whatever Scotchmen or Irishmen might think, England would support Beaconsfield's policy with enthusiasm.

LONDON, April 6.—The Liberals have secured 344 seats, the Conservatives 183, and the Home Rulers 19.

After a most exciting contest, in which every voter on both sides has been brought to the polls, the Right Hon. W. E Gladstone has been returned for the precinct legally known as Edinburgh county, otherwise at Edinburghshire or Midlothian. At the last general election in this precinct only 2,799 voters went to the polls, and the election resulted in the return of the Earl of Dalkeith, who is the son and heir of Duke of Buccleuch, who is owner of nearly the whole of Midlothian and patron of twelve livings. The Earl of Dalkeith is 40 years of age, and is widely popular among the tenants of his father, far more so, indeed, than the old Duke ever was, but Gladstone's victory was the battle. Mr. Gladstone received 1,579 votes, and the Earl of Dalkeith 1,368, Mr. Gladstone thus being returned by a majority of 211 votes. The contest was the most spirited one ever fought in Edinburghshire since the passage of the first Reform bill. Each party used its utmost endeavours and 2,947 voters came to the polls, 148 more than at former elections.

BRADBURN'S HALL.

As we go to press we have been handed the following report of Messrs. Langley and Wagner, upon Bradburn's Hall, which will be found entirely satisfactory to the people of the town:—

PETERBOROUGH, April 7th, 1880.

To T. BRADBURN, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—We have this day at your request examined the Opera House, Peterborough, and find that the retreating of the roof as recommended by us has been done in a good and substantial manner, and it is now in our opinion thoroughly safe.

We also find the split pier as well as the other cracked brickwork on the outside of the building repaired in a satisfactory manner.

We have also examined the kind of bottom on which the building is erected and have to say that in our opinion it is a good foundation, being a mixture of clay and gravel. We saw no evidence of quicksand.

Yours truly,
HENRY LANGLEY, Architect,
J. C. WAGNER, Builder.

South Monaghan.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—The correspondent of the Review, in last week's issue, referring to the medical practice in this locality, makes a rather sneering reference to Dr. Gray, of this place, in puffing Dr. Baxter. Dr. Gray came here with high recommendations from Cartwright, and has already established himself in the confidence and esteem of all here. The Centreville doctor may be all the Review correspondent says, but the Ballieborough people have every confidence in their local practitioner.

AEGUS.

One way to Reconcile.

Many a poor man, if required to account for the manner in which he has expended his income, would find little of his family provision for "medical services" among the leading items. In savage cases out of ten, acute diseases are the result of some neglected chronic disease. Thus, if you're invariably regale Dr. Sun diseased conditions of the blood and liver, and a timely use of alterative, or blood-purifying, and cathartic remedies would have averted the prostrating illness that often leaves the system irreparably laid out. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets are the best alterative and cathartic medicines yet compounded. Full directions, and rules for regulating diet, accompany both, and an accurate description of the symptoms demanding their use. They will not cure all human ills as some medicines are advertised to do, but they will cure the diseases for which they are compounded and recommended.

"It is notable that our city is favored with a performance combining so much genuine merit as unite to everything as a commendably novel, as the Lilliputian Opera Company. Queen Company at the Royal last week.

Prof. Alfred Dow's company of Lilliputians are a company of little people, ranging in age from that of baby to that of full-grown men, but in no case exceeding twenty-eight; but the power of knowledge of how to use their voices, and the ease and grace of all concerned. After last night's performance, it is not extravagant to say that the Lilliputians possess a value of remarkable power when the size of her body is taken into consideration. She interpreted the difficult support to Admiral Dot, and between them managed to keep the audience in continued laughter. 15-2d

LIBERTY AND LIFE;

OR,

THE VIGNETT-DE-GRAVE.

BY H. W. PERRING, IN NEW BELLS.

II.—[Continued.]

'John Cannon—in for forgery,' said the Captain. 'I don't know him, but I do his name. Indeed I remember the case quite well. He was sent out with strong recommendations, his case having awakened much sympathy; but the law had to take its course. He was discharged a year ago.'

'Then I may safely engage him?'

'Decidedly. Two ticket-of-leaves are, on the whole, as safe as other hands. I am told that many of the latter are in Mike Bawn's pay. They get service in a station; and either steal the cattle by false branding, or give information to Bawn, who, with his hands, sweeps down upon the place.'

'Good heavens!' ejaculated the Colonel, glancing anxiously at Kate making a bouquet of Roses. 'If that's true, I'll keep a sharper watch on Clarkson, and think twice before I engage this fellow.'

'I'm sure you need not fear there, Colonel. He was responsibly know and educated. He's not of the stuff to turn bushranger. But this topic reminds me to the real cause that brings me and my men, who are now billeted at Gum-Tree Station, into this neighborhood. A few days ago a convict managed to escape, and we have traced him into this part of the country. I've got to search it, and my orders are to take him dead or alive.'

'His name, man, must be a grave one?'

'It is. It was murder. John Holder was in for life.'

'John Holder?'

The name seemed to ring in the listeners' ears like clashing bells. The father and daughter exchanged a rapid glance of horror and consternation.

'Pray Heaven Margaret may not hear this!' thought the Colonel.

But the soft summer breeze had wafted the words already into the open window beneath which the three stood, and, within, a pale, red-eyed beautiful woman was prone on the floor, fighting on this Christmas Eve with her cruel misery.

III.

THE ATTACK.

Ten years ago Margaret Ferraby, then as bright and happy as Kate herself, had been betrothed to Lieutenant John Holder, one of the frankest, lightest-hearted young fellows in existence. One cloud, however, darkened his life. That cloud was represented by his step-brother Hugh, who, owing to John's rather barren-sounding youth, had, by an absurd will, been left inheritor of the estate, and kind of guardian over the step-brother, fifteen years his junior. Love had never existed between the two, especially on the elder's side. Slightly deformed, and also crooked in temper, he nourished a secret jealousy of his handsome brother—a feeling brought to a climax by John succeeding, where he failed, in gaining beautiful Margaret Ferraby, for whose love they had been rivals.

From that moment Hugh had commenced a succession of petty annoyances and insults, adapted to madden any man, especially one of John Holder's temperament. The result was a terrible quarrel, during which Hugh had spoken disrespectfully of their father's second wife, John's mother, and the son had, losing self-control, struck the insulter. They fought like two madmen, and had been with difficulty parted, vowing vengeance.

John, as was his custom, took his grief to the Ferrabys, and made that unfortunate confession to the Colonel.

For a month the brothers never met. The Christmas Eve on which John Holder and Margaret were to be married drew near. The day previously a gamekeeper had seen the two brothers together about dusk in the Holder preserves.

The snow lay thick and white. He could perceive them plainly through the leafless trees. John had his gun, and they appeared talking excitedly. John owned this, saying he had been striving to make it up with his step-brother, and got him to attend his wedding. A few hours later, the gamekeeper, again visiting the spot, had come upon Hugh, lying face downward in the snow, shot.

John Holder had been arrested at the church door, where he was awaiting his bride. He was tried and sentenced to death, the sentence being finally commuted to transportation for life.

This was Margaret Ferraby's history and his. A broken-hearted woman, her belief in his innocence was never shaken, nor ever would be. She had gladly come to Australia to be nearer him. Now he, her only love, had broken prison, was a hunted fugitive, and his life threatened.

It was near one o'clock when Captain Ermson, who had accepted the Colonel's invitation to stay the night, had retired to rest, happy in the thought that the same roof covered himself and Kate.

As the door had closed upon him a gloom had fallen on those he had left. Then Kate, raising her eyes, swimming with tears, whispered, 'Oh, papa, this is terrible! John Holder escaped, and Captain Ermson ordered to take him dead or alive. Who—who will tell poor Aunt Margaret?'

'She knows it already, Kate,' said a sad, sweet voice.

The girl and the Colonel looking up quickly saw Margaret Ferraby standing within the door, which she had noiselessly opened.

She was a tall, graceful woman, attired in soft, clinging black. Her complexion was singularly pale, her features handsome, while a mournful sadness, like the calm of resignation, dwelt in her large grey eyes.

Closing the door, she came swiftly forward, her white, slender hands extended towards her brother.

'Richard,' she exclaimed, tremulously, 'I heard all—all, from my room above. John Holder has escaped. That man has orders to take him alive or dead. Richard, Richard! he must be saved! If you love me, you will save him!'

'If I love you, Margaret!' replied the Colonel, gently taking her pretty hands. 'You do not doubt that, dear? Yet, what can I do?'

'Tell him all, Richard. Trust in his honor, as your friend, to keep our secret, and, as your friend, to save John!'

'Trust me, I'll do what I can, Margaret. Still, be not hopeful. Captain Ermson is honor is bound to carry out the commands of the Government he serves. John Holder by this last act has added another crime—'

'Another!' broke in Margaret Ferraby. 'John is guilty of none! Why should he, innocent, submit tamely to drag out a weary life within the prison walls? He has escaped as I would have done in his place. Oh, Richard, Richard! imagine to suffer unjustly disgrace, infamy, for a whole life, fond pooh to age!' she cried, wringing her hands. 'My poor, poor John! If you cannot pity him pity me. Save him!'

Covering her face, she burst into an hysterical fit of weeping. Kate's arms were immediately round her neck, her pretty face full of sympathy and reserve.

'Aunt, dear,' she said, 'I will save John Holder.'

'You?'

'Yes! I will tell Captain Ermson everything. I will confess to her—her heart cannot be Mr. Holder. He [illegible], whom I shall entreat and [illegible]

[illegible] interrupted her thanks.

[illegible] you [illegible]

[illegible] entered the [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Kate and I cast lead your rifles in readiness for you.'

'Heaven be praised!' said the Colonel. 'We have a good stock of them, and ammunition, too.'

Just then Cross hurried down stairs.

'Quick, quick!' he cried. 'The villains are in the garden, and I expect will next be scaling the verandah. The doors and windows below Colonel, are well secured; and I have collected all the arms in the room above. Please come and place the men.'

The little party hurried up-stairs. Henry Ermson and Kate Ferraby's hands once met with a clear, eloquent pressure. By his side she felt her fears vanish.

'Do you hear?' said Margaret Ferraby as they reached the upper room. 'They are calling for you Richard. They want to speak to you.'

'Oh, Papa!' exclaimed Kate, catching his arm, 'do not go to the window. It may be but a ruse to shoot you.'

'I'll take care of that my love. There, stand back, and let go my arm. Ermson, do you recognise any of them?'

The two had approached a small window that commanded a clear view of the front. Some ten men, attired after bushranger fashion, and well armed, were standing beneath. One, slightly in advance, was a broad-shouldered, dark-visaged fellow. As the Colonel perceived him, he exclaimed, 'Cross you are right. There is that villain Clarkson himself. These men are evidently under his command.'

'That,' said the captain of the police, 'Colonel—that man is Mike Bawn the bushranger.'

'That! I tell you it is my stock-keeper.'

'Also Mike Bawn, whose capture alive or dead would put a hundred pounds in any man's pocket. Quick! hand me a rifle or revolver.'

But, as if aware of his peril, Mike Bawn at this time retreated under the verandah, out of danger, while Clarkin who took his place again commanded the Colonel.

'I wonder what they want?' said Ermson.

'A conference, or some diplomatic commonplace. Let him [illegible]; under the circumstances, his letter is intolerable. Let him be silenced.

Stepping forward he commanded their [illegible] quit.

It was soon told. They had been [illegible] this Colonel Ermson was at present in [illegible] up to

'We know it is [illegible] said Mike Bawn from the verandah, 'and we intend to have him. Give him to us, and we will [illegible]

A shout of derisive laughter responded to this speech.

'It would have been wiser if he'd kept with them, I fancy,' retorted Mike Bawn. 'You'll get no help from them; they are sleeping off the effects of Christmas cheer at Gum-Tree Station. Come, Colonel, once more; remember your own family. Will you give the cursed police captain up?'

'Never!' was the prompt rejoinder.

'Then,' retorted Mike Bawn with a horrible oath, 'take the consequences. I've sworn to have his life, and I will! Fire, lads! Blaze away! and mind, no quarter!—don't spare even the cat if there is one!'

The rattling of bullets against the house-front drowned the cry of horror which burst from Kate Ferraby's lips. At the commencement of the parley she had spoken to her lover's side and slipped her little hands in his. Softly he pressed the slender fingers but did not speak. He was very pale—his lips were set; his large brown eyes dilated.

Only after the first volley he broke silence.

'Colonel,' he remarked, low but steadily, 'this must not be. This man, as he says, has sworn to have my life. This has been a trap laid to catch me, and it has succeeded. I will not consent to bring, perhaps death, certainly ruin, upon your family.'

'What do you mean lad?' exclaimed the officer, as Kate threw her arms around her lover.

'To give myself up to Mike Bawn. It is the only means to save all,' was the resolute answer. 'Kate—Kate, my darling—courage! Think of your father—your aunt!'

'Henry,' she cried, sobbing wildly, 'you shall not go!'

'That he shall not, if my name's Richard Ferraby!' responded the Colonel, striding to the door, and putting the key in his pocket. 'What, Ermson! do you imagine any hero could support the disgrace of such a thing? No, by Heaven! while this roof shelters me it shall shelter my guest! Fight, man—fight! Let us return their fire.'

Life, especially as he looked on Kate, was sweet to the young captain; yet it was with reluctance he yielded for a time to the Colonel's arguments. He knew Mike Bawn better than did his host.

'Now,' proceeded the Colonel, cheerily, 'to work, Kate; there is Ermson's second gun to load. Margaret, here is mine. Our colors are nailed to the mast, and we'll never surrender while we're an ounce of lead remaining!'

IV.

THE LAST CHANCE.

Bravely did the little garrison at Ferraby's Station defend their own. Fierce was the attack, resolute the defence. The Colonel and Henry Ermson were both good marksmen, and rarely missed their man; but the bushrangers were no less skilful, and availed themselves of any ambush. Eagerly did the two watch for Mike Bawn; but he never placed himself in peril. They could hear him uttering a volley of oaths, and issuing commands; but he never came in sight.

For an hour the firing continued almost incessantly.

Kate and Margaret, firm and resolute, excitement hindering despair, loaded the pieces as they were discharged, so that the marksmen had not to wait.

At the end of that hour, four or five bushrangers were lying outside, dead or dying. Of the little garrison, one was killed, two wounded. Only three were left able to fight. Their hopes that the rifle reports might be heard, and bring succour, died out. No station was within hearing range, while no persons were likely to be abroad on Christmas morning.

And what a Christmas it was to prove to those at Ferraby's Station!

'Colonel,' whispered Henry Ermson, his face blackened by smoke and gunpowder, during a brief cessation of the firing, 'these men are too many for us.'

'Nonsense, my boy! When did an Englishman confess to being beaten, and by such rascals?' responded the officer, cheerily, feeling a keen pang of pity as he looked down at the brave young fellow, and knew that upon Mike Bawn would wreak his worst vengeance. 'We have some twenty charges yet. Eh, Kate—that's the number?' he said, louder; 'twenty more shots.'

'Only fifteen, papa,' was the quick, steady response.

Henry Ermson bent his form on the fair speaker, then averted them with a stifled moan.

(To be concluded next week.)

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures consumption sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical:—J. Goldard of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me a dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now, its cures are wonderful."—Wm. Maguire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it sells like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now."—H. Cole, of Ione, writes, "Please forward me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it."—J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send me at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such general satisfaction."—J. Thompson, Woodford, writes, "Send me some more Eclectric Oil, I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it."—Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Eclectric Oil, is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876. Cash	For 1876. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$268.20	$74.80	$217.40	$68.55	$222.65
7	20 Payment Life.	5,000	203.45	112.10	297.60	120.60	289.60

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PERCENTAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 25 per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash.....$67.20. Bonus.....$268.80.
" 7. " " ..... 68.80. " ..... 136.60.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above proof-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are obtained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a high Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 80 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 15, 1880.

SETTLERS AND THE FREE GRANT ACT.

In a recent issue, our contemporary the Review made an attack upon Mr. Blezard, the member for the Ham Riding, on account of his vote on the Bill of Hon. Mr. Pardee, amending the Free Grants Act. Were it not for Mr. Blezard, we fear our contemporary's occupation would be gone. The policy of its friends at Ottawa does not afford it much scope for the lamdations which used to fill its columns. It is perforce silent upon the course of its patrons in entering into the Quebec conspiracy to deprive this Province of its birthright. It does not venture to justify the spending of ten millions of money, raised by mortgaging the credit of the people of this part of the Dominion, in building a railway from nowhere to nowhere, in the wilds of British Columbia. It is unhappy because Mr. Mowat did not vote $606,000 for Parliament Buildings at Toronto, in spite of its distinct prophesy to that effect. It is distressed because principle, too early announced, urges it to stick to the honest dollar, while interest (Government advertisements) compels it to support the scheme of its political friends for lowering the basis of gold security. The truly good editor would no doubt stand by his principles and his duty to his Province, but the wicked partners who look to the main chance and care more for party than for principle, are too many for him, and to avoid troublesome explanations, and to cover up the want of patriotism evinced in not uttering a word of protest against the spoliation of the Provinces of its territories and the people of the fruits of their industry, they fall back upon Mr. Blezard, whom it is a common duty to annihilate, and who offers a convenient target. But the Review is unfortunate in its attacks upon Mr. Blezard, for he has this advantage—that he has pursued a straightforward, honest course in the Legislature, and can court the most hostile criticism, confident in the assurance that he has acted throughout in the interests of his constituents and in the interests of the Province. It is therefore, no doubt, that the Review is driven to draw upon its imagination for its facts, and upon a fecund faculty of misrepresentation for the means of endeavoring to place Mr. Blezard in a false light before those of his constituents who read that paper. But it [illegible] porary has been unfortunate in other assaults upon Mr. Blezard, it has been especially unhappy in selecting his vote on the Free Grants Amendment Act, as a basis of attack. If there was one vote above another, during the past session, which was essentially and especially in the interests of the settlers of the Province, it was the vote of the majority of the Legislature, of whom Mr. Blezard was one, upon this bill. The Review assumes, as is its custom, without the production of any fact, or any process of argument, that this bill was antagonistic to the settlers' welfare and subversive of their rights, and upon that assumption alone it proceeds to attack the member for East Peterborough as having been recreant to his duty. Had Mr. Blezard actually cast his vote to a measure adverse to the settlers' interests, even where the Government claimed his support, we should be compelled to join in the condemnation which the Review, con amore, and with such lavish liberality, bestows upon him. But his course has been the very reverse of what is represented by that journal. Contrary to the impression sought to be created by the Review, the Amended Act does not interfere in any way, shape or manner with the rights of any settler located up to the time of its passage. No single condition upon which any settler holds his lands is in any manner changed, altered or disturbed. So far as settlers coming in after the passage of the amended act are concerned, the new law gives them distinct and valuable benefits, which cannot fail to add to the security of their rights, and to the certainty of their profits. Under the old rule, the lumberman held his license for five years only. The settler could secure [illegible] to the pine, without first entering into a bargain with the lumberman to permit him to enter on his lot after the issue of his patent. If that were refused, the lumberman entered on the lot before issue of patent, took away what he could, and destroyed the rest. By the new act the five years' limit is abolished, and the lumberman will be allowed to go upon limits for which he pays license, located or not, so long as the license lasts. By this means the lumberman, having a quasi permanent interest in his timber, is induced to husband and preserve it, instead of only selecting the best and destroying the rest, and as a consequence the settler reaps the benefit of his operations during a much longer period than was the case under the five years' limit. We need not point out to any practical settlers the advantages which they reap by the operations of the lumbermen in their vicinity, in affording profitable employment for men and horses in the season when they would otherwise be idle, and in affording an immediate and lucrative market for everything they produce. Every settler has that knowledge in his own experience. But the new law does more than secure this advantage. It gives the settler a clear, distinct, indisputable and permanent interest in the pine upon his land, which the old law did not afford. The fourth clause of the Amended Act provides that:

"The patentee, his heirs or assigns, of land heretofore located or sold under the Free Grants and Homesteads and this Act SHALL BE ENTITLED TO BE vote over to the Commissioner of Crown Lands or any person or persons authorized by him in that behalf, all pine timber standing, growing or being on the said lands at the date of the issue of the patent, and upon which dues have been collected by the Crown, not less than TWENTY-FIVE CENTS IN EACH THOUSAND FEET, BOARD MEASURE, IN EACH YEAR, UNTIL THE AMOUNT OF SAID DUES SHALL HAVE BEEN PAID, and upon which dues have been collected by the Crown, not less than TWENTY-FIVE CENTS IN EACH THOUSAND FEET, BOARD MEASURE, IN EACH YEAR, UNTIL THE AMOUNT OF SAID DUES SHALL HAVE BEEN PAID, and the Lieutenant-Governor in Council is to make regulations for ascertaining and determining the persons from time to time to receive such payments and the sums to be paid.

It will be seen that the settler is not only given this revenue upon the lumber cut by the lumbermen, but he is secured in its payment "out of the Consolidated Revenue of the Province," not being left dependent upon the lumbermen. The difficulty of dealing with pine on settlers' locations is thereby satisfactory settled; the settlers' interests are defined and protected; the interests of both settlers and lumbermen are made identical; the lumbermen will have longer time to remove his timber and will have no inducement to waste, but quite the contrary; the settler will have a longer period in which to draw upon pine for finishing or building purposes, and the more thoroughly he sees the lumbermen during their work, the more satisfied he will be, knowing that every additional thousand feet of saw-logs or square timber got out is $6 more to his credit in the Provincial Treasury. Such is the effect of the act for which Mr. Blezard voted, and for which vote the Review, with rare simplicity, asks the settlers to condemn him. Every settler in the county will agree with us that it is one of the wisest acts that could have been devised in the interest and benefit of the settlers, and that had Mr. Blezard taken the Review's advice and voted against it, he would indeed have been unworthy of their confidence. The settlers are not the credulous fools the Review assumes; they know when and where their interests are affected by legislation concerning them, and, understanding the scope and working of this law, they will laugh at the political flap-doodle served out to them by the Review, to injure Mr. Blezard for having acted their friend. Referring to this subject the Bobcaygeon Independent, a paper not likely to support any thing hostile to the welfare of the settlers, has the following :—

"There appears to be some misapprehension of the character of the Act recently passed in the Ontario Assembly amending the Free Grants Act still existing among our friends in the Free Grant Districts. It is desirable that the Act should be correctly understood. It should be understood, in the first place, that the Act refers only to land located or sold" after the passing of this Act," therefore it does not in any way affect the settlers already located. This is to be regretted, for the Act, contrary to the prevailing belief, is favourable to the settler. The Act enacts that in the future all pine on Free Grant lots shall remain the property of the Crown, and the lumbermen within whose limits the lot is situate shall have the right of entering upon the unlicensed portion of the lot and cutting and removing such pine. The settler can, of course, cut what pine he requires for his own purposes, and the pine cut in making a [illegible] specially provides for the settler after he obtains his patent, giving him one-third of the dues obtained on the pine."

Fire Brigade Matters—Young Men's Reform—Cobourg Railway—Town Trust in a Quandary—Fire Boys at Work.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Cobourg April, 10.

The annual meeting of the town Fire Brigade was held on Tuesday evening last, when the following officers were elected;—Chief Engineer,—Wm. Pratt, re-elected; 1st Assistant,—Henry Barr; 2nd,—T. Hennessey, re-elected; Secretary,—Wm. Floyd. The Brigade lately lost one of its oldest and best members Mr. A. J. Hewson foreman of No. 2 having found it necessary to retire. The Company presented him on retiring with a beautiful gold fringed Badge and a still more handsome address.

On Wednesday evening the Cobourg Young Men's Reform Club had their semi-annual meeting, when the following officers were elected:—Honorary President.—Hon. C. F. Fraser, Commissioner of Public Work in Ontario. Honorary Vice-President,—John C. Field, Esq., M. P. P. President,—W. H. Whitelaw. 1st Vice President,—T. Pedley. 2nd,—H. Beskerville. Secretary,—R. Morrow. Ass't. Sec'y.—W. F. Kerr. Treasurer, —J. D. Boore. Chairman of Polling Subdivisions,—Messrs. L. B. Densmore, J. E. Kennedy, S. Irwin, D. Ramsay, A. Poe, and F. Field. This institution is a live one, and will do good service in the next elections. It comprises the best and most intelligent of the young men of the town. Could not your Peterborough young men do something in the same line?

The Cobourg and Peterborough Railway opened for the season's business on Friday of last week when Mr. Barber, Superintendent, went over the road and reported the track in fair condition.

The Town Trust is discussing the question of improvements to the council chamber. Several members however think it will do well enough as it is for the present at least and most of the taxpayers think the same. No discussion has yet been arrived at.

Two fires occurred on Saturday evening of which the World gives the following account:—"The first, at about 7 o'clock was occasioned by the burning of a boat-house, belonging to Mr. J. Gifford, on the lake shore, west of Mr. McKechnie's brewery. The fire must have been the work of an incendiary. Two hours later, a triple tenement cow-shere building on John Street, belonging to Mr. Henry Winn, was found to be on fire; and was so badly burned as to be useless before the Brigade succeeded in drowning out the fire. This, also, must have been the work of an incendiary, as the fire started in the rear of one of the unoccupied tenements. Mr. P. Finnigan, who lived in the south end of the building, was summarily ejected by the fire. We believe there was no insurance." Incendiarism seems to be lurking about this town to a most undesirable extent, and it is to be hoped sooner or later the fire-bugs may be captured and dealt with as they deserve.

A Boy Saves His Father.

BELLEVILLE, April 2.—Anthony Goldring, a farmer, living in the 9th concession of Sydenham, has laid information against Geo. Lidson, a neighbor, charging him with attempted murder. The complainant states that on Friday last, when at work in the woods on his farm, a bullet whistled close by his head, striking a stump. He proceeded to where Lidson was chopping and found Lidson lying behind a stump. The latter was armed with a shot-gun a revolver at Goldring and shook him with his dead hand, Goldring's little son, who was also in the woods, saw the whole affair. The accused was brought before Magistrate Lazier, and remanded for one week, bail being refused. Lidson is a man of bad character, and has been in trouble before. Goldring's son is a mere boy, and his testimony will be given in private. Lidson has not yet been arrested.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.—Wm. Hunter, Jr., 7th Concession, got his left foot caught in the horse power of a sawing machine, at Williams Fallis' (chopper,) about two weeks ago. Two toes badly smashed and the foot severely jammed. On Thursday last, old Mr. George Wragg, was sawing limbs from an apple tree. While his man was sawing in said tree, the man accidentally dropped his pruning hook, which struck and severely cut Mr. Wragg on the head. Not aware of the severity of the injury, instead of sending for a doctor, he sent for Mr. Jas. Brock, who, for about four hours vainly endeavoring to stop the bleeding. Finding his skill falling short, Dr. Hunter was sent for, who, owning to the unnecessary delay, found it much more difficult to dress the swollen wound. We are pleased to say, the old gentleman is doing as well as could be expected under all the circumstances. On Sunday last, a child of Wm. Jones, on the 2nd Con. of Cavan, while playing with a cutting box, got his finger badly smashed and a piece of the bone cut clear out.—Messenger.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is stated that Sir Alexander Campbell, Minister of Militia, will succeed Lt.-Governor Macdonald at the Government House, Toronto, and that Senator Gibbs will enter the Cabinet in his place.

The New York Tribune referring to the recent British elections,has the following, which is both a truism and an epigram:—"Toryism on either side of the water, "saves much for power, but nothing for "humanity or justice."

During Friday night's debate Mr. Mackenzie mentioned the circumstance that when Mr. Robert Hay, M. P., was asked how an old Reformer like him could support such a policy as the N. P., especially the duty on furniture, he blandly replied :—"Why, Lor' bless you, it's every man for himself in this world."

Nomination of candidates took place in Chatenguay on Saturday last, to fill vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Mr. Holton. The candidates were Mr. Edward Holton, son of the late member, (Liberal), and Dr. Laberge, (Tory). Voting will take place on Saturday.

When Mr. Bunsby's inherent abstemiousness passed bounds last week in the House of Commons, he received the severest castigation he could get, in the reading, by Mr. Ross, of his character as recorded in the journals of the Ontario Legislature. The only member who came forward to champion Mr. Rykert's cause was Mr. Alfred Boultbee! Shades of the N. P.! Boultbee!!

The Senate has passed resolutions providing that ten days after the opening of each session, every Senator will be required to prove his title to sit in the Senate and take the oath provided, to be administered on his first admission. This will disqualify several bankrupt Senators, including some supporters of Sir John; but it will open the way for more patronage—and then, when a Conservative becomes bankrupt in purse, "his usefulness is gone," so far as the Chieftain is concerned.

When the Review finds itself cornered in an argument, or convicted of taking liberties with the truth, it invariably abandons discussion and cries "False-hood! Falsehood!" We suppose, "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh;" but it may be that it has actually some belief in the daring fictions with which it strains the credulity of its readers, for Shakespeare tells us of one "Who having unto truth, by telling of it, Made such a sinner of his memory, To credit his own lie."

The inquiry into the Printing Contract scandal at Ottawa, by the Printing Committee of Parliament, has unveiled a disgraceful amount of corruption and jobbery, by which the country was defrauded out of many thousands of dollars. Contract-jobbers, Civil Servants, Ministerial hangers-on, and all that class of political bummers which grow fat on corruption in the ranks of Tory mis-rule, combined with the most unblushing hardihood to the manner in which the public were swindled. Parliament will be wanting in its duty if it does not cancel a contract procured by such disgraceful means, and compel these ill-birds to disgorge their plunder.

A return recently down to Parliament recently shows that there were 73,084,041 lbs of sugar imported in 1879, against 63,614,473 in 1878. Under the old tariff this enormous importation was distributed among the wholesale grocers of the country; now it is in the sole hands of two firms in Montreal. The wholesale grocers have been robbed of this trade, and as the result of concentrating it in the Redpath monopoly, we have an increase, on every buyer of sugar known, of 3 cents a pound. Thus the wholesalers suffer, the consumers are plundered, and the Redpaths pocket their million dollars a year—the while the Government of the Printemps debit and make merry at Ottawa.

"One night last week there was sent to the Ottawa House of Commons for distribution among the Conservative members a pile of about a cord, by actual measurement. These are the pamphlets which the Tory Government have ordered to be printed for their political and not their official use."—Globe Ottawa letter.

So says the correspondent at Ottawa of the Sarnia Observer. A week ago we alluded to the contemptible folly of the Government at Ottawa in ordering these pro-Tankee pamphlets for circulation, to the detriment of immigration to Canada. The

The Pall Mall Gazette says the resignation of Lord Lytton reached the India Office last week.

The Post says as the Liberal leaders have not had a constitution, rumors of appointments in the new Cabinet are founded only on mere probabilities.

The Late Christopher Knowlson.

Obituary.—Died at his residence, Colborne-St., Omemee, on Saturday afternoon, April 3, 1880, Mr. Christopher Knowlson, aged 76. Mr. Knowlson,whose sudden death startled the community on Saturday, was of English parentage, the second son of the late Mr. Christopher Knowlson, Sr., (and brother of Mr. John Knowlson of Lindsay) who settled in the 12 con. of Cavan about the year 1830. After experiencing the many vicissitudes of early settlement and acquiring considerable means, the deceased threw in his lot with the pioneers of Omemee, a young man. His untiring energy has been identified with the interests of the place for over half a century. His consistent and upright conduct in all private and public affairs secured for him the respect of all who knew him. He always took a warm interest in public matters. In politics he was a life-long Conservative ; in religion an Episcopalian. During the troublesome times of 1837-38 he sympathized with the loyal party, and served as ensign in the battalion of which he in time became major and subsequently by majority lieut.-colonel. He was a firm advocate of responsible government, and [illegible] part in the municipal [illegible] derived plans for the improvement of the settlers. He was also for many, years clerk of the old court of requests, his soundness of judgment being so generally recognized that his suggestions were invariably seconded by his fellow citizens of the "olden time." Some years ago he gave up active mercantile business. In the interval he was honored by a number of commissions—In the Queen's bench, in the causes in the coronership, marriage licenses, and other public trusts, in all of which his integrity ever stood in hand. He was for some time assessor of the township, and for many years director and president of the Emily and county agricultural societies, and at a time when Victoria promoted a much less inviting aspect for the farmer than it does to-day. The deceased always took a lively interest in education and the schools, and served their cause for many years as trustee. He was [illegible] advocate of manly sports and honor among our youth. Mr. Knowlson was of the few now remaining to tell the story of the struggles endured in the transition of the wilderness of Emily into farm comforts and attractiveness. He was one of the good old pioneers who crossed the Pigeon river when there was a dreary road and who by their pluck and perseverance have secured, through untold hardships, to the rising generation, benefits of which all do not realize or appreciate the labor or the cost. The remains of the deceased gentleman were interred Monday afternoon with military honors, the band playing the "Dead March." The funeral cortege was a very large one, and included many relatives, friends and acquaintances from Peterboro, Lindsay, and Millbrook. Mr. Knowlson was married in 1860 and is sorrowed for by his aged and respected partner and five of his large family, comfortably settled, who have the sympathy of the community among whom the subject of their sad bereavement lived so long and so respected as a husband, a parent, an official and a citizen.—Lindsay Post.

[Deceased was father-in-law of Mr. Errett of this town.]

Don't Know What to Do.

We sometimes hear persons say, "my horse is really out of condition, and I cannot tell either what is the matter with him, or how to get him into better order;" they want to know if some of the fine stock there is within their reach a remedy safe, sure, and effectual in all cases? Many persons who deal in horses use large quantities of Dickeys Canadian Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy and testify that its effects are most satisfactory.

Woolly Horses.—Woolly horses are not so rare as many suppose, not such great curiosities either, there are so many to be found in various parts of the country, but we doubt if they will ever prove as valuable to their owners as the one exhibited by Barnum: we imagine their owners would consider them more valuable with out the wool, for this rough and woolly state of the hair indicates that the horse is not in a healthy condition—probably his blood is impure, or something from disease which contains this unnatural appearance; in such cases use "Dickey's Canadian Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy," it purifies the blood, improves the appetite, removes all obstructions from the lungs and liver, and gives to the coat a sleek and shining appearance. Remember the name, and see that the signature Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., wholesale agents for Canada. Sold by all druggists dealers.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

[illegible] the branch of the administration of justice failed utterly in the latter portion of the week, and the Magistrate had to endure the "pains and penalties of bliss," till Monday, when the case of Licence Inspector Orr against Francis Quinn was brought up for adjudication. The Inspector called Mark Roper, who testified that he procured whisky "in a house on the corner of the first street below the Hall," on Tuesday, 30th ult., from a woman he believed to be defendant's wife. He did not see defendant there. P. C. McGhee testified that he knew the house in question to be known as "Quinn's," and that he had seen defendant, his wife and others there. The Magistrate dismissed the case, no other evidence being offered.

John Rogers, a "vag," who has been rusticating for a term in the County Jail, requested to be remanded to the Township of Mr. McWilliams, as he was unable to work. He was given an order for ten days additional accommodation at the County Boarding House.

On Tuesday Frederick Eckhart pleaded guilty to a charge of fighting on the street, Morrisey and Brannigan, hostlers in the same row, and against whom also information had been laid by Chief Johnston, not filing an appearance. Warrants for their arrests were issued. From the evidence it appeared that Eckhart had been drawn into the fracas by interfering to protect Brannigan from Morrisey. The P. M. found the defendant guilty of disorderly conduct, and declared sentence till evidence was heard against the other two defendants.

Spring Show.—The Union Exhibition of the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies' for stallions and bulls, will take place on Saturday next when, we learn, three very liberal prizes will be offered to the successful competitors. We learn that a large number of breeders contemplate entering, so that a most successful show may be anticipated. Said in prizes will be distributed.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

THE LIBERAL VICTORY COMPLETE.

Continued and Sweeping Success.

Liberals 329 ; Pigeon 229 ; Home Rulers 37.—Liberal majority of 64 over Tories and Home Rulers, and only 10 seats to be filled.

London, April 12.

Up to this time, the Liberals have elected 329 members in the next Parliament ; the Tories 229 ; and the Home Rulers 37. The net Liberal gains are 108. Only 19 seats now remain vacant.

A Calcutta despatch says the Viceroy has placed his resignation in the hands of the Secretary of State, but is prepared to retain office until the arrival of his successor.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the resignation of Lord Lytton reached the India Office last week.

The Post says as the Liberal leaders have not had a constitution, rumors of appointments in the new Cabinet are founded only on mere probabilities.

Latest returns from all over show the election of 377 Liberals, 163 Conservatives and 36 Home Rulers, giving a net Liberal gain of 66. The Liberal candidates have been elected for Wigtonshire and Buteshire.

London, April 13.—The net Liberal gain is now 109 seats,with but a few contests to return members. The Liberal leaders will hold a formal council on Thursday.

More Plate-Glass.—Mr. F. Hall, contractor, has had his show window measured for a single light of plate-glass.

Shipment of Live Stock.—Messrs. Webber and Winch left on Thursday for Montreal with twenty head of fat cattle for the English Market.

The Pulpit.—The Rev. Mr. Smith, of Dundas' occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church, Peterborough, on Sunday last, and will preach again on Sunday next in the same place.

Chimney on Fire.—The usual assembly fire at the old Mechanics' Institute occurred on Saturday evening, and caused the usual excitement. For a wonder the reels were not called out this time. As there is a By-law in force here compelling persons to clear their chimney's, why is it not enforced?

Collegiate Institute Cadets.—While Brigade-Major Worsley was in town inspecting the Cadets on Monday, by invitation of the Principal, he inspected the Drill Association of the Institute at the Drill Shed, where they were put through squad drill by Mr. Johnson, the instructor, and complimented by the Brigade-Major.

How to Shine.—The Toronto News Company have issued a neat little work, 72 pages, entitled "How to Shine in Society, or, The Laws and Usages of Polite Conversation." It is a valuable book, we imagine, for everybody, and if it furnish a reliable system in its department, it certainly must be considered a cheap one. 25 cents.

Midland Railway.—Traffic for week ending March 31st, 1880, and the corresponding week of 1879:—Passengers and mails, $8,089.33; freight, $4,614.52; total $7,693.15. 1879.—Passengers and mails, $4,163.15; freight, $3,182.32; total, $7,345.47. Increase, $348.18. Aggregate from 1st January, 1880, $69,793.65; corresponding quarter of 1879, $59,744.32.—Increase, $10,049.33.

Adjourned Vestry Meeting.—The adjourned vestry meeting of St. John's Church was held on Monday evening, when Dr. Geo. Burnham, jr., read the report of the Auditors, which was adopted. Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., submitted plans for enlarging and improving the present church building, and a vote of thanks was passed to him in order. It seemed to be the prevailing opinion, however, that it would be preferable to erect a new building on the present site, and a committee was appointed to consider and report upon the subject, after which the vestry adjourned.

St. John's Church.—The musical portion of the service on Sunday evening at St. John's Church was rendered especially attractive by the assistance of M. Rosenzyl and his fellow-artists, Mr. Beale presiding at the organ, Mrs. Thurston and Mr. DeClelle assisting in the vocal parts, and M. Rosenzyl with his violin. The organ seemed a new instrument in the hands of Mr. Beale, while the Anthem, "I Know that my Redeemer Liveth," was given in a most impressive manner by Mrs. Thurston. Mr. Beale at the close of the service gave the Hallelujah Chorus in a splendid manner, on the organ.

Smash-Up.—On Saturday morning the horse attached to George Rennet's express waggon, without any apparent just cause or provocation, while standing in front of the Post Office, took it into its head to run away. It started off on a 2.40 gait up Brock street, when P. C. McGhee caught the lines, which, however, broke, and the animal turned the corner at Water street, between the lamp post and the fence, striking the glass of the lamp, and wrecking the waggon. The horse was captured a short distance up Water street, and the owner is now of opinion that there is a true economy in tying a horse, when one has occasion to leave him on the street.

Almost a Serious Accident.—On Saturday afternoon shortly before six o'clock, a woman from the country while crossing George street in front of Sheridan's saddlery shop, was caught between the wheels of a buggy passing at the time. The front wheel passed over her, when a man who was near at the time caught the wheels, and the driver of the buggy stopping his horse at the same time, she was rescued from her perilous position, and walked away, apparently uninjured. A farmer, from Otonabee, drawn to the place by the unusual commotion, stepped his horse near the scene, when it commenced to kick the dashboard, and cause very nearly furnishing another item.

Peterborough Rifle Association.—This association held its annual meeting in the Drill Shed on Thursday evening last, the President, Col. Rogers, in the chair. The following officers were elected for the current year:—Colonel Harry Rogers, President; the Rev. V. Clementi, Vice-President; Col. James H. Rogers, Second Vice-President; Major Bell, Secretary-Treas. Council, Captain Edwards, Sergeant-Major Stothard and Mr. F. Hill. It is intended during the summer to have weekly practice, with a prize each month for the highest average score. With a view to practice for selection of members to take part in the competition for places on the Wimbledon Team of 1881, applications have been made to headquarters at Ottawa for Martini-Henry rifles for that object.

Another School Question.—Last Friday afternoon, by invitation of Colonel Stratton, a number of gentlemen interested met at the Collegiate Institute, Mr. Jas. Stratton in the chair, to consider a proposition to introduce religious instruction in connection with secular education. Among the gentlemen present were Rev. Messrs. Scott, Ball, Torrance and Masters, and Messrs. Hamlain, Stratton, Edwards, Kingan, Nichols, Fenwick, Carnegie, the Principal of the Institute and other teachers of the schools. The desirability of imparting religious instruction to the youth was generally admitted, but there seemed to be some doubt as to how far such a movement could be carried out under the school regulations, and as to what it would be judicious to attempt. A committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. Scott and Ball, and Messrs. Hamlain, Stratton and Carnegie was appointed to consider and report upon these matters, and an adjourned meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Institute.

Town Trust.—A meeting of the Commissioners of the Town Trust was held on Friday afternoon last. Present, the Chairman, Mr. Stevenson, and Messrs. Clarke, Towle and Chisholm. In answer to an application preferred by Mr. Cox, for Mr. Hopkins, for a lease of 99 additional feet of the Market Square in rear of the premises occupied by Messrs. Florelle, for building extension, it was decided to grant 35 feet, provided it were competent for the Commissioners to take such action. Messrs. Bowden and Lapiante appealed to the Commissioners respecting the rents of stalls in the Market Square, certain parties claiming on account of the large number of Bonnets required to contain butchers, they were entitled to the privilege for which they paid high rents. Resolved, A motion was carried authorizing Chisholm's rents for the year ending May 1st next, to $200 to those rent the quarters; $20 for the other stalls, and $30 for those in the gable. It was decided to leave the rents, of stalls for the ensuing year as at present, $25 the said meeting to see if the Mark Garden would not reduce the number of stalls, and thereby reduce the rents, and to obtain the opinion of retaining the present stalls inside Market House.

Consumption Cured

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N.Y.

Sunday Excursion.—Brigade-Major Col. Worsley arrived in town on Saturday, and our Monday inspected the armouries of the various militia corps.

Lake Ontario Steamboats.—The favorite steamer Norseman, Mr. Gallop of its popular Captain, Mr. Sherwood, commences its regular trips across the lake to-day. See advertisement next week.

The Lilliputians.—This company will appear in Peterborough on Tuesday evening next, instead of Saturday, as was formerly arranged, when they will present their famous and spectacular operetta of "Jack the Giant Killer."

Fire Brigade.—At a meeting of the Fire Brigade on Tuesday night, Mr. W. J. Berry was elected Secretary and Mr. David Jameson, Treasurer. It was decided to celebrate the 24th May by a parade at 10 o'clock, and a ball in the evening.

Street Improvement.—The old decayed and unsightly leaners which, day or day on gone on Gauge-street have been replaced by the improved glass globes, which will effect a better light and add to the appearance of the street.

Weights and Measures and Gas Inspection.—An office for the Deputy Inspector of Weights and Measures, and Gas Inspection, is being fitted up in connection with the Inland Revenue offices on Simcoe street, next to Fairweather & Co's store.

The Special Audit.—The Committee of the whole Council appointed last meeting to consider and report upon the Special Audit, and matters connected therewith, met on Monday night. Their report will be presented at the next meeting of the Council, on Monday evening.

The Agricultural Review.—The present number of this publication, proposed to be monthly, appeared this week. Five thousand copies of which are printed for gratuitous circulation. It is published for the publisher, Mr. A. S. Hill, at the Examiner Steam Printing House.

County Court.—County Judge Dumoresq, on Saturday last, in Chambers made the following orders:—Star et personalities, in the cases of Watson v. Menzies, and Dean v. Chamberlain; order of discharge in the case of the Insolvents Stone & Bailey—T. Menzies, Assignee.

The Attention of our readers, more especially of those in the Northern Townships, is directed to the letter of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, which will be found in another column. It affords a complete refutation of the gross and mischievous misrepresentations recklessly circulated by the Tory press and orators, in reference to the Amended Free Grants Act.

Thoroughbred Stock.—Mr. Henry Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan, purchased at the sale of thoroughbred stock at Col. Boulton's farm near Cobourg, a few weeks ago, the thoroughbred two year old bull "Cyprus," a fine animal, red and white, got by "Sherbrooke Duke," (Sl. B. 1022,) of Airdrie, out of Fiery Sal, (Sl. B. Vol. 8, P. 664.) This animal has a fine pedigree in the Canadian Herd Book, and will be an acquisition to the thoroughbred stock of the county.

Important to Horsemen.—As there is nothing which adds more to the appearance of a dwelling than having the rooms nicely papered the attention of all thrifty horsemen is directed to the fine stock of room-paper now being offered at Davidson's Bookstore. To wind up the estate and realize cash for the stock everything has been marked down below wholesale prices, and bargains are now being offered such as have never been heard of before in Peterboro'. 16-11

Wm. Hall Protestant Poor Trust.—The statement of the receipts and payments of this Trust for the year ending January 31st, 1880, as audited by Messrs. Pearce and Roger, will be found in a correct form in another column, some errors having occurred in the statement as published in the Review. This statement shows securities in the hands of the Secty-Treasurer representing $69,941.12, and a balance of cash to credit of capital account of $96.78. $6,000.85 were expended in relief and expenses.

Fire in Dutton.—We regret to learn that the dwelling and contents belonging to Richard Dunting, jr., lot 28, con. 4, Dover, were destroyed by fire on Tuesday afternoon. Loss about $200; insured in the Grange Insurance Co. for $600. The fire seems to have caught in the bedding, up-stairs, from a defective stove pipe. Mr. Dunting was down at Jury's sale, and the others were out in the barn. So that by the time it was discovered and assistance obtained, it was too late to save anything but a few articles down stairs.

Removal.—Peterboro' Collegiate Institute has added several laurels to its wreath. Mr. J. M. Ledgate, a former pupil, has carried off the MacMurrich medal, Toronto University, for the best essay on a scientific subject. His subject, Hewain Forms, was treated in a masterly manner. He deserves especial credit as this is to have several able competitors. Mr. W. H. Hunt also won a Scholarship of $60, at Knox College, in first year "Divinity," and Mr. B. Hatton has passed his final examination with first-class honors, in medicine.

Encouragement of Scotland Asrn.—The following extract from a letter of Mr. Mills, President of the Ontario Agricultural College, to Prof. Thorburn, Principal of Ottawa College Institute, may be interesting to pupils of the Institute here:

"At the meeting of the Council of Agriculture and Art Association, I introduced the question of giving special prizes at the Provincial Exhibition for Drawing in High Schools and Collegiate Institutes. I did not get all I wanted, but as follows: Pupils' drawing, 1st prize, $4; 2nd, $3; crayon, plain, 1st prize, $4; 2nd, $3; crayon, colored, 1st prize, $5; 2nd, $3; oil painting and subject, 1st prize, $6; 2nd, $3."

Some Week.—We mentioned last week the departure on Monday evening last of a number of citizens of the town and county for the West The following composed the party:—Mr. Edward Calcutt, wife and family, of Ashburnham, 5 persons; Mr. Thomas Mabeny, wife and family, of Asphodel, 7 persons; Mr. Stewart and family, of Harvey, 5 persons; Mr. Johnson of Harvey, 5 persons; Mrs. Howarth, of Peterborough, 2 persons; Mr. Lee and family, 5; Mr. Johnson and the Misses Ormond, of Peterborough, 3 persons, bound for St. Boniface; Mr. A. Reid, of Scully; Mr. John Firth, of Peterborough.

Clean the Chimneys.—A chimney on fire is not always a very dangerous thing, though it often leads to more serious consequences, but it is a disputed question to the Fire Brigade. Half the fires attributed to "supposed defect of flues," however, are the direct results of chimneys having caught fire and allowed to burn out, and the By-law for the regulation of chimneys is therefore not only for the public security but for the benefit of individuals. The following from the Toronto By-law relating to this subject, and it should be rigidly enforced:

"That the occupant of every house within the said town shall cause every chimney and flue in his or her house, in which a fire is ordinarily made or kept, to be properly swept at least twice between between the 1st October and April in every year, and in case of chimneys in daily use in manufacturing, once in every eight weeks in engines the year."

New Business.—It was often wondered why so advantageous a business stand as that so long vacant in the Ryan block next to the Cairns House, should have remained unoccupied even a month, as it is one of the best appointed and most convenient locations in the town. The store, however, after undergoing alterations and improvements, and a general refurnishing, is now occupied, and its shelves filled with an extensive and well assorted stock of general dry goods and gents' furnishings as is to be found in town. Mr. James Dolan, well known as a pushing and energetic business man, puts his sign up over the door, and invites an inspection of his stock. The latter is all fresh purchased, comprising as old or passionable goods, and is offered at prices that will induce those who want to study economy to become his customers. Mr. Dolan has bought his goods direct from the leading English and Canadian houses, and has no wholesaler's charges to put on his goods. All he asks is that intending purchasers shall examine his goods and look at the prices. 16-11

Reward Removed.

On Saturday night last there was a large and fashionable audience assembled at Smallwood's Hall, to enjoy the musical treat afforded by the visit of the celebrated violinist, Edouard Remenyi, to Peterborough. Mr. Remenyi was ably assisted by the well-known Toronto artists, Mr. Beale, Mrs. Thurston, and DeClelle, Pianist. The programme was opened by Mr. Beale, who gave an admirable and vivid rendition of the andante and allegretto from Beethoven's "Sonata Pastorale." Mrs. Thurston sang the charming aria "Non ti fiegare," Verdi, in splendid style, her rich and powerful voice showing what profession culture can impart. Remenyi's appearance was the signal for applause, which interrupted during, and [illegible] was acknowledged at the conclusion of his version of Ernst's "Fantasia on Otello," which was given with much delicacy and expressiveness. Mrs. Thurston followed. With [illegible] by the violinist, she rendered in a very superb manner. M. Remenyi then gave the "Melodies Hongroise et Lyriques Hongroises,"—arranged and elaborated by himself, the result of several years of industrious industry—in a manner that called attention, and completely carried the audience with the musician. His Hymn of Liberty is a sublime conception, and is rendered it in a most admirable manner. The familiar "Carneval de Venise" followed, when he gave a translation of "Auld Robin Gray" and "The Campbells are Coming," in which he displayed his mastery of the harmonies of the instrument, which accompanied by an originality of expression, and an occasional outburst of fire and fingering, [illegible] from beginning to end [illegible] performance. Mr. DeClelle sang Mistl's "Where is Heaven," in very good style, after which Remenyi came forward, giving Paganini's "Capriccio" in a manner simply wonderful. His power of endurance, which by the way must be [illegible] were taxed to the utmost by the enthusiastic demands of the audience, and he was finally repeatedly persuaded to retire with "God save the Queen," in answer to an encore. A floral by Mrs. Thurston and Mr. DeClelle concluded the entertainment. It is seldom that the lovers of high art in music have the opportunity of listening to so thoroughly perfect a performances as was vouchsafed to them by M. Remenyi, and the treat was thoroughly appreciated by the large audience present. Messrs. J. Jardine, H. Ulrichsen and others who were the means of inducing the celebrated violinist to visit Peterborough, have a hearty vote of thanks for their trouble.

SUMMER SPORTS.

Cricket.

Peterborough Cricket Club.—The adjourned meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club took place at the Huffman House on Tuesday evening last. The attendance was very large, Hon. R. Hamilton, Vice-President, in the chair. After reading the minutes of last meeting, and transacting some routine business, the following officers for the present year were elected:—Hon. R. Hamilton, President; Rev. V. Clementi, 1st Vice-President; Dr. G. Burnham, 2nd Vice-President; T. Rutherford, Captain of Club; R. B. Rogers, Secretary; T. Hay, Treasurer. Committee.—Messrs. Hammond, Stetson, Hallet, Hamlain and W. P. Shaw.

Aquatics.

Peterborough Rowing Club.—In the annual report read at the annual meeting of the club, Mr. R. B. Edwards, after reviewing the work of last season, says:—[illegible] he got together other [illegible] rowed, only [illegible] expended.

[illegible] put on something better and [illegible] who did duties o[illegible] WALLS, and the coming season [illegible] club boats, [illegible] practice shell, and two double-oars with [illegible] ments of the members, [illegible] they are also getting the [illegible] only four first-class [illegible] position, but there is also to [illegible] and vigorous element of young [illegible], some of whom, at least, we may [illegible] great things. Let us all work to [illegible] will this year to make the Peterborough Club the foremost amateur club [illegible] Dominion." This is the right [illegible] which to set about the summer's work, [illegible] have no doubt there is sufficient stamina and determination in the Club [illegible] achieve at least something of the ambitious programme here set out.

Lacrosse.

Peterborough Lacrosse Club.—This Club held its annual meeting at the Huffman House, on Monday evening last. There was a large attendance of members, the chair being occupied by Mr. Munro, President. The Chairman gave a resume of the proceedings of last year. The report of the Secretary-Treasurer showed a balance on hand over and above all expenses. The Club then proceeded to ballot for officers for the ensuing year, when Mr. Harry LeBrun was elected President by an unanimous vote; Mr. J. E. Stratton was re-elected Vice-President; Mr. R. H. Fortye was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer, and Harry Phalen elected Field-Captain. Ballot for Committee resulted in choice of Messrs. Munro, Hackett and Sanderson. A number of new members were proposed and balloted for, and a committee appointed consisting of Messrs. J. Cuttery, J. Hackett and Sanderson, to make the necessary arrangements with the Cricket Club for use of their grounds for the season. Mayor Lundy, Rev. V. Clementi, Geo. Hilliard, M. P., W. H. Scott, M.P., and Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble, F. J. Lovis, and Dr. Kincaid were elected Honorary Members. The Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to correspond with the Secretary of the Dominion Association respecting the affiliation of the Peterborough Club with that organization, and the meeting adjourned. The Club intend to begin practice at the earliest time practicable, and from the members present and the spirit evinced we have no doubt the Peterborough Club will give a good account of themselves during the coming season. The first match game will probably be the return match with the Belleville Club, to be played here.

Religious Instruction in the Schools.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A meeting of persons interested in the cause of education was held at the Institute on Friday last, the fifth instant, at which about 30 individuals were present. The object of the meeting may be learned from the copy of a circular sent to me. It reads as follows:—

"Dear Sir,—Will you meet with a few others to take into consideration whether anything can be done to further the young under-study or other school boys."

The names were signed by F. W. Hamlain, Esq. Inspector, and the chair being occupied by Col. Hamlain explained why he had called the meeting. It was, he said, to consider together to ascertain whether some steps could or should be taken in reference to the imparting of religious instruction to our children, which, he thought, could be done only by one deeply the very importance of the subject, and felt impressed with the conviction that some action should at once be taken to accomplish this, and he hoped those present would express their views on this momentous question.

The following were called on to address the meeting:—Rev. Messrs. Scott, Ball, Torrance and Masters, and Messrs. Hamlain, Stratton, Edwards, Kingan, Nichols, Fenwick, Carnegie, the Principal of the Institute and other teachers of the schools. The desirability of imparting religious instruction to the youth was generally admitted, but there seemed to be some doubt as to how far such a movement could be carried out under the school regulations, and as to what it would be judicious to attempt. A committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. Scott and Ball, and Messrs. Hamlain, Stratton and Carnegie was appointed to consider and report upon these matters, and an adjourned meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Institute.

Rare Fine-Glass.—Mr. F. Hall, contractor, has had his show window measured for a single light of plate-glass.

Shipment of Live Stock.—Messrs. Webber and Winch left on Thursday for Montreal with twenty head of fat cattle for the English Market.

The Pulpit.—The Rev. Mr. Smith, of Dundas, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church, Peterborough, on Sunday last, and will preach again on Sunday next in the same place.

Chimney on Fire.—The usual monthly fire at the old Mechanics' Institute occurred on Saturday evening, and caused the usual excitement. For a wonder the roads were not called out this time. As there is a By-law in force here compelling people to clear their chimneys, why is it not enforced?

Collegiate Institute Cadets.—While Brigade-Major Wood's way in town inspecting armouries on Monday, by invitation of the Principal, he inspected the Drill Association of the Institute at the Drill Shed, where they were put through signal drill by Mr. Johnson, the instructor, and complimented by the Brigade-Major.

How to Shine.—The Toronto News Company have issued a neat little work, 72 pages, entitled "How to Shine in Society, or, The Laws and Usages of Polite Conversation." It is a valuable book, we imagine, for everybody, and if it furnish a reliable system in its department, it certainly must be considered a cheap one. 25 cents.

Midland Railway.—Traffic for week ending March 31st, 1880, and the corresponding week of 1879 :—Passengers and mails, $8,488.25 ; freight, $4,855.76 ; total $7,288.15. 1879.—Passengers and mails, $8,135.39 ; freight, $3,892.80 ; total, $12047.46. Increase, $6,136.74. Aggregate from 1st January, 1880, $62,765.64 ; corresponding quarter of 1879, $59,744.56.—Increase, $16,021.08.

Adjourned Vestry Meeting.—The adjourned vestry meeting of St. John's Church was held on Monday evening, when Dr. Geo. Burnham, jr., read the report of the Auditors, which was adopted. Mr. J. H. Read, Q.C., submitted plans for enlarging and improving the present church building, and a vote of thanks was passed to him therefor. It seemed to be the prevailing opinion, however, that it would be preferable to erect a new building on the present site, and a committee was appointed to consider and report upon the subject, after which the vestry adjourned.

St. John's Church.—The musical portion of the service on Sunday evening at St. John's Church was rendered especially attractive by the assistance of M. Rennenyi and his fellow-artists, Mr. Beale presiding at the organ, Mrs. Thurston and Mr. DeCelle assisting in the vocal parts, and M. Rennenyi with his violin. The organ seemed a new instrument in the hands of Mr. Beale, while the Anthem, "I Know that my Redeemer Liveth," was given in a most impressive manner by Mrs. Thurston. Mr. Beale at the close of the service gave the Hallelujah Chorus in a splendid manner, on the organ.

Smash-Up.—On Saturday morning the horse attached to George Record's express waggon, without any apparent just cause or provocation, while standing in front of the Post Office, took it into its head to run away. It started off on a 2.40 gait up Brock street, when P. O. McGuire caught the lines, which, however, broke, and the animal turned the corner at Water street, between the lamp post and the fence, smashing the glass of the lamp, and wrecking the waggon. The horse was captured a short distance up Water street, and the owner is now of opinion that there is a true economy in tying a horse, when one has occasion to leave him on the street.

Almost a Serious Accident.—On Saturday afternoon shortly before six o'clock, a woman from the country while crossing George street, in front of Shortley's saddlery shop, was caught between the wheels of a buggy passing at the time. The front wheel passed over her, when a man who was near at the time caught the horse, and the driver of the buggy stopping at his horse at the same time, she was rescued from her perilous position, and walked away, apparently uninjured. A farmer, from Otonabee, drawn to the place by the unusual commotion, stepped his horse near the scene, when it commenced to kick the dashboard, and came very nearly furnishing another item.

Peterborough Rifle Association.—This association held its annual meeting in the Drill Shed on Thursday evening last, the President, Col. Rogers, in the chair. The following officers were elected for the current year :—Colonel Harry Rogers, President; the Rev. V. Clementi, Vice-President; Col. James S. Rogers, Second Vice-President; Major Bell, Secretary-Treasurer. Council, Captain Edwards, Sergeant-Major Stothard and Mr. F. Hill. It is intended during the summer to have weekly practice, with a prize each month for the highest average score. With a view to practice for selection of members to take part in the competition for places on the Wimbledon Team of 1881, application has been made to headquarters of Ottawa for Martini-Henry rifles for that object.

Another School Question.—Last Friday afternoon, by invitation of Colonel Haultain, a number of gentlemen interested met at the Collegiate Institute, Mr. Jas. Stratton in the chair, to consider a proposition to introduce religious instruction into the common schools under the Act. A number of gentlemen present were Rev. Messrs. Scott, Ball, Torrance and Malhern, and Messrs. Haultain, Stratton, Edwards, Kingan, Nichols, Fenwick, Carnegie, the Principal of the Institute and other teachers of the schools. The desirability of imparting religious instruction to the youth was generally admitted, but there seemed to be some doubt as to how far such a movement could be carried out under the school regulations, and as to what it would be judicious to attempt. A committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. Scott and Ball, and Messrs. Haultain, Stratton and Carnegie were appointed to examine and report upon these points, at an adjourned meeting to be held to-morrow afternoon at the Institute.

Town Trust.—A meeting of the Commissioners of the Town Trust was held on Friday afternoon last. Present, the Chairman, Mr. Stevenson, and Messrs. Clarke, Towle and Chamberlain. In answer to an application presented by Mr. Cox, for Mr. Hopkins for a lease of 30 additional feet of the Market Square in rear of the premises occupied by Messrs. Fleming, for building purposes, it was decided to grant 20 feet, provided it were consented that the Commissioners to take same entire. Messrs. Hawkes and Leighton appealed to the Commissioners concerning the rents of stalls in the Market House, complaining that on account of the large number of Hucksters granted to outside traders, they were deprived of the privilege which they paid high rents in the Market House to enjoy. A motion was carried reducing the rent of stalls for the current year from $20 to $15, to date from the 1st inst., in order to place the two classes of traders on the same footing. Other matters connected with the Trust were discussed, and it was decided to meet on the 4th May next, when the annual report will be presented. Thorough Bred Stock.—Mr. Henry Collins, Dover of North Monaghan, purchased at the sale of thoroughbred stock at Col. Dean's farm near Cobourg, a few weeks ago, the thoroughbred two year old bull "Cyprus," a fine animal, red and white, got by "Sherbrooke Duke," (M. B. 1833,) of Airdrie, out of Percy 2nd, (M. B. Fire in Dutton.—We regret to learn that the dwelling and contents belonging to Richard Darling, jr., lot 31, con. 4, Dover, were destroyed by fire on Tuesday afternoon. Loss about $800 ; insured in the Grange Insurance Co. for $600. The fire occurred in a detached up-stairs, up-stairs from a detective stove pipe. Mr. Darling was down at Jury's sale, and the others were out in the barn, so that by the time it was discovered no assistance obtained. It was too late to save anything but a few articles down stairs.

Lodgate, a former pupil, has carried off the McMurrich medal, Tr. onto University, for the best essay on a scientific subject. His subject, Hawaii Furze, was treated in a masterly manner. He deserves especial credit, as there were several able competitors. Mr. W. H. Hunt also won a Scholarship of $60, at Knox College, on first year "Divinity," and Mr. H. Hatton has passed his final examination with first-class honors, in medicine.

Encouragement of Retired Arts.—The following extract from a letter of Mr. Mills, President of the Ontario Agricultural College, to Prof. Thorburn, Principal of Ottawa College, to the youth was recently addressed, but there seemed to be some doubt as to how far such a movement could be carried out under the school regulations, and as to what it would be judicious to attempt. A committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. Scott and Ball, and Messrs. Haultain, Stratton and Carnegie were appointed to examine and report upon these points, at an adjourned meeting to be held to-morrow afternoon at the Institute.

"At the meeting of the Council of Agriculture and Arts Association, I introduced the question of giving special prizes at the Provincial Exhibition for Drawing in High Schools and Collegiate Institutes. Reward Removed!

On Saturday night last there was a large and fashionable audience assembled at Hoffman's Hall, to hear the musical treat offered by the visit of the celebrated violinist, Edmund Rennenyi, to Peterborough. Mr. Rennenyi was ably assisted by the well-known artistes, Mrs. Thurston, and Messrs. Beale, Turner, and DeCelle, Pianist. The programme was opened by Mr. Beale, who gave an extensive and critically rendition of the academic and allegretto, from Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetique." Mrs. Thurston sang the character aria "Non ti fingere," Verdi, in splendid style, her rich and powerful voice showing what perfection an amateur can impart. Rennenyi's performance was the signal for applause, which interrupted during, and was renewed with enthusiasm at the conclusion of, his version of Ernst's "Fantasia on Othello," which was given with much brilliancy and expression. Mrs. Thurston followed with a ballad by Schubert, which was rendered in a very superb manner. M. Rennenyi then gave the "Melodies Hongroise et Lyrique Hongroises,"—arranged and elaborated by himself, the result of several years of laborious industry—in a manner that defied criticism, and completely carried the audience away with enthusiasm. His Hymn of Liberty is a sublime conception, and he rendered it in a most intelligible manner. The familiar "Carnival de Venice" followed, when he gave a translation of "Auld Robin Gray" and "The Campbells are Coming," in which he displayed his mastery of the fundamens of the instrument to perfection. In fact in every number he gave evidence of his thorough mastery of the instrument, which accompanied by an originality of expression, and an occasional outburst of fire and impetuosity, entranced his audience from beginning to end of the performance. Mr. DeCelle sang Mendl's "Where is Heaven," in very good style after which Rennenyi again came forward, giving Paganini's "Capriccio" in a manner simply wonderful. His power of endurance, which by the way must be singular, were tested to the utmost by the enthusiastic demands of the audience, and he was finally repeatedly persuaded to retire with "God save the Queen," in answer to an encore. A duet by Mrs. Thurston and Mr. DeCelle concluded the entertainment. It is seldom that the lovers of high art in music have the opportunity of listening to so thoroughly perfect a performance as was substituted to them by M. Rennenyi, and the treat was thoroughly appreciated by the large audience present. Messrs. J. Jardine, H. Clarke and others who were the means of inducing the celebrated violinist to visit Peterborough, have a hearty vote of thanks for their trouble.

SUMMER SPORTS.

Cricket.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKET CLUB.—The adjourned meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club took place at the Hoffman Hall on Tuesday evening last. The attendance was very large, Hon. R. Hamilton, Vice-President, in the chair. After reading the minutes of last meeting and transaction of general business, the following officers for the present year were elected :—Hon. R. Hamilton, President ; Rev. V. Clementi, 1st Vice-President ; Dr. G. Burnham, 2nd Vice-President ; T. Rutherford, Captain of Club ; R. B. Rogers, Secretary ; T. Hay, Treasurer. Committee,—Messrs. Hamilton, Hazlett, Hoskin and W. F. Shaw.

Aquatics.

PETERBOROUGH ROWING CLUB.—In the annual report read at the annual meeting of the club, Mr. H. B. Edwards, after recounting the work of last season, says :—"That a crew could be got together after the season was well advanced, only one of whom had ever had any experience in shell-rowing, and in spite of all the difficulties they encountered, close the season with a record of one third, two second places, and one first place, is something which does credit upon the members of that crew, in particular upon the gallant stroke, who fought the battle single handed against odds that position the more trying and wearing duties of "coach." The outlook for the coming season is promising. Our stock of club boats, consisting of the racing shell, pleasure shell, and two lap-streak four-oars, and two double-sculls will fairly meet the requirements of the season, especially as most of these are also getting single-scull shells. Not only does our first four-oar crew occupy a high position, but there is also to seek them a stronger and vigorous element of younger oarsmen, from some of whom, at least, we may fairly look for great things. Let us all work together with a will this year to place the Peterborough Boating Club in the foremost amateur club of the whole Dominion." This is the right spirit in which to set about the summer's work, and we have no doubt there is sufficient energy, stamina and determination in the Club to achieve at least something of the ambitious programme here set out.

Lacrosse.

PETERBOROUGH LACROSSE CLUB.—This Club held its annual meeting at the Huffman House, on Monday evening last. There was a large attendance of members, the chair being occupied by Mr. Munro, President. The Chairman gave a resume of the proceedings of last year. The report of the Secretary-Treasurer showed a balance on hand over and above all expenses. The Club then proceeded to ballot for officers for the ensuing year, when Mr. Harry LeBrun was elected President by an unanimous vote ; Mr. J. E. Stratton was re-elected Vice-President ; Mr. R. H. Fortye was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer, and Harry Preston elected 1st Captain. Ballot for Committee resulted in choice of Messrs. Munro, Hackett and Sanderson. A number of new members were proposed and balloted for, and a committee appointed consisting of Messrs. J. Corkery, J. Hackett and Sanderson, to make the necessary arrangements with the Cricket Club for use of their grounds for the season. Mayor Landy, Rev. V. Clementi, Geo. Hilliard, M.P., W. H. Scott, M.P.P., and Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble, F. J. Lewis, and Dr. Kincaid were elected Honorary Members. The Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to correspond with the Secretary of the Dominion Association respecting the admission of the Peterborough Club with that organization, and the meeting adjourned. The Club intend to begin practice at the earliest time practicable, and from the numbers present and the spirit evinced we have no doubt the Peterborough Club will give a good account of themselves during the coming season. The first match game will probably be the return match with the Belleville Club, to be played here.

Religious Instruction in the Schools.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—A meeting of persons interested in the cause of education was held at the Institute on Friday last, the 9th instant, at which about 30 individuals were present. The object of the meeting may be learned from the copy of a circular sent to me. It reads as follows :—

"DEAR SIR,—Will you meet with a few others to take into consideration whether anything can be done to further the young, either during or after school hours."

The meeting was opened by F. W. Hamilton, Esq., and he was called to the chair. After prayer Col. Haultain explained why he had called the meeting. It was, he said, to consider together to ascertain whether some steps could or should be taken in reference to the imparting of religious instruction to the youth of the Collegiate Institute. He said he felt deeply the vast importance of the subject, and felt impressed with the conviction that some action should at once be taken to accomplish this, and he hoped those present would express their views on this momentous question.

Rev. Mr. Ball did not exactly agree with the last speakers as to the imparting of religious instruction through the medium of the public schools. He assured it the duty of parents and guardians to see to the religious training of the children, and assuming that they did their duty in this respect, he did not think it was the duty of the State to find both day and Sunday School duty, leaving him, as it did, little time for anything else. He considered the time in the School Act, giving clergymen and others the privilege of imparting religious instruction to children, for an hour after school each day, as a great boon. It would be easy to arrange your own time during the hour given you, and if you could not get all the children you wanted, you could go to their homes, and if even then you could not get them, you could invite them to your own house. He was not in favor of the religious views contained in the Act being forced upon the people, and if even the majority of the people were desirous of having religious instruction imparted to their children, he would not be in favor of it. FOR LIBERTY AND LIFE;
OR,
THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE.

BY R. W. WILLIAMS, IN NEW DELHI.

IV.—(Continued.)

'Oh,' he reflected; 'what a fate I have brought upon her. I alone am the cause. Mike Bawn might never have attacked the station had I not been here. I ought to have given myself up at once. It would, then only have been my death; now it will be theirs. My sweet Kate—my darling, to think your blood will be upon my head. Can it really be too late to avert that horror? Perhaps not; at least, I'll try.'

His lips quivered, drops of agony stood on his forehead. Just then Colonel Formby addressed him

'How silent the rascals are suddenly. They're up to some mischief, I'd swear. Perhaps they want to lure us into making a sortie. Here comes Cross; he may bring news.'

Received, now, as to the course he would pursue, Henry Ernson waited but to hear if there was any fresh intelligence.

Begrimed and blackened, the faithful old soldier who had been defending the back at the house single handed had entered the room, and now approached the two standing by the window, through which the remote dawn of Christmas morning was already beginning to gleam.

The broomd face, made doubly martial-looking by a scar on the cheek, tried to assume an expression of grim indifference, but the pale, anxious woman saw in it that some new danger threatened them, and instinctively stopped in their work.

'Well, Cross,' inquired the Colonel, in a low tone, 'what are the villains up to?'

The old soldier threw an uneasy glance furtively at the ladies; then, with a deep curse in his throat, responded, 'They're setting fire to the house Colonel. They're now piling up the wood. The station soon will be in a blaze, and we shall be choked like rats in a barn.'

'Mercy on us!' ejaculated Colonel Formby; and his strong frame, which doubtlessly had faced many a cannon's mouth, shook with fear as he thought of his child and sister.

'Don't let us perish like that, Colonel,' said Cross gruffly, 'Let us, as soldiers, die fighting. Let's fight our way through!'

'Fight our way through, Cross?' said his master. 'Directly we appeared we should be marks for a dozen bullets. And my daughter—my sister. You forget we are not men alone. There are women—weak, defenceless. Heaven help them!'

To conceal his emotion, he turned quickly to the window.

The bushrangers were heard pausing to and fro at their diabolical work. The air rang with their brutal jests as they prepared, to use their own words, a bonfire for the Colonel and his guest to welcome in Christmas.

Christmas!

Yes. The sun, rising majestically above the ranges, proclaimed it was day—the Day, attended by no winds, blank and chill, drifting snow-flakes, but calm, golden, beautiful, pouring over the bush of a roseate violet hue, that aroused all creatures to waking life.

The Colonel could not help wondering, with a great agony, how many of that little garrison would see the Christmas sun set. Would any?

He was aroused by a touch on his arm. It was Henry Ernson. The Colonel started as he beheld his face. It was firm, with a strange expression in the large brown eyes, as of one about to meet death. The Captain had seized this moment to speak, for he knew he should now prevail:

'Colonel,' he said, 'as men, we have done our duty. To fight longer would be murder. The ladies must be saved.'

'What do you mean, my boy?' asked the officer; but his voice shook, his eyes were averted—for he divined the other's meaning well enough.

'That Mike Bawn has conquered. It is now—that is, I pray it is—one life or all. It must, Colonel, be only one. I shall surrender myself to Mike Bawn. It is only me they want. I was a coward not to have done it at the first,'

'No, no!' broke in the Colonel; but the expostulation was faint.

'Yes, persisted the young man, steadily. 'If I stay, all must perish. Do not try to persuade me—do not let Kate suspect. Colonel, the lives of your daughter and sister depend on it. Farewell! I can die content if they are saved!'

The Colonel warmly gripped the speaker's hand. Had he been alone he would not have permitted this. They would have died together. But the women—it was the only chance of saving them. Yet he said, hesitatingly, 'Can nothing be done, my poor boy?'

'Nothing, dear Colonel. Thanks for what you have done already.'

'At least, take my gun. There is my sword. Cut your way through, lad. Make an effort for life.'

'And baulk Mike Bawn of his revenge.' said Henry Ernson, with a w smile; 'which would so infuriate him, that he would wreak his malice on those I wish to save. Farewell; I must be quick, or it will be too late.'

Turning, he crossed to Margaret and Kate.

'How—,' exclaimed the latter, eagerly, 'I am sure something terrible has happened. What is it? How strange you look.'

'On the contrary,' he answered, lightly, 'we have hope that you will soon be out of danger. I am going to try a plan that I pray may not fail. Remember, dearest, whatever occur, I have known supreme happiness, for I have possessed your love; and to-day, by your father's consent, may call you my betrothed. Poor Kate, what a betrothal!'

He drew her quickly to him, holding her passionately to his heart, raising warm kisses on her cold cheek; then he turned, and hurried from the room.

A moment the girl stood mute—stunned Then, 'Papa,' she cried, springing to his side, and grasping his arm, 'what does Henry mean? Tell me! He embraced me for the last time. Papa, papa! where has he gone?'

Before the Colonel, overcome by agitation, could answer, a piercing shriek broke from Kate's lips. Through the window, in the full light of morning, she beheld Henry Ernson standing in the garden beneath, his arms folded, awaiting his death.

No sooner was his presence known than the bushrangers ran up, surrounding him, with wild shouts of triumph and exultation. In a second his arms were pulled behind him, and roughly pinioned.

'What! I've got you at last, have I, my fine Captain?' ejaculated Mike Bawn, standing in front, his small eyes gleaming with cruel joy. 'Don't fancy I'm likely to let you go again. Take my word, you shall rub no more of my men. Before night you shall be fixed for the dingoes. Bind him tight, lads. Jeff, never lose sight of him!'

Unflinchingly, Henry Ernson met the bushranger's taunting yet threatening glance.

'Mike Bawn,' he remarked, 'you said my capture was the sole cause which brought you to Formby Station. I have delivered myself into your hands. Do what you please with me.'

'By the Lord Harry, rely on me for that!' interpolated the bushranger, with a coarse laugh.

'Ben,' continued the Captain, 'let the Colonel and his men go in safety.'

'Don't you think, my fine spark, it would have been wiser to have made terms before you had let us get a grip on you? Suppose I refuse? Look at those dead men—my men! Ain't they to be revenged?'

'They fell in fair fight, Bawn,' said Henry Ernson, earnestly, for he was pleading for Kate's life. 'I have done you no wrong. Of course, for your self-defence and Gilbert's capitulation. [illegible] his hospitality. [illegible] gester. He [illegible]

[illegible] there seems heard, and [illegible] [illegible] per him.'

'That's true; and I will remind them of it, reward the bushranger, with a grin; 'since we take you with us they shall remain at our station in safety enough.'

Henry Ernson's lip quivered with pain and indignation. He saw the other's words concealed some devilish meaning. Before he could speak, the door of the office was thrown open, and, to blasphemy, Hugh Formby, her fair hair streaming about her pale face, rushed forth, and breathless her way through the bushrangers, fell weeping on his neck. The clasp instantly closed again, while three of the men, at a sign from Mike Bawn, darted through the open door.

'Kate, Kate!' exclaimed Ernson, in agony; 'why have you done this?'

'Do you think, Henry, I could let you go alone?' she sobbed. 'No, no! Oh, they shall not harm you! I will plead—I will entreat. Surely, they have hearts, and will hear.'

Throwing herself on her knees before Mike Bawn, upbraiding her cruel hands, she cried, 'Oh, Captain, for I know you only by that name, have pity! Oh, you will not harm him! What he did was but duty. The dead are dead. I have never injured you; but if you kill him you kill me! Mercy! If you desire money you shall have it; only be merciful!'

'The dead are dead, are they, girl? I reckon some of the living will be so, too, soon. Jeff, off with him. We must make tracks. Here's down, and some of those cursed police may come to look for their captain.'

In obedience to his command, the men, closing round, began to force Henry Ernson towards his horse. Perceiving it, Kate, clasping Mike Bawn's knees, her face bathed in tears, frantically made a last appeal. Her lover's blood boiled with indignation, and he cried. 'Kate, dearest, rise. I entreat you. Do not kneel to these men, who have hearts and feelings lower than the brute. Bear yourself bravely, dearest. We part but to meet again in a happier land.'

'Part!' exclaimed the girl springing up, and encircling him with her arms. 'No, Henry, we will not be parted. Where you go, I will follow. If they slay you, they shall kill me, too.'

'Kate, Kate, my darling, this is madness!' expostulated the Captain, in alarm.

'Drag the girl away,' thundered Mike Bawn. 'We can't be kept here all day by her pulling.'

Rough hands were placed upon Kate Formby, to drag her off. She gave a cry of pain, but her clasp never relaxed.

'Cowards!' shouted Henry Ernson; 'would you hurt a weak girl? Kate, dearest, leave me. Oh, where can the Colonel be to permit this? Think, Kate, of your father.'

'Oh, heaven, I do, Henry; but I cannot leave you,' she sobbed.

'Then, by all that's bloo, she shall go with us,' roared Mike Bawn. 'One of you lads mount her in front of you. If she wants to see the Captain dance a jig in the air, she shall.'

They dragged her, half fainting, away. Surprised that the Colonel had made no sign Henry Ernson gazed anxiously at the house. The door was open. All was still. What could have happened? Why did not the Colonel come? Why?

The bushrangers, who had taken advantage of the open door, rushing up-stairs, had encountered the Colonel and Margaret Formby hastening after Kate. They were instantly struck to the ground, dragged back into the room, and with the servant, Cross, bound hand and foot and gagged, that their cries might give no alarm.

This done, the men left them.

'Well?' demanded Mike Bawn, who had waited for them, while the rest had moved towards the bush.

'All right, cap'n. They can't even squeak.'

'Good. Now light the wood. I reckon they shall have such a Christmas fire as they're never had in their lives before!'

His orders were speedily executed. The piles of combustibles that had been heaped ready beneath the verandah were ignited, and soon were in a blaze.

Owing to the unprecedented heat, the material was as dry as tinder. The flames, like released spirits, sprang swiftly into the air, licking with their yellow tongues rendered dim and vaporish in the broad glare of day, the trellis of the verandah.

The work of destruction was complete. Mike Bawn saw that the station and its prisoners were doomed. With a laugh of satisfaction he sprang upon his horse and rode quickly after the rest.

V.

BLACK WATER GULLY.—LIBERTY.

At the base of the range of splendid hills fronting Formby's Station extended an Australian forest. Through this the bushrangers rapidly led their prisoners.

Henry Ernson was fastened by a cord attached to his tightly-bound wrists, then to the saddle of a dark, bizarre desperado of powerful, almost gigantic frame, and a countenance fierce and brutal. To this man Mike Bawn had surrendered the Captain, saying, 'Jeff, it was this fellow who captured and hanged your brother. Now, it is his turn. We've captured him; you shall have the pleasure of hanging him. He robbed my band of a lieutenant; I'll rob the English Government of a captain.'

'Tit for tat's alius been my motter,' grinned the giant, as he secured Henry Ernson to his saddle. 'It's what I calls justice. If I let this chap escape I'd expect Tim's ghost to haunt me to my dying day.'

'Those on! Sharp's the word!' said Mike Bawn, taking the lead, his rifle resting on his arm. 'I expect that there station will make such a flare that it may bring down them whom room we'd prefer to to their company.'

'Good heavens!' thought Henry Ernson; 'then these fiends have fired the station. What can have become of the brave Colonel and his sister?'

There was but one answer. They surely must have been slain, which would account for their making no sign.

Glancing back, the captain of police saw his betrothed lying insensible in the arms of a mounted bushranger. He could see her sweet face, white and still. How like death it looked.

In his bitter misery, he almost prayed that she were dead—that those clear, laughing eyes he had been so happy to gaze into might never again open; for what might not be her fate in the power of those fiends?

With difficulty he suppressed the groan that rose to his lips. Every limb quivered with this mental agony. Would Heaven allow it? He cast his haggard eyes around. They encountered but the leafy foliage of the forest and the armed bushrangers. Help was impossible.

At a rapid pace, halt a trot, the party continued their way, evidently following a well-known track toward the ranges. Soon the ground began to rise, making walking difficult.

Once again looking back, Henry Ernson saw that Kate Formby's senses had returned. Her face was calm and set, like one who bravely confronts and inevitable but cruel destiny. But the expression of agony in the violet eyes fixed on him almost unmanned him. Recovering himself, he tried to encourage her by a smile and a glance heavenward, signifying that there was their only hope; and that, at least, there they would meet again, and be no more separated.

It must have been past eight o'clock—for the sun each second was increasing in power—when, reaching a strong glade belted by strong-limbed trees, Mike Bawn called a halt. The satisfied, fiendish look he threw at the branches overhead was but too eloquent.

'I reckon this place will suit, lads,' he remarked. 'Out to work, Jeff, and be sharp! If we defer the pleasure too long, we may, you see, lose it altogether. If the Captain's men get wind of this, they might attempt a rescue. Once in the ranges they may follow if they like. I reckon he'll come out of 'em again.'

All but Mike Bawn himself dismounted, which the [illegible] Jeff began to grapple Mr. Henry Ernson's [illegible]

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 22, 1880.

OUR "N. P." HOW IT WORKS.

Few people ever pause to consider the effect of indirect taxation upon the purchasing power of each individual. People discuss the subject of a tariff, the question of revenue tariff or protection, as if it were a mere abstract theory, instead of a matter which touches the pocket of every head of a family, and concerns the welfare of Irving of every man, woman and child in the Dominion. People who cry out when the local tax-gatherer goes his rounds to collect money for local rates, who are constitutional grumblers at the exorbitance of municipal demands, never reflect that every dry goods merchant, grocer, clothier, butter and cheesemaker, with whom they deal, is an agent of the Dominion Government for the collection of taxes, and that according to the amount exacted in duties on goods purchased for consumption by the merchant, the latter adds a corresponding amount to the charges to his customers. Take the common article of necessity, sugar—every consumer knows that sugar costs two or three cents more per pound now than eighteen months ago, that the purchasing value of a dollar for that article is not nearly so great now as then, that in fact the dollar is not worth so much to him in provision for the wants of his household as formerly; but how many reflect that that difference represents exactly the amount of increased taxation imposed upon them by the new policy of the Government? It is called an indirect tax because the Government does not directly demand from the citizen the payment of a certain sum into the public treasury; but it is in fact a direct tax upon his industry, a direct tax upon his income, a direct encroachment upon his means of living, and finds its way as surely into the public chest as if it were paid directly to an agent of the Government. The Port of Peterborough paid in duties in the last fiscal year $14,-934.56. That is to say, the people who bought imported goods in that year in this section, were taxed directly to the amount of nearly fifteen thousand dollars, and the purchasing capacity of their income was curtailed by exactly that amount. If there were no duty, the community would be richer by that amount of yearly income; if the duty were less, as is formerly was, they would be proportionately better off. It should be borne in mind that an increase of the tariff means an increase of taxation, an additional burden upon the people, and an additional confiscation of a portion of the fruits of their industry. When the late Administration came into office, they found important public works entered upon, such as the St. Lawrence and Welland Canal enlargements, involving the expenditure of many millions of dollars, to make provision for the completion of which compelled an increase of the revenue; and the tariff was accordingly increased from 15 to 17½ per cent. Regarding custom duties in their true light of taxation upon the people, they refused to go beyond that rate of duty, because to do so would, they argued, impose too great a burden of taxation on the people; because they believed that taxation was only to be justified by the necessities of the revenue, and ought, in the interests of the people, and to maintain the cost of living at the lowest rate, to be kept down to the lowest limit; and because a capricious tariff, levying exorbitant duties for the mere object of so-called Protection, would tend to destroy foreign trade by exclusive duties, and build up monopolies which would charge high prices for goods entering into consumption, without contributing to the revenue, —since it is obvious that at a certain limit of duty importation must cease, while the high prices paid by the consumer will go, not into the revenue, but into the pockets of protected monopolists, leaving the people to make up by extra and otherwise unnecessary exactions, the amount in which the revenue falls short. The experience which we have already had has fully proven the wisdom of the policy which the Liberals preferred to maintain, as based on the right, true and just principle, to continuing in power at the expense of the people by adopting a policy which they knew must work injury to the public, and eventually be discarded by the results of experience. We have already witnessed, since the adoption of a purely Protective tariff a decadence of our shipping trade, a falling off of our exports, a decrease of revenue, a deficit of two millions of dollars, and withal, an exorbitant increase in the price of almost every article of luxury or necessity entering into consumption among our people. In 1878, the aggregate trade of Canada with Great Britain amounted to $83,872,719; in the first year of the N. P. it fell off to $67,-936,648, a falling-off in one year, and that one in a portion of which only the N. P. was in force, of $16,063,871. And let us see who is the sufferer by this falling off of over sixteen millions. We find by the Trade and Navigation Returns that while our imports from Britain were decreased by only $4,438,639 in 1879 as compared with 1878, our exports, (that is the goods sold by Canada in exchange for her purchases in British markets) were decreased by $9,046,231, so that while high duties have taxed the consumers in Canada, and compelled them to pay higher rates for the comforts and necessities of life, Britain contributed less to our revenue, through the short-sighted policy of the Government, in 1879 than in 1878, by $963,992.63. It is thus evident that the effects of the high-pressure tariff have been these: loss of trade with the mother country; falling off of exports; decline of revenue, and decrease of the income of the people. It is, in fact, a policy which can only be described as [illegible] every interest we have, and not satisfying a single object with which it set out. Take the most common articles of luxury, if they can be so called, which enter into consumption in every household. In 1878, on coffee imported to the value of $[illegible] the Government imposed a tax in duties to the amount of $97,373.75; in 1879, on importations of coffee to the amount of $313,468, the N. P. tariff exacted duties to the amount of $93,703.17, that is to say upon $93,901 less importations, $1,937 additional taxation. In sugar in 1878, we imported $8,-097,617, on which the revenue collected $2,847,803.29. In 1879 the importation fell off to $8,680,677, while the duty collected amounted to $2,554,581.93, showing within $13,000 as much taxation in 1879 upon half a million less importations than in 1878. In tea we imported in 1878 $3,897,847, paying thereon duty amounting to $611,312, while in 1879 the imports amounted to $6,611,361, and the taxation to $743,916.34—though the importations only increased by $613,514, the tax collected had increased by $132,603. It should be remembered too that in the fiscal year 1879, the N. P. tariff was only in force a portion of the year, from March 15th 1879, till June 30th, so that we can but form an approximate idea, from these figures, of the manner and extent in which the consumers of the country are being plundered by this patent system of confiscation, and it will only be when the returns are brought down next session, showing the statement of imports and duties for a full twelve months under the working of the 35 per cent tariff, that people will be able to realize to how great an extent legalized robbery is being carried on under that nefarious system. True, it is felt in every household, in the increased cost of living and the reduced purchasing value of earnings; but owing to the manner of exaction, they will not realize its full enormity until the statements for the year ending 30th June next are placed before them. A very good idea of the chance effected even in that portion of the fiscal year '79 in which it was in operation, may be gathered in the statement published in the returns for that year of the tax upon coal, the fuel of the poor man in the cities, and the first requirement to move the wheels of industry in our manufactories. In 1878 the coal imported into the Dominion was 896,446 tons, amounting in value to $3,059,328. This being used for domestic purposes, in factories, on railways and in steam navigation, the policy of the late Government imposed no duties whatever, and it was imported free. Had the duty existing since the introduction of the N.P. been in force that year, that amount of coal would have been taxed $1,529,664. Up to March 15th of the fiscal year '79, in the Province of Ontario alone, Ontario and Quebec being the principal importers of coal, 476,930 tons were brought in duty free; but from March 15th, (when the N. P. came into force), to June 30th, 114,391 tons of coal were taxed $57,146,-50. For the full year the taxation would have been in round numbers about $300,-000. In the present fiscal year, not only will that tax of 50 cents per ton be imposed, but by the changes of this session an additional tax of 10 cents per ton is placed on bituminous coal, which will increase the cost of that coal in Ontario alone by $48,000. It is a low estimate to assume that the next volume of Trade and Navigation returns will show a tax of $400,000 on the coal consumed principally in the manufacturing industries of this Province, where under the policy of the late Government not one cent was charged upon the people. We give these figures to show how the so-called National Policy bears upon the industry and resources of the country, and as an evidence of the practical working of the N. P. in in relation to the pockets of the people, which no one can fail to understand and appreciate.

AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.

Mr. E. B. Morgan, the principal fat stock exporter of Ontario, on his return recently from England, was given a dinner by a number of the producers of South Ontario, at which he stated that the difference in the price realized for Canadian cattle in England was very great—that English butchers will pay two pence per pound more for a smooth, symmetrical animal than they will for a rough one. He also states that he can buy better cattle in Ontario than he can in the United States, and that they are found free from disease. The exporting of cattle from this Province has assumed very extensive proportions, and stock-raising has become a most important industry, not only on account of the extent to which it has already been carried, and the almost unlimited capacity of the market which lies open for it, but as the means of extending and varying the sources of the farmers' income, and relieving him from the necessity of wearing out his lands by the constant cropping necessitated where [illegible] of grain. The fitting of cattle for market is in a large measure exempt from the vicissitudes which attend the raising of grain. Success is almost invariably assured where the necessary conditions are complied with, while the market for consumption, which regulates the prices here, is not subject to so frequent nor so violent fluctuations as affect the market for breadstuffs. Farmers who are prudent will, therefore, prepare themselves, if they have not already done so, to take the greatest amount of advantage of this new opening for their industry and capital, and to do this they will seek the cultivation of a superior class of cattle to those which have, to a large extent, hitherto comprised the average barn-yard stock. Experience has shown that the common Canadian cattle cost quite as much to maintain as thoroughbred stock, while they are neither so profitable for the dairy, nor for life stall, as are the thoroughbred or high-grade cattle. English buyers look largely not only to the "points" of breeding, but to sweetness and symmetry, as well as bulk, and the farmer who fattens a [illegible] animal, is not only enabled to [illegible] that it will bring him more money, ground for profit, than the common stock. Thanks to the enterprise of such men as Messrs. Mc. Cullum, Sir. Rockwood and others, the farmers' interest is enlisted in the issues of improving the stock, either by purchase of thoroughbred animals to breed from, or gradually improving the breeding of his ordinary stock, and they will find it a true economy, in every way, to make every possible effort to supplant the inferior stock now so common, with better bred animals, which will yield them greater profit while used for dairy purposes, and bring them a greater return when fatted for the slaughter house. A determined effort at improvement of stock will be found at once the cheapest and the most profitable investment any farmer can make.

The Agricultural Commission.

Organization of the Work.

SUBJECTS CLASSIFIED FOR INVESTIGATION.

Toronto, April 15.

The opening meeting of the Agricultural Commission, appointed during the recent session of the Local Legislature, was held this morning at 11 o'clock in the Parliament Buildings, with Hon. S. C. Wood in the chair, and the following Commissioners present:—Messrs. Whitelaw, Guelph; John Dryden, M. P. P., Brooklyn; E. Stock, Mimico; R. Gibson, Ilderton; Wm. Saunders, London; A. B. Aylesworth, Newbridge; Andrew Wilson, Maitland; J. P. Wiser, M. P., Prescott; J. P. McMillan, Hullett; E. H. Hilborn, Uxbridge; John Wilson, Ayr; F. Malcolm, Innerkip; Prof. Wm. Brown, Guelph; and A. H. Dymond, Secretary.

The Chairman explained that the object of the meeting was to decide upon what work was to be done, and the best way of doing that. A report has been issued by the Government embodying their views, but he did not wish the Commission bound by such views. He thought it would be better to appoint sub-committees to investigate different branches, which would obviate the too frequent meeting of the Commission. As there would not be time to investigate all the subjects suggested, the first thing would be to decide upon the most important.

Upon motion the following Committee was appointed to draw up sub-committees:—Messrs. Aylsworth, Brown, Wiser, Dryden, Whitelaw and Saunders.

On motion the twenty-one subjects suggested in the report were grouped under the following heads:—1. Soil, climate, topographical features, cultivable area, and products of several sections of the Province, and the progress and condition of husbandry in Ontario. 2. Grain growing in its several agricultural and economical aspects, drainage and manures, natural and artificial. 3. Stock raising, dairying, stock laws and fencing. 4. Fruit growing, beekeeping, forestry, insects and insectiverous birds. 5. Cultivation of special crops, such as flax, &c. 6. Employment of labor and labour-saving appliances; the ownership system as compared with renting; agricultural book keeping and agricultural education. 7. Agricultural Societies, grants and shows, agricultural statistics and functions of Bureau of Agriculture.

The Commission then adjourned till 3 p. m. to receive the report of the sub-commission.

AFTERNOON SESSIONS—THE SUB-COMMITTEE.

Agricultural Commission resumed its sitting this afternoon, when the following committees were appointed: No. 1, Messrs. Aylesworth, Gibson, Hilborn, Ed. Stock and McMillan; 2, Wilson, Dryden, Brown, Thos. Stock, Malcolm, Whitelaw and Byrne; 3, Wiser, Dryden, Gibson, Ballantyne, Malcolm, Whitelaw, Thos. Stock, Brown and McMillan; 4, Sanders, Aylesworth, Watson, Byrne, Brown; 5, Ballantyne, Malcolm, Wilson, McMillan, Edward Stock; 6, Watson, Brown, Edward Stock, Byrne, Wiser, and Hilborn; 7, Aylsworth, Wiser, Dryden, Hilborn, Saunders, Wilson, Thos. Stock, Whitelaw, Wilson and Gibson. Resolutions were then passed empowering Messrs. Wood and Dymond as Commissioners, during the intervals between meeting and also ordering that no moneys be expended without the order of Hon. Mr. Wood. The Commission then adjourned till 11 to-morrow morning.

The English Elections.

The Press on the Change.

The Times says:—

After Gladstone's defeat in 1874 he not only resigned the leadership of the Liberals, but he declared his intention of withdrawing, as far as possible, from active political life. The logical consequence of this resolution would be that he would not take office in the coming Administration, but this resolution has already been in spirit very conspicuously infringed, and it cannot be doubted that very strong pressure will be brought to bear to induce him to abandon it. Nobody can doubt that Gladstone is the most potent force on the Liberal side. But for him there is no sign that the policy of the Government would have been so vehemently challenged. Gladstone led the inspired assault which now has been so conspicuously successful, and he must be regarded as representing the views of that class of voters to whom the Liberal majorities are due.

The same article points to a remark of Gladstone in his speech at West Calder last week, to the effect that he neither directly or indirectly insinuated that he had come there as the chief of the party, nor that a return to office at this time of life was his desire. The Times says:—

This is a very different thing from refusing to accept the responsibility naturally attaching to the course he pursued. It is scarcely conceivable that Gladstone, while remaining in public [illegible] Cabinet.

Referring to the consequence of the Liberal victory the Spectator says:—

It is a severe blow to the Tory democracy. The next man who professes faith in the monarch and the multitude must appeal to the latter on Socialist grounds, or undertake enterprise requiring sacrifices that will speedily restore the people to their senses. No other man will ever wave the banner of prestige as Beaconsfield has done without striking a stroke for it. In the second place, we are rid of personal Governments. In its effect abroad the Liberal victory will be most far-reaching. We do not believe it will be received with joy at St. Petersburg. Russia already distrusts certain views of the Liberal chiefs, especially Gladstone's, far more than she dreads a Ministry which can be coerced into earnest conquests. But the millions of Greeks, Armenians, and Bulgarians will rejoice at the prospect of a new moral force possible to them, and their rejoicing will be feeble compared with the exultation of our own millions in India, no longer taxed to death that a Viceroy may pose as soldier of the doctrines of Central Asia. Round can hear with equanimity the speech in answer to Russell Hunter's remarks at Aberdeen, and the result all forecasts fixed on it will the Tory democracy [illegible] of disgust and a statesman about two years ahead.

A Washington special says there is reason to believe that the Government of Spain is at present in a condition of financial embarrassment. It is said that the Treasury is empty, and that the Government is unable to meet the pressing demands upon it. Under these circumstances the Government is anxious to borrow money.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In addition to the 70 mechanics who left the capital a few weeks ago, on Tuesday 130 additional left. They marched in a body to the station, singing the following refrain :—

We'll hang John A. on a near apple tree,
And we'll do the same with Sir Hillaree,
For it's all owing to the great N. P.
That we are marching away.

Marching away, boys, marching away
To the tune of the reverse of pay;
But we'll come back again some fine day
To bust the N. P. and bounce John A.

The debate in the House of Commons, on the motion of Hon. Mr. Blake for a postponement of the building of the British Columbia section of the Canada Pacific Railway, was terminated on Tuesday night by a vote of 131 nays to 49 yeas. It appears that the country has nothing to hope for from the prudence or patriotism of the majority of the present Parliament. They yield blind obedience to the call of their party leaders, regardless of the interests or requirements of the country, and in this they are supported by a press bribed by lavish patronage from the Government.

The Bill to legalise marriage with a deceased wife's sister and a deceased husband's brother, was read a third time and passed in the House of Commons on Wednesday of last week, on a final division of 109 to 40. The bill simply legalises a custom which for many years has had the sanction of Canadians as a mass. The law against such marriages has never been recognised as an impediment by those who desired to contract such unions, and the bill, regarded from a common sense point of view, is one called for in the interests of morality and individual right. The opponents of this bill, though active, are weak in number, and quite as weak in the arguments advanced to sustain their case.

No one will pretend to deny that a great increase in the cost of living has followed the application of the N. P. Now, will the sapient writer of the Review, for the information of the people of this county, point out in what manner the profits of the farmer have been increased, so that he is not a loser by this increased cost of everything he buys? And having solved that conundrum, let him inform the mechanics and laborers of the town how and when their earnings have been increased since the N. P. came into force, as they were pledged by the Review would be the case. If he is at a loss to find a mechanic ready to unbosom himself of all that the N. P. has done for him, he need have no scruple in interviewing some of those who are to be found every few days at our railway station, with their baggage checked for the other side of the lines.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says :—"It is with great satisfaction we have to learn from Mr. Howson, to procure the opening of a road from this village to the Beaverton Road have met with complete success. We have already recorded the action of the Harvey Council in voting $800 towards such object, and on Tuesday Mr. Howson received a letter from Mr. Pardee, the Crown Lands Commissioner, stating that the Government would accede to Mr. Howson's request and would make a grant in favour of the road. The sum granted by the Government is $200, which is to be supplemented by the $300 from Harvey and $100 from Bobcaygeon. The Reeve of this village has called a Public Meeting for (last) Friday evening, to decide upon the manner in which the $100 shall be raised. The opening of the road cannot fail to have a most beneficial effect on the futures of this village, for it will give it a new back country all to itself, and it may yet regain its old position. The Provincial Government in this matter have shown a consideration for the public interest deserving of the highest praise."

The Review, nothing daunted by the exposure of its flagrant misrepresentations of the amendments made last session in the Free Grants Act, returns to the charge in a column of such nonsense, in which it seeks, apparently, for it is by no means clear, to make the Opposition (and if the settlers' interests are favourably considered by the bill, (which it fortunately is) we can charge to Mr. Pardee's good will, but in spite of this. It is something to get even a look acknowledgement from the Review that its former position was untenable, and its misrepresentations, which Crown Land Agents who peruse the simple statement of the facts of the case in Mr. Pardee's letter, in its columns, will readily perceive; but it seeks to detract from the credit due to the Commissioner of Crown Lands, by the intimation that the good in the bill, which it reluctantly acknowledges, was not of Mr. Pardee's creation. Where then? let us ask the Review. Certainly not of the Opposition, for they voted against giving the settler the third of the dues collected by the crown; and equally clear is Mr. Pardee entitled to the full credit of that quotidemation being extended to the settler, since it was framed by him, presented to the House by him, and made law by his motion. The Review labors with ingenuity to make the best of an exceedingly bad case; but it would gain more credit by gracefully acknowledging the corn, for it will fail to humiliate the settlers, when the latter have, in the bill itself, which is framed in a manner incapable of being misunderstood, the plainest possible refutation of the assertions which the Review advances.

Midland Railway.

The following is a statement of the traffic on the Midland Railway for the week ending April 17th, 1880, and the corresponding week of 1879 :—Passengers and mails, $1,608.09 ; freight, $6,156.50 ; total for week, $8,268.59. 1879,—Passengers and mails, $1,623.83; freight, $4,754.63 ; total for week, $6,378.46 ; Increase, $2,701.63. Aggregate from 1st January, 1880, $20,490.11 ; corresponding quarter of 1879, $46,302.70. Increase, $14,387.41.

In order to provide for the extensive traffic which the Company will command in the movement of grain from Chicago, Milwaukee, and other ports, eastward, the Company are constructing an elevator at Midland City of a capacity of 150,000 bushels, and which will move 5,000 bushels of grain per hour. This will be completed and ready for operation on the 15th September. The first cargo of 20,000 bushels of wheat consigned to Messrs. Peplow, Beamish, McCabe and Salter of Port Hope, from Milwaukee, has arrived at Midland City, and we understand the Company have already received advices assuring them of as much grain traffic from western ports as will fully test the capacity of their rolling stock. Their magnificent harbor on the Georgian Bay, with the advantages which this route offers in avoiding the risks and dangers of the worst portion of lake navigation, make it the most desirable of any of the routes at present available for the western grain trade.

The Agricultural Commission.

On our first page will be found an account of the organization of the Agricultural Commission. At the meeting on the following day (Friday) Hon. Mr. Wood in the chair,—

Mr. Hilborn, as Chairman of Committee No. 1, submitted a report suggesting that the following questions should be sent to the Clerks of Township Councils, with the request that they might be considered at a special meeting of the Council, at which any person capable of contributing to the fund of information desired might be invited :—What is the general character of the soil in your township? What is the character of soil, whether hilly, rolling or flat, swampy, wet or springy? What proportion is first-class soil for agricultural purposes? What proportion is second and third class? And what are the average prices obtained when sales are made upon usual terms, of each class? In what year was your township settled? What proportion is now settled? About how many years after the entrance of the first settlers could it be said to be all settled? About what proportion of land is now clear of stumps? About what proportion of farms are under what would be considered first-class fence, and of what material? What proportion of dwellings are brick, stone, or first-class frame? What proportion are log or inferior frame? What proportion of out-buildings are first-class, and what inferior? What proportion of farms are underdrained, and in what proportion of that draining is the usual? What proportion of farmers use improved farm machines? What proportion of farmers use salt, superphosphate, lime or other artificial manures, and what quantity and what kinds are most extensively used? What proportion of uncleared land would be suitable for cultivation if cleared? What are the chief products of our township?

Mr. John Dryden, Chairman of Committee No. 3, brought up a report recommending that information be obtained on such subjects as the following : The extent to which the importation of thoroughbred stock has been carried in the counties ; the present number and the prospect of a future supply of marketable animals, and, if possible, the number of thoroughbred animals. The term stock to cover horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry. The comparative value and merits of the different breeds of cattle for fattening and dairy purposes, for export and for local demand; a similar enquiry as to the comparative value of the various breeds of horses; the value of the various breeds of thoroughbred animals as a means of improving the common stock of the country; the advantages of stock raising in relation to the cultivation of the soil, the cost of raising improved as compared with common stock; similar particulars with regard to sheep and pigs. The question of dairying in all its relations generally. Stock laws and fencing, especially in connection with experience in other countries, in reference to the most economical system of farm fencing.

Mr. Saunders, Chairman of Committee No. 4, submitted a report on the best method of eliciting information on fruit growing, as to area of land under fruit [illegible] value, how disposed of, varieties most profitable to grow for export, best method of packing for foreign shipment, best method of utilising our surplus fruit, of canning, drying, etc, also a series of questions respecting forestry, the extent, of bee culture, and regarding injurious insects and insectivorous birds.

It was understood that the several committees should address themselves to the preparation of questions founded on the above reports, and meet at a future day to put them into shape and arrange for their circulation, and for other evidence being taken.

Mr. Malcolm moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that while the Commissioners will at all times be prepared, when necessary, for the full and effective discharge of the duties entrusted to them, to exercise the powers and authority with which they are clothed by the law and for the purpose of compelling the attendance of witnesses or the production of evidence—they rely confidently on the cheerful and ready co-operation of those persons to whom they may have occasion to resort for information in regard to matters of interest to agriculture, intimately connected as they are with the prosperity and welfare of the whole country.—Carried.

Mr. Tooke moved, seconded by Mr. Saunders, that in view of the pending visit of Richard Gibson, one of the Commissioners to Great Britain, it is expedient that he should be instructed, and he is hereby instructed with the duty of making any enquiries touching the trade in and shipment for the export and dairy purposes, to Great Britain, which may come to his notice in the course of his visit, in his capacity as a Commissioner, and report for the information of the Commission [illegible] and that he is hereby requested to [illegible] the Commissioners on the return [illegible]

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening last. His Worship, the Mayor in the chair. Present—Councillors Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton, Tolland, Douglas, Toole, Menzies, Deane and Robertson.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A number of Communications were read and received.

A petition for sidewalk on Perry street from Stewart street to Alymer street, was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

A petition for a sidewalk on Paterson street was referred to the same Committee.

A petition from Dunn & McWilliams stating that they had erected a storehouse on the street in ignorance of the law, and asking that it may be allowed to remain, was granted.

A proposition of Mr. Long to water the streets for $126, or for the extended limits $150, was referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

Reg. Whitfield, asked to have George Street, near Rink opened filled in, as he wished to plant some trees there, also asking for a crossing on Rink Street.—Referred to Street and Bridge Inspector, with power to act.

Messrs. Edmison & Wood, on behalf of Wm. Roberts, complained of the water from the creek being forced on his land, and threatened legal proceedings unless remedied.

A communication from D. Hopkins, Geo. A. Cox, D. G. Ratton, D. W. Dumble and others, set forth the bad condition of the boundary line between the town and Monaghan, as money having been expended upon it; also that the township had set apart $60 for the improvement of the road, but could not legally apply it unless the town granted a like amount, and asked that the Council grant a like sum of $60 to build a sidewalk from Smith street to the gravel road, and for general repairs.—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

A letter was read from Mr. Wm. Croft, of the Croft House, reverting to the complaints by the Health Inspector of the nuisance of an open drain from his premises, and stating that he had for years done all in his power to obviate the difficulty by cess-pools and otherwise, and that unless the Council construct a sewer or other passage to carry off the surplus water, he would have to continue in this way. He therefore asked the Council to construct such sewer, to avoid going to law about it.

Mr. Toole moved that the communication be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

Mr. McNaughton moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that it be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee for report.

Mr. Deane said he would second Mr. Toole's motion if it were made to include Morgan's and Cavanagh's hotels as well.

Mr. McNaughton's motion was carried.

An application from C. Portsmouth, stating that he had been maintained all winter by Mr. S. White, and asking that the town make provision for him, was referred to the Charity Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were referred to their proper committees :

T. W. Robinson	$ 2 10
A. Connolly	19 50
Edmison & Wood	5 00
T. F. Blackwood	14 00
W. Roberts	2 25

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

The Clerk read the following report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee which was received :

That we could not do anything regarding the watering of the streets asked for by Dr. Ball and others, as Mr. O'Donnell could not under the extra work it would be impossible for him to do it all and do it right unless getting water at different points in the limits. Mr. Stevenson asks $100 more for water if we go beyond Murray Street. There was also a petition sent into the Committee from some of the sewer-pavers, saying they did not understand that they would have to pay extra for it. It is now for the petitioners to say if we are to purchase another car, pay $100 more for water and engage a man and team to do the watering before we can proceed.

FINANCE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. C[illegible] read the report of the Finance Committee, which recommended the following accounts :

Donaldson Bros. & Hall	$280 64
W. Hamilton, west curbing	21 60
J. R. Stratton	21 30
Gas Company	23 85
W. S. Cook	20 00
Toker & Co	73 61

The report recommended the granting of the application of T. Paterson as he was not liable on account of age for statute labor; also that of W. A. Morgan, as his name was not on the roll, and the Collector had died suddenly.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Douglas, the report was adopted.

Mr. Deane asked what the Committee had done with the matter of Mr. George Chamberlain.

Mr. Cahill said it had been brought up in Committee but no resolution was adopted in reference to it.

Mr. Toole said if Mr. Chamberlain had made his application before the money was paid, the Committee might have acted, but after the money was paid they had no power. He had no doubt Mr. Chamberlain had recourse against the landlord.

Mr. Chamberlain was heard and said his first application had been made in December, before the taxes were collected. His complaint was, that while in his case the Collector had collected the taxes from him not being able to get them from Mrs. Ewen, because he was in possession, in the case of Mr. Bell he had gone over his head and charged it against the property.

In answer to Mr. Deane the Collector said he had acted upon advices of the Town Solicitor in each case.

THE APPOINTMENTS REPORT AT LAST.

Mr. Toole presented the following report of the appointments Committee :

The Committee on Appointments beg to report that they have carefully considered the applications for appointments to offices referred to them together with the standing applications, and recommend :

1st. That having had before them a detailed statement of the services rendered by Dr. Kingston as Health Officer, and of that of the usual rates had been charged it would have cost the town nearly double the amount of his salary, they therefore recommend his re-appointment with the same salary and duties as heretofore.

2nd. That Jas. McClelland be appointed caretaker of the town stock with a salary of $48 and that John E. Bolster be appointed Town Estimator without salary.

3rd. That J. Kerr be appointed caretaker of the Lock's Bridge and John Armour be appointed caretaker of the Smith Street Bridge, both to have the same salary as last year.

4th. That Chas. D. Macdonald be appointed Town Clerk with a salary of $600 ; that George Johnston be re-appointed Chief Constable with a salary of $600, and that he perform all the duties of Street Inspector, and further that he shall be required to execute all warrants necessarily issued by the Collector to enforce the payment of taxes, without any additional fee, the costs accruing therefrom as well as for the fees to go to the Town Treasury.

5th. That John McGhee be re-appointed with a salary of $500, and that Thos. Beavis be re-appointed with a salary of $500, and that he be required, as far as possible, to look after sewer-pavers as to method to one half the fines exacted therefrom.

6th. That Jas. English be re-appointed with the same salary and duties as last year.

7th That Chas. D. MacDonald be appointed Town Treasurer with a salary of $200, his duties to commence on the first of May next and that he be required to furnish such bond as may be satisfactory to the Council, and that your Committee recommend that all members arriving from the Collector's roll be deposited directly in the Bank having a town account.

That the Treasurer be required to keep a proper bank book which shall be inspected by the Mayor from time to time, and that all cheques to draw out money from said bank be countersigned by the Mayor. Your Committee also recommend that Chas. D. MacDonald be appointed Clerk of the Police Court with a salary of $100 per annum.

8th. That W. A. Kipp be appointed Collector for the present year with a salary of $200 to be paid pro rata as his taxes are collected.

9th. Your Committee further recommend that the above appointments be made, and it shall be expressly understood that they shall only hold office during pleasure of the Council and that all or any of the parties shall be in addition to their ordinary duties, perform any reasonable duties required of them by the Corporation.

Mr. Toole moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Robertson said that this was an important matter, and he would prefer to have the report considered clause by clause.

Mr. Deane asked if Mr. Waller's opinion had been had.

The Mayor said they had a partial opinion from Mr. Waller on the subject.

Mr. Deane said the report called them to go on and make appointments in one case in place of an official who had been before them showing cause in his favour, and who claimed that he had entered all moneys paid into his hands to the Town Treasurer. He would like to have the opinion of Mr. Waller to act upon.

The Mayor explained that Mr. Waller would be engaged this week at Cobourg, and had not had time to come to the conclusion he would like to arrive at. The Council could not act in the matter of the Collector's accounts until they had the right to do so. He read the opinion showing that the Council should proceed to appoint officials in the place of those removed, by by-law.

Mr. Robertson suggested that the Council go into committee of the whole.

Mr. Cahill would prefer to have Mr. Waller's report to go upon.

His Worship remarked that the matter should be dealt with by a full meeting of the Council.

The matter was delayed till next meeting, Councillor Houghton remarking that the absentees were afraid to face the music—they were afraid of powder and shot.

NEW WATERWORKS.

A proposition by Mr. Ramsay to construct a reservoir at Mr. Deane's mill for the permanent supply of water for the streets, for $980, was considered.

Mr. Deane said this scheme would give the water free for five years, the only expense being making the necessary arrangements proposed by Mr. Ramsay.

Mr. Cahill thought the street watering was paid by special tax, and this would transfer the cost to the whole town. He thought there would be an objection as to distance.

Mr. Toole thought it would not be wise to spend money in an experiment like this, as they would have waterworks in a few years, when this expenditure would be thrown away.

Mr. Robertson moved that it be referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee with power to act.

Mr. Douglas thought the scheme was impracticable.

Mr. Taylor did not see that it was impracticable. By the present system, water for the streets would cost $1,500 in five years. If this plan were adopted they would save $1,100, and he thought that was a consideration.

The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee with power to act.

Mr. Robertson moved, seconded by Mr. Deane, that the Mayor and Messrs. Taylor, Deane, and the mover, be a committee to confer with the Warden and make arrangements to secure the Court House park for the band to play in during the summer. He said we had a good band, and they should be encouraged. The motion was adopted.

Mr. Deane asked the Collector when the returns would be made.

Mr. Cummings said there were a number of cases in which seizures were held in abeyance by order of the Council, and others in which the [illegible] men were doing work to pay [illegible] taxes.

Mr. Toole moved, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the stone crossing at the corner of Simcoe and George streets be taken up and replaced with wooden crossings.

Mr. McNaughton moved in amendment that the crossings remain as they are.—Carried.

Mr. Deane moved, seconded by Mr. Robertson, that the Collector be instructed to have his roll returned by the 1st of May. He said that there were some $3,000 uncollected, and he was sure it was not all charity. There must be some wealthy men who had not paid their taxes. The motion was carried.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Taylor, that the application of Mr. Soanes respecting his taxes be granted, and that the time for paying his taxes be extended three months, that the Collector be instructed to make a special return in his case and the Treasurer accept the same ; and that the Finance Committee be empowered to make like recommendations with any of the applications now in their hands, if found legal to do so.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Taylor, that the old bricks in the corporation yard be allowed Mr. Stevenson, provided he assume the taxes for the year from the first of January last.—Carried.

Mr. Welland said that they were throwing Mr. Chamberlain over and making him pay taxes twice, and giving others as long as they asked to pay. He thought it was not fair play.

Mr. Douglas thought it was a hard and unjust thing to collect taxes twice from any man, and the town of Peterborough should be above doing it.

The motion respecting Soanes' taxes was carried.

Mr. Deane moved, seconded by Mr. Robertson, that the sum of $36.23 be refunded to Mr. George Chamberlain, being the amount of taxes collected twice from him.

The motion was carried. Messrs. Robertson, Deane, Menzies, Douglas and Yelland voting yes, and Messrs. Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton and Toole, refraining from voting.

The Council then adjourned till Tuesday week.

Lakefield News.

Orange Hall—Theft of Bees—Clear Lake—Lumbering—New Business—Address and Presentation.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

LAKEFIELD, April 19.

On Monday morning, as Mrs. John Sheerin with two children were leaving for town, a wheel came off the carriage ; fortunately the horse remained quiet until it was secured, so that no harm was done and the mischief soon repaired.

Clear Lake opened up on Saturday last, so there is an open channel up to Burleigh and it is nearly open up to the head of the lake. The boats will soon start on their summer work.

The regular meeting of the Foresters will be heard on Thursday evening in the Good Templars' Hall.

Large number of lumbermen are passing up to start the drives down, which will be much earlier than former years if the water holds up.

Mr. J. Bird, who lately passed his examination before the Pharmaceutical College, has opened a drug-store on one side of the shop occupied by Mr. Urquhart. It has been fitted up in a style which is seldom seen outside of a city, and we trust Mr. Bird will meet with the success his enterprise deserves.

The Orange Hall has been re-painted both inside and out, and a ventilator put in which will add to the comfort and appearance of the Hall, it is also the intention of the Lodges to refurnish the room during the coming summer.

When Mr. Sawtell left Lakefield he sold five hives of bees to Mr. John Clarin, who left them where they had been wintered, never thinking any one would disturb them, but one evening last week some person or persons, who ought to be breaking stones in Peterboro', made a raid on the hives and destroyed three, one a hive of Italian bees valued at $8 ; all for the sake of a few ounces of honey ; everyone [illegible] to certain parties and if Mr. Clarin can get any proof, Castle McWilliams will be honored with their presence for some time to come —a chance for our new Constable to distinguish himself as a detective.

On Friday evening last, while the family of Mr. Robert Graham were enjoying a quiet chat before retiring, a rap was heard on the front door, and on being opened Mr. T. J. Nelson presented himself with the request, that he might bring in a few friends for a few moments. Several filed in, and before Mr. Graham could recover his surprise they presented him with a handsome watch chain and seal obtained from Montreal and the following address :—

Some People Should the possession of a Tea Store is a misfortune, perhaps, or a blue to the sufferer of the person who gives it, (with a good cause for reply) will convince anyone:—

Simply:—I have made a business in recommending Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. I had it in my store for 2 years and was never asked for it. My wife tried a bottle for a bad cold, which completely cured her after many others it was all used. After this occurred I had confidence to recommend it to my customers, and have done so ever since and will be obliged if you will send me 2 dozen bottles at once.

Yours, J. KENNEDY.

PAYING FOR THEIR PAPERS.

Before.

His step was weary; his eyes were dim,
Haggard of face and weary of limb,
Which showed he felt dreamedly elder.
That remember ance was taking toll
Unsparing and unrelenting of him—
Visions of might when sunshine grim
Had chained him over the pit of sin.
For three long years he had not paid
For the papers which he and his fellow had read;
So the devil of Conscience has bothered his head—
To such an extent that he wished he were dead—
With waking dreams, that at night were worse
Till he walked a portable curse.
He could stand it no longer, so t'other day
He staggered in with his fist full of pay.
As down on the counter the cash he laid.
These very identical words he said;
"I'll pay the old score and a year ahead."
That night he slept sweetly; his paper was paid,
And the demon that haunted his life was laid.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 22, 1880.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Resume of Proceedings.

The House of Commons met after the Easter adjournment on Tuesday, March 30th, when Mr. Scowbell proceeded with the Budget debate in an able speech, showing that 60 cents a day under a free trade tariff were worth more to a workingman than $1 a day under the present tariff. Mr. Fleming, North Brant, made an able speech from the farmers' standpoint, showing that the agricultural protection had been a humbug. Mr. Farrow clamored for more protection on salt, when the motion to go into Ways and Means Committee was carried. The tariff resolutions were then gone into in Committee and passed. On the bill to provide salaries for two additional judges in British Columbia, Hon. Mr. Blake moved an amendment setting forth that any legislation in this respect should be based on the eight existing judges; that by the proposed legislation five judges would be superannuated and an annual expenditure of $6,000 per annum then incurred, while the constituency of the Senate would be decreased. The amendment was voted down by 98 to 78, Mr. Longley of the Ministerial side voting with Mr. Blake.

On Wednesday 31st, among the motions for returns that were passed was one by Col. Williams, for the reports of recent surveys made by Mr. Starke, of the proposed canal from Rice Lake to Port Hope, when Mr. Mackenzie asked the Government what their policy was on the question of building the Trent Valley Canal, and Sir Charles Tupper replied that the Government did not feel justified in asking Parliament for a grant for that purpose. Mr. Mackenzie then took occasion to protest against the Government sending engineers all over the country and examining into the utility of work, which they had not the slightest notion of constructing. After some desultory business, the bill to affirm the legality of marriages with a deceased wife's sister was read a second time. On a bill to regulate the encumbering of real estate with mortgages, an interesting debate ensued, in the course of which Mr. White, the member for East Hastings, spoke as follows:

Mr. White (Hastings) said that the society which the hon. member for Toronto East belonged to used the most deceptive means in loaning money, and he (Platt) should be ashamed to defend it. It was a shame when such a subject was being discussed that there should be but two or three members of the Government in their places. They should all have been here when the member for West Durham was manfully exposing the tricks of the loan societies. If the member for West Durham would bring in a practical Bill on that question he would support it.

An hon. member—Would you support his Government?

White (Hastings)—Yes I would; I would like to see an honest Irishman at the head of the Government.

The bill was read a second time and referred to the Committee on Banking and Commerce, and the House adjourned.

On Thursday April 1st, the Commons were summoned to the Senate Chamber when the Governor-General signified his assent to the Insolvency Law. In the House several bills were introduced, among others one by Sir John Macdonald to appoint a Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom. Hon. Mr. Masson introduced and carried a bill amending the Militia and Defence Act, substituting the Governor-in-Council for the magistracy in calling out the militia in cases of civil disturbance, and further providing that each militiaman so called out shall be a special constable without taking any oath of office, and shall be amenable only to the orders of his immediate commanding officer. Hon. Mr. Blake ably opposed this insult to the magistracy and placing the whole country under martial law at the option of the Government. The bill consolidating and amending the Inland Revenue Act was advanced a stage, and the House adjourned.

On Friday, after some time expended in a personal matter between Messrs. Rykert and Ross the House went into Committee of Supply when several hours were occupied in the consideration of the following items:—$40,930 on account of Administration of Justice; $13,000 for Dominion Police; $313,711 for Penitentiaries. On the item of $286,963 under head of Legislation, an amusing debate occurred, during which the Speaker of the House admitted that last year his political friends overpowered him in demands for positions for their friends on the sessional staff, and expressed thanks to Mr. Charlton because he made a motion asking for the return showing the names of all employees, and consequently a reduction in the staff was effected. In order to elicit these admissions Mr. Blake put a number of queries but to the astonishment of the House, Mr. Masson, a young member, had the impertinence [for short it was] to inform the member for West Durham that he was occupying too much time in speaking. Mr. Blake, in the course of succeeding remarks, made a covert allusion to the result of the English elections as indicating what might be expected in Canada—an allusion which elicited cheers from the Opposition. After passing the item, the Committee reported progress, and the House adjourned till Monday.

On Monday 5th inst., after preliminary business, the debate on the Canada Railway Land resolutions of the Government took place, being brought up on a resolution of Mr. Charlton setting forth that the lands of the North-Westshould be sold as far as possible to actual settlers only. Mr. Charlton introduced his resolutions in a speech of an hour and a half's duration, in the course of which he contrasted the Canadian land regulations with those adopted by the United States. Our regulations, he thought should be even more liberal than those of the United States, and should give more favourable terms for homestead entries. He gave an interesting calculation to show the amount which the United States had realized from their public domain from 1796 to the 30th of June last. The total amount realized was $24,547,812, which if they collected ten per cent for expenses would leave $2,214,703 per annum. The sum of $58,417,600 capitalized in 1796 at four per cent, interest would have realized the same sum, and he thought it would have paid the Americans better to have bestowed this gift and given away their lands. Sir John Macdonald after the manner in which Grit Governments distributed the country, and the land immigration in the North-West last year at 30,000; that there would be 50,000 this year; and that there would be an annual increase of 5,000 per year until 1886, in which year 75,000 people would go in. The total amount they would realize from their lands in this time would be $71,250,000 $2,500,000 to be to be deducted for expenses, while he estimated the entire cost of building the Pacific road from Lake Superior to the Pacific ocean at seventy-five millions of dollars. Hon. Mr. Anglin pertinently reminded the First Minister that he had omitted in his calculation the amount necessary to pay the interest on the money borrowed to build the road, which providing that six millions were spent annually, would amount to $9,720,000 in 1890. Mr Donville moved the House do pass to the orders of the day, while Mr. White, of Cardwell, moved an amendment declaring that the policy of the Government was well calculated to promote the settlement of this region, and to raise the money required for the building of the Pacific Railway without burdening the people, and deserved the support and approval of the House. Mr. White's amendment to the amendment carried on a vote of 130 yeas to 40 nays and the House adjourned.

On Tuesday Sir S. Tilley, on the motion to go into Committee of ways and Means, irregularly updated into a general discussion of the government policy in the course of which he admitted that during the present and approaching fiscal years the Government intends to expend ten millions of dollars annually on the road so as to complete the Thunder Bay branch immediately; but afterwards it would be reduced to five millions of dollars annually. The remainder of the road from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains is estimated to cost thirteen thousand dollars per mile. After recess he concluded his speech, and in the course of his remarks admitted that the Conservatives had tried to make the N. P. in the Ontario local election an issue, but had failed to do so. Sir Albert Smith reviewed the anti-Confederation utterances of Sir Leonard when he was advocating the entrance of New Brunswick into the Confederation, and pointed out the utter failure of his predictions. Alluding to the stigma cast by Sir Charles Tupper upon Sir Richard Cartwright, that he was king of deficits, Sir Albert turned the tables by showing that Sir Alexander Galt had to declare, when Finance Minister, the largest deficits within the experience of this country, and yet he was the man whom the Tories delighted to honor. In conclusion, he dwelt at length upon the prejudicial operation of the tariff on the lumbering and shipping interests of the Maritime Provinces, and especially New Brunswick. The debate was continued by Mr. Tasse (Ministerialist) and Mr. Gillmor (Liberal). The latter dwelt more particularly on the effects of the National Policy in New Brunswick than in the other provinces, and gave facts and figures demonstrating beyond question that the shipping and lumbering interests had been seriously affected by the Government's fiscal policy.

On Wednesday 7th after some desultory business of an unimportant character, the House on Committee resumed the adjourned debate on Mr. Macdonall's motion that the Maritime Provinces are entitled to destributive shares of the Fishery award. A lengthy discussion ensued, at the conclusion of which the motion was lost by 216 to 30.

On Thursday Mr. Killam resumed the debate on the tariff, which was continued by Mr. Burpee, ex-Minister of Customs, and Messrs Gunn, Robertson, and Longley. Hon. Mr. Anglin moved the adjournment of the debate.

On Friday the debate on the Budget was concluded after able speeches by the Hon. Messrs Anglin and Mills, when the House went into Committee at 3.20 a. m. on Saturday morning, adopted the tariff resolutions and adjourned,

[The above should have appeared in last week's issue of the EXAMINER but was unavoidably crowded out. The following is a synopsis of last week's proceedings.—ED.]

On Monday 12th a resolution reported from the Finance Committee that the accounts of the House of Commons be submitted annually for audit to the Auditor-General was adopted. On the motion to receive the report of the Committee on Ways and Means, which included the tariff amendments, Mr. Patterson (Brant) again directed the Finance Minister's attention to the fact that embossed books for the blind were still subjected to an enormous duty owing to their expense, and he contrasted the taxation imposed by the Canadian Government on the literature for the blind with the liberal policy pursued by the Provincial and foreign Governments. In conclusion, he moved that the report be referred back to the Committee with instructions to amend the same by placing embossed books for the blind free of the free list. Sir Samuel Tilley stated that the Government had considered the proposition, and could not consent to the change. Mr. Blake and Sir Richard Cartwright both announced their intention of supporting the amendment, not only on grounds of compassion but on grounds of justice, as owing to the increased cost of embossed books over ordinary primers, etc., the tariff discriminated against the blind. From these remarks it became clear that the members were to be called in, and there was a remarkable nervousness among the Government supporters, and quite a few began looking for their hats. Sir John Macdonald saw the danger of defeat, and jumping up suddenly ignored Sir Leonard's statement that the Government had unfavourably considered the matter, and said that he, hon. friend had no objection to offer to the amendment save the delay it would cause. The amendment was carried, referred to Committee, incorporated in the resolutions, and adopted by the House within two minutes afterwards. This is the first amendment made to the tariff by the Opposition.

On Tuesday the House went again into Committe, the militia items taking up a large share of attention. Mr. Masson gave some explanations regarding the proposed small arm manufactory to be established in Canada. The machinery would cost some $30,000, and an officer had been sent to Westwich to report upon the best description to be adopted. With reference to the fear commissions in the imperial army granted to the Canadian Military School, Sir Richard Cartwright asked the Hon. Mr. Masson if the Government had considered the question of providing for the other cadets by holding out inducements in our own country, to which the reply was made that the Government was considering the matter, and that any positions of advantage would be given if possible. Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said the late Government had been considering the advisability of giving our young positions on the railways. Hon. Mr. Blake thought that when this school cost so much four of its best students should not be taken out of the country every year, but their services should be utilized at home. Mr. Masson rejoined by saying that the late Government had applied for these commissions and he thought they were considered in the country as a great advantage. Mr. Blake wound up the discussion in this regard by saying that he had always held the same opinion and had seen no reason to change it. After the militia items had been disposed of, public works, harbors, &c., were gone into without anything of interest being elicited.

On Wednesday a large number of unopposed motions were carried ordering returns of various kinds. Just before recess Mr. Cameron moved for the correspondence respecting the appointment of a messenger to the late hardware appointee at Montreal and found fault with the Government for passing over the assistant valuator. Mr. Bowell defended his brief on the ground that the assistant was not polled for the position, and the discussion was growing warm when it was cut short by the arrival of six o'clock.

After recess some Private Bills were advanced a stage, and the House then took into consideration the amendments made in Committee of the Whole to the Message with Dorion and Wood's Home Bill. Mr. Cameron, in moving concurrence in some amendments, replied to objections against the measure, and was followed by Mr. Jones (Leeds), who said he would support the Bill, as he thought it would do away with the present system of [illegible] from the public lands, which [illegible] Mr. Cameron (Huron) moved in amendment that the Bill be not now read a third time but this day six months. After speaking a slightly amended form Mr. McCarthy's Bill to amend the Supreme Court Act, the House adjourned at 10.45.

On Thursday, Dr. Tupper, before moving the House into Committee, on the Railway resolutions, entered in a lengthy speech into explanations regarding the Canada Pacific Railway, and at the conclusion of his remarks, Hon. Edward Blake, in an able and exhaustive speech introduced the resolutions of which he had given notice, for the postponement of the construction of the Yale-Kamloops Branch of the Pacific Railway. Mr. Blake spoke at great length, and had not concluded his address when an adjournment was had at one o'clock, a. m.

On Friday, Mr. Blake resumed his speech on the Pacific Railway and concluded one of the ablest arguments ever heard in Parliament at 6 o'clock. After recess Mr. Langevin followed. The debate was continued by Messrs. Cameron, Mclnnes, Rouleau and McCosmos, and adjourned at 3.40 o'clock on Saturday morning.

The Hum in Snagsville.

Grip pokes fun at a recent effort of the Review Hum Hunter, in the following parody of the Hunter's late interviews with our merchants:—

"The Snagsville Trumpeter promised to disprove the recent assertion of the Globe that the merchants of that enterprising town were not prospering under the N. P. and now publishes the following information gleaned by the untiring and sleepless activity of its reporters.

"Mr. G. Deal, the energetic lumberman of this rising town, says that the erection of board fences has been so stimulated by the demand for space on which to paste notices of Sheriff's Sales, that his business is in fine condition. He paid half cash to two hands last week and the money thus put into circulation must soon have a great effect on business in this neighborhood.

"Mr. Hoe says that he looks for good times in his business, (the manufacture of agricultural implements) in a few months, when the tariff shall have produced its full effect on the crops. Last fall he did a large trade and he is sure that what invariably happens at that time of the year will go on happening under the N.P.

"The Redhead Flour Mills have been grinding up to their full capacity of late, the farmers coming in rapidly with grists. The appetite of the agriculturists has so much improved under the N. P. that they eat more bread than formerly; hence the new activity in the flouring trade.

"Krucher & Bonbbon, biscuit and candy manufacturers, say that their business has increased fifty per cent. during the last twelve months, and that it will be twice as big as formerly if it increases fifty per cent. more. They say that the people require a great deal of sweetening since the N. P. came in.

"D. Lejuer, confectioner, says his trade was dull in February, but owing to the demand for maple sugar cakes produced by the N.P. has largely increased during the present month. He is greatly indebted to Sir Leonard for keeping out the pauper maple sugar of Europe.

"Simon Bros, confectioners and pastry-cooks were doing a good business last December during the holiday season and predict that the demand for their goods will be as great this year in the same month. Their trade on market days and on Saturdays, when the children are out of school, is generally brisker than on Sundays. They hope to do a large trade with their sodawater fountain during the summer, the tariff effectually prohibiting the colic from entering Canada.

"John Gravy, grocerie, liquors, etc. His business has not fallen off, and he says he hopes it won't do anything of the kind. If something had not prevented he is satisfied that trade would have been much better than it was in February. On Saturday night the full effect of the N.P. is evident in increased sales. From various causes he thinks that business prospects are very promising, but not more so than customers. A good crop under the N. P. will indnce the farmers to purchase more groceries and liquors than a bad one under Cartwright's fly-on-the-wheel policy.

"Mr. Hoges says that his trade has been larger so far this year than it was before he went into business. He is of opinion that the roads would have been better had not sleighing been bad, but remembers many seasons when Mackenzie was in power. He says that trade is brisk on market days and always will be hereafter owing to the curosity of farmers' wives to discover by experience whether goods have been raised in price by the N. P. They purchase large quantities of articles that have gone up in the hope of finding one which hasn't. As the search will never be rewarded he believes it will continue indefinitely. Thus the N.P. has an excellent effect on purchasers and the confidence of merchants is rapidly being restored.

"The taffy and pea-nut trades are very prosperous, considering the season, and altogether Snagsville may be congratulated on a great increase of business owing to the N.P.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1878. Cash	For 1878. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$393.20	$74.25	$317.20	$295.00	$295.00
7	20 Payment Life.	5,000	265.65	112.50	207.60	150.00	253.50

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If the Assurances distributed the Profits on the ordinary Participating Plan, allowing a bonus of 4½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash..... $97.20. Bonus..... $295.00.
" 7. " ..... 53.65. " ..... 125.65.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take their number 1, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums. The above results, which issue the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada, are not exceptional.

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in the results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recent y published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The Lecture, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 29, 1880.

OUR HOUSE OF LORDS.

The advocates of the abolition of the shoddy imitation of the British House of Peers, which exists in Canada as the Senate of the Dominion, were never at a loss for the very strongest arguments in favor of relieving the taxpayers of Canada of the cost of maintaining a body of Legislators, which certainly has not proven useful, and which it is a question if it be even ornamental. It is well known that the primary occasion of the existence of a second chamber was [illegible] consideration of the requirements and interests of the Dominion, but the satisfaction of their existing political exigencies. In the general grab for place and patronage which was contemporaneous with the organization of the Confederation, there were more "public men" who had to be "satisfied" from the public chest than could have been conveniently accommodated had the most convenient, least expensive, most prudential and least complicated system of government been adopted, and in order to give the project of Confederation the appearance of universal support and unanimous approval, a multiplicity of governmental machinery was adopted which would afford the necessary resting places for the patriots who were thereby induced to recognize the beauties of the new order of things, and to abandon an opposition to the scheme which threatened to become troublesome. Hence, we had in the majority of Provinces the continuance of the Legislative Council system, as an unnatural excrescence on the body politic, and the formation of the Dominion Senate, each branch followed, like an ill-omened comet, with its tail of officials, sinecures, privileges and expenses. Up to two years ago these bodies were generally admitted to be expensive and unsatisfactory articles of luxury, but had not developed any dangerous symptoms. Since that time, however, they have shown that they possess powers, unwisely vested in them by the constitution, which are liable to be used in thwarting the will of the people, and thus menacing the vital principle of self-government through responsible representatives, and more than that, they are not indisposed to exert those powers in defiance of the popular will, which ought to be supreme. That was abundantly proven in the conduct of the Senate in prostituting itself to be the instrument of the partisanship of the minority of the elective branch of the Legislature in the third Parliament, and, in a smaller sphere, it was set forth by the conduct of the Quebec Legislative Council in the late crisis in that Province, in usurping the privileges of the Assembly, and refusing to sanction the supplies which the elected representatives of the people had voted to Her Majesty. It was then found that in the Senate and the Legislative Councils of the country, we had not only useless and expensive adjuncts of the machinery of Government, but an irresponsible body with powers that menaced the most essential principles of self-government. It was found that the Senate of Canada was endowed with arbitrary privileges unheard of in any constitutionally governed country, and were independent, as described by Lord Dufferin, of "the Crown, the Parliament and the People," in the exercise of their sovereign will. The peers of Great Britain do not possess, far less attempt to exercise, the powers which our Upper Houses of late have enforced in spite of the representatives of the people. In England it is essential as here, that all legislation shall have the assent of the Upper House, but it is provided that the Government of the day, exercising the authority of the Crown, if the House of Peers refuses to sanction the legislation of the lower House, may create new peers, and thus have it always in their power to give effect to the wishes of the people. Here in Canada, however, the number of the "lords" is definitely fixed by the constitution, and if the majority refuses, as has been the case, its assent to the legislation of the Commons, neither Crown nor people have any recourse, nor is there any means provided in the constitution whereby this dangerous power, in the hands of an irresponsible body, may be overcome. And while it possesses these privileges which the English House of Lords never even claimed, much less exercised, it is utterly without any such reason d'etre as the British House of Peers possesses. There are in Canada no vested interests of either church or aristocracy to be considered, requiring a consistment voice in the direction of public affairs. There is, in fact, nothing which it falls within the province of our Parliament to deal with, which might not be as safely and as advantageously dealt with by a single chamber as by two. Nor can there be any good reason advanced why Parliament should not be relieved of the incumbrance of the nominated chamber, and the country of the expense of supporting it. Hitherto, however, our Upper House has been accorded the merit of being, at least, eminently respectable; but this, its only virtue, it has, and to say, voluntarily cast off. Since the opening of the present session of Parliament, the Senate Chamber has been the theatre of disgraceful scenes which might rally the self-esteem of a miner's jury. Honorable gentlemen have accused each other of being drunkards, perjurers, wife-beaters, and common plunderers. We have seen the leader of the Senate reduced to the miserable extremity of [illegible] technical excuses in the law to justify conduct which might not unjustly be described as moral outrageous. On several occasions these disgraceful and degrading scenes reached a degree that "strangers" were excluded from the gallery of the Senate that the voice and sight might not come upon their shame. During these extremely factious the respect of the public and disgrace for the only chamber which they had ever possessed in the regard of the people, the "Honorable gentlemen" need not be surprised if the agitation for their extinguishment be renewed with increased vigor, and even if those who have been willing to accept an alteration in the constitution of that body, and give it a longer trial and lease of life, now join hands with the advocates of the radical reform of abolition, and demand the enfeeblement of an institution whichhas lost even its negative virtue of harmless respectability, and become a reproach in its character as well as in its existence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Globe has at last made its appearance in the modern folio form, and with a complete new dress presents a greatly improved appearance. The objection of unwieldiness in the old "blanket" form is removed, and the classification of matter and convenience of the "make-up" make it much more readable. As a newspaper, the Globe is undoubtedly at the head of Canadian journalism, and it has shown by this new enterprise, a praiseworthy determination to retain that position.

THE Montreal Spectator says :—"Whatever our future may be as to political relations, there can be no doubt as to the financial condition we are rapidly bringing about. It is almost incredible that a people endowed with ordinary common sense and business ability should allow themselves to be led open-eyed into bankruptcy. In 1867 our debt was $75,728,641; in 1879 it was $187,481,070. During that period our yearly expenditure has increased from $13,483,092 to over $25,000,000;—we have paid more than $71,000,000 as charges on our indebtedness. This is not reckoning the condition of the Provinces—every one of which is heavily in debt, except Ontario. Quebec will have to get aid from the Dominion Government in some form or other soon, or resort to direct taxation."

GO AND SEE NATURE'S SMILES.—To those who have not yet visited Mason's greenhouses in the north end of the town, we would say that a walk through those extensive plant growing and propagating houses will amply repay anyone for the walk there. These greenhouses, five in number, are heated by five furnaces, and water, which is used in immense quantities, is supplied from the Otonabee river by means of a wind-mill raising it up into a large tank, which then is forced through all the houses and out into the garden supplying water for a fountain, a pond for water lilies, and for watering the beds of plants during the dry weather, giving Mr. Mason all the benefits of the best waterworks. But let us take a walk inside. Our eye at once catches the sight of thousands of geraniums, verbenas in all their beautiful colors, fuchsias and petunias in immense quantities, and what numbers of the beautiful white calla are here massed together. Now here we get lost in the endless names of plants; but let us take a look at those beautiful foliage plants which nearly fill one house, their leaves embracing all the colours of the rainbow and in this way making up for the lack of flowers. But it is impossible to give anything like a description of these houses—you must go and see for yourself. 17-1.

A Press Libel Suit.

We quite concur in the following estimate of our contemporary the Cobourg World of a libel suit tried in that town last week, and we fancy the publisher of the Free Press will have at least $25 worth of satisfaction in the liberty which the suit affords him, of publishing, without any fear of "damages," the history and antecedents of the "libelled" individual :—

PRESTON [illegible] somewhat interesting libel suit was tried on Tuesday and Wednesday, which has a bearing upon the so-[illegible] newspaper men towards each other. The damages were assessed at $25; but, through Mr. Preston thus secured a verdict, we cannot congratulate him either upon the result, or upon his own conduct in instituting the suit. As a journalist, we may be permitted to not somewhat as an arbitrator between our brethren of the Press; and we must say that we think Mr. Preston showed very little spirit and very little judgment, in entering upon the proceeding. He clearly commenced the disgraceful [illegible] for the paragraph from the Free Press gave him that [illegible] as he said, to let the public see the reliability of the man who was assailing himself,—and at the same time fearlessly publishing the plaintiff's article under his own,—instead of bravely defending himself in the same form which he had selected for the attack, he rushed to court to ask a jury to punish a man for doing, though in a less offensive manner, exactly what he had done himself. We say, first, that the man who could write [illegible] which appeared in the Voice deserved to most [illegible] which a newspaper could give him; and second, that when he had been more guilty than his antagonist, he showed precious little spirit in running to the courts rather than defending himself. He asked for $10,000 damages, and got $25. And even this amount, the jurors declare, he would not have got but for the persistency of one of themselves. At first, seven jurors were for giving a verdict for the defendant; and afterwards, as a compromise, eleven consented to a verdict for the plaintiff, with a shilling damages. Before them ten minute longer sat, the matter was finally settled with a verdict for $25. This shows a peculiarity of the working of the jury system on which we may comment at some other time. We think the whole course of the plaintiff disgraceful and spiritless; and we think that it is just to say so. If we had made such a mistake should expect a little sympathy for ourselves in this case, we should have been man enough to right it out with him on our common ground, without calling in the help of [illegible] law.

It is understood Mr. John Bright [illegible] to re-enter the Ministry, because he has work to perform in connection with the Irish land question.

St. George's Society.

The 23rd of April—Annual Dinner.

On Friday evening last, being the anniversary of the patron Saint of Merrie England, the St. George's Society of Peterborough celebrated the occasion by a dinner at Chamberlain's hotel, at which some forty members and their guests sat down to a bountiful spread provided by the host with a profuse liberality worthy of the proverbial love of good cheer which is a characteristic of Englishmen all the world over. The bill of fare comprised all that the most fastidious gourmand could desire, and was served up in a style worthy of the occasion. After those present had done ample justice to the hospitality of the Society, the programme of toasts were opened by the time-honored proposal of the health of "The Queen," by Mr. Wm. Helm, the Chairman and President of the Society, which was drunk with every suitable demonstration of enthusiasm, the company singing "God Save the Queen." The "Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," was given with equal honors. The "Army and Navy and Volunteers" was proposed, eliciting a song by Mr. Clarke, and a response on behalf of the volunteers by Mr. J. U. Robertson. The Chairman proposed the health of the "Parliament of Canada and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario." Mr. Toker drew attention to the report which had been current during the day, of the imminent death of Hon. George Brown, one of the most prominent statesmen in the Dominion, and expressed the pleasure it would afford to men of all parties to know that the latest advices were more favorable. He trusted that Mr. Brown's life might be spared to his country. The toast of "St. George's Day" was given with all the honors, and acknowledged by an appropriate song by Mr. T. Bithray. The Chairman proposed the health of the "Sister Societies," coupling the name with the names of Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Cummings of St. Andrew's Society. Mr. Carnegie, as President of St. Andrew's Society, made a suitable reply expressing his sympathy with the objects and work of this Society. He regretted to note some evidence of a falling off of interest in these institutions, which had useful functions and were beneficial to society. Mr. Cummings briefly acknowledged the honor done the Society to which he belonged. The next toast was "Canada our Home," which was ably responded to by Mr. R. E. Wood, who dwelt upon the extent and resources of the Dominion, the freedom of its institutions, and the advantages it offered to its people, and referred with pride to its connection with England, which he hoped might never be severed, though if Canada were ever called upon to meet an independent destiny, she had everything that was needful to make a great and prosperous nation. Mr. I. H. Brook also responded briefly. The Chairman proposed the health of the "Learned Professions," which was coupled with the names of Messrs. G. Edmison, J. E. Belcher and Hilton, and duly responded to by these gentlemen. After a song by Mr. Wm. White, the Chairman gave the "Town and Trade of Peterborough," which was responded to by Messrs. Toker, G. Chamberlain, Foot and Hall. Mr. Carnegie proposed "The Pioneers of Peterborough," coupling with the toast the names of Messrs. F. Edwards, of Dummer, and Edmund Chamberlain. These gentlemen gave some interesting reminiscences of the early struggles of pioneer life, Mr. Chamberlain drawing attention to the fact that the day, the 23rd of April, was at once the day of the nativity and the death of William Shakespeare, an Englishman who had made his name and his country immortal. Mr. Toker proposed the "Agricultural Interests of Peterborough," which was answered by Mr. Hooper. The toast of the "Mayor and Corporation" by Mr. Geo. Edmison, elicited a song from Mr. Belcher. "The Ladies" was acknowledged by Mr. Foot with a song, and by speeches from Messrs. Toker, J. C. Robertson, Hilton, J. G. Macdonald, Wood and Bithray, the latter with a song. The "Press" was modestly responded to by representatives present. Mr. Bithray proposed the health of the "President of St. George's Society," Mr. Wm. Helm, who responded in an interesting address. The final toast was the "Host and Hostess," to which Mr. James Martin, in the absence of Mr. Chamberlain, replied suitably, and Mr. Wm. Bowman gave an admirable song, and another ditto in answer to an encore. The proceedings were terminated by the singing of "God Save the Queen," and the company separated after an evening of most pleasant social intercourse and enjoyment. Mr. Chamberlain deserves credit for the liberal manner in which he catered for the occasion, as may be judged from the following "bill of fare":—

It is beyond all doubt that "Myrtle Navy" is the favorite tobacco with the smokers of Canada. They obtain more enjoyment from it than any other tobacco made and those of them who have used it long enough to test its merits never abandon it for any other brand. The reason this preference is that the "Myrtle Navy" is made of the very finest leaf which is grown and that in every process in its manufacture the most vigilant care is exercised to preserve the genuine aroma of the leaf.

BRYAN'S WAFERS (the great public remedy) have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the certainty of those whom lives and health they have preserved) to be a sure, harmless and eminently satisfactory preparation, [illegible] will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all bronchial affections. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers at 25 cents per box.

The manufacturers of the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco invite the very closest scrutiny of its quality. The expert whose technical senses teach him to recognize the exact quality of tobacco, and the smoker who judges by his experience of qualities that it will both come to the same conclusion that it is of the very highest quality for every purpose to be found. It is made of the very finest Virginia leaf and is remarkable for the [illegible] possible care.

The Printing Swindle.

The "Mail" Disgusted—Finds Tuth Always Hurts Mr. Pepper Grape-Grinder.

The Mail last week, published an editorial in which the following occurs. Matters must be pretty bad at Ottawa, when the chief party organ finds it necessary to refer to the organ-grinder of Messrs Tupper and Pope in such plain terms :

"The present system of letting printing contracts must be radically amended. It may have worked satisfactorily at one time, but its usefulness is gone decidedly. To frame a new system which will defeat the intrigues and conspiracies of the gang of contractors who infest the capital, will not be an easy matter; but it must be done. Bogus tenders must be shut out, and the brokerage business summarily stopped, even though it should be necessary to pass a special criminal enactment to that effect. Nothing short of this will do; and we trust the Government will lose no time in the matter. The evidence shown, however, that M'Lean, Rogers, Charlton, Mackintosh, Barber, Boyce, and and the rest, were all guilty alike and in the same degree. Morally there is no difference between the man who sells and the man who buys a bogus tender, and they were all engaged in this scandalous traffic. The rascality was so gross and so general that it cannot be said to anyone of them that he was a greater or a lesser rascal than his fellows. Mackintosh, in a desperate attempt to break his own fall, sought to make it appear that several Ministerial and Opposition members of the Printing Committee were privy to his bargain with McLean, Rogers & Co., but on being pressed on that point, he backed down; and, moreover, every member of the Committee whose name he dragged into the enquiry, denies the charges. We are satisfied that there is not a man on the Committee who would knowingly lend himself to such a transaction."

The Noble Lords.

The London Advertiser's correspondent describes a recent disgraceful performance in the Senate as follows :—It was a grand field day and the performance certainly cast in the shade any previous occurrence in the Legislative Halls of Canada.

Senator Millar to whom reference has been made previously, made another attack on the reporters and newspaper correspondents, and made a most bitter personal attack on Senator Kaulback.

Senator Kaulback rose to reply, and the old gentlemen's eyes sharpened in

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 29, 1880.

HON. GEORGE BROWN.

The public will regret the fact that Hon. Geo. Brown, who was a short time ago the victim of a vile attempt at assassination, and who has since been reported recovering from the effects of his wound, has suffered a serious relapse, and has been lying for several days past at the point of death. The latest news is, however, more favorable, and we sincerely hope the hon. gentleman may recover, and be spared to many years of honor and usefulness.

THE LIBERAL PARTY.

We intimated, previous to the opening of the present session, the probability that during the session, Hon. Edward Blake would be formally appointed leader of the Liberal party, and entrusted with the guidance of its fortunes. We were correct in our anticipation that Hon. Mr. Mackenzie would, of his own motion, strengthen the party of which he had been at the head for the past few years, by voluntarily resigning the position to which the general will of the party, and the public thought of the majority of the people of the Dominion, assigns Edward Blake. At the conclusion of Tuesday evening's sitting of the House, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie announced his withdrawal from the leadership, and received a graceful compliment at the hands of Sir John Macdonald in doing so, for his ability and zeal in the public interest while occupying that position.

THE CANADA PACIFIC.

We briefly noted last week that the motion of Hon. Mr. Blake to postpone the construction of this railway in British Columbia, had been voted down in the House of Commons by a very large majority—that in fact no amount of reasoning, no consideration of the interests of the country, no reflection upon the ruinous consequences of the mad extravagance of the Government, was sufficient to overcome the blind obedience which the Conservative partisan gives to his leaders, regardless of consequences. There is no doubt, however, that more than ordinary effort was required on the part of the Government to make their followers a unit on this occasion. The representatives of Quebec were unusually restive, and objected to voting down a motion like that of Mr. Blake's, which re-affirmed the policy three times previously declared by the almost unanimous vote of Parliament; and there appears to be some reason to believe that the Government had to offer them some concession, probably the purchase of their local Government railways, to induce them to sanction this reckless squandering of money in British Columbia. Even the Ontario Tories were dubious, and it is a question if they could have been induced to swallow the monstrous fallacies and fantastic mathematical calculations which were put forth by the Government as their only excuse for persisting in their reckless policy as to expenditure, had not the way been made easy for them by an ill-advised article in the Globe, which appeared in the very nick of time to relieve them from the dilemma in which they were placed by Mr. Blake's motion. However, being thus relieved, or rather being furnished with an excuse for their action by their chief critic, the policy of the Government was accepted, and Mr. Blake's motion was voted down. It was never anticipated that the supporters of the Government would, in any event, by their votes, condemn the Ministry; but it might have happened, as was in former years frequently the case, that the supporters of the Government would have forced their leaders to amend their Pacific Railway policy, and make it more in accordance with common sense and public opinion. As the matter now stands, the Government are authorized by Parliament to proceed with the construction of 120 miles, a single section in British Columbia, to cost from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000. That will cost the people of Ontario and Quebec one half a million of dollars each year of increased taxation, to pay the interest on it. Then this road will have to be maintained at the public expense, which will cost another $300,000, since it never will nor ever can earn enough to pay grease for the car-wheels, till the whole road is completed. To place that useless section,

$10,000,000 in a position of utility, or open it up for any traffic that will ever be available, it will be necessary to go on and complete the whole British Columbia portion of the railway, which will cost, according to the engineers' estimates, $35,000,000, and then these ten millions are only hostages for the squandering of the thirty-five millions which have got to tallow, and following which there will be an annual tax of $2,100,000 upon the already over-burdened taxpayers of the country, for interest alone. And all this expenditure must take place without regard to the other portion of the line, the really essential portion of the railway, required to establish connection between the great West and the tax-paying Provinces, to open up the way thither for the immigrant, to afford him markets for his produce, and which would give the industries of Ontario some compensation for their grievous taxation, in the supply of manufactures to the west, which, except this portion of the railway be built, will accrue to the United States. The squandering of these millions, prematurely expended by the unwise policy of the Government, in that section least required and which will be the last to become of utility, must postpone the building of the eastern section of the road, so essential to Ontario and Quebec, or, at all events, cripple the power of the Government to press on with its construction as should be done. It will press unnecessarily upon the tax-payers of the country at a time when they are least able to bear additional burdens, and it cannot but be regarded as criminally foolish to mortgage the credit of the people to such an extent, for an unnecessary and unproductive work—a work which will neither add to population nor increase trade—at a time when the interests of the Dominion call upon its people for the speediest completion of through connection by rail from the seaboard to the Saskatchewan. The sole justification offered by the Government in support of their policy, was based upon a calculation made by the Premier, of the probable immigration into the North-west during the next eleven years, in which he assumes that the Dominion will have received revenue from the settlers to balance the expenditure, or a large portion of it, to be incurred. That calculation is as follows:—

	Estimated Number of Settlers.	Estimated Number of Acres Taken Up.	Estimated Revenue.
1880	25,000	480,000	$ 304,000
1881	30,000	540,000	404,000
1882	35,000	640,000	781,000
1883	40,000	800,000	1,320,000
1884	45,000	980,000	2,022,000
1885	50,000	980,000	3,320,000
1886	55,000	1,120,000	4,112,000
1887	60,000	1,120,000	5,056,000
1888	65,000	1,320,000	5,333,000
1889	70,000	1,440,000	6,677,000
1890	75,000	1,440,000	7,562,000
	550,000	10,880,000	$38,603,000

It is hardly necessary to point out the monstrous absurdity of recklessly entering upon the expenditure of millions, to borrow which the property of the people is mortgaged and their earnings taxed for interest thereon, on such a visionary basis—for these calculations are purely fanciful and imaginative, and may be verified in the future, or may not. It is possible, it is true, that within eleven years we may induce 550,000 immigrants to settle in the North-West, but is it probable that such will be the case, in the face of that other part of the calculation, that if they do settle they will be taxed to the extent of nearly forty millions of dollars? In fact, there is nothing in the experience of this or any other country to justify the assumption that that population can be thrown in, and made to contribute that amount of revenue, in so short a period. On the contrary, the rate of emigration from Europe has been steadily decreasing, nor is it at all likely that at any future time there will ever be so large a movement of European population towards America, as that by which the Western States were settled. It is to be remembered, too, that the principal portion of the immigration going into Manitoba, now and heretofore, is from the older Provinces, so that it is only the transfer of taxpayers from one part of the Province to another that is accomplished. We may look hopefully to the possibilities of the future; we may hope to see our great West rapidly populated and developed; we have every confidence in its future: but we may not reasonably expect its progress to be so unexampled as calculated by the Government—far less ought any statesman to make expectations which may never be fully realised, and which could only be realised by the most favorable conjunction of circumstances, the basis of a load of debt which must cripple, if not paralyze, the industry of the country and seriously retard its advancement. Parliament has failed to recognise the wisdom of Mr. Blake's proposition; but we believe the intelligence of the people approves the course which he vainly endeavored to induce the Government to take, and we are sure they will find bitter reason, within the next few years, in the increased and grinding exactions of the revenue, to rue the unpatriotic obstinacy of the Government in refusing to listen to the voice of wisdom or the dictates of prudence.

GLADSTONE THE BRITISH PREMIER.

The Ministerial crisis in Great Britain is ended, Mr. Gladstone having accepted the duty of forming an Administration. Mr. Gladstone will be Premier, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and leader in the House of Commons, three offices the most laborious in the Administration, and all for one salary. The other appointments, so far decided upon, will be found in another column. Lords Hartington and Granville, in obedience to Royal command, went to Windsor on Friday last, and on their return drove to the residence of Mr. Gladstone, who went to Windsor Castle the same evening. The entire route to the station was lined with people who cheered vociferously. Beaconsfield first advised the Queen to summon Lord Hartington. This enabled the defeated Premier to show his dislike to Gladstone, and at the same time to fall in with the Queen's personal wishes. Lord Granville was then called in, but both these gentlemen, true to their fealty to Gladstone, and knowing well they could not form or carry on a government without him, frankly told the Queen so, and although there were negotiations and delays, the Queen at last recognised her duty, and called in the only man in the country who could form a Government in accordance with the popular will. The late leaders, Lords Granville and Hartington, who have acted in the most loyal manner throughout, gladly welcome back their old chief, and the indignant feeling of the country at the threatened rejection of Gladstone, has been stayed. Beaconsfield's feeling of hate and revenge has been crushed in the bud, and the Queen has been taught once more the wholesome lesson, that in arranging out the wishes of the people she is but their mouth piece and servant. Reports of interviews between the Queen and Beaconsfield, represented the former parting in tears with her beloved adviser, and the latter instilling in the Queen's mind a distrust of the Liberal's foreign policy should Gladstone direct it. The same effort was put forward to gladden despatches. Private letters from European Courts and Foreign Office Agents were made instruments of Tory misstatements, reiterating complaints of Gladstone's hostility to existing schemes and fatally comparing to which Beaconsfield had happily consented. The occasional delay in the forming of the Administration has been to some extent contributed to by two leading Liberals, Right Hon. Robert Lowe and Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the former of whom had strong opinions in reference to the franchise at variance with his party, and the latter having a personal pique at Mr. Gladstone. Both these gentlemen have, however, set aside their personal predilections in deference to the undoubted will of the nation, and the former yields to the policy of the party, while the latter will serve under Gladstone as a member of the Administration. Lord Rosebrough and Lord Derby refused a seat in the Government that mercenary motives might not be attributed to their loyal support to the Liberal leader. The Liberal press generally, are cordial and sympathetic in their support of Mr. Gladstone, and even some of the most timid are beginning to think that he is not so much of a radical after all.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

NOTHING better illustrates the monstrous folly of "protecting" the Canadian farmer by a duty on wheat, than the fact that from the day the N. P. went into force in March 1879 to Feb. 1st 1880 only 2,336 bushels of wheat were entered in this Province for consumption.

A SCHEME has been drawn up with the approval of the Canadian Government for the establishment of an army reserve, to consist of 10,000 men drawn from the Dominion militia, who will be liable to service in the Dominion, England, or abroad in the event of Great Britain being involved in war.

A RETURN LAID before Parliament this session shows that the farmers of the west of this Province were taxed $55,469.97, on 739,591 bushels of Indian corn bought in for the purpose of fattening stock. Thus they are robbed of that amount exactly, where under the old tariff there was no tax whatever. This duty was collected between March 14th 1879 and February 1st 1880.

THE EFFECT of the N. P. on the workingmen employed in the cotton trade in Cornwall is graphically described by the Freeholder, in referring to application of the Cotton Company for a new bonus. That paper says: "Here is an institution making enormous profits, wealthy in every sense, protected by the Government to the extent of forty per cent., grinding down the wages to a starvation point, and free from all taxation, whilst the poor man is loaded down with taxes, rapping at the door of the Corporation for $8,000 more, and cash down at that."

Campbellford.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—A sad accident occurred at the woollen mill here on the morning of Friday the 23rd inst., causing the death of a young woman named Ellen McKeel. By some means her clothing came in contact with the main shaft and she was drawn in and carried around at a fearful rate. She lingered till the afternoon of the following day, when death ended her suffering.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.—On Sunday morning, about two o'clock, Mr. Boyd's lime-kiln, together with its storehouse, was destroyed by fire. There were 500 barrels of lime ready for shipment, a large quantity of wood and a horse used for hoisting the stone to the kiln, all of which was burned. The fire originated from sparks dropping on the storehouse.

THE WEATHERUP INFANTICIDE CASE.—At the Assize Court, at Cobourg, Mary Ann Weatherup was charged with murdering her infant in the township of Hope in October last. There was a considerable sensation in Court when the father and mother of the prisoner both declared that what they swore before the Magistrate and the Grand Jury relative to their daughter having a child, was false; that the magistrate and constable had scared them into telling a falsehood, and that what they said then was not the truth, but that they were now telling the truth, and that was that their daughter never had a child in their house. The prisoner was acquitted and her father was arrested for perjury.

A NARROW ESCAPE FROM SUFFOCATION.—The Guide says on Monday morning at the usual hour Mr. J. L. Irwin came down town, and as was his custom, went to his son's photograph gallery, which had been left during his son's absence in charge of Mr. Bert Eyres, who was engaged with Mr. Irwin in the photographing business. Mr. Irwin tried the door, and found it locked; he went away and returned in about an hour, but the door was still locked, and on further examination, it was found to be locked on the inside. He then thought that something was wrong. When the door was finally opened the room was full of coal gas, and Mr. Eyres was lying insensible on a lounge. It seems he had laid down on the lounge after closing the dampers of the coal stove, and neglected to adjust the cover which had been removed in putting in coal. A physician was called, and we are happy to state that he has recovered his senses, but will feel the effects of the stupefaction for some time to come.

A 'Frisco Tragedy.

COLD-BLOODED ASSASSINATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 26.—About 8 o'clock on Friday night J. M. Kalloch, son of the Mayor of the city, stepped into the Chronicle office and began firing deliberately at Mr. Charles De Young, who sought to escape his assailant, but was killed by the fifth discharge of the revolver, the ball lodging in the base of the brain. Kalloch was immediately seized and made no resistance, taking the slaying of his victim in the most matter-of-fact manner possible. This assassination arose from a previous feud between the families, the worst feature of which was the issue of a pamphlet believed to be written by Charles De Young and which gave Kalloch's record in Boston in a manner that greatly exasperated the father and son, who are believed to have plotted the death of De Young. There is no sympathy manifested for the De Young family, and when the corpse was brought out into the street, the crowd, which was calmly drawn from the Sand Lots, jeered mercilessly. The latter class of citizens made no demonstration. Trouble is feared from Mike De Young, who may attempt revenge on Mayor Kalloch.

THE CHIEFS ENDED.

Mr. Gladstone Premier.

Formation of a Ministry—Successful Rifle Competition—Shooting of Parnell Announced.

LONDON, April 28.

Lord Hartington and Earl Granville went to Windsor this morning. On their return they drove to the residence of Mr. Gladstone, in Carlton House Terrace, and it is believed Earl Granville conveyed the Queen's request for an interview with the right hon. gentleman. In the evening Mr. Gladstone himself went to Windsor Castle in obedience to the Royal command. He started alone, and was loudly cheered when he entered the train.

RESULT OF THE VISIT.

The result of Mr. Gladstone's private conference with the Queen, at Windsor, is understood to be entirely satisfactory. The Liberal leader left Windsor by the 8.15 train. The entire route to the station was lined with people who cheered vociferously. The immense crowd rushed with wild enthusiasm to the station, and there formed on either side of Mr. Gladstone's carriage, from the window of which the great orator addressed them, and thanked them for the reception. The people of Windsor state that the ovation is the greatest ever remembered. Rumors respecting the issue of the visit have it that Mr. Gladstone has consented to form a Cabinet, the names of which he will submit on Monday or Tuesday. Arriving in London Mr. Gladstone was met by Lords Granville, Hartington and Wolverton, and Mr. W. P. Adam. Mr. Adam informed a representative of the Press Association that Mr. Gladstone had undertaken to form a Cabinet. It is stated that Mr. Gladstone will again take the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, and that Earl Granville will preside at the Foreign Office.

A TORY CONSPIRACY.

LONDON, April 25.

The announcement to-day that the crisis was ended with Gladstone as Premier, occasions equal relief and enthusiasm. I do not believe real danger has existed, but the Queen was sure, sooner or later, to recognise her duty; but I do believe that her Tory advisers did their best to create danger. I am obliged to add that two leading Liberals abetted the confederacy against Gladstone; both will nevertheless be members of the new Administration. These two excepted, the Liberal chiefs, Granville and Hartington included, heartily welcome Gladstone's return to the leadership, which he ought never to have quitted, but which he only resumes because of the urgency of his colleagues and the overwhelming demand of his party.

The fears expressed lest his health would be unequal to the burden of the Premiership, Gladstone responds to by adding the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, making, with the leadership of the House of Commons, three offices the most laborious in the whole of the Administration, and all for a single salary.

INSULT TO HARTINGTON.

A trivial incident intensified the popular feeling. Lord Hartington, not finding the Royal carriage waiting at Windsor, walked from the railway station to the Castle, and returned on foot from the Castle to the railway station through a pouring rain. Some newspapers, especially the Standard, commented on this intentional discourtesy, contrasting the careful attention paid to Beaconsfield whenever he visited the Queen. Three inconsistent explanations are published. The Castle officials, who were publicly accused replied that Hartington arrived before he was expected, but they fail to explain why he walked back. The Queen is doubtless ignorant of the foolish slight offered, but it indicates clearly a hostile feeling towards the Liberals prevailing at the Royal Household.

When Gladstone went to Windsor yesterday, the officials having learned a lesson, had a carriage ready. Gladstone received a hearty public welcome at Windsor, although it is a royal borough and commonly takes its tone from the Castle. Enthusiastic crowds assembled at the railway station at London, and at Gladstone's house in Harley-street last night, returning to disperse till Mr. Adam announced that Gladstone was Premier.

DELIVERING UP THE SEALS.

LONDON, April 26.—All the members of the retiring Ministry will quit their official residences to-morrow. Members of the retiring and incoming Ministries are expected to go to Windsor Castle to-day to deliver up and receive their respective seals of office. Beaconsfield, it is expected, will stay at Hughenden for some weeks after he leaves Windsor. The appointment of Gladstone is well received at Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg, and Rome.

THE ADVANCED LIBERALS.

LONDON, April 27.—The Standard states that no further appointments to the Cabinet have been made owing to the circumstance that Gladstone has been unable to settle the claims of the advanced Liberals. All yesterday was spent in fruitless negotiations. Gladstone offered Sir Charles Dilke the Under-Secretaryship of Foreign Affairs, but it was positively declined, on the ground that room in the Cabinet is claimed for one of Sir Charles' section of party. It is stated that Goschen has declined a Governor-Generalship.

The News says that Lord Rosebery has declined any place in the Government, on the ground that he might be suspected of receiving it in return for services rendered Gladstone in Midlothian. It is announced that the Queen will hold a council to-morrow, when it is expected the new Ministry will be sworn in.

The Telegraph announces that Sir William Vernon Harcourt has accepted the post of the Home Secretary. Earl Derby was yesterday offered a seat in the Cabinet, but declined.

The Spectator holds that it is a mistake to regard Gladstone as a Radical. With him at the head, and Earl Granville and the Marquis of Hartington following him, the so-called Moderates will have a right to be considered scrupulously in all things, with the greatest anxiety to satisfy them. In fact, the Spectator expects from Gladstone's Government a policy of sober, practical reform, such as will present the greatest contrast by its plainness, industry and justice, to the policy of the Administration which the country has just consigned to the limbo of political failures.

The Latest.

LONDON, April 27.—The following is believed to be the composition of the new Ministry as definitely arranged:

THE CABINET.

First Lord of the Treasury, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone; Lord High Chancellor, Lord Selborne; Lord President of the Council, Earl Spencer; Lord Privy Seal, Duke of Argyll; Chancellor of the Exchequer, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone; Secy. of State, Home Dept., Sir Wm. G. Vernon Harcourt; Secy. of State, Foreign Dept., Earl Granville; Secy. of State, Colonial Dept., Earl of Kimberley; Secy. of State, War Dept., Rt. Hon. H. C. E. Childers; Secy. of State, Indian Dept., Marquis of Hartington; First Lord of the Admiralty, Lord Northbrook; President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Chamberlain; Chancellor, Duchy of Lancaster, Rt. Hon. John Bright; President Local Government Board, Rt. Hon. J. Stansfeld; Chief Sec. for Ireland, Rt. Hon. Wm. E. Forster.

OUTSIDE THE CABINET.

Attorney General, Sir Henry James, Q. C.; Solicitor General, Farrer Herschel, Q. C.; Lord Chamberlain, Lord Kenmare; Lord High Steward, Earl Sidney; Master of Horse, Earl of Cork; Admiralty Sec'y, Shaw Lefevre; C. Com. of Works, W. P. Adam; Mistress of the Robes, Duchess of Westminster; Viceroy of India, Marquis of Ripon.

The report that Lord Derby was offered a seat in the Cabinet is untrue.

The absence of the advanced Liberals, after long negotiations, has been met by counselling a refit in the Cabinet to Ghost hands, the probability will be President of Board of Trade. Sir E. Baring occupies the position of Under-Secretary of the Foreign Department.

It is finally announced that the late Ministers will go to Windsor by the 12:30 p.m. train, and the new Ministers by the 1:10 p.m. train.

FREE PRESS OF WALES CONGRATULATES MR. GLADSTONE.

A London despatch says the absence of the Prince and Princess of Wales from the wedding of Princess Frederica of Hanover to Baron Powell was explained at Windsor on Saturday last, and the Prince's visit to congratulate Mr. Gladstone, are much commented on.

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT.

April 27.—The Conservatives of Oxford city have determined to contest the re-election of Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt. Parliament will meet at two o'clock on Thursday afternoon next. Brand (Liberal) will be re-elected Speaker of the House of Commons, nem con. The Commons will adjourn on Friday for about a fortnight, to permit of the re-election of the members who take office in the new Ministry.

The Flying Trapeze.—The military gymnasium has brought one victim to grief, Master M. Cottingham sustaining a dislocation of his elbow by a fall from a trapeze on Friday evening.

All those in want of a first-class article in the boot and shoe line will do well to give W. J. Larmour a call before purchasing elsewhere, as he is offering extra inducements to cash purchasers. 11-tf

Street Watering.—The Fire, Water and Gas Committee on Friday awarded the contract for watering the streets to Mr. H. Wainwright, his tender, $288, being the lowest. The water will be taken from Deane & Sperry's mill.

Queen's Birthday.—The Committee of the Peterborough Boat Club are preparing a programme for the 24th of May which will include games and sports during the afternoon and a promenade concert and fireworks in the evening.

Disorderly.—The house of Adam Dobbin, on Simcoe street, was the object on Monday night last, of the unpleasant attentions of a party of scrapegraces who saluted it with a volley of stones and other missiles. Adam has applied to the police authorities for redress.

Accident.—We are sorry to learn that Mr G. W. Pudge, who has temporary charge of the 2nd line of Smith School, had the misfortune last week to fracture his shoulder-blade. The mishap was caused through vaulting with a pole.

New Licensees.—The West Peterborough Licence Commissioners met on Friday last and granted the additional hotel licenses: Town of Peterborough.—Francis Quinn, John Purvey, Mary Barbino, John O'Neil. Bocktors. Jas. Churchill. Watson. North Monaghan.—John Newhall.

The Boot and Shoe Store on George Street, Dixon's Block, closed some time ago by fire has been re-opened with an entire new stock, carefully selected from some of the best manufacturers, and will be sold at very moderate prices. the quality of the stock will be found good. Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods. 17-tfau.

Painful Accident.—On Thursday last two boys named Starr, residents of Ashburnham village, aged 3 and 4 years, were playing with a pitchfork, when one of the prongs of the fork was accidentally thrust through the eye of the younger boy, inflicting a painful wound which will probably involve the loss of the eye.

The Rice Bird.—Mr. John McClelland has recently received from Halifax, N.S., some fine game birds, which with colored darlings brought in from Connecticut, will make a valuable addition to his superior stock. Mr. Walter Paterson, jr., has procured some partridge cochin eggs from Syracuse, Neb., and hopes, if no mishap occurs, to add some valuable and highly-bred birds to his stock.

Advertising.—An exchange says:—"Does cheap advertising pay? Which makes the most profitable bargain—the merchant who pays $20 for an advertisement in a newspaper with a circulation of 2,000, or he who gets the same advertisement for $20 in a paper with a circulation of 200? Reckon up, at an equal rate per hundred, and see if cheap advertising pays? Merchants and others throw away money in cheap advertising."

Travel.—Previously the best from Peterborough to Hastings only went through every other day, but hereafter it is Mr. Calcutt's intention to run the Golden-Eye daily to Hastings to connect with the Grand Junction R. R., calling at Harwood and making connection with the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway. This will be a great convenience to the travelling public, and it is to be hoped the enterprise will be liberally rewarded.

The Gallant Firemen.—The Electric Hose Company have accepted for a uniform a red shirt, collar attached, with the monogram "E. H." in white letters on the front, and with the Fashionable helmet made in Hamilton, caps and belts to correspond, being made by Mr. T. Billington, calculate to cost considerable of a swell when on parade. It might be explained, for fear of misunderstanding, that in connection with the sanguinary-hues shirts, the boys will wear their Sunday pants, etc.

Beaubert.—We have received from an esteemed correspondent at Beaubert some remarks thereon of an exceedingly lively character. No doubt, if these items were published, we would be tolerably certain of a visit from the whole able-bodied population of the village, male and female, with shot-guns and other means of demonstrating their appreciation of Beaubert humour; but as we have no desire to "have" for a short time, and would not like to put the good people of Beaubert to any unnecessary trouble in getting their interesting village by the cars, for the present at least.

Almost an Accident.—The Review of Saturday night contained the following paragraph, under the above heading:—

"Mr. George Mellroy had a narrow escape from being seriously injured on Friday afternoon, while working at Mr. Jas. Bryan's planing factory. It appears he was working at the matching machine, and while clearing in a board his leather apron was caught by the teeth of the machine, and he was drawn with his left arm, and had not Mr. Bryan promptly shut off the power, he would have been drawn in and probably killed. Mr. Mellroy was very much frightened, but extricated him from his perilous position."

The fact is Mr. Mellroy was never in any danger whatever, and the item is quite fanciful.

Destruction.—Our lively contemporary, whose imagination was on its mettle, might have thrown in Mr. Mellroy's husband hastily leaving his overalls and pants company: but we suppose he had to throw the line somewhere.

Grand Masonic Ball.—The grand ball of the Grand Masonic Ball reports eleven patrons to the ball respectively.

Fire Company Election.—On Tuesday evening a meeting of the members of Hunter Hose Company was held at which the contracts for hardy cushions shirts, was awarded to T. Dolan & Co.

The Assizes.—The Spring Assizes will open at the Court House here on the 25th May. According to present appearances Mr. Sheriff Hall will have the pleasure of presenting a pair of white gloves to the presiding Judge, as there are, so far, no criminal cases on hand to be disposed of.

The Golden-Eye.—This favorite passenger and excursion steamer, has this spring been completely overhauled, repaired and refurnished, and it is expected will be ready to commence her regular trips next week. Capt. Dean will again take command, assisted with an obliging and courteous crew.

Street Improvement.—The old bridge on Murray street near Teale's factory has been removed, and the bed of the creek filled up with the refuse from the streets, which has also been dumped along the banks of the creek on the West side of the street to prevent its overflow on private property.

Building Contract.—Messrs. Rutherford & Stanton, builders and contractors, of Peterborough, are building a hotel at Hastings for Mr. T. Congdon. On Monday Mr. Calcutt's steamer King-Fisher towed two barges of material from Peterborough to be used in the building.

Peterborough Temple.—On Monday evening this Temple elected the following officers for the ensuing quarter:—Sister Mrs. J. Mowry, W.V.T.; Bro. A. Russell, W.R.; Bro. J. Mowry, W.T.; Bro. H. Nesbitt, W.F.S.; Bro. G. Dawson, W.M.; Sister L. Misner, W.I.G.; Bro. T. Brown, W. O. G. Mr. Robert Stewart was elected W.C.T., but declined to act.

The Plate-Glass Horse.—In addition to his former orders of plate-glass for shop fronts, some of which are are expected here shortly, Mr. George Smithson has received from the manufacturers in Britain, another consignment of eight large lights of plate-glass, four being for the building of R. A. Mowbray, north-east corner Hunter and George streets, and four for the building of Mrs. Gilmour, on the opposite corner.

Larceny.—On Monday afternoon intimation was given to the police here that a young man named Macdonald, who had been working for Mr. Hayes, in Otonabee, for some time past, had Macdonald accordingly, visited him in a room, the property of a fellow-workman named Davis. On Tuesday afternoon he was arrested and locked up to cool till Friday, pending the arrival of Davis to identify the stolen property.

Attention.—The attention of the readers of the EXAMINER is directed to the advertisement of Mr. R. White, on the fourth page of this issue. The goods are of a superior quality, and pronounced "correct" for summer wear. Purchasers of boots and shoes will find that on examination, of his stock will be advantageous. Gentlemen desiring something "select" should leave their orders early. 16-1t

Re-Sheriff Hall.—The public will be sorry to learn of the serious illness of ex-Sheriff Hall, who on Sunday last was so low that fatal hopes were entertained of his surviving the day. Since then, however, considerable improvement has taken place in his condition, and his physicians, Drs. Harvey and Bell, have hopes that he may rally.

Reported Attempt at Arson.—On Saturday night a man and boy were discovered by Mr. Charles Brown, while crossing the Smith St. Bridge, setting fire to a pile of wood near the bridge, on the Dunre side. With the assistance of Mr. T. M. Croty, he put out the fire which was in dangerous proximity to the bridge, which it might have destroyed if it had gained headway.

Fire at Auburn Mills.—On Tuesday about one o'clock fire was discovered in the "picker room" of the Auburn Mills. It was quickly extinguished by the employees before any serious damage was done, the mills being amply provided with appliances for protection in such emergencies. The accident will not in the least interfere with work at the mills.

Awnings.—Style and uniformity are pretty generally observed by the merchants in the awnings being put up this year, and where that is the case, the disfiguration of unsightly structures is avoided, while shelter from rain and sun is afforded. We observe some very handsome and durable work in awnings on George street, from the establishment of Mr. Turner, of Port Hope.

Town Council.—On Tuesday evening a meeting of the Council should have been held pursuant to adjournment, for the purpose of finally dealing with the Appointment Committee's report and the special audit matter. Messrs. Toole, McNaughton, Menzies, Robertson and Deane filed an appearance, but a quorum not being obtainable no meeting was held. There seems to be an unaccountable difficulty in organizing a full meeting of the Council just now, whatever be the reason.

The Vags.—The Lindsay Post says:—"The result of Mr. Gosler Jackson's admirable system of keeping vagrants committed to gaol constantly employed at work has proved most satisfactory. During the past six months there has not been one reconvicted. We as a vag. gets out of the Lindsay gaol he never wants to go back again. In other gaols in the Province recommittals are numerous." This hint may be found useful at our county gaol.

The Pulpit.—The Rev. Mr. Mulhern occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning last. The Rev. Mr. Tapscott of Stouffville, preached in the Baptist Church on Sunday, both morning and evening. The Rev. Mr. Roberts will preach in the Baptist Church on Sunday morning next. The Rev. D. Mulhern will occupy the pulpit of the Bible Christian Church, Ashburnham, on Sunday morning next; and the Rev. Prof. Burwash, of Victoria College, Cobourg, will conduct both services in St. Paul's Church next Sabbath.

Supply of Water.—The Town Solicitors under instructions from the Fire, Water and Gas Committee have drawn up a contract with Mr. G. W. Ranney, for construction of a tank and system of water supply, as laid before the last meeting of the Council. The tank will be constructed near Mr. Deane's mill and will cost $984.50. It will be a permanent affair and will do away with the necessity of expending $300 a year for water supply. Mr. Ranney commenced work on his contract on Monday, and expects to have it completed on 8th May, the date specified in his agreement.

Boboygeon Bridge Arbitration.—On Tuesday the Arbitrators in the dispute between the Counties of Peterborough and Victoria, respecting the apportionment of the cost of Boboygeon Bridge met at Omemee. The arbitrators are Messrs. John Carnegie, Judge Dean, Lindsay, and Warden Ashley, of Hastings. Mr. A. Hudspeth was present as Counsel for the Victoria Council, and Mr. J. F. Dumoulin on behalf of Peterborough. Evidence was heard for the County of Victoria, and an adjournment was made to the 25th May, when the Arbitrators will meet in this town.

"Mind-Savior."—Last Spring our contemporary the Review waxed virtuously indignant in the cause of the "poor man," alleging that the EXAMINER had insulted the workingmen by alluding to those engaged in street-cleaning as "scavengers," which is the ordinary term for persons engaged in such work. This year the Review invents the elegant, euphonious and highly respectful term "mud-larks" for the same parties. We suppose the workingman's "nobleness in mass," with our contemporary.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Last Friday Mr. Edwards, J. P., presided at the mill of justice, when Arthur Rutherford was charged by Thos. Greenbank with having committed an assault upon him in the township of Otonabee on the 19th instant. Mr. Rutherford admitted the offence but asserted that he had been provoked into it. Testimony as to his good character was offered, and a fine of $1.00 and costs $1.65 was imposed.

Judah Smithson was charged by Thomas Greenbank with non-payment of wages, claiming $28. The evidence was very conflicting, and the case was finally dismissed with costs, $2.35.

On Monday Henry Compton was charged by P. C. McGhee with assaulting Louis Vandervoort, the Italian pea-nut sign lately arrived from Cork. Connors was fined $1.00 and costs.

She made a vigorous appeal to the Magistrate to let off, but the [illegible] was of thirty days in gaol. Peggy having many days [illegible] to spare accepted the alternative of going to gaol.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mr. Mac'———, who died [illegible]

In his manhood's prime;
No earthly skill could his life prolong.
How like to a different clime.
He left our dear one manner ere,
Bound for a one-girt shore;
We did not think that never again
Would he cross it's threshold more.

Many bright hopes and plans he had Laid for a future day,
But the reaper, Death, with his ruthless hand,
Had marked him for his prey.
Kind generous friends, in their island fair,
He found when from home astray,
Who watched with pitying eyes his steps
Grow feebler day by day.

As health returned not to his cheek,
He would no longer stay,
And all things ready he prepares,
To leave for home next day.
That evening fair the tea-bell rings.—
There by a vacant chair;
One wondering thinks, with anxious look,
Why he is not present there.

The time goes on, but still no sound
Comes from the absent one;
Ah! he has answered a higher call—
His earthly race is run.
At last they gently ope the door—
They found him kneeling there;
He was cold and dead, his spirit had fled
As if while engaged in prayer.

Then o'er the form the tidings flashed
Back from that coast of Main,
That he would never more return
To cot in His domain,
For to a brighter world above
His weary soul had fled;
While heart unto his childhood's home
Friends sadly bear dead.

And now, with kindred dust he sleeps,
Close by his parents dear;
Two brothers and three sisters fair
Are also lying near.
On earth he long a follower was
Of the meek and lowly One—
We trust he has heard the blest command,
"Enter thy rest, well done."

Lord help us more, from day to day,
To walk the narrow way
That leads to joy and bliss above
In Heaven's unending day.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 29, 1880.

THE PURSUIT OF A HERITAGE.

'My beloved nephew,' said the Honorable Mr. Brewster, one morning recently, to a large party of guests assembled upon a memorable occasion, 'has developed a talent in his profession as rare as it is commendable, a patience and originality in research, an independence and reticence in action, which evince the highest capability for the pursuit of his noble calling. I have always entertained for him the warmest aspirations, and I now predict for him a brilliant future!'

Then followed a burst of applause and acclamation, in the midst of which the honorable gentleman wiped his gold-ribbed spectacles and sat down. There may have been tears upon those pebbles; probably the eminent barrister meant every word that he said. When he got upon his legs in response to the toast in his nephew's honor and cast that beaming, refulgent look to his side of the table, he considered him probably at that moment not only the light of his existence, but a planet of no ordinary magnitude to a benighted world.

Nevertheless, candor compels me to state that only a short period previous he had called him a disreputable young scoundrel, an idle, unprincipled dog, a disgrace to his name, and blight to his profession.

And he had not had recourse to these strong expressions to relieve a momentary outburst of wrath, but Tom was assailed with them upon all occasions in which he was unfortunate or stupid enough to allow himself to be left alone with his uncle. Mr. Brewster had too much respect for himself and the tie between them to descend to the abuse in the presence of others; he then maintained a cold and severe silence, eying Tom with the malignity of a basilisk, and asking him if he'd have a bit of mutton in the same tone he desired of a hardened culprit the reason why he should not be hanged.

The fact was, the uncle and nephew didn't get on together. The qualities that had descended in a direct line from the remote branches of a respectable genealogical tree were altogether wanting in Tom's composition. The mantle of dignity, eloquence, research, etc., had not fallen gracefully upon his shoulders, but was rather given to lopping aside, and not long since had been nearly trampled under his feet.

It was not Tom's fault that the women-folks had been out late at a festivity the night before, had come down to the morning meal in a rather chaotic state, had sipped their chocolate, dallied with their steak, and come back comfortably to bed. Mr. Brewster insisted that his household should arise at a certain hour, and assemble together at breakfast. His feminines, who had inherited considerable tact that way, complied with the legal form, but shifted its practical requirements; and the worthy barrister, ought to have been the last man in the world to find fault with anything in his own line of business, nevertheless attacked Tom the moment his Cousin Emily's skirts had whisked out the door.

'Have you done anything with those papers of Brown versus Smith, Sir? There were some points there to be elucidated.'

'If you'll point me the points, Sir—' began Tom, meekly.

'Hah!' snarled his uncle; 'that's your business, Sir. But the fact is, where talent and inclination are both wanting in the pursuit of a profession, it had better be abandoned. I recommend to you the vocation of a mountebank, or strolling musician, or a master of dancing. Yah!' And, impelled from the tip of his uncle's boot, there sped across the room to Tom's feet a ragged mop of a Skye terrier.

'If that dog isn't out of the house this very day,' roared his uncle, 'I'll have Wilkins pound out his brains. What with your dogs and your women—'

'Sir!' cried Tom indignantly.

'Would you rather I'd call them ladies? In truth, the honorable name of womanhood is disgraced by those beloved and forbeloved puppets of fashion with whom you squander your time, with whom you go round and round on tiptoe, contracting your muscles and bending your spine, whose chains of wool you hold upon your idle hands, with whom you drum and thrum, making the air hideous with your wretched rhymes and disorganized song. But I warn you, Sir—I warn you, not one penny of your fortune shall be yours unless you comply with the decrees of your father's will.'

'Keep my fortune!' cried Tom, thunderstruck with surprise. 'You're welcome to it, Sir.'

He went now to his meals and attended to his studies, seriously and sadly. His notes mounted, his list of briefs [illegible] quadrupled over the [illegible] month.

'Good-by, Sir,' said Tom. 'We may never meet again. It is possible I may be driven to embrace one of the vocations you have mentioned, and in that case, Sir—'

'In that case, Tom,' said his uncle, calmly, 'you'd better take your dog along. He will, no doubt, prove a valuable accompany.'

Tom lifted his terrier Tag by his head from the floor, put him in his overcoat pocket, and went out without another word.

Shortly after, he sang plaintively, twanging the air upon the strings of a rusty guitar,

"The only one that's left me in this little day of mine."

Tom was sitting upon the top of a cage filled with white mice; at his side was the stronghold of a tarant; a profuse and vindictive parrot shrieked and shrieked upon a bronze ring over his head; some wild-eyed doves cooed together upon a still higher shelf; and around and about him quenched and chatted various specimens of the animal-creation.

A little old man, not unlike the terrier at Tom's hips, whose beady eyebrows overhung two sharp fiercy eyes, his projecting forehead fringed with hair of rusty brown and gray, his long thin arms and legs clad in a leathery material that defied the wrath of ages, ingeniously moulded the broken wires of a cage, and nodded his head as Tom ran on, sometimes approvingly, sometimes warningly, but principally with the air of one who humored while he deplored.

This old man was a celebrated dog-dancer, and kept a queer old mart for the sale and exchange of fancies in ornithology, the canine tribe, and even the rarer specimens of reptiles. It was situated pretty well on the east side of town, at the confluence of a labyrinth of streets, and occupied the whole lower part of a structure that had held its own in the old days of colonial grandeur. A Corinthian order of architecture prevailed on this ground-floor, which facilitated the arranging and housing of his large family comfortably and securely, yet with an eye to the picturesque and the striking.

Tom had strolled for many a year through the catacombs of this subterranean retreat, and had grown to be extravagantly fond of the tumult, the strife, and even the peculiar odor that pervaded the premises.

When particularly tired of the prim opulence and mathematical splendor at his uncle's domain, he would plunge down into the very bowels of Joe Comstock's lair, and ramifications there for half a day.

'The fast is, Joe,' he said, upon the morning in question, 'this poring over a musty old page and sifting out the chiconeries of dead and gone sinners is not in my line. I decline to cut further by the ears an already distracted world. Wherever money is, it is pretty sure to be enjoyed, and he only knows its loss who has been once its possessor. What does it matter if somebody somewhere is reveling in the enjoyment of a handsome income, and perhaps walking over our heads in blissful unconsciousness thereof, is the rightful owner of the same? But all this causes my uncle sleepless nights. Tons and tons of documents are poured in to him by malevolent pursuers of these different heritages, and he demands of me the labor of a Hercules in their behalf. Now I have a constitutional objection to labor of any kind, pertinently to looking for any thing. I always wait till it turns up. But hark, Joe!'

Down from some unknown heights, becoming fainter as it ascended the stone staircase, came the clear virginal voice of a young girl:

"Loss, loss is!" it sang. "Les jours se passent, vides—miserblement—"

The sister intended in vain for more—even the sad sweet echo was lost. He sighed, and said, in conclusion, there were more enchanting sounds came to him in one half hour in Joe Comstock's cellar than would reach him in half a century at his uncle's domain.

'It's that French gal, Val'ry,' said Joe. 'She sings that way sometimes till she gets my people down here to screechin' their prettiest. There was a mocking-bird over there in that square cage that used to know enough to come in at the chorusses. I believe he was in league with the devil, for how otherwise did he know that French jargon? But I got a nice little penny for him by that gal's voice. I have it in mind when mouncseer was a little behindhand with his rent'

'Is she pretty, Joe?'

'Well, as them furriners go, she may be. I wouldn't like to say, boy. If she had good wholesome food to fill her out a little and take that hungry look out of her eyes, she might be a fairish-lookin' young woman, as them furriers go; but her shoulder-blades are too sharp, her head's too little: she's all hair and eyelashes. No,' added Joe, with impartial severity, 'she ain't pretty. I'm afeard she' ugly.'

'And poor?'

'As church mice, Tom. It must come kind o' tough to mouseer to make up the loss o' that d'mond. You see, he works at them precious stones—pecks at 'em day in and day out; makes quite a decent penny at it too, before they had that bad luck, it wasn't so bad. Ma'm'selle looked better then, and sang, Tom, like a thrush in a country hedge. But one day, however it came about, one o' them di'monds got lost. The old woman was worse than usual, and fumin' about between his work-bench and her bed in the corner that little bit of a jewel got lost. Lord! how they did go on up there! I thought the house was afire. It beat the Jews where that stone went to. We hunted high and low for it; the old woman screechin' and mouseir like mad, and he goin' over to her, callin' her his angel, beggin' her not to fret. Talk about Frenchmen! There's plenty of our country people, Tom Brewster, 'd think nothin' when they were put about like that, of shyin' a boot-jack at her head; but blessed if he didn't get down on his knees and coddle that old piece of parchment to sleep! Well, we couldn't find it. It did beat the Jews where that mite of a sparkle went to. We took the whole room to bits, looked in every crack in the boards and every crevice in the wall, shook out every rag of the women's. Couldn't find it; had to give it up; and mouseer he had to make it up. Yes, he had, Tom Brewster; he wouldn't ask for mercy, nor take it if it was offered to him. It all comes of somebody belongin' to him losin' his head on the same plank with the French king. He's that set up about it, he says he's obliged to do what other folks wouldn't think of.'

'And he has to make up the loss of the diamond?'

'Every penny of it boy. There he sits, day in and day out, with that hungry eye of his glued to the glass, his stomach as empty as a drum, and ma'm'selle's song gettin' that low and solemn like it gives me the rickets to listen to 'em. Talk about Frenchmen! Many a one of our country people would walk off and leave the whole kit and boodle of them to shift for themselves. But what shall I do with this 'ere tarrier?'

'Keep him Joe for a while. He breeds too many rows up at the house—shows the muzzle on my furniture, bites my uncle's boots. Playing with the cat the other day he accidently broke her spine. Just keep him a while Joe.'

And Tom Brewster, finding it was nearly time for his uncle to get down to his office, put the gutter down, took a fond farewell of Tag, and fled up the stone steps. As he reached the top, he thought he felt something touch his boot, but hurried along. Three steps further on he felt something touch his hand, which was swinging along at his side. This time he paused, for it was the touch of a woman, and to this Tom was always susceptible. His hat was off in a moment, and although the young girl was pretty shod, wretchedly thin and pale, and [illegible] mother a pitiable-looking creature, there was something about her that won Tom's attention.

She extended to him the plaintively pocket-book, which had fallen upon the boot unheeded, and in the first sound of her voice he had recognized the bewitching Somebody that had mingled into it Joe Comstock's cellar.

He took the pocket-book and [illegible] regarding the wasted face with sad pa[illegible]

[illegible] and brought a fainting head to her shoulder, and seemed not to know [illegible] Tom gazing after her for a full minute and a half.

Then he went on [illegible] once in a while his lips shaping themselves into their accustomed whistle, but no sound issued therefrom; and all that day at the office it was noticeable that young Brewster's musical efforts were singularly abortive. He had been wont to favor his business friends daily with [illegible] upon the opera or ball of the night before, and had even ventured, in an undertone, an entire ballad. As Tom's voice was a fine baritone, these efforts were encouraged, and in the absence of his uncle, the senior member of the law firm, vociferously applauded.

But all that day Tom was silent and preoccupied, absorbed in a reverie in which shadows came and went. He saw a bare, barren room; an old Frenchman with one hungry eye glued to the glass, working his heart out to redeem the malevolence of a stone which lay blinking wickedly, perhaps, close by; an old woman, helpless and bedridden, on a pallet in the corner; a young girl, with a face from which an exquisite "Il Penseroso" might be modelled; and all through the reverie Tom heard from afar, faint and sweet as a mountain echo, that enchanting voice telling him of how passed the feet, and, miserable days.

Early in the day Tom went into the dressing closet, put on the oldest coat he could find, a hat of shabby felt, and [illegible] ear. He met his uncle coming in.

Mr. Brewster constantly found fault with the dandyism of his nephew, but grew purple with rage upon seeing his present shabbiness.

'What—what means this disgraceful masquerading, Sir?' he shouted.

'I will tell you, Sir, later on,' said Tom, in a tone that his uncle afterward remembered.

Then Tom went on in the direction of Joe Comstock's cellar; but instead of plunging down the stone steps, he mounted the high stoop and wandered along through the corridors. Searching each floor, he found the people he sought on the third, in a large room back, and stood for a moment trembling on the threshold.

He, who entered boldly, as with an inherited right, the boudoirs of the fair daughters of fashion, chatted with them for hours together upon the mysteries and rights of the toilet; matched for them with skillful accuracy worsted, silk, chenille, even in rare cases the human hair; whose advice was valued for impatiently and accepted with oath and whose word was authority upon the fine arts, music, the drama—Tom Brewster, the oracle of fashion, pulled hither and thither by rosy hands, coaxed and scolded by ruby lips happy, irresistible, irrepressible Tom Brewster, here in this wind-swept corridor, outside this crumbling and dilapidated wall, on this dingy threshold, Tom Brewster trembled!

The door opened, and he found before him the old Frenchman, his tasseled cap upon his head, his red and inflamed eye bent severely down, his gray hair and whiskers shaggy and dishevelled; but Tom's eyes wandered in and rested upon Valerie. Her face seemed to him indescribably lovely. She was pale, but her pallor was divine. Her exquisite and frail form seemed to Tom like that of some beautiful phantom.

The old Frenchman drew the door closer and looked sternly interrogative.

'Your daughter found a pocket-book this morning,' began Tom, 'that contained considerable money; it is only fair that a proper reward should be given—'

Here the Frenchman interposed. He waved his thin hand, through which the blue veins were strongly marked.

'With that we have nothing to do,' he said; 'we are happy to have rendered the service.'

At this moment an emaciated form raised itself from a bed in the corner of the room; two hollow greedy eyes rested upon Tom

'Be tranquil, ma mie,' said the Frenchman, soothingly, to the sick woman. 'It was a simple courtesy of Valerie's—thy daughter and mine. To take money for that which was so simple and requisite—impossible, quite impossible.'

The sick woman fell back upon the bed, and turned her face to the wall. It occurred to Tom that perhaps she had often wished her husband's ancestor had not lost his head upon the same scaffold with Louis the Sixteenth. Tom was compelled to apologize for his intention of benefiting these people; nothing could be done with Monsieur Jouet—positively nothing. In five minutes he found himself bowed outside by the severe Frenchman, who shut the door so suddenly that Tom almost stumbled down the stone staircase.

'It ain't no use, boy,' said Joe; 'there's them that'd rather die than bite or sup at any body's hands. Then you see his grandfather's head happenin' to tumble the way it did makes it all the harder. There's nothin' can be done boy.'

'Well, I haven't given it up,' said Tom, 'and in the mean while, you know, my name is Tom Brown. I'm only a mechanic of some kind out of work; the only passport up there is irremediable poverty and wretchedness. I can't get work, you see Joe.'

The Most Valuable Gifts—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Affections of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not begus people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary medicine or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine Centers.

Mitchell's Rotundens Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Oilbanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when judiciously compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing medicines ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, THE DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the wonderful qualities which the Porous Plaster contains, and which is imparted to the system, thus causing them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and never run the WHOLE [illegible] PAINS IN THE SIDE AND [illegible] are invaluable to those who [illegible] long standing, and other parts [illegible] trouble. Some even tell us [illegible] these wonderful Plasters [illegible] Consumption.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1878. Cash	For 1878. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$288.20	$288.20	$288.20	$288.20	$288.20
2	10 Pay Life	5,000	280.60	280.60	280.60	280.60	280.60

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association (further to) had the Profits on the ordinary Participating PLAN, allowing a bonus of 4½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1 For 1877. Cash ..... $97.32 Bonus $288.20
" " 1878. " ..... 65.83 " 280.60

It will at once be seen that such a system on this last named principle is to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums. The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are obtained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And combining a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each holder proportion in which each has contributed to profits

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 13, 1880.

THE LATE HON GEO. BROWN.

The people of Canada, of all shades of political sentiment, and of all classes, creeds and nationalities, will learn with profound regret of the loss of one of the most prominent figures in Canadian public life, in the melancholy death of Hon. George Brown, which end event occurred at his residence in Toronto on Sunday morning last at two o'clock.

In that invaluable work, Mackintosh's Parliamentary Companion, we find the following summary of Mr. Brown's political career and public services:—Hon. George Brown was the son of the late Peter Brown, a merchant of Edinburg, Scotland—who, in 1830, emigrated to New York, where he edited the British Chronicle newspaper, and thence in 1843, moved to Toronto where he established the Toronto Banner as an independent organ of Liberal Presbyterian views—by the only daughter of Mr. Geo. Mackenzie of "The Cottage," Stornoway, Isle of Lewes. The late Mr. Brown was born in Edinburg, on Nov. 29, 1818, and consequently was but a few months over 61 years of age at the time of his death. He was educated at the Edinburg High School. In 1844, Mr. Brown founded the Toronto Daily Globe, and up to the time of his death conducted that journal with power and ability, and with almost unvarying success. In 1844 he founded the Canada Farmer, now merged with the weekly Globe, which has also been a very successful venture. Mr. Brown sat for Kent in the Canadian Assembly from 1851 to 1854, for Lambton from that date till 1857, when he was returned for both Oxford and Toronto, electing to sit for latter place. From 1858 he sat for South Oxford till the date of Union. He unsuccessfully contested Haldimand in 1861, Toronto East in 1861, and South Ontario in 1867. He was created a Senator in December 1873. Besides his duties as a public man and as Managing Director of the Globe Printing Company, Mr. Brown was one of the most successful and extensive cattle traders in Canada and his herd at Bow Park, had a fame which extended beyond the limits of Canada. He was also member of the Senate of the University of Toronto. He was a member of the Commission appointed to enquire into certain alleged abuses in the management of the Provincial Penitentiary, Kingston, in 1849. Was for many years leader of the Reform Party of U. C., and as such called on to form a Government for late Provinces of Canada, 2 August 1858, which he succeeded in doing in co-operation with the Hon. A. A. (now Chief Justice) Dorion. Before it was possible for the members of his Administration to be re-elected, the House of Assembly passed a vote of want of confidence. He consequently determined to dissolve Parliament, but the Governor-General (Sir Edmund Head) refused to grant a dissolution, when Mr. Brown and his colleagues at once resigned. He again entered Executive Council in June 1864, as a member of the Administration formed to carry out the scheme of Confederation, being leader of the Reform section, then in a majority in the House, as Mr. J. A. Macdonald was leader of the Ontario Conservatives, and Mr. Cartier of the French Canadian Conservatives. Mr. Brown had in the Session of 1864, obtained a Select Committee to enquire into and report such changes in the constitution as might satisfy the just expectations of Western Canada. The committee reported in favor of a Federal system, which was afterwards established. He resigned 21st December 1865, after the Confederation scheme was arranged, though the Imperial Act was not passed, owing to his disapproval of the policy of the Government, with reference to a Reciprocity Treaty with the United States. Was a member of the Charlottetown Union Conference, 1864, of that at Quebec in same year, and of the Confederate Council of British North American Colonies for the negotiation of Commercial Treaties, which end in later city September 1865. Proceeded to England as a delegate on public business, 1865, and to Washington, March 1874, on behalf of Canada and the Empire, as joint Plenipotentiary, with Sir Edward Thornton, to negotiate with the Government of United States, a Commercial Treaty. Declined the Lieut.-Governorship of Ont., 1875.

During the long period in which Mr. Brown has been a leading figure in political life in Canada, he has made many enemies, but we are certain there is not one who, now that he has passed away, will not join in the general admission that no man of his time has done more for the people of Canada, or contributed more largely to those labors which had their fruition in a system of self-government perhaps the most free and liberal in the world, then did Mr. George Brown. To his ability, to his energy, to his unswerving sense of duty, and his unfaltering fidelity to the popular rights, we owe in a large measure the fullness of responsible government which now obtains, and to him was chiefly due the credit of sweeping away the odious legacies of Downing street rule, which clung like barnacles to the ship of state long after the flag of responsible government floated from the mast-head. To him, almost alone, we owe the engrafting of the principle of representation by population upon our electoral system, and but for him and his successful and persistent advocacy of the rights of Upper Canada, the conditions which resulted in Confederation would have been long deferred, and perhaps never brought about. Throughout his whole career Mr. Brown's zeal for the popular welfare was that of a true patriot, unstained by a single selfish ambition or design. Personal advantage or honor he never sought nor esteemed, and on several occasions he refused distinguished honors proffered to him in recognition of his public services. The earnest and sincere way he in his advocacy of the views he adopted as to his mind the best for the public welfare, that when at Washington as joint-Plenipotentiary with Sir Edward Thornton, seeking a renewal of reciprocal trade relations with the United States, he refused any remuneration whatever for his services. He was a man of strong but honest feeling. He hated dishonesty or corruption, in public or private life, with a vigorous heartiness, and never lost an opportunity to record his abhorrence of everything in public men or their public actions, that suggested insincerity, inconsistency, dishonesty or disloyalty. He had his faults, but they were of a good sturdy order, and if they repelled those who differed from him, they perhaps tended to increase the devotion of his friends. He was obstinate in his convictions, and occasionally led into violence of expression with those who differed from him, which might be deprecated. But he was, on the whole, an honest and true citizen, a patriot in the highest sense of the word, a man whose loss is a national calamity, and whose labors will endure, for the benefit of his country, for all time to come, and will form the best monument that could be reared to his memory. In his private relations, Mr. Brown was affable and amiable, open-hearted and charitable, and in his domestic life a kind and indulgent husband and father. He married rather late in life, in 1862, Annie, eldest daughter of Thos. Nelson, Esq., of Abden House, Edinburg, and leaves a young family, fortunately amply provided for. With them, and with his brother, Mr. Gordon Brown, so long associated him in his journalistic labors, the public will extend a hearty sympathy in a loss in which all have a share, but which will fall with the greatest severity upon the members of the bereaved family. The circumstances of Mr. Brown's taking off are tragic and unfortunate. Our readers will have the details of the attempt to assassinate him, made by one Bennett, fresh in their recollection. No apprehensions were entertained of any real danger, and his early reappearance in public was anticipated, when a relapse set in attended with a fatal result. The frequency of these attacks upon public men has been noted of late, and it is almost exasperating to reflect that a man in his position, in the fullness of intellectual and physical vigor, with apparently a score of years of honor and usefulness before him, should be struck down without cause or provocation by the drunken freak of a abandoned ruffian.

THE LOYALTY DODGE.

It has been the standing practice of Conservative politicians, on the platform and in the press, to seek to divert attention from any specially nefarious or injustifiable sacrifice of the interests of the people by raising the "disloyalty" howl, and it is not surprising, therefore, to find the Toronto Mail—recognizing in the record of the government during the past eighteen months a terrible indictment before the people, to which no reply in reason or argument can be made, and seeing that sword which its party leaders have prepared for their own destruction, in the hands of so trenchnant an opponent as Edward Blake—abandoning all attempt at justification, and resorting to the old, puerile, frivolous and contemptible cry of "disloyalty," against the leaders of the Liberal party. In a recent issue it discusses this inessente charge and asserts that "Sectionalism and disloyalty are the watchwords of the party "as led by Mr. Blake, and his first lieutenants are very appropriately Messrs. "Huntington and Mills." Edward Blake is a Canadian born, the son of a distinguished Canadian statesman, and himself the first statesman of his generation, a man whose loyalty is as far above reproach as the drivelling scribbler who penned this charge against him is beneath contempt. Hon. L. S. Huntington is a Canadian by birth, the grandson of a U. E. Loyalist, and has been continuously elected to Parliament, election after election, for twenty years, for the loyal county of Shefford. It is beyond the power of his most unscrupulous opponent, to bring forward a single act of his life, a single sentence ever uttered or penned by him, as a public man or a private citizen, to disparage his loyalty to his Queen and country. Hon. David Mills is also a Canadian by birth, and a descendant of one of the band of patriots who proved their fidelity to the Crown in the American revolution, by giving up their all in the new Republic, and seeking homes under the British flag in Canada. Such are the men whom the Mail selects as the specimen representatives of "disloyalty" in the Liberal party! If the Mail would seek the taint of disloyalty in the history of Canadian politics, it must look among its own friends. Would it find the signer of an execration manifesto? Let it look to Sir Alex. Galt, the mock-ambassador at London. Would it have an open advocate of secession from the Dominion? Let it look to the public utterances of Sir John Macdonald. Would it see the heir to the British Crown insulted? Let it look to the insult offered by the friends of the "Chieftain" to the Prince of Wales at Kingston. Would it hear of the representative of the Crown insulted, reviled and abused in Parliament? Let it read the speeches last year in the House of Commons of its Ontario, Monarchs, and Vallins, to which its leader was a contemptible listener. Let it take every disloyal act or utterance since the rotten-egging of a Governor General in Montreal and the burning of the Parliament Buildings, and it will find that of them all, to the head-centred mock-loyalists of its own party, belong all the glory and all the shame. The record of the Liberal party is free from any taint of or connection with any such thing as "disloyalty." But it does not behoove them, while giving honor and allegiance to the Queen, to be "loyal" to her sub-servant, her mock-servant, her ex or her con; and they can not bound to offer that servile submission to Her Majesty's present official advisers in Canada, which and which only, in the opinion of the Mail, constitutes what it is pleased to call "loyalty." When Sir John Macdonald talks glibly of tens of millions as if he had the riches of Cathay in the public treasury, and enters upon colossal expenditures with as little thought of the grinding burdens being imposed upon four millions of people, as if he is were the Czar of all the Russias with the industry of an empire under his heel, it is the duty of any statesman who is loyal to his country, and who recognizes that these stupendous expenditures have got to come from the earnings of those who labor in the field, the forest, the forge and the mine, to protest against the outrage; and because he has done this, Edward Blake is to be called disloyal! When Sir John Macdonald proposed the wasting of $10,000,000 in the British Columbia mountains, Edward Blake said: "This expenditure is unwise; it is imprudent; it is not required; it will be unproductive; the people's industry cannot bear the burden of the increased taxation.' This the Mail calls disloyalty. When Sir John for the mere gratification of the handful of people among whom he was compelled to resort for a constituency, proposed to create two additional judges in British Columbia, at a cost of $32,000 a year, the Liberal party protested, and for this they are called "disloyal." A few days ago, not satisfied with what had already been conceded to the insatiate rapacity of his British Columbia followers, Sir John proposed an additional gift of $250,000 for a graving dock at Esquimalt; and Mr. Blake is told that he is "disloyal" because he opposed the perpetration of this outrage upon the tax-paying Provinces. Nine years ago a deputation came humbly from British Columbia asking to be received into the Union. All they demanded was the construction of a waggon-road across the Rocky Mountains. It was a critical period in Sir John Macdonald's political history, and in a moment of insanity, or something akin to it, he forthwith promised the representatives of 7,000 or 8,000 people, that he would give them a representation of six members in the House of Commons, and a railway from sea to sea, to be built within ten years. Ever since the date of that mad bargain, British Columbia has been like the daughters of the horse-leech crying, "give! give!" and so long as Sir John Macdonald has held the reins of office, their demands have been satisfied out of the earnings of the people of Ontario and Quebec. During the past session these demands have been for thousands, and hundreds of thousands, millions and tens of millions, and the while Sir John gleefully grants all this favored Province asks, the Mail and his organs, cry "disloyalty" in answer to Mr. Blake's protest that all these millions wrest be wrung in taxes out of the industry of the people of these Provinces—of the people of this county of Peterborough. We say, out upon the mock loyalty which sees this injustice perpetrated without objection—nay, with even applause; and give us the honest patriotism which makes its voice heard, even though unavailingly for a time, against that recklessness and extravagance which is squandering the resources of the Dominion, taxing

LIEUT.-GOV. MACDONALD, whose term of office expires on the 18th inst., has been requested by the Dominion Government to retain the position until the 1st July, and he has consented to do so.

HANLAN, the Canadian oarsman, is now at Washington, where he is practicing for the great race with Courtney which will come off on the 19 inst.—If the spirits do not get into the carpenters' tools again.

WHAT a great ado was made in the Tory papers when Mr. Jenkins was appointed Canadian Agent General at London at a cost of $5,000 per year; yet we hear nothing from them now of Sir Alex. Galt, who is paid $15,000 for performing exactly the same work.

WE must congratulate our excellent contemporary the Hamilton Times on its improved appearance. It has been provided with a complete new outfit, and looks as prosperous as we have no doubt it really is. The Times is one of the ablest exponents of Liberal principles in the Province, and is doing good service in a good cause.

HON. OLIVER MOWAT, Premier of Ontario, sailed last week from New York for England. The Ontario Premier's business probably concerns the effort made by the Dominion Government to defraud this Province out of the territory awarded to it by the North-West Boundary Commission.

SIRCH Confederation, as is shown by a return lately laid before Parliament, 118 officials have appointed in the Ottawa Civil Service from other countries than Canada. They constitute nearly one-fourth of all the appointments made. These foreign appointments covered the choicest preferments in the Civil Service, and were mostly made by the party now in power. They show how "Canada for the Canadians" is carried out, in a very striking light.

THE cost of our High Commissioner to England is to be, with "contingencies," $15,000, an annual expense which capitalised would give us $300,000 for some useful public work. And it is further announced in the London Court Journal that "Capt. Edward Pallisar has been appointed Military Attache to Sir A. T. Galt, the newly appointed Canadian Minister in England." Next session we suppose Parliament will be asked for a a vote for maintenance of this additional fuss and feathers.

A MONTREAL exchange says:—"Some time ago we published a statement of the prospects of the Huntington Copper Mine in the townships, which, as our readers will remember, was very promising. Not long ago, however, the stock could have been purchased for a mere nominal price, while lately, we are informed, it has found ready sale on the Stock Exchange in Glasgow at £4 to £5 per share. This, we understand, would make the property worth about $300,000 at the present market value. The property in question is that which was sold a few years ago by Mr. Huntington, and about which we have been treated to so many disparagements by the press and in Parliament."

THE LONDON Free Press, the leading Tory organ of the west, expresses its opinion about the printing scandal at Ottawa as follows:—"There seems to be two methods by which a recurrence of such irregularities might be avoided in the future One of them is the establishment of a Government Printing Office, which should have charge of all the work of that kind necessary to be done; the other, that a proper tariff should be fixed for all the Departmental work, and that it should be distributed with fairness amongst the trade generally. The latter plan may not prove as efficient as the former, but it would be very much better than the perpetuation of a system under which a ring at Ottawa is permitted to gobble up everything, and to do it in a nasty and disgusting way besides."

THE SENATE DID one good thing during the past session. They threw out the Bill passed through the House by a small majority by Mr. Boultbee, with the assistance of some of his Conservative friends, the object of which was to render the Scott Act invalid, by rendering it necessary that an absolute majority of the registered voters, instead of a majority of votes polled, should be required to put he act in force in any municipality. It was a singular fact that an absolute majority of the House of Commons did not vote for Mr. Boultbee's amendment. We are glad to notice that the names of neither Mr. Burnham nor Mr. Hilliard appears on the division list in favour of Mr. Boultbee's motion, the former being absent and the latter voting against it, and for Mr. Ross' amendment. The vote was carried in the Commons by 85 to 56, only 139 members being present, and there is no doubt it would have been defeated in a full House. The Senate, in this case, have, therefore, simply given effect to public sentiment, and prevented a catch vote in a thin House, from rendering abortive a measure of vast usefulness and importance.

NOTES FROM THE ASSESSMENT ROLL.

The Assessment Roll for 1880 having been completed, a comparison with that of 1879, gives the following figures:

	1879	1880.
Number of ratepayers	1,220	1,710
Number of acres resident	1,182	1,167
Number of acres Non-Resident	99	115
Total number of Acres Resident and non-Resident	1,281	1,282
Value of Resident Lands	$2,268,475	$2,151,145
Value of Non-Resident Lands	29,000	71,085
Total Value of Resident and Non-Resident Lands	2,294,115	2,222,230
Value of Personal Property other than Income		256,500
Amount of Taxable Income		107,200
Total value of Personal Property and Taxable Income	292,070	313,690
Total Value and Amount of Real and Personal Property and Taxable Income	2,586,185	2,535,920
Dogs	220	245
Number of Persons in the Family of each Person rated as Resident	6,005	6,375
Number of Cattle	329	327
Number of Sheep	14	19
Number of Hogs	224	68
Number of Horses	291	309
Liable to Statute Labor	139	139

It will be thus seen that there are just one hundred fewer ratepayers upon whom to impose taxes, this year than last, and no doubt the large number of persons continually leaving town, will in the result still further increase this unpleasant falling off. The acreage of the corporation is 1,282 acres. Last year there were 1190 acres resident and 90 non-resident. This year there are 1167 resident, and 115 non-resident—twenty-five acres of town property transferred from the resident to the non-resident list. The value of resident lands assessed is reduced from $2,268,475 in 1879 to $2,151,145 this year, a reduction of $106,930. The total value of assessed property is reduced from $2,584,115, to $2,232,590. The decrease of population shown is from 6,606 to 6,375—a falling off of two hundred and thirty-one, which is being every week considerably increased. We need not point out to any person the lesson these unprejudiced and indisputable facts afford. I is the plain answer to the question: "What has the N. P. done for Peterborough?"

The following are the figures by wards of the assessment this year:—

Wards	R. Est Res.	Non-Res. Real Est.	Personal Property	Income
No. 1	$282,735	$32,210	$27,220	$6,200

" 3	323,045	12,175	39,850	23,650
" 4	296,375	2265	4,750	6,250
	$2,151,145	$71,035	$236,220	$108,950

TOTAL WARD ASSESSMENT.

No 1	Ward	$258,315
" 2	"	1,251,475
" 3	"	382,320
" 4	"	337,050
	Total	$2,158,630

The population, of 6,375, is distributed by Wards as follows:—No 1. Ward, 1,713; No. 2. Ward, 1,549; No. 3. Ward 2,079; No. 4. Ward, 1,084. In Ward No, 1, 1,713 people are assessed at, as nearly as may be, $250.02 per head; in Ward No 2, 1,549 people are assessed at $788.55 per head; in Ward No 3, 2,079 people at $383.22 per head, and in Ward No 4, 1,084 people at $277.62 per head. The population by religions is as follows:—Roman Catholic 1,690; Church of England, 1,420; Presbyterian, 1,892; Methodist, 1,373; Baptist, 242; Bible Christian, 232; Christian 22; Jews, 3; No Church, 1—who is he? These are divided by wards, as follows.

Ward No. 1:—Roman Catholic, 724; Church of England, 447; Presbyterian, 244; Methodist, 238; Baptist, 44; Bible Christian, 26.

Ward No. 2:—Church of England, 415; Presbyterian, 373; Roman Catholic, 340; Methodist, 321; Baptist, 44; Bible Christian, 15; No Church, 1. It thus appears that the man of "no church" is a denizen of Ward No. 2.

INCEST.—At the Assizes held at Cobourg last week a man named James Cooper was charged with a carnal outrage on his daughter, Theodosia Cooper, aged nearly twelve years at the time of the occurrence, which is said to have taken place last fall near Warkworth. The girl herself was the principal witness. She testified that the offence was committed on three occasions, once in the woods and twice in the house during her mother's absence. It came out incidentally that the prisoner had threatened to kill his wife and that she had left his house. The details of the case are of a revolving character, and unfit for publication. The jury were out for nearly two hours and returned with a verdict of guilty. Cooper was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

THE INQUEST.—The Times of Tuesday has the following:—A Frenchman named Thomas Tete, whose house is a few miles from Quebec city, and who was employed in making up the rafts in the new harbor met, his death last night on the G. T. track about half a mile from the depot. The way in which he came to an untimely end is a mystery. From an inspection of the remains it might be surmised that he had been dragged some distance. One arm is cut off and the other torn off, and the head is frightfully cut, while the body from the waist down is entirely uninjured. The deceased, who was about twenty-three years of age, was a jovial sort of fellow and evidently a great favorite with his confreres, who lament his death in terms which are truly pathetic. On Sunday he received his discharge. Beyond this, so far as could be ascertained this morning, his movements could not be traced, until his mangled body was found on the track about three o'clock this morning. The deceased was married, and leaves a wife and two children, but happily had a brother sufficiently well circumstanced to care for them. The relatives have been notified, and the remains forwarded to them for interment.

DEATH OF HON. GEO. BROWN.

DEATH BED SCENES.

PARTICULARS OF HIS LAST HOURS.

OPENING OF THE INQUEST.

Evidence Concerning the Shooting.

The news of the death of Hon. Geo. Brown, which occurred on Sunday morning at two o'clock, reached here on Sunday evening, and although the event had been long expected caused a painful sensation. The particulars of the crime which resulted in his death will be found below in the report of the inquest, and some interesting particulars respecting the period before his death, will be found in the following correspondence:

An Affecting Scene.

The correspondent of the Hamilton Times of Thursday has the following:—"The extraordinary vitality of the Hon. George Brown has enabled him to live until the present, but there are no hopes of his survival. A most affecting scene took place in the bed-chamber of the Senator Tuesday evening. He recovered consciousness for the first time for several days and asked for and recognized several members of his family. He said that he knew he was dying. He would have liked to have lived a little longer to attend to pressing business connected with the Globe and Bow Park farm, but he bowed to the will of the Almighty. He then offered up fervent prayer and requested his family to sing "Rock of Ages." This request was complied with, and the weak old man fell into a peaceful slumber.

His talking of The Cause of his Death.

The correspondent of the London Advertiser writes as follows on Friday last:—I scarcely know whether to write the Hon George Brown as living or dead, for his life hangs on so slender a thread that it may snap at any moment, so that long before my letter could reach you you may have been assured by telegram that all was over. Yet in spite of such a state of things let me send you a few items which may be interesting in any case. Not only was there not a shadow of excuse for the assault upon the Hon. Senator, but there was a good deal which ought to have be spoken the favor and GRATITUDE OF HIS ASSAILANT.

Once and again had the foreman of the department recommended and encouraged the dismissal of the wretched man and once and again had Mr. Brown insisted that he should have another trial, so that it was only after it was apparent he was quite incorrigible that the dismissal actually took place. It was also, I believe quite true that for some time after the wound had been inflicted everything seemed to go on very favorably. All expected that in a short time Mr. Brown would

and be able to appear in court against his would-be assassin. This it is feared, led Mr. Brown to be rather restive under this confinement, and perhaps tempted him to use greater liberties with himself in the way of transacting business and seeing friends than was quite prudent in the circumstances. He was cheerful even to buoyancy, feeling little pain or weakness. His great vitality and exuberant energy led him to believe he could safely accomplish what others in similar circumstances could not with propriety even attempt. Of course, all this told eventually upon his strength, and the subsequent suppuration of the wound added to the difficulties and increased the weakness. His

also affected him injuriously, interfering as it did, with his sleep and exhausting his powers of endurance. In this way his recognizedly great physical force eventually gave out; and though there have always been intermittent seasons of revival, yet upon the whole there has been for a good while past a steady going back, and undoubted evidences afforded even to the most sanguine of his attendants that death was unless such a change should take place as was not likely though not altogether impossible. It is creditable to the good sense and kindly feeling of the community to notice how general and how genuine is the deep and friendly interest displayed in Mr. Brown's affliction, and the honest wide-spread sympathy with his family and relatives. In such a long and active career as his has been, Mr Brown has provoked a good deal of sore feeling and made not a few enemies, yet to-day from a single person, while very many feel the affliction as severely, and speak of it with as deep emotion as if it were their own. You would think that he had never made an enemy, while the appearance of very many is as if they had recently lost, or were about to lose, their nearest and dearest friend. I don't profess to explain the phenomenon. I am merely stating a simple and generally recognised fact.

AN UNKINDLY WORD WILL NOT BE HEARD

The News to the Murderer.

The news of death was announced to the prisoner Bennett on Monday by the governor of the goal. He received the intelligence with apparent coolness, and said he expected as much from a conversation he overheard yesterday. He knew that the wound was a serious one, but he did not expect a fatal result. He was sorry for the accident from the first, and more particularly since it terminated fatally. He did not think his counsel would have much difficulty in convincing an intelligent jury that he did not intend murdering Brown, but the shooting was done in a scuffle. He says he is too poor to employ the lawyer he would like.

The Inquest.

THE MURDERER OF TRIAL — EVIDENCE CONCERNING THE SHOOTING —PREMEDITATED ASSASSINATION.

TORONTO, May 10.—Dr. Johnston, Coroner, opened an inquest on the cause of the death of Hon. George Brown this morning, at 10 o'clock, at the house of the deceased, with the following prominent merchants as the jury:—W. H. Howland, foreman; George Hodgetts, Alexander Henderson, John Irwin, Charles Page, Patrick Hughes, Jas. McGee, A. J. Walker, Wm. Wilson, C. S. Gzowski, P. G. Close, H. S. Mara, Wm. Thompson and George W. Tarter. The jury proceeded to the chamber and viewed the body encased in a rosewood refrigerator. The features of the deceased bore a calm expression. After viewing the remains, adjournment was had until 8 p. m., when the inquest was resumed in the Police Court.

Coroner Johnson of Yorkville conducted the enquiry. Mr. Fenton appearing for the Crown, Mr. W. F. Davis for the prisoner. Mr. W. H. Howland was foreman of the Jury:—Dickson, alias Bennett, between Constables Gregory and Slemin, marched with a firm step into the court-room. On being placed in the dock, he earnestly scanned the faces of those present, frequently turning to take a look at the spectators, who sat behind him, many of them being fellow-workmen of his in the Globe office. There is a perceptible change in the prisoner since his last appearance in the dock, seven weeks ago. He looks pale and haggard, his eyes being deeply sunk in his head. A beard covers his chin, and, in its present ragged state, it rather deteriorates from his look than improves it. He paid particular attention to the evidences that was brought forward, and frequently conversed con with his counsel during the progress of the enquiry.

ARCHIBALD BLUE, night editor of the Globe, testified, after being sworn:—On the afternoon of the 25th of March I entered the Globe office by the rear stairway a few minutes after four o'clock. In passing Mr. Brown's room I noticed the door was open, and saw the prisoner standing in the room. He was leaning against the door, and was engaged in a conversation with Mr. Brown. He did not appear to be excited, or to be speaking in angry tone of voice. Mr. Brown was behind the door, and I could not see him, but could hear him speaking. I passed on to the third story, and on my way up I met one of the employees, John Ives. I had only entered the door of my own room, on this story, when I heard a loud report, followed, by a crash of glass. Then I heard Mr. Brown shout, "Help, help, help; murder, murder." I went down stairs again, but two or three men were above I of me, and they had hold of the prisoner at the foot of the stairs. Mr. Brown was standing three or four feet away with a revolver in his hands. He said to the men holding the prisoner, "Don't harm him, I have got the pistol." I asked Mr. Brown if he was hurt, and he said "he didn't know, he didn't think he was." He also said he felt no pain. At the same time, and, as it were, involuntarily, he dropped his hand to his left thigh. I looked and saw a bullet hole in the front of his trousers. I said to Mr Brown (pointing to the hole) "the bullet has gone in there." He thrust down his hand inside his trousers, and immediately drew it forth with a blood stain on his fingers. The prisoner during this time was in the hands of several employees, and some one sent out for the police. I was in Mr. Brown's room when a policeman came in and got the revolver from him. The prisoner was brought into the room handcuffed, and Mr. Brown said. "That is the man who shot me."

To a Juryman.—I don't think that more than half a minute ensued from the time I passed Mr. Brown's room till I heard the pistol report.

To Mr. Fenton.—The prisoner was within hearing distance during all the conversation with Mr. Brown.

JOHN THIBELS, a Globe printer, was next called. He gave similar testimony as previous witnesses as to the pistol shot, crashing of glass, &c., and making his way to the room of the deceased, where he saw the prisoner in the custody of Messrs. Thompson and Ewan. I passed, added the witness, into the room of the deceased, and saw the deceased with a revolver in his right hand, holding it by the barrel. The deceased, while the prisoner was standing near him, made the following statement:—"A knock came to my door, and I opened it. The prisoner was holding a paper in his right hand, which set forth that he had been in the employment of the Globe for five years. He asked me to sign it, but I told him to go to the head of his department, and and ask him for a certificate of character. The prisoner said that the head of his department would not give him a character. I then replied, 'Go to Mr. Henning and he will arrange it.'" The deceased said something about a hat which I cannot remember. He continued as follows—"I saw the little wretch passing his hand to his pistol pocket. I made a spring and seized his hand as he was bringing it round. I pressed his arm down so that he could not fire it into my body, which, I believe, he intended to do." After Mr. Brown made the above statement, I said, "I wish you to lie down on the floor, so that the hemorrhage would stop." After a little persuasion, he lay down on the floor, and I examined the wound, which I said was merely a flesh wound on the left side. Nothing more occurred until constable Gregory brought the prisoner forward, handcuffed, to where Mr. Brown was lying. The constable asked Mr. Brown "Is this the man?" The deceased replied, "Yes; that is the man." At my request, the deceased gave Gregory the pistol, at the same time saying "That is the pistol" (meaning the one with which he was shot.) A search was made for the bullet, which was found on the carpet at the foot of Mr. Brown's desk. I afterwards handed the bullet to Inspector Stuart. (The bullet and revolver were produced, and handed round to the jury for inspection.) I identify the bullet, which was marked by Dr. Thorburn and handed back to me.

Constable Robert Gregory, being sworn said—On the afternoon of the 25th of March I received information that a man had shot the Hon. George Brown. Going upstairs in the Globe office, I found the prisoner held by Mr. Thompson. I took charge of him, and brought him into an adjoining room where the deceased was. Mr. Brown looked up and said. "That's the man; that's the man who did it." I said to the prisoner, "Do you hear the charge?" and he remained silent. I again said, "Do you hear that; Mr. Brown charges you with shooting him?" He hesitated for a second or so, and finally remarked, "I——I know nothing about it." At my request, Mr. Brown handed me the revolver, which I identify as the one produced. It in the same condition now as when I received it, viz, four of the chambers are loaded, and an empty shell is in the fifth. The barrel of the pistol was warm when it was handed to me, as if it had been recently discharged. I asked the prisoner, "Is this your revolver?" and he said "no." On the way to the station, Bennett said, "This is a big thing." I said, "Yes, it appears rather serious." Bennett further added, "I won't get out of this as easy as the last." On bringing the prisoner to the station I searched him, and found 42 cartridges. In one of his pockets I found a small bundle of papers tied up which the prisoner tried to retain.

The prisoner tried to retain the papers, remarking: "These are the life policies." I took the papers from him, and he became angry, and said, "I will show you up for this yet, Gregory. There is something you have not got, and never will get." I asked him if it was a secret, and placing his hand on his breast, he said "Yes." The prisoner was not drunk, but he had the appearance of a man who had been drinking.

The enquiry was then adjourned. Several other Globe employees were examined, but their evidence was simply corroborative.

The inquest was concluded on Tuesday, the following being the principal evidence with the verdict, which is one of wilful murder against Bennett:

THE MEDICAL TESTIMONY.

DR. AIKENS, being sworn, read the following statement:—"I saw the late Hon. George Brown, in consultation with Dr. Thorburn. He was in bed, in consequence of a wound alleged to have been received six days before. It was on the outer part of the left thigh. The parts in the region of the wound were in a state of inflammation, and bordering on mortification, over a space of about four or five inches. Afterwards I saw Mr. Brown, in consultation, daily, till his death. The skin and other tissues in the above space, down to the muscles, mortified, and after a time were thrown off. The inflammation extended from the mortified parts all around under the skin, in the front and on the inside of the thigh, destroying the tissues between the skin and the muscles for a space of nearly twelve inches along the length of the limb, and several inches in length, necessitating four or five incisions in order that sloughs or cores and matter might escape. Tissues to the above extent under the skin decayed, and came away. The result of this extensive destruction of living parts in Mr. Brown's case were more or less continuous feverishness, disordered sleep, great loss of appetite, general prostration, twitching of muscles, finally total aversion of food, drowsiness, asthenic congestion of lungs, and death. On May 10th, at two o'clock p. m., the post mortem examination was made, including the injured limb, brain, organs in chest and abdomen. With the above recorded facts, and the whole history of the case, so far as observed by me, there is not the slightest doubt in my own mind that Hon. George Brown died from the result of the pistol wound received on the 25th March, 1880.

THE VERDICT.

At half-past nine o'clock the court room was cleared, the prisoner removed to the cells, and the jury left to consider their verdict. At the expiration of one hour, the doors were thrown open, and the prisoner again placed in the dock, when the following verdict was read by the coroner:—

That the said George Brown did, on the ninth day May, instant, come to his death by a wound caused by a shot fired from a pistol in the hands of the prisoner, George Bennett, alias Dickson, which shot was feloniously, wilfully, and of malice aforethought fired on the twenty-fifth day of March last, with intent to kill and murder the said George Brown.

The prisoner was again removed to the cells, the signatures of the jurymen were attached to their finding, and after been thanked by the coroner the Court rose.

BAD WORK—THE CHEESE MANUFACTURER.

The windows of a carpenter's shop belonging to Mr. A. Small were broken last week by some persons who ought to go and be Zalea, or at least go as far as Kingston. Suspicion points out some desperadoes from the east, who went to Peterborough that day, and did not return until late at night. They may stop this work sometime.

Mr. Hugh Spence is making cheese on a large scale this year, as he is getting nearly all the Kidds' milk and some from as Knox, besides a great deal more that is just as good. He has the factory equipped in good style and is prepared to manufacture first-class cheese. The high prices paid for cheese during the winter months have induced a great number to patronize the factory again.

SPEARING ON SANDY LAKE.—It is stated on good authority that this Lake is visited almost every suitable evening by certain parties living on its shores, for the purpose of spearing. This beautiful sheet of water, clear as crystal, and well furnished with broad shallow bays in which are immense numbers of bass, maskinonge etc., affords a great temptation to the spearman, and renders his lawless business easy, pleasant, and profitable. It is a great pity that a lake so picturesque and in every way so well adapted to fishing with hook and line, should be thus robbed of its finny tribe, and that the law breakers should be allowed to go unpunished.

Owing to the cold wet weather the spring work is not so far advanced as it usually is at this season of the year, and the farmers will be forced to work like beavers for the next four weeks, in order to get in their crops.

There was a great deal of wheat sowed last fall in this district much of which has been killed, leaving the farmers sad and dejected; yet notwithstanding the severity of the weather, some expect to reap about half a crop.

Beaufort.

(From a Casual Correspondent.)

MR. EDITOR,—I think your valuable paper the Examiner should have the pleasure of having these few particulars inserted in its columns. There are quite a number of your papers come to this village, but we never see much of the news about our village of Beaufort and I am sure all our worthy friends will be overjoyed to read this little item. When our last correspondent wrote the EXAMINER about the lively character of Beaufort, it seems you were somewhat timid about putting it in your columns; no doubt it is a very sarcastic little place. Our merchants at Beaufort, A. D. Galloway and Robert Montgomery have just received a large assortment of dry goods and groceries. People desiring to purchase cheap articles, please call and see our new stock before purchasing elsewhere. Our respected townsman, the village smith, was surprised the other morning, while going out to the stable, to discover his horse all plastered with mud, from head to heels, from the soil of its head to the crown of its foot. Well, now I only call that a little bit of fun for our young people. When I was young I liked such work as this. Our respected Mayor, S. Wood, of Beaufort, has just returned from Douro, after a lengthy visit. The people all welcomed him back very kindly. Widow Wood is sixty nine and is cutting her third set of teeth. The Georgetown girls have organised a young ladies' German clock, and the young men have to angle for invitations to tick. Our young men are getting quite stylish. They are all getting new buggies to drive their girls around in. There was not such finery in my day. I took the stone-boat—that was if the tires were properly set. The respected people on the south line are very charitable—they put themselves to great trouble to come down every week to give us good advice, how to do this and that, but we don't take much notice to their gab. Our druggists are doing a capital business around here this season and the physicians also. The young men are better customers than any. No more until the next time,

About thirty of the residents of that locality have petitioned for this postal convenience, the people of that vicinity have heretofore to contend themselves with receiving their mail matter when they came to the village on other business, once a fortnight, or perhaps once a month.—Norwood Register.

Extensive Stock of spring and summer boots and shoes to select from at the wholesale and retail store of R. Stanton & Son. 11-tf

At Half Mast.—The flag floated at half mast at the residence of Mr. John Ladenis, on Tuesday, in respect to the deceased Hon. George Brown.

If any one going to the North-west or else where needs a tent they had better call at L. Robinson's. They have got all sizes, shapes and prices. 19-tf

Larceny.—John Newton, on Tuesday, laid information before the P. M., against his wife Julia, on a dangerous lunatic. A warrant was issued for her arrest.

The Lumber Trade.—The first drive of the season, a small lot of 5,000 saw logs for W. J. Fowlds, of Hastings, passed down the river on Friday last.

All those in want of a first-class article in the boot and shoe line will do well to give W. J. Larmour a call before purchasing elsewhere, as he is offering extra inducements to cash purchasers. 11-tf

Business Changed Hands.—Mr. John Chambers, of this town, has disposed of his bakery business to Mr. Jos. Hall, who will conduct it in the future, in addition to that already carried on by him.

Attempted Reconciliation.—An attempt was made on Thursday of last week to fire the stable of Mr. William Telland. Mr. Telland fortunately discovered the fire before any damage was done.

Appointment.—In a note from Winnipeg, dated May 7th, ordering the EXAMINER to be sent to him at Gladstone, P. O., Manitoba, Mr. Joseph Graham, formerly of Bobcaygeon, informs us that he has been appointed Dominion Government Land Agent for that district.

Aground.—The steamer Golden Eye, on its arrival on Saturday evening, while leaving a barge laden with lumber for Baptie's planing mills, ran aground a short distance north of her ordinary mooring place. After some little difficulty, she was floated off, without any damage.

The Best and Shoe Store on George Street. Dixon's Block, closed some time ago by fire has been re-opened with an entire new stock, carefully selected from some of the best manufacturers, and will be sold at very moderate prices. the quality of the stock will be found good. Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods. 17-6in

At [illegible] morning the steamer King-Fisher was [illegible]down away from her moorings and [illegible]down the river past Burnham's Point, bringing up at the orihwork around the Cemetery. A party passing boarded the vessel and found the cover asleep and much astonished at their whereabouts. The boat sustained no damage.

The Cool his Home.—Pat. Glen, an incorrigible vagrant, prefers the luxuries of the cool to green fields and liberty, with the alternative of earning his subsistence. He was discharged from gaol on Friday, after six month's sojourn, and on Saturday again made his appearance before the Police Magistrate on a charge of vagrancy. He was sent up for another six months.

New Business.—The premises lately occupied by Mr. James Best, on George street, will be opened on Wednesday, the 17th inst., as a gent[illegible] furnishing establishment, comprising thousands of useful and ornamental articles, will be offered for sale at unheard of prices. The public are advised to look out for the opening as rare bargains will be offered. Remember the place, Best's old stand and [illegible] date, Wednesday, 17th instant. 20-2c

Bellleborough Correspondence.—A paragraph copied in our columns of April 29th under the heading Bellleborough, clipped from the Ottawa Herald, reflected severely upon the agent of a patent churn. The paragraph seemed to point at a gentleman from Montreal doing business in the county, in disposing of the right to use the United Canada Churn, and was, we are informed on good authority, without foundation. The agent in question has never offered the churns for sale, but only simply the right to use, with certain information of great value to farmers in the manufacture of butter. We believe the paragraph in question originated from malice.

New Invention.—We have been shown by Mr. R. J. Stevenson, who has them for sale, a sample of a new roller for tables, sofas, bedsteads and other furniture. These rollers are totally unlike any heretofore in use, and are destined to supersede all others. They consist of a glass ball, enclosed in a hollow brass disc, and bear on an ivory insertion in the top of the disc. They move easily and noiselessly in any direction and owing to their simplicity of structure, and the weight being directly on the centre, can hardly any possibility get out of order. 20-tf Runaways.—On Friday morning as a teamer was driving one of Mr. R. White's trucks up Charlotte street with a load of furniture, the lines broke and the horses ran away, overturning the load promiscuously along the street. Crockery and glassware had a lively time of it, a stove was smashed for Mr. [illegible] and a large sideboard was thrown out and badly [illegible]. Mr. Lawrence, owner for H. LeBrun, was on the truck, steadying the sideboard, and was thrown off, the sideboard falling on him, seriously bruising his leg.

Printers' Social Entertainment.—There was quite large attendance on Tuesday evening at the Temperance Hall, George street, where an entertainment was given under the auspices of Friendship Lodge. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. A. Kahney, and the programme was entered upon by a song by the old favorite, Mr. Templeton Brown, followed by Miss L. Heather. Mrs. J. B. Fowler followed, and was warmly applauded. Mr. Brown gave another song, when the Chairman called upon Rev. Mr. Roberts for an address. The rev. gentleman referred to the tragic death of Hon. George Brown, [illegible] and also to the death of Abraham Lincoln, in which the murderer was moved to the deed by [illegible] He pointed out that the sin lay in the [illegible] Reports and not in the cotton dropped [illegible] was succeeded by Mr. Kahney. He complimented [illegible] upon the action of Senate in defeating the attempt made recently to thwart the Scott Act, and hoped soon to see a revival of the temperance cause throughout Canada. Miss Heather then sang [illegible] in admirable manner, followed by a recitation from Spurgeon by Mr. Jeffers, of more amusing and humorous character. Mrs. J. B. Fowler and Miss Wilson [illegible] Mr. Templeton Brown [illegible] with a song in his best style. Mr. D. [illegible] piano-forte accompaniments, and [illegible] to the [illegible] performance, and [illegible] to prevent against the tendency of [illegible] and in the work of [illegible] of Temperance cause. After a few remarks [illegible] Chairman, the meeting [illegible] singing of Auld Lang Syne, and the [illegible] dispersed.

OBITUARY.

On the 14th ult. at Richard Short, under the last male survivor of the first party of settlers of the Township of Otonabee, passed to his rest. He was born in England in 1795. Ready in 1822 he left for Canada, accompanied by his brother Andrew, Thomas Carr, and his eldest sister—now Mrs. Thomas Rose—who is the oldest surviving settler in the township, and arrived at Cobourg about midsummer, where they remained until the following March when they came to Otonabee, immediately after its being surveyed, took up land, and began the work of settlers. Mr Short carried on farming nearly ever since coming to the township. From his arrival in 1822 to 1825 he lived on his farm [illegible] Keene; he then moved to Allendale where he resided up to the time of his death. He lived a very quiet life, seldom taking an active part in public affairs, but devoting himself assiduously to his calling. For many years he has been in declining health, although he was able to attend to his various duties until the last week of his life, when he was seized with inflammation of the lungs, which carried him home at the ripe age of 70 years.

On Wednesday of last week took place the funeral of the late Mrs Heathers, widow of the late J. T. Heathers, one of the old pioneers of Peterborough. The deceased lady had been a resident of this town for half a century, and was followed to her last resting place by a large number of citizens, who thus testified the esteem in which she was regarded in the community.

The Hastings Star of last week says:—"We have this week to record the death of one of our oldest settlers, viz: Mr. Patrick Barry, Senior. The deceased gentleman was from near Bantry, County Cork, Ireland, in 1793. Came to Nova Scotia in 1823, where he resided for 3 years; from thence he moved to Vermont, where he lived for two years, finally settling in the town of Peterborough, residing in this neighborhood up to 1874, when he removed to Belleville, at which city he died on Friday the 30th April, at the ripe age of 87 years. The remains were brought up by train to the residence of his son, Mr. Wm. Barry, of Percy, from whence the funeral took place on Sunday last to the R. C. Cemetery, Asphodel, and was escorted to the grave by a large concourse of mourners and friends."

ALLEGED FRAUD.

William J. Barry was arraigned at the Police Court on Tuesday, charged on information of John McClennan, with having fraudulently and by false pretences procured from him a note for $200 at 12 months, endorsed by Thos. R. White, by representing property sold to be free from encumberances. The prosecutor's lawyer, Mr. D. W. Dumble, being engaged at the Assizes, the case was enlarged till yesterday, when it came up before P. M. Hutton.

Mr. McClennan swore he bought a span of horses about August 15, 1879, on Barry's own premises. He got one of the horses at the time, the other being afterwards brought to him. The note was not made then, as he failed to get the endorser he expected, Mr. Heap. Subsequently he got Thos. R. White, who was accepted by Barry, and he agreed to give the note on September 1st at twelve months, thirteen months having been the bargain when made. Before giving the note he met Barry and asked him if the horses were clear, as he was going to the Registry Office to see. Barry told him there was no need as there was nothing against the horses. He told him he would give him the note the next morning and did so. Mr. Mother-all had been given a chattel mortgage on the horses, and also held the note in security for money owed him by Barry. The horses were in his possession till they were seized and taken from him. Barry had told him that he could get the note back, but never told him he would do so. He had made his mark on the note by holding the pen while Mr. Sanlter made it.

Mr Sanlter testified that McClennan had asked him to make the note as he was going to buy a span of horses and could not write. He (Salter) wrote the name, McClennan touching the pen.

H. Stapleton testified to seeing the horses under a chattel-mortgage.

Geo. T. Leonard produced two chattel-mortgages made by John W. Barry to Benj. Green. The first bore date August 5, 1878, registered August 9th, for $275. The other was a renewal of the same, and was dated August 5th, 1879. There was also an assignment from Benjamin Green to Wm. Mills.

After some further evidence the Magistrate reserved his decision, the prisoner meantime being on bail, himself in $400 and Mr. James Stevenson in $400.

HOME FROM EMERSON.

On Friday last we had a call from Mr. R. J. Bird, of the firm of Walton & Bird, of Emerson, Manitoba, a former resident of this town. Mr. Bird settled in Emerson about a year ago, and with Mr. Walton, engaged in the hardware trade, dealing in all such articles as enter into the requirements of the settlers, and has already established a prosperous business. Emerson is situated on the borders of Manitoba, just opposite the most northerly junction of the States of Minnesota and Dakota, and contains a population of 1,500, the population having doubled since he settled there. As an instance of its rapid advancement, Mr. Bird says when they landed there, they stepped off on to the prairie, into what was apparently a wilderness. Now there is a large station, and eating-house, for passengers, of which Mr. Wm. Strickland was interested in 1873, and more than [illegible] years before the formation of Manitoba, a village was laid out for defences on this ground. Persons settled in large numbers, principally Ontario and Western & Bush for defendants.

Wells v. Wells.—An action to recover a promissory notes, in which three parties were made defendants. Verdict for plaintiff for $500 against one defendant. T. M. Greene for plaintiff; D. W. Dumble for defendant.

To Reading Girls.—The strength, brightness and beauty of Mrs. Langtry's face is derived from Burdock Blood Bitters. Ladies read of her wonderful cures in another column. Sold by all druggists and dealers.

SPRING ASSIZES.

The Spring Assizes for the County of Peterborough were opened at the Court House here on Tuesday morning, at 9.30 o'clock. Mr. Justice Barton presiding.

Among the gentlemen of the long robe present were Mr. Hector Cameron, Q.C., M.P., of Toronto, J. W. Kerr, of Cobourg, C. Chisholm, of Port Hope, Grover, of Norwood, St. J. Hutcheson, of Bowmanville, and Messrs. Pomeroy, Roger and Dumble, of Peterborough.

THE GRAND JURY.

The following Grand Jury was empannelled: James Stevenson, Foreman, J. McClelland, Arthur Rutherford, Geo. Stethem, W. G. Ferguson, R. S. Davidson, Chas. Leary, Geo. Clark, H. Cooper, J. I. Davidson, M. Simpson, Samuel Falls, Arch. R. Kidd, Jas. Middleton, P. McCarthy, Jas. McCabe, Geo. Oliver, W. Robinson, Wm. Redpath, W. E. Rosborough, R. S. Strickland and H. Rush.

WHITE GLOVES.

His Lordship stated that he had been pestered by the Sheriff with a pair of white gloves, there being no criminal business to be brought before the Court. It was unnecessary for the Grand Jury to make a presentment, but he did not consider it necessary in this instance. As there were no prisoners in the gaol and none out on bail, the Grand Jury would be discharged.

CIVIL BUSINESS.

The civil business was very light and comprised the following cases:

Patterson vs. Smith.—The parties to this suit all reside in Port Hope. It was an action to recover a balance claimed by the plaintiff to be due by the defendants, who are husband and wife, on a series of transactions between them. Verdict for defendants. Hector Cameron, Q.C., and D. Chisholm for plaintiff. J. W. Kerr, Q. C., and D. W. Dumble for defendants.

Toomer vs. Donnelly.—An action on promissory notes. Verdict for plaintiff, $262.62. Robert Armour for plaintiff, St. John Hutcheson for defendant.

Gray vs. Irwin & Boyd.—An action brought to recover the value of 71,000 feet of lumber cut for Gray by the late firm of Boyd, Smith & Co., of which the defendants are surviving partners. LAKEFIELD NEWS.

Council Meeting—Salt and Hunter—Our Population—Improved Advertising—Rev. George Brown—Temperance Work—Petition to the South Ontario R.—The Village—Saw-log Season.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

Lakefield, May 11.

The regular meeting of the Village Council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, 10th inst.; members all present, the Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read, and on motion adopted. The following accounts were presented, and on motion of Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Horner, were ordered to be paid:—A. Morey, work on road, $18 80; T. Charleston, work on road $9 00; G. Preston, work on road, $22 50; J. Cox, work on road, $13.00; O. Grills, work on road, $13.00; T. Sullivan, work on road, $11.75; J. C. Carruth, work on road, $15.00; R. Smith, work on road, $8.00; J. Watson, work on road, $17.05; J. Edwards, repairing tools, $1.80; J. R. Stratton, printing, $6.90; J. C. Sherin, charity order to Fredericburgh family, $1.25; total, $137.55. Only one tender for planks, stringers, &c., for use by the corporation, was received, that being from S. P. Wigg offering to supply planks at $9.00 per M., stringers, 11 cents per foot, and crossings at 5 cents a foot. On motion of Councillor Horner, seconded by Councillor McWilliams, the tender was received and laid over for future consideration, and the Reeve and Councillor Nelson were appointed a committee to see Mr. Wigg and try and obtain the planks, &c., at the same rates they can be obtained from Peterborough. Mr. Dansford addressed the Council in reference to cattle and sheep running at large, and was referred to the village constable. The Reeve informed the Council that the Minister of Public Works would visit the village about the 25th inst. in reference to the route of the Trent Valley Canal, and he was instructed to call a special meeting of the Council as soon as it was decided what day he would arrive and how long he would remain, so that arrangements could be made to entertain him and visit the back lakes. Moved by Councillor Nelson, seconded by Councillor Horner, that this Council do now adjourn to the call of the Reeve.—Carried.

A number of farmers residing in the adjoining townships have of late tried an old trick, that of peddling butter from house to house where they were unknown. The butter was "gilt-edge," but on cutting it half a pound of salt to every pound of butter was discovered. Several have fallen victims, much to their disgust, and vow vengeance if they can discover the parties who sold them.

I notice in the last issue of your paper a communication from Lakefield signed "Citizen" in reference to the liceuses and population, which he gives at 906. To give our village its just dues allow me to correct it, as our assessor made his return last week and returns 989 on the roll, which, with 14 in the ministers' families, makes our population 1003, and this does not include our floating population which in the summer months, when the mills are running, will number fully 100 more.

Great sympathy and regret is felt at the death of Hon. George Brown by all classes and shades of politics, and for the last few days constant enquiries were being made at the telegraph office as to his condition, and hopes expressed that he would yet be spared to his friends and country.

We now receive the weather reports at 10 a.m. every morning, and our Post Master, W.C. Casement, has them placed in a neat frame and hung outside the office door, where they attract constant attention and are evidently appreciated.

The steamer Cruiser started on her regular trips last week, and the broken machinery in the Chippewa having been replaced by Mr. Hamilton of Peterborough, she started on her first trip this (Tuesday) morning, and will be engaged all summer towing wood, &c.

The village is very quiet and dull, farmers all being engaged getting in their crops, and the village people are at work at their gardens. The men employed by the corporation are making a good job of the streets. It will be observed by reference to the Council report that we are asked to pay $9 per M. for plank while I believe it is furnished to the Peterboro corporation for $8.50, but our Council cannot see the point and have laid over the tender. Our vacant houses are filling up fast, so that when the mills start all will be occupied and property owners delighted accordingly.

The sawlog season has set in with all its annoyances of delayed boats, &c. One drive, a small one has already passed down, while a large one belonging to Messrs. Boyd and Irwin is in the lake above the village. Messrs. Shaw and Strickland will have their logs out of Jacks creek this week and they will be down in plenty time for the mills to start when the repairs are finished and the water low enough to run them into the mill pond.

Consumption Cured

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, the recipe, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. SHERRIE, 149 Powers' Block Rochester, N.Y.

There is scarcely any disease in which purgatives and op-ating medicines are not beneficial, and much sickness and suffering would be prevented were they more generally used. For this purpose the National Pills are convenient, safe, sure, and certain in their effects. They cleanse and invigorate, purifying the blood without blemish, and are sold by everywhere by Druggists and dealers. Price 25 cents. 19-2in

Dr. Abernethy's Worm Candy is put up in two colours, one containing a purgative and one without, which combinations no other Candy has. The alone makes it very valuable in cases your child requires an opening medicine, and for the effectual worm destroyer you can't get better than this confectionary comfit bon. Price 25 cents, or 5 for one dollar. 19-2in

Hope for All.—When the earliest hydrogen mosquitoes was first exhibited in Edinburgh a poor woman, whose little boy had never in his life been to the kingdom above, took her son out in the lecture-room where the vacuum, or the heartlessness of the world, and which were for the first time to meet her sight. A piece of beef was suspended into a chamber, and a fan was then [illegible] as strongly as [illegible] and other like marvels were performed before the eyes of the wonder-struck child, who sat in mute astonishment, staring at everything around, at the fish. But when at length the [illegible] needle was introduced into a pumpkin, and soon rested her with its huge eye, the child, not in the least [illegible] "My mother," she exclaimed, "a mosel could go through that! There is hope for us yet!" And there is hope for us yet! There is absolutely certainty that there is relief to be had from the effects of Worm Bowels, Fever-Sores, Spinal Complaints, &c., so do not look for that relief to be had from any other source than by using Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup. 19-2in will find all of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines on sale in all principal drug stores and at the London branch of the World's Dispensary, Great Russell Street, Buildings. Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alternative or blood-cleansing elixir. It dispels all humors and cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, king's evil, or scrofula, enlarged glands, swellings, internal soreness, ulcers, and virulent blood poisons that, unremoved, rot out the vital machinery. Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little sugar-coated pills) are an agreeable and most cleansing cathartic; remove offensive and acrid accumulations, thereby preventing fevers and hundred affections. World's Dispensary Medical Association, proprietors, Buffalo and London.

Americans Traveling Abroad

FACTS VS THEORY in regard to the method of coloring butter. The theory is that cows when well fed and cared for will make yellow butter; the fact is that not one in ten will, except in times of flush pasture. This is just the reason that the very best Dairymen in this country use Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color. We warrant it to add at least five cents per pound to the value of white butter, a return of one dollar for every cent it cost. Buy it at the Druggist or Grocers. 18-4ins.

SIX WEEK.—Too often a cold or slight cough is considered a very ordinary, trifling affair, just as well left to go as it came, and hence consumptives are neglected until a simple cure in affection is converted into a serious consumptive disease. The more prudent, aware that a cough or cold should never be trifled with, promptly use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers," which have sustained their reputation for over twenty years. They are always efficacious, and exert a most beneficial influence on all the bronchial and pulmonary organs. Sold by all druggists and country merchants at 25 cents a box.

HORSE MISERIES.—It is gratifying to know that there is at least one which has stood the test and proved itself worthy the confidence reposed in it; we know of no other article which has proved so generally successful, or given such unbounded satisfaction as Gombault's Caustic Balsam which is more of it used than all others combined and that it will ultimately supersede all others there can be no doubt. It is Dudley's Condition Powders and Arabian Horse Remedy, "worth their weight in gold" to anyone of the kind in use. Do a trial, we know they will be satisfied with the results. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Hurd & Lyman, Toronto, Gen. proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mitchell's Dollandean Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is'all of excellency, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to out quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are more of tastes, and require to be worn constantly to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, PAIN IN THE SIDE, LUMBAGO, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, HEART or SIDE, and believe it is solely due to the change wrought in the blood by the use of this remedy, and which is found to be superior to all others. Sold by all druggists.

They are very cool and pleasant, still very powerful and a specific for WEAK BACKS, PAIN IN THE SHOULDERS AND REGIONS, and are invaluable to those who harass Colds, of long standing, and other pressure Complaints. CAUTION. Some ones tell us they without they were ordering Genuine Mitchell's Dollandean Porous Plasters, that they were getting them. Be sure and see that the name of Mitchell is on the face of each Plaster. Manufactured by Mitchell & Co., Leamington. Sold by all Druggists. 49-10 eow

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876. Cash Bonus	For 1877. Cash Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$239.50	$274.50 $217.00	$260.00 $268.00
7	10 Payn't Life.	5,000	230.45	112.10 227.00	120.00 262.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PERCENTAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 3½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash.....$97.50. Bonus.....$252.00.
" 7. " " 45.00. " 126.00.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot command itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are obtained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

"Undoubtedly the question of where the money is to come from for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway has caused many to fear and tremble lest it might prove a [illegible] debt and crippling its energies and progress for at least a generation to come."—Spectator.

Our contemporary recognizes here a condition of the public mind which most assuredly does exist, and with very grave reason, nor is the apprehension to be banished by the deft array of figures which Sir John Macdonald presented to the House of Commons, as an excuse for throwing away ten million dollars of the people's money in the mountainous passes of British Columbia, however convincing it may be to the Review. Our contemporary then summarizes Sir John's "great expectations:"

"Sir John Macdonald pointed out that at least 28,000 persons had last year gone into the North-West, and that a very moderate estimate would be 25,000 for the current year, and an additional 5,000 for each succeeding year up to and including 1890—that is 90,000 more than 25,000 the following year, and so on up to 1890, when 75,000 might be expected to go in, making a total immigration into the North-West in seven years of 500,000 persons. Sir John estimates that every four persons of these immigrating will represent the head of a family —i. e. that the 25,000 estimated to go in this year will consist of 6,000 families, and that of these 1,500 will take up homesteads and pre-emptions, that 1,500 will purchase railway lands and that the remainder fourth will be mechanics, and others seeking employment. Upon this basis, he estimates that a revenue of $25,000,000 will be derived from these lands this year, and of course a rapidly increasing one until we shall have derived therefrom by the close of 1890 the sum of $26,625,000, with $22,712,000 still to collect from the lands then sold and prepaid, and making in all the handsome sum of $71,337,000, without a very serious inroad having been made upon the lands of the fertile belt."

One is irresistably reminded, by this calculation, of Captain Bobbadil's celebrated method of destroying an army, which we cannot refrain from quoting:

"Why, thus sir. I would select nineteen more, to myself, throughout the land; gentlemen they should be, of good spirit, strong and able constitution; I would choose them by an instinct, a character that I have: and I would teach them such a trick, two hours' practice, we'd pass, your reverse, your stoccado, your imbrocado, your passado, your montanto; till they could all play very near, or altogether as well as myself. This done, say the enemy were forty thousand strong, we twenty would come into the field the tenth of March, or thereabouts; and we would challenge twenty of the enemy; they could not in their honour refuse us. Well, we would kill them; challenge twenty more, kill them, twenty more, kill them; twenty more, kill them too; and thus would we kill every man his twenty a day, that's twenty score; twenty score, that's two hundred; two hundred a day, five days a thousand; forty thousand; forty times five, five times forty; two hundred days KILLS THEM ALL UP BY COMPUTATION."

But aside from its ludicrous features, the fact that these bald anticipations are made the excuse for the voting by Parliament of authority to the Government for expenditures that are, when our resources and population are taken into account, literally appalling, cannot fail to excite alarm in the breast of any person who looks at the facts as they exist, and the probabilities of the future, from the sober standpoint of reason and common sense. Let us take the calculation as it is made by Sir John Macdonald, and see how far it will go to relieve the people of the burden of the cost of the railway, if it should be realized. We have now borrowed, at this time, $15,000,000 for expenditures in the Pacific Railway. The interest we will have to pay upon that sum this year will be $750,000. If the 25,000 people assumed to go into the North-West next year are to pay that sum it will cost them just $30 for every man, woman and child—a taxation which it is preposterous to assume any class of settlers could endure, or be able to pay. Taking Sir John's estimate of $75,000,000 as the cost of the road—an estimate one half lower than the actual result will show—we will have, beyond what is already expended, $60,000,000 to pay out in the next ten years, or $6,000,000 a year, which will make each year an increase in the cost of the interest which has to be paid, of $300,000. That is, this year the Government will have to pay out of the earnings of the people $750,000 for interest on Pacific Railway account; next year, $1,050,000; the year after, $1,350,000; the succeeding year, $1,650,000, and so on till in the tenth year the sum to be raised will be $3,750,000 for interest alone, so that, taking Sir John's calculation, the 75,000 people who are to go in and settle would have to pay $50 a head, man, woman and child, if they are to pay the interest alone. No sane man can believe that such a sum of money could be collected from 75,000 new settlers. And yet, without providing for or taking into account this necessary expenditure for interest, Sir John makes it the basis of imposing an enormous burden upon the people of this country that the settlers who go into the North-West, are to defray the whole cost, principal and interest, of building the Canadian Pacific Railway! We venture to say that such a monstrous piece of lunacy was never before in the history of responsible government presented to a legislative body as a reason for enacting a public debt, not to say a debt of seventy-five millions of dollars to be imposed upon four millions of people.

The policy of the Liberal party in reference to the Canada Pacific Railway is one based upon prudence and common sense. They recognize the necessity of pushing the construction of the railway in advance of settlement in the North-West in order to facilitate settlement and create markets, thus keeping the expenditure within the means of the people. The ten millions of dollars voted to build a little over 100 miles of railway in British Columbia where it can produce no return or create no benefit, would according to Mr. Tupper's estimate, have built 770 miles of railway westward into the fertile prairies of the Saskatchewan. By the policy urged on the House by Mr. Blake, that expenditure would have been made for the benefit of settlers and the advancement of settlement, and not cast away blindly, as it has been, to suit the greedy exigencies of British Columbian politicians. They would give the settlers their land free, and not burden them with grievous exactions either by land regulations which clerks of settlements, or by exorbitant taxes imposed by the tariff. They would leave the work of constructing the railway in the commissioners' regions to the last, till the growth in population and wealth of the country, and the [illegible] and developing resources of the people, make them equal to the task and the expense of completing the railway to the Pacific ocean. In this way the Pacific Railway would be made the means of developing the progress of the country without too greatly taxing its industry, and progress would be made upon a surer and more lasting basis.

The Late Hon. Geo. Brown.

The Obsequies of a Great Man—Public Tributes of Respect to his Memory.

From the Toronto Telegram of May 18th.

It having been announced that the general public would be allowed to view the remains between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. to-day, officers were stationed at the main entrance in order to prevent undue crowding and to facilitate the movements of the visitors. During the first two hours Baldwin and Beverly streets were crowded by citizens anxious to take a last look at the face of the dead Senator, and in the crowd were many ladies, some of them friends the bereaved family and others who had only known of the deceased by his great and kindly deeds. As the hours passed the crowds of visitors increased, many of those arriving being from a distance. There were statesmen and citizens and farmers from all parts of the Dominion, who entered the house side by side, to pay a last tribute to the memory of the deceased gentleman. It was found necessary to arrange the entrance so that the visitors could pass in at the south side, sweeping at the north side, a route stretched from the middle of the doorway being used as the dividing line. It is estimated that fully two thousand people viewed the remains during the hours above mentioned, and owing to the limited space in the house, many were obliged to be satisfied with a glimpse of the coffin as it was being borne out by the pall bearers.

THE DEAD IN REST

In the drawing room to the south of the hall the remains rested, the casket being in the middle of the room, which was draped. The visitors could thus take an unobstructed view as they passed. The features of the deceased were quite natural, and but for the loss of the countenance and the solemn surroundings one would be apt to imagine that he had just fallen asleep. The casket was prepared specially by Mr. J. Young, undertaker, of 361 Yonge-street, is made of solid black walnut heavily moulded, at the top and base, ornamented with massive silver handles the full length of the frame, and also shorter ones at the ends, with silver plated lifters etc; A handsome silver wreath of laurel encircled the words "At Rest," and the plate bore the following inscription beautifully engraved:—

GEORGE BROWN, DIED 9TH MAY, 1880. Aged 61 years.

The inside of the casket was elegantly upholstered throughout with the richest satin, heavily quilted, the words "At Rest" being worked in floss at the head together with other suitable designs. O, the casket were spread wreaths of flowers.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE FUNERAL.

At half-past two o'clock this afternoon the members of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies met at the Erskine Church, Simcoe-street, and after arranging the order of procession proceeded to the deceased gentleman's late residence, where had already collected thousands of citizens and carriages. At about the same time the ex-employees and employees of the Globe office arrived at Beverley street, and under the direction of Mr. Robertson, and the foremen of the various departments took up a position to the south of the residence, where they could fall into their proper places. Carriages containing the Corporation, Senators, Members of Parliament and citizens generally were continually arriving, and before three o'clock both streets passing the family residence were densely crowded. A few minutes after three o'clock Rev. Mr. King, who had been Mr. Brown's pastor, entered the room, and shortly afterwards religious services were held. After a passage of scripture had been read, prayers were offered up and the funeral service was impressively concluded, those present being visibly affected.

THE FUNERAL CORTEGE.

Immediately after the service was concluded the casket was carried to the hearse, which had been drawn up in the roadway in front of the gate, and the procession was formed, the following gentlemen acting as pall bearers:—Sir A. A. Dorion, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Sir. William Howland, Hon. Edward Blake, Sir R J Cartwright, Sir Alex. Campbell, Senator Allen, Senator Christie, Senator McMaster, Prof. Wilson, Prof. Greig, and Hon. L. S. Huntington. First in the solemn procession were the officiating clergymen, Rev. Mr. King, Prof. Greig, Prof. Malaren, and Rev. Dr. Reid, Moderator of the General Assembly. Then followed the medical attendants of the deceased, Drs. Thorburn, H. H. Wright, Clark and Leslie, after which came the hearse and pall-bearers. The chief mourners followed the hearse, and among them were Mr. Gordon Brown, his son Edward, Rev. W. S. Ball, of Guelph and his sons Peter and Alfred, Mr. Thos. Henning, Mr. Betley and others. The employees of the Globe past and present, some three hundred in number then took their place, followed in a carriage by the Lieut.-Governor and secretary. The Senators, Members of the House of Commons and Ontario Legislature came next, both Houses being largely represented as were also the clergy, who followed. Next in the line were the Mayor and Corporation, Public School Board, delegations from the country, Board of Trade, Corn Exchanges, Stock Exchanges, St. Andrew's Caledonia and other national societies, journalists, printers and citizens generally. Those without carriages marched four abreast. The funeral procession proceeded along Baldwin, MacCaul, Centre, Howell and Elm streets to Yonge street, the sidewalk being lined with a dense mass of people, who stood in respectful silence, broken by whispered words of regret. The men raised their hats in honor of the passing dead and women showed their sympathies in women's way. Proceeding across Yonge street through the attending throng the slow journey of the dead was made along Carlton and Parliament streets to the Necropolis where a great gathering was waiting.

AT THE NECROPOLIS.

The cortege and as many of those attending as could find admittance entered the city of the dead and made their way to the grave prepared for the reception of the remains. The pall bearers bore their last old. Rev. Mr. King, assisted by brother clergymen, conducted the burial service and the earth closed upon what was mortal of one of the fathers of the confederation. The ceremony turned sadly away, meditating.

The Viceroy of India telegraphs as follows:—"A despatch received at Cabul on the 25th reports the [illegible] of Mandahar and Jangar attacked [illegible] on Sunday. Abdul's army, supposed [illegible] having 1,500 [illegible] Ghazis. The fate is not known as yet. The district is much disturbed. Fly vape of letters sent to Kohistan." Jangar is said to be Kohistan. Mandahar with Great Cabul says Abdul Rahman is now at Ghuzni. Between gathering his own forces to attack, and repudiating any Russian connection.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.

Speech from the Throne.

In proroguing the House last Friday, His Excellency the Governor-General was pleased to deliver the following Speech from the Throne:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In relieving you from your attendance in Parliament, I desire to offer my thanks for the care and assiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the performance of your important duties.

The evidences of a recovery from the long continued state of depression to which I alluded at the opening of the session, are, I am glad to believe, steadily maintained, and we may, I trust, look forward with some confidence to a prosperous year. The measures relating to banking and the currency, and to the amendment of the tariff, will, I hope, aid in the promotion of the anticipated prosperity.

The expectations of a large immigration of valuable settlers into the North-West, on which I then ventured to indulge, appear, from the latest information

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 20, 1880.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

For months past the people of this section of the Dominion have had dinned into their ears the all-engrossing subject of the Trent Valley Canal. The hopes of the people have been flattered by occasional visits of engineers, sent by the Government to examine the route, and the prominent supporters of the Ministry here have left the impression among their friends that the work would be certainly taken up by the Government and prosecuted. There is no doubt that the construction of this route is feasible, and according to the report of Mr. Stark, it could be constructed for the comparatively small sum of $3,000,000, and it is possible that Parliament might be induced to grant such a sum to build the canal. Undoubtedly the present Parliament would do so, if asked by the Government. Unfortunately, however, the Government has no disposition to spend any more of the public money in this Province than they can possibly help. Ontario is again placed in her old position of milch-cow for the smaller provinces, and after imposing a tax on our people of $10,000,000 to be thrown away in British Columbia, and a quarter of a million for a graving-dock at Equimalt—save the mark!—we certainly abandon all hope that any money will be found for an enterprise like the Trent Valley Canal. The evident disposition to temporise with the matter, to keep the people in expectation, by a masterly policy of how not to do it, yet all the time seem to be about doing it, is an old and favorite trick of Sir John's, and we have no doubt, if he can keep the Trent Valley scheme open till about the time of the next elections, he will know how to manipulate that scheme for his own purposes. We are to have the Minister of Canals here this summer, probably a surveyor in the fall, and a Parliamentary Commission to be granted next session, which might report at the next session, and in this way, the matter would be still "under consideration" by the Government at the time they will have also to consider the necessity of facing the ballot-box. Pledges to build the Trent Valley Canal would no doubt be a heavy card in favor of Tory candidates from the Georgian Bay to Bay Quinte, and Sir John is just the politician who knows the value of such an influence. That he will endeavor to do something of this kind is evident from the fact that the Trent Valley organs are already proceeding to prepare the minds of their readers, in which false hopes had been raised, for the postponement, and possible abandonment, of the whole scheme. We read in a recent issue of the Review the following:

"The Dominion Government have promised to give their best attention to the whole question of the carrying trade by the St. Lawrence route during the present recess, with the view of taking action next session. We earnestly hope for and look to their considering the question from every standpoint, and not as was unfortunately the case in the appointment of the Canal Commission a few years ago, ignore some routes as unworthy of even a passing consideration. All the people of the Trent Valley ask is that the facilities which it offers shall be fairly considered and honestly weighed, and then, if it is not found to be the cheapest route for the great wheat trade of the West to the sea board, they will not ask the expenditure of a single cent of public money upon it."

Our contemporary is evidently prepared to excuse the Government in any event, and to accept any excuse as sufficient if they decide to abandon the canal scheme. What is the necessity for putting the undertaking in that light? It is as old as 1832; it is asserted feasible at a cost of $3,000,000 by a practical engineer; its great commercial advantages, the benefits which would follow it, and its superiority over all other routes, have been ably demonstrated by Mr. John Carnegie; resolutions from nearly all the municipalities along the route have prayed for its construction, and fully set forth its claims upon the Government. It is simply a question of the $3,000,000, and if the Government have not that amount to spare now, they never will, for if the policy of squandering $10,000,000 in British Columbia be carried out, as it no doubt will, we may expect the first sod of the Trent Valley to be turned about the time Macaulay's New Zealander makes his visit to the ruins of London Bridge. What the public want now is that the Minister of Railways, when he comes here, should, to use a rather horsey expression, "put up or shut up"—that he shall come down definitely and say whether or not he is prepared next session of Parliament to ask for a vote of the money necessary to build the canal. We have had enough of fine words and fair promises—they better no promises. Let the Minister of Railways and Canals come out and give us the honest intentions of the Government respecting this important subject, and not a mere repetition of personal confidence in the scheme, surrounded by so many "ifs" and "buts," that it is merely playing with the question and pulling wool over the public optic. If Sir Charles comes here only to speak of delays, or to promise another holiday excursion for some friend in the engineering line, or to regret that the state of public finances will not allow the work to be undertaken "at present," the people will know exactly how to interpret any such "soft sawder."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It seems to be pretty thoroughly settled that Mr. John Beverley Robinson, the famous political milk-maid, is to be the successor of Lt.-Governor Macdonald.

Dr. Schultz, it is said, is to enter the Ministry as Minister of the Interior. It only needs a person of his stamp to complete as unique a Cabinet as Sir John ever presided over.

The Toronto Mail is much concerned over the fact that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway have issued a small pamphlet, advertising lands for sale, in which garbled portions of Mr. Blake's recent speech are given. The fact is that the pamphlet alluded to is merely a political dodge, and is too thin to deceive any one.

It is reported that the seat in the Senate vacated by the death of the Hon. Geo. Brown, will be given to Hon. John Carling. Newspapers speak favorably of the appointment of Hon. Sidney Smith to the position. In justice Mr. Smith should have been appointed in the place of the late Hon Mr. Seymour, and the Premier could not do a wiser thing than take the present opportunity of putting Mr. Smith in a position he is eminently qualified by Parliamentary experience and legislative ability to adorn.

—Since writing the above we learn that Mr. Joseph Northwood, of Chatham, has been appointed to the vacant position in the Senate. As usual the Government refused to take good advice, and will no doubt in due course reap the reward of persistent ingratitude to tried friends.

Our evening contemporary took no little trouble last week, by means of handbills issued from its office, and by a liberal surrender of its columns to the purposes of the proprietor or manager of "Baldwin's Baby Opera Company," to create the impression that in alluding to the matter last week in terms of condemnation the Examiner was influenced by the alleged fact that "Mr. Baldwin, "refused to give them an advertisement, "for which one of their staff applied, "stating that he "does not advertise in "obscure weekly papers." We do not know that we are required to contradict the impudent falsehood of every strolling vagrant who may happen to circulate through Peterborough in charge of a "show," but we may venture to express the hope that the truly good editor of the Review will hereafter exercise a little more control over his wicked partners, and especially in regard to the bumptious youth, for whose special delectation the "babies" gave a private soiree, and whose certificate to the public was accepted by Mr. Baldwin as a sure passport to a "good house." In fact the public were confidentially advised to be on hand early on the evening of the performances, as the hall was "sure to be jammed." Mr. Baldwin found, however, to his astonishment no doubt, that not withstanding the valuable assistance rendered to his show by the Review, and his impertinent and false announcements concerning the Examiner, the seats didn't "jam" worth a cent, and he left town a sadder but a wiser man than he came here. The simple fact is that the moral sentiment of the town recognised this entertainment as one which it was not desirable to encourage, and which they accordingly refused to patronise. The putting of children of such tender years to uses unnatural and repulsive to humanity and good taste, and throwing them into associations from which the transition is almost inevitably evil, is to any person who gives the subject a moment's reflection something that ought not to be sanctioned by a Christian public, and such sanction was very properly withheld by the people of Peterborough. We are, of course, deeply grieved to be told of the "obscurity" of the Examiner by our contemporary, and as well to be reminded of the deplorable and humiliating fact that our issue is but once a week; but painful as these reflections are, they are nothing to be regretted in comparison with the sacrifice of its reputation by our contemporary for the benefit of "Baldwin's Babies." We have always been pleased to regard our contemporary as exercising essentially an influence for the promotion of Christian objects, and particularly in regard to the proper and religious training of those little ones who are an especial charge upon the consideration and protection of Christian people. We know that it was but lately that the Review was a powerful factor in insisting upon the recognition in the public schools of a religious duty towards children, and we would not for a moment credit that any fleshly consideration, connected with printing and advertising for the "Babies," had any influence in diverting our contemporary's attention from a similar duty towards those unfortunate little waifs. It is clear, in fact, that its remissness in its duty on this occasion was but another relapse from the path of virtue, which is sure to follow whenever the truly good editor temporarily leaves the conduct of the paper in the hands of his wicked associates. We trust, therefore, that he will at once resume control, and continue to apply his distinguished ability, as in the past, to the inculcation of morality and the spread of Christian influences. We are sure he will be as much grieved at the temporary aberration of the Review as we are, and that care will be taken in the future to prevent the recurrence of such an event. But it should be borne in mind that it is only by constant watchfullness and firm control of all the evil tendencies of the wicked partners can be repressed and prevented from bringing reproach upon the truly good character which the friends of the Review desire to see it maintain. We presume the sympathy of an obscure weekly newspaper in poor circulation to offer to our contemporary in the affliction into which the wicked partners have plunged it, but such as it is we tender it with all sincerity.

Messrs. Pentland and Ranney were appointed scrutineers, and the election of officers resulted as follows: President, G. E. Shaw; 1st Vice-President, Rev. V. Clementi; 2nd Vice-President, W. English; Treasurer, J. C. Smith; Directors, Messrs. W. H. Trout, F. J. Lewis, A. McFarlane, A. Gillespie, R. Robertson, Jas. English, J. Corkery, W. Manson, A. H. Macdougal, J. F. Jeffers, J. E. Belcher and E. Courtney.

OUR AGRICULTURISTS.

No person who may have occasion to pass down the fourth line of Smith, can fail to mark the fine farm occupied by Mr. Charles Moore, about four miles from the town. Even the novice in farming is struck by the singular air of neatness, the trim fences, smooth, level fields, and other evidences which mark the hand of the skillful husbandman. Situated in one of the best farming sections of the county and surrounded by thrifty homesteads, it is a sign of more than ordinary good management that any one farm should separate itself from its neighbors by its appearance. When the late Wm. Henry Moore went into the 4th line of South, in 1830, the scene presented was very different from that afforded to-day. At that time there was but one horse in all the township, and Mr. Moore, had to "underbrush" his road as he advanced. Few now-a-days can realise the difficulties which lay in the path of the sturdy generation of pioneers who laid the foundation of our progress and prosperity, or the difference of carrying on agricultural operations between then and now. The late Mr. Moore had no gang ploughs or seeders, reaping machines, or any of the agricultural machinery, by means of which so much labor is saved now-a-days, and which are now used over the smooth symmetrical fields, whose first possessor had but the most primitive implements in his struggle among the stumps and stones. Having occasion to visit the home of Mr. Moore a few days ago, our reporter made an inspection of the farm yard and cattle stables. The cattle sheds are situated in the basement of a wing of the barn buildings and occupy an area of 90 feet by 80 feet. In addition to this wing, the front of the barn extends 180 feet, forming with driving sheds and stables, a quadrangle which affords shelter to the occupants of the yard. In the cattle stables we found thirty-five head of as fine cattle as one would desire to lay eyes upon, all of them in fine condition and some of them amazingly fat. Most of the animals are of the Durham breed, with some handsome Devons and high Grades. Three among them weigh over 2,000 pounds each, and the average weight of the cattle, taking them all round, must be 1,500 pounds, or over. They are intended for the English markets, and will be for sale after the 1st of June. The arrangements for feeding and watering them are ingenious and interesting. The water is supplied to the troughs, which run along the front of each row of stalls, from a well in the stable, the pump in which is worked by horse-power, the same power being used for cutting the feed, threshing peas, etc., etc. The preparation of food is an important part of the operations of the stables. The food is mixed in a large box or vat, and consists generally of cut hay, turnips and bran, or pea-meal, which are mixed together and thoroughly cooked, the cooking process being performed twice each week, the ingredients being varied occasionally, as experience has convinced Mr. Moore that the appetite of the stalled ox becomes palled with monotony of food. The cooking operation is performed with the assistance of a large steam boiler, which occupies a building a considerable distance from the barn yard, an underground pipe leading from the boiler to the feed box or vat before mentioned, and by means of steam supplied through which the food is thoroughly cooked. Mr. Moore does not breed cattle, buying all the stock he fattens, nor does he aim at profit only from fattening them. The amount realized after deducting the original cost, and the cost of hay, peas, &c. consumed, offers no great margin of profit; yet he profits greatly indirectly. Last year when the crops generally were not favorable, he realised an average of 32 bushels of wheat to the acre. This he attributes to the liberal use of manure which he is enabled to make from his cattle stables, and it is principally for this reason that he invests so heavily in cattle. Both about his barns and in the fields Mr. Moore has every conceivable modern invention for economizing time and labor. His soil is cultivated with gang and other ploughs, the seed is sown with seed drills, and the work of seeding finished up by rolling. The grain is reaped by the most improved machines, and when taken to the barns it is unloaded by patent machinery, an ingenious invention, that, by means of a car sliding along the ridge of the roof, takes the load from the threshing floor and deposits it at any spot in the barn desired. The straw, hay and turnips fed are cut by machinery, and the food is prepared by steam. Mr. Moore has about 150 acres under crop and meadow, and his farm is in every respect a model to his neighbors. Mr. Moore is a firm believer in tile-draining, understands the benefit of liberal expenditure in this direction, and finds in the returns from his harvest ample proof that it pays to be generous to the soil. Fronting on the road is a handsome white brick residence, with a tidy lawn and flower garden in front, and surrounded by a thrifty looking orchard. Along the whole road front of the 300 acres is a neat wire fence, with stone foundation, and along the length of the fence trees have been planted, which now clothed in their green robes, render the view attractive, and which also answer the practical purpose of sheltering the crops.

The Distress in Ireland.

Dublin, May 19.—A deputation of the Mansion House Relief Committee waited on Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, last Saturday, to call attention to the continued distress in Ireland. The Lord Mayor said that the distress was not likely to be mitigated before the end of July, as the Committee have no reason to hope that their resources would suffice until then, they left the matter in the hands of the Government, stating that if immediate relief were not immediately given the people would die by the score. Mr Forster replied that the Government fully realized the extent of the distress, and added, "We are doing our utmost to alleviate it by loans to landlords."

CATTLE SHOW—SCHOOL BUILDING—CROPS —ENTERTAINING FARMER.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

Asphodel, May 13.—Mr. Walter Scott, of Asphodel, took his drove of 21 fat cattle to Hastings to-day, and had them weighed preparatory to their being shipped to Liverpool. They were all in fine condition, averaging over 1400 lbs., one ox weighing over 1900 lbs. Messrs. Moore & England also had several fat cattle at the village the same day for the same purpose and destination.

They have started to work at the new school in S. S. No. 9, Asphodel, which is to be completed in July, and judging from the abilities of the workmen, I think neither teacher nor scholars will be disappointed in not seeing it completed at the named time.

The fall wheat is a total failure in this part; farmers are ploughing it up, sowing other grain in its stead.

Mr. Francis McMillen, one of our enterprising farmers, has let several jobs of pulling stumps this summer. He seems to know the benefit derived from having these obstructions removed, besides the improved appearance his place will present. The same gentleman is building a new brick house, which, when completed, will present a fine appearance from Rork's Hill.

House Burned.—Henry Robertson, a new settler in the township of Lutterworth, had the misfortune to have his house and all his household effects burned last Thursday. The house caught fire from a fallow he was burning, and, some of the sparks falling through the roof, the whole inside of the house was in a blaze before he could save anything. His family arrived from Scotland only a few days ago. Loss about $600; no insurance.

Kinmount.

Accident to Mr. Pusey.—We regret to learn that Mr. Pusey of the Snowden iron mines received serians injuries by being thrown from a buggy Wednesday morning. He was driving in company with Mr. Ivatts when the horse ran away throwing both gentlemen out on the road side, Mr. Ivatt's escaped without injury but Mr. Pusey was not so fortunate as he received serious injury to his back, Mr. Hutchinson, superintendant of Pusey and Ivatt's mines, at once proceeded to Fenelon Falls for for medical aid. He went by hand on to Kinmount where an engine was placed at his disposal by the Victoria railway. We learn that Mr. Pusey's injuries were not as serious as at first reported and that he will be able to be about again soon.—Lindsay Post.

Port Hope.

A Sad Accident.—A shocking accident, with probably fatal consequences, occurred this morning in the Midland Railway yard at the head of the harbor. A car of heavy timber was being unloaded near the raft farthest from the viaduct, and Mr. David Cheer, who had charge of the yard, was on the car superintending the job. On the removal of the last stakes the wood began to roll, and Cheer was shot off into the harbor. One of the logs following struck him violently in the back causing a fracture of the spine. He was removed by the fatemen, who were at work near the spot to his home, a short distance below Christopher's hotel, and medical attendance was summoned, Drs. Clemesha and Griggs promptly responding. It was clear however, from the first that the case was hopeless, the whole body from the waist down being completely paralyzed. The sufferer is one of the oldest employes of the Company, having commenced in their service some twenty-two years ago as brakeman on the train of which Mr. W. B. Ferguson, the present Superintendent, was conductor. He is much respected for his sobriety, fidelity and general good character. He has a wife and seven or eight children. It is only about a month ago that Mr. Cheer sustained serious injuries from being jammed.

Fenelon Falls.

Fire.—A fire broke out here at about two o'clock Saturday morning by which seven buildings were burned, consisting of a storehouse, planing mill, and dwelling house belonging to Joseph McArthur; a driving shed, livery stable, and house, owned and occupied by E. R. Edwards, and the Gazette printing office, belonging to Mr. E. D. Hand. The fire originated in the planing mill, and was probably the work of an incendiary, as an attempt was made to burn this building last winter. Edwards' horses and carriages were saved, but the household furniture was entirely lost. The Gazette printing material was saved in a damaged condition, but some of the type was lost and destroyed. It was at first supposed that the building forming the Gazette printing office was not insured, but it appears that the insurance had been renewed a few days before the fire on a general order given by Mr Hand. The printing materials were moved into the most suitable building which could be obtained, and we understand that the Gazette will appear as usual. Mr. Hand will, under any circumstances, be a considerable loser, and the public give him their entire sympathy.

Cobourg.

The Car Works.—The Kingston and Pembroke Railway Company have received twenty new cars from the Works in this town.

Personal.—G. A. Cox, Esq., of Peterboro', President, and L. Rose, Esq., formerly M. P. for Durham East, Director, of the Midland Railway, were in town, Monday, and made an inspection of that busy bee hive, the Car Works. We believe the Midland Railway are having some cars built here.

Accident.—George Watson, of this town, who went to Manitoba with Major Roger's party, bound for the Souris, met with a serious accident near St. Cloud. While attempting to get on the train when in motion, he was caught, and the back part of his foot seriously injured. It is feared the whole foot will have to be amputated.

12th July.—We understand it is the intension of the Orangemen of this district to celebrate the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in Cobourg on the 12th of July next. Invitations have been or are being sent, to the various lodges not only in this district but to those in the surrounding districts. The demonstration will no doubt be a large one.

The Hanlan-Courtney Race.

THE GREAT EVENT AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, May 18.

There is absolutely nothing of any importance to telegraph this morning, except it be that the hour of the race has been changed from 3 30 p. m. to 4 30 p. m. Courtney, Hanlan and Riley were all out yesterday morning and went over the course. No dissatisfaction is expressed with the course. Ward this morning says he is well enough pleased with Hanlan who is drawn very fine. Courtney's friends are pleased and he himself looks cheerful. Riley is in fine trim and seems almost anxious that something should happen so that he might have a look in. He expects to start in the consolation prize. The Canadian's, though few in number, seem to rule the betting, for they snap up all that offers at 100 to 80 and have thousands to bet where they cannot place hundreds.

May, 19th, Washington 1, p. m.—Betting is 100 to 36 on Hanlan. The race will begin at 4 30.

3:50 p.m.—The race has been postponed till 5:30.

THE RESULT—HANLAN WINS.

(Special Telegram to the Examiner.)

Washington, May 19, 6:40 p.m.—Hanlan won easily. Courtney got discouraged and did not finish the race.

The Queen's Speech at the opening of Parliament will clearly indicate and approve Mr. Gladstone's foreign policy, and advocate Irish conciliation, home industrial developments and local reforms. It is thought in diplomatic circles that the Albanian-Montenegro difficulty will probably embroil Italy and Austria.

The king of the Albany lobby received $100,000 from the New York Elevated Railway Company to secure the defeat of the Five-cent Fare Bill. He bought seven Senators for $70,000 and put the balance into his own pocket.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 20, 1880.

Lacrosse.—A third Lacrosse Club, to be known as the "Fearless," has been organized, and commenced practising.

Anniversary Reception.—The Grangers will hold their annual reception this year on the 2nd June next when dancing to the music will be issued over the Midland R. R. to Port Hope

If any one going to the North-west or else where needs a tent they had better call at L. Robinson's. They have got all sizes, shapes and prices. 15-tf

Idyl-Wild Prizes.—The two handsome medals, for the prize-winners in the double scull race at the Idyl-Wild regatta, on the 24th May, have been on view at Mr. McClelland's store, and were greatly admired.

Runaway.—Julia Newton was brought up on Saturday and committed to gaol as a dangerous lunatic. She was very violent on being taken to the gaol, requiring the assistance of two constables.

Improvement.—The Midland railway authorities have purchased 30,000 bricks to finish their round house, in Port Hope. The work will be commenced immediately, and will be pushed to completion at once.

Rideau Waiters Cannot.—We observe by the Review that a meeting has been held in town to make arrangements for a suitable reception to Sir Charles Tupper. The Belleaygeon Independent's account of the proceedings, on the first page, will be found interesting.

Stamps Lacking.—Mr. Ingram, Collector of Taxes in Cobourg, has John Donaldson, of that town, before Mr. Hatton, on Saturday, charged with non-payment of his statute-labor tax. The Magistrate fined Donnelly $5 and $3.25 costs, and $3 of tax for statute labor.

Appeals.—Some eighty-seven appeals have been entered for the Court of Revision, which will meet next Thursday. A good many of these are for under-assessment, some of our citizens seeming determined to take an interest in the affairs of their neighbors.

Sent to Gaol.—Last Thursday Joe Hayes, a urchin of 11 years, was charged with assault by a comrade, Jas. Jackson. The Magistrate gave him a chance, sending him to gaol for a week, and intimating that if he came before him again he would go to the Reformatory.

Dropped It.—The complaint in the case of Cannon against John Hill, for assault, was unpleasant not appearing on Thursday last when wanted. The costs, $4.20, were charged to Cannon on the Magistrate's books, with the alternative of paying or going to gaol for 15 days.

Attempted Train-Wrecking.—On Saturday evening last the express train coming in from Millbrook was compelled to halt to permit the removal of obstructions thrown across the track, with the evident design of wrecking the train, but which were fortunately sighted in time to avoid danger. It is to be hoped the parties engaged in this fiendish work may be discovered and severely punished.

Eighteen Months in Gaol.—The Lindsay Warder says:—"Alexander Evans, formerly of Peterborough, who was arrested some time since while in the act of committing a burglary, and who was tried at the assizes and pleaded guilty, was sentenced to eighteen months in the common gaol at hard labor. He pleaded hard to be sent to the Central Prison, as he would there be engaged at his trade.

The Fraud Case.—On Monday morning the Police Magistrate gave his decision in the case of the Queen vs. W. J. Barry, in which J. McClellan was prosecutor. The case, it will be remembered was one in which Barry procured a note for $200 for a team of horses, by representing the horses to be free from encumbrance, there being a chattel-mortgage registered against them at the time of the sale. Owing to informality in the note, it not being negotiable, the Magistrate held that it could not be considered a valuable security, and hence discharged the prisoner.

Melancholy Death.—Our readers will be pained to learn of the death of Mr. William Guillett, of Cobourg, which took place at Toronto, on Wednesday of last week. The deceased was a young man of much promise, and was very highly esteemed in this community, where he was long known to the public, in connection with the Montreal Telegraph Company. Quite a number from Peterborough attended his funeral on Saturday, among them Mr. Geo. A. Cox, his former employer. Resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Guillet, and of sympathy with his bereaved relatives were passed by the Young Men's Class of the George street Methodist Sunday School, and the officers and members. The funeral sermon will be preached by Rev. Mr. Harper, on Sunday evening next.

The Centenary of Sunday-Schools.—The following are the names of the Canadian delegates to the centenary of the establishment of Sunday-schools in England:—Vice-Chancellor Blake, the Hon. Alexander Vidal and Mrs. Vidal, Miss Cameron, Barrie; Mrs. A. T. Crombie, Alfred Reeve, H. J. Clark, R. S. Brodie, and the Rev. W. Millard, of Toronto; the Rev. J. B. Mullan, Fergus; the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Peterborough; the Rev. J. W. Savage, Stirling; the Rev. A. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews, Strathroy; J. R. Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. Flavelle, Lindsay; John Ferguson, London; James Gordon, Ingersoll; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, Wyoming; the Rev. W. Armstrong, Ottawa; Miss J. Leitch, Rondeau; the Rev. F. W. Dobbs, Portsmouth; A. B. Walker, Waterford; Mrs. T. Ritchie, Belleville; the Rev. R. T. Hynes, Kirkwall; the Rev. Dr. Robert Burns and Mrs. Burns, Halifax.

Fancy Goods Store.—The premises formerly occupied by Mr. James Bust previous to the late fire, have been refitted and are now opened up by Mr. J. F. Austin, who has now on display as extensive and cheap a stock of fancy goods, as is to be found between Detroit and Montreal. The stock comprises almost everything "from a needle to an anchor," as the saying is, and it would puzzle one to find anything among the thousand and one varieties of goods, that does not seem to say "buy me." In picture frames, which Mr. Austin makes a specialty, there is an infinite variety of the most elegant goods, and our reporter was literally astonished at the prices quoted for frames that might grace the most expensive drawing-room. In fact, those who visit Mr. Austin's establishment would do well to price our goods and may interest their admiration, as some of the most elegant articles are literally marvellously cheap. All kinds of toilet articles, both of use and ornament, fancy chairs, and other ornamental wares, jewellery, cases, parasols, shades, brushes, &c., &c., can on hand in endless profusion and variety, and by no varying elegance, and an inspection of the show-rooms, will repay any one who may choose to call. Mr. Austin is always pleased to show goods, and is quite content to let the merits of his wares and the very low prices he is able to offer them for, recommend themselves to his visitors.

THE 24th OF MAY.

The 24th of May will be celebrated with no little eclat at the favorite resort, Idyl-Wild, and no doubt a very large number of our citizens will take advantage of the opportunities offered by Mr. Calcutt's enterprise, and find their way thither on the Golden-Eye which will leave Peterborough at 7 o'clock a.m., calling at Wallace's Point, Campbellcroft, Ferris's Landing, Gore's Landing and Harwood. Return tickets will be issued at the low fare of 50 cents, so that no one need deny himself or herself the pleasure of the excursion and the opportunity of witnessing the Regatta, on the score of economy. The King Fisher will leave Hastings at 9 o'clock a.m., on the arrival of the Grand Junction Railway, calling at Cameron's Point. Return tickets, 25 cents. The Fairy will leave Keene at 8 o'clock a.m. Return tickets, 25 cts. She will run every hour between Harwood and Idyl-Wild. The Magnet Somerville will leave Bobbie's Landing at 8o'clock a.m., and Stevenson's at 8.30 a.m. Return tickets 25 cents. She will make hourly trips between Harwood, Hiawatha and Idyl-Wild. The Golden-Eye will leave Campbellcroft at 9 o'clock a. m. on the 24th. Return tickets from that point, 25 cents. The following is the programme of the Regatta: Idyl-Wild Champion Cup, value $200, open to all amateur scullers, in "best and best" of boats. Referee:—John McClelland, Esq., Peterborough. Conditions of race:—Distance 3 miles. To be rowed on the 24th of May, 1st of July, and 1st of August, 1880, and if not won to be continued on 1st of September, 1880. Any person winning it three times to be the boa*de'ce*nt. The party winning on the 24th of May, should he not be able to attend on the 1st of July, will have one boat to his credit, which will hold good until the cup is won. Double Scull Race, steamboat prizes:—Two silver medals with a design of a double scull boat on one side, and "Champion Scullers of Rice Lake" engraved on the opposite side. Distance same as for the champion cup. The boats to be in-rigged lap streak. Entrance fee for each race one dollar. The entrance fee for Idyl-Wild cup will be applied to paying the expenses of the first and second competitors. Entries to be made not later than the 20th day of May to A. Paton, Secretary, Harwood Post Office. These races will be rowed under the Dominion Amateur Association Rules. There will be a hop in the pavilion. Dancing will commence at two o'clock p.m. Music by Professor Reynold's Quadrille Band. With such a programme to attract, and the means of reaching the Regatta at such favorable rates, Peterborough will turn out strong in numbers for the 24th excursion. The Peterborough Fire Brigade Band will be in attendance at Idyl Wild during the day, and will add to the attractions by their splendid music.

A Successful and Enterprising Business.

Whether the N. P. had anything to do with it or not, there is a very decided "hum" around the extensive premises occupied by Mr. T. Fitzgerald, near the Midland Railway Station. Dropping in there the other day, our reporter found the workmen in the finishing room, just putting the finishing touches on a magnificent landau, or barouche, built for Messrs. Morgan & Shewan, George street, to which reference was made to a short time since. It is a splendid carriage, and fully equal to anything in the Province. Another very handsome piece of work just finished is a light carriage for Mr. R. A. Morrow, a most elegant rig, made of the best American hickory, and watching complete, 68 pounds. There are two carriages nearly finished for Mr. Wm. Lees, and another for Mr. R. S. Davidson. Both these rigs are exquisitely finished. There is also a very elegant light piano-box, cut down in front, weighing all told, 128 pounds, just completed for Mr. Broad, of Port Hope. There are many other carriages in course of construction, the above being work just finished. One point about all this work worthy of special attention, and in which Mr. Fitzgerald particularly excels, is in the finish of his painting and varnishing. We have never seen it excelled in perfection. In the store-room, on the first flat, there are a number of rigs, made for stock, and on sale. Among these is a very handsome piano-box, withcover of the best leather, trimmed with Morocco, and Morocco cushions. It has the shifting rail, and the top can be removed at pleasure, making a handsome open buggy. There are a number of open piano-boxes, very handsomely finished, upholstered with the very best mouquette, or Morocco, steel-tires, built throughout of the best American hickory, mounted with wood hubs, others with the patent wheel. Mr. Fitzgerald warrants all his work for two years. One of these rigs, with the running gear finished in oil and varnish, showing the grain of the hickory, is a very stylish article. Any person contemplating a purchase in this line should go and have a look at these handsome and light, yet strong buggies. There are a number of farmers' waggons just finished, and well worth inspection by any person in need of a new waggon. They are built throughout, poles, axles, wheels, etc., of the best blue oak, are neatly and substantially ironed, handsomely painted, and fitted with ash bonns, with neat sheeving, patent spindles, etc. All these waggons are guaranteed to the buyer for two or three years. There is an extensive blacksmithing shop in connection, where repairs or all kinds are executed. There is also a new painting department for setting tires, an operation in which so many wheels are ruined. It would pay people having tires to set on light work, to come any distance to have the setting done at Mr. Fitzgerald's. Mr. F.'s livery stables are well and favorably known, and he has just added several elegant new buggies, and some first-class horseflesh. He purchased from down East the other day a very beautiful cream-colored horse with white mane and tail, which is added to the number of horses who do their mile in three minutes easily. Mr. Fitzgerald has also an extensive wood yard, always well stocked, and has just got in a large supply of the best lime, an article which every body is in need of just now.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Wm. Gilbert has gone to Idyl-Wild to take charge of the hotel there, for the summer.

—Councillor Dunsford has returned from the Bermudas, looking very much improved in health.

—Mr. J. B. Trayes, proprietor of our esteemed contemporary, the Port Hope Times, was in town on Monday, looking hearty as usual.

—Mr. James Stratton, Collector of Customs, was confined to his house by illness for some days, last week, but we are glad to say is able to be about again.

—Mr. E. F. Hatton, who took his degree in medicine at the recent examination in Toronto University, is about to visit Europe to get the benefit of observing practice in the large hospitals.

—Mr. A. K. Blackadar, formerly Mathematical Master of the Collegiate Institute here, and now of the Insurance Branch of the Finance Department, at Ottawa, is visiting friends in town.

—John Whitaker, of Cobourg, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Scouris river, N. W.T., on the 28th April. A party of whom he was one, had been exploring the land in the vicinity with a view to locating. On arriving at the mouth of the Scouris, only one skiff was available, and this was utilized to transport the party across. The river was bouning, but a portion of the party had been safely got over, when five persons entered the boat. Their names were Frank McPhee, of Shediac, N.B.; Geo. Elliott and John Whitaker, Cobourg; Ed. Donnelly, Palmerston, Ont., and a man whose name our informant was not quite certain. This was too much of a load for the frail bark, be*ing* about three feet out. This was about nine o'clock in the evening, when [illegible] The boat dipped several times on the way across, and finally, as the [illegible] reached the other shore, she went over, [illegible] the occupants into the rushing flood. At this juncture Donnelly shouted out, "Every man for himself," and made a plunge in the direction of the fallen tree. He and two others were drowned, but Elliott and Whitaker managed to reach the shore in an exhausted condition.—Mr.

That Resolutions Obituary.—Now that Mr. Bertram has severed his connection with the Auburn Woollen Mills, we would suggest that the proprietor of the brick factory should endeavor to enlist his assistance, in an effort to make something out of that exceedingly unfortunate enterprise. The N. P. don't seem to help it, perhaps the application of good "Grit" management would have the desired effect.

School Inspection.—Mr. S. A. Marling, M. A., High School Inspector, dropped into town on Monday afternoon, and on Tuesday and Wednesday inspected the different classes in the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Marling's advent was entirely unexpected and his visit came upon the school in its every day work. He made a thorough and searching examination, and we understand was very favorably impressed with the proficiency evinced.

Boat Club.—The P. B. C. had a meeting on Monday night, when some additional rules were added and other business transacted. The following is the programme for the first Club regatta on the 24th of May at 4.30 p. m.:—

1. DOUBLE SCULLS.—Baldwin, W. H. and Bell, J. C. (Stroke Bell) vs. Salisbury, E. and Smith, J. C. (Stroke Smith).
2. SINGLE SCULLS.—Open.
3. DOUBLE SCULLS.—Lewis and Munro vs. Hamilton and Stinson C.
4. SINGLE SCULLS.—Open.
5. DOUBLE SCULLS.—Boys.—Elliott, J. and Hodge, W. (Stroke Hodge), Loach, C. and Orr.
6. DOUBLE SCULLS.—Between winners of first and third races.

THE REV. ANDREW TULLY.

From the Newton, N. J. Herald, April 19.

The name at the head of this article was a well known Presbyterian minister in Sussex and Warren counties, and also on the Pennsylvania side of the river in the Delaware Valley. Eight years of his ministerial life was spent with the Second Presbyterian church at Beemerville, in this county, and to many of our readers who have for many years been acquainted with him this sketch may be of some interest. Mr. Tully died at Portland, Pa., on the 5th inst., after a brief but painful illness, which he endured with Christian fortitude and resignation. He was born at Potsolous, Berkurgshire, Scotland, May 30th, 1813. Sailed from Leith with his father's family, May 28th, 1828, and landed at Port Hope, Canada, Sept. 18th of the same year, being at sea nearly three months. The family settled near Peterboro', where four of his brothers and a sister now reside. Possessed of an ardent desire to enter the Christian ministry, he availed himself of the greater facilities in the States for the study of Theology. He graduated at La Fayette college, Easton, Pa., Oct. 11th, 1837, and his high rank as a scholar entitled him to the honor of delivering the Valedictory to his class. He pursued the study of Theology at Princeton, N. J., graduating at the Seminary Sept. 20th, 1840. He was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of Newton, April 7th, 1840, and ordained Nov. 30th of the same year. His first sermon after leaving the Seminary was preached in the Mt. Bethel Church, on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware, and here he remained for fourteen years. He afterwards spent several years each as a Pastor of the Presbyterian churches of Harmony, New Jersey—Morrisville, Pennsylvania—Beaumerville, New Jersey, and for the last seven years at the Mt. Bethel church at Portland, where he commenced his ministry forty years ago. Mr. Tully was an earnest, zealous, and active man. He was a good evangelical preacher, and a faithful pastor, always availing himself of an opportunity to present the duties required by the gospel. In Presbytery he was conscientously active, and knew the conditions and wants of the different churches, perhaps better than any other member. Wherever he preached he had numerous friends, and many persons in the different churches to which he ministered, will shed tears of sincere sorrow, when the announcement comes to them, that their former pastor is no more. In all the 40 years of his ministry he was never interrupted by sickness in his Sabbath duties till his last Sabbath on earth, and had he lived till May 30, he would have been 68 years old.

His funeral took place at Portland, in the Presbyterian church, on Wednesday of last week, and was largely attended by his many friends, numbers of them hailing from a distance, Easton, Harmony, and Belvidere being represented. Long before the services commenced the church was filled, and many were denied admittance. All the pulpit ornaments were removed the church, the choir singing the "Night of the Grave." The coffin was covered with black cloth, ornamented with silver, and was placed in front of the pulpit, and some friends placed on its miniature chest of tea, wheat, essential of a good life well spent, and, like the harvest, gathered at last. A few lilies, donated by loving hands, graced a small table [illegible] Rev. H. M. Spade, Harmony, Rev. D. K. Freeman, of Scranton, Rev. H. B. Furcuman, Yellow Frame, Rev. E. C. Cline, Oxford, Rev. W. A. Holliday, Belvidere, Prof. Cedlin, LaFayette college, and Rev. Frank Miller, Easton. The pulpit was occupied by Rev. Dr. Wallace, of Stroudsburg, Rev. James W. Weed, D. D. Allentown, Pennsylvania, Rev. Mr. Forsuman and Mr. Cline. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Weed, formerly of Dockstown, taking as his text 17th chapter of John, and 24th verse. The sermon was learned, logical and eloquent, and coming from one who had been his classmate was appropriate and feeling. Of all the members of Newton Presbytery who were connected with it when he became a member 40 years ago, only four are now living, and only one in the bounds of the Presbytery, Rev. Mr. Condict, of Baillwater. Twenty-three ministers were present at the funeral. He has a brother in the ministry, Rev. David Tully, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Oswego, New York, and also two nephews, one at Jacksonville, Florida, and one in Canada. There is a fact connected with the life of Mr. Tully and a cousin, which is interesting, and it can be said also both sad and romantic. Previous to Mr. Tully's father emigrating to Canada, another brother with his family emigrated with a colony to the Red River settlement in British North America. Here in a little while the Indians came down in force and committed a terrible and cruel massacre upon the settlers. Among the slain was Mr. Tully's uncle and family, with the exception of two little boys. Some English traders coming along exchanged some wares and trinkets for the boys, and took them to Halifax with the intention of placing them in some institution. Mr. Tully, after hearing of the massacre and the rescue of the two boys, started from home to find them. He traced them from Halifax to Boston, Philadelphia, and finally to New York City to the Orphan Asylum, where he found one had died and the other had been taken out and was being cared for by Mrs. Divie Bethune, the daughter of Isabella Graham, the founder of the Orphan Asylum in New York, and the mother of the famed and eloquent preacher, Rev. George W. Bethune, D.D. Mrs. Bethune, hearing the story of the massacre, was especially interested in the boy, and it was at her house Mr. Tully met his cousin for the first time, and here it was also that he met Rev. George Junkins D. D., then just starting La Fayette college. Becoming interested in Mr. Junkin, he went on at once to Easton and entered college, and did not return to his home in Canada until the completion of his college studies. The following touching and touching little poem was written by Mrs. Bethune, who, like her gifted son, was a poet of no mean merit. It was spoken by Mr. Tully's cousin at an exhibition in the Orphan Asylum, and tells the story of his life. This cousin is still living and was present at Mr. Tully's funeral, to whom he ever looked as a father:

Kind patrons hear my simple tale
Nor think I am too bold.
'Twill make each blooming cheek turn pale,
Though I'm but five years old.

From Scotia's hills indeed to roam,
My parents crossed the wave,
They sought to find a peaceful home,
But found it in the grave.

By the Red Indians' bloody hands.
They both alas! were slain:
My father knelt before their band.
My mother wept in vain.

As wildly to her throbbing heart,
A tender babe she pressed,
They with a cruel fatal dart
Transfixed it to her breast.

They dragged my brother to a flame.
Oh, how he wept and prayed:
Just then a pitying stranger came.
And kindly gave us aid.

Another stranger brought me here,
And I have found a home,
Where gentle ladies dry each tear
And Indians dare not come

O, blessed the Asylum home [illegible] peace,
That fills my heart with joy,
Friends are my home blessings and [illegible]
Prays your pour Orphan Boy.

GENTLEMEN:—The facts as to the instant effects of Yellow Oil in a case of Canker are as follows:—My little child was suffering greatly; nightly vomiting with fever, and was giving the customary crank as described to her. None of the ordinary remedies seemed to help her; but as my son suggested I had tried Yellow Oil, I did so at once, administering a few drops on sugar, and replacing it pretty frequently on the head and neck. The effect was wonderful. In a few minutes the throat of the tumour, became less bloody, and in half an hour was pleasant and breathed

Obituary.

(Norwood Register.)

It is with sincere sorrow we are called upon to refer, in an obituary notice, to a youth of our village who had given such bright promises of marking out for himself and attaining a useful and brilliant career. We refer to the late Master Harold Rathbone. We might say, in a word, that Harold was an exemplary lad in his walk, habits, conversation and daily life generally. Though only in his 16th year he had made progress in literary pursuits far beyond his age. Studious to an extreme degree, and diligent in acquiring such knowledge as he, or his parents, thought would be necessary to prepare him to engage successfully in the great battle of life, he excelled in all branches of his studies. Surrounded by Christian influences in his household, he in his early days and throughout his too short life, walked in the fear of God, unspotted in his conduct and character. In fact, his whole department in life had been such that he might be regarded as almost faultless in his living, and if he had a fault, it was only that one which prevented him from engaging in out-door games, or active and innocent sports, for which, unfortunately, he had no relish whatever, although his disposition was such as to make him a great favorite among his large circle of young companions. His death has left a great void in the family circle, and has caused a universal gloom in our village. His funeral, which took place on Thursday afternoon last, was one of the most imposing that has ever been seen in our neighborhood. The mute population of the village and vicinity, far and near, from Hastings, Westwood and the surrounding townships, were present in large numbers, and, together with the scholars of the High and Public Schools, headed by their respective teachers, mournfully and solemnly followed the remains of young Harold to their last resting place on earth. During the obsequies, business generally was suspended, and the stores of the village were closed in respect of the deceased, and expressive of the deep sympathy felt for the relatives. With the people of this community generally, we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family on the loss they have sustained in the death of a dutiful and beloved son and a kind and affectionate brother.

"It matters little what hour of the day
The righteous falls asleep; death cannot come
To him untimely who is fit to die.
The loss of this cold world, the voice of Heaven.
The briefer life, the earlier immortality."

Late Hon. Geo. Brown.

At the meeting of the Dominion Grange Executive Committe on Friday, the following resolution of condolence was passed in reference to the late Mr. George Brown:—

Resolved.—That we the members of the Executive Committee of the Dominion Grange, on behalf of the organization we represent, desire to express our regret for the untimely death of one of Canada's greatest statesmen and public journalists. We sympathize with, as representing the great agricultural class of this country, to convey our sincere regrets at the death of one who has always taken a deep interest in Canadian agriculture, as shown in the efforts put forth by him to advance this interest through the columns of the Canada Farmer and by the establishment of Bow Park Farm, which stands as a model farm and an ornament to his enterprise and love of agriculture. And in thus expressing our regrets we trust that his life, which was one of inspiring work and honest labour in behalf of his country, may be taken as an example for his successors to follow, and all Canadians to aim to copy.

"Review" Hum-Hunter on His Favorite Hobby.

The Bobcaygeon Independent gives prominence to a meeting held in town recently to make arrangements for a suitable reception for "The Great Stretcher," Sir Charles Tupper, who is to visit Peterborough, it is said, on the 27th instant. It would be an extremely proper thing, that the reception to Sir Charles should partake of the nature of a demonstration, which would be most appropriately headed by the "hum"-hunter of the Review mounted on his favorite bobby, as imperfectly represented in the above sketch. The large number of people out of employment, and having nothing else to do, would be easily persuaded to form processions in honor of Sir Tupper and the N. P., and would gladly escort him around the streets, where he would have the opportunity of sawing himself by ocular demonstration, of the large number of vacant stores and dwellings, the thriving pea-nut stands, etc., which bear testimony to the successful operation of the great N.P. In case it should be deemed advisable to present a formal address to Sir John's heir-apparent, on the occasion of his visit here, the trowers should not fail to draw attention to the fact that notwithstanding the decreased population and the reduced value of property shown by the assessment which has been taken, there are eleven more dogs in town this year than last. Such a gratifying evidence of the working of the N. P. cannot fail to cheer the soul of Sir Charles, and to make him truly feel that there is nothing like liberal taxation to develop the industry of the people. No doubt the hon. gentleman will be expected to make a speech on the occasion of his visit here, and in that event we would suggest that the brick factory would be a convenient and available place for such an event. Surrounded there by the evidences of the "hum," Sir Charles might be induced to take the people into his confidence, and let them know about what time they may expect the work of actual construction of the Trent Valley Canal to be commenced. By so doing he would be able to dissipate a strong suspicion that exists, that it is simply a matter of "great expectations," and that the Government intend to keep the scheme dangling before the people interested, for the purpose of cultivating votes for the next elections

BEHIND THE MASK.

CHAPTER I.

ETHEL.

Ethel Forbes, at the bright age of eighteen, was a pretty, happy girl, the pet of her parents, the admired of the men, and the envied of the women. She had been well cared for. Her education had been ample for her station, and her intelligence was equal to her beauty. Tall and graceful, her features were charming, not only from their regularity and the brightness of their expression, but from her winning smile and soft, sweet voice. An impressionable girl, favored with the divine faculty of imagination; a girl with a gentle heart, deep affection, and pure aspirations. But one defect was there, and that you could not discover till you knew her well. She lacked firmness and self-denial, and was a little too prone to self-indulgence—perhaps because she had been too much petted. Not a spoiled child in the ordinary acceptation of the term, she was dutiful and affectionate, and neither ill tempered nor self-willed.

Ethel was a joy to her parents, who were, indeed, but small tradesfolk. They indulged her in every way, and she observed their humble home. It was well so, for Mr. and Mrs Forbes had one great sorrow. Their only son, Ethel's brother, was a graceless spendthrift—a victim to lazy habits and vicious indulgence. The days of low women, the tool of unscrupulous men, this hopeful youth was on the way to disgrace. He was seldom seen at home; but upto this time however no absolute public stigma had been brought upon the family by his conduct. He was employed in a solicitor's office, and little was known against him save that he lived wildly, was a hard drinker, and a generally loose character.

Ethel may be pardoned for not entertaining much affection for him. There was nothing in man between them. He had shown towards her a but slight affection or consideration. Her senior by many years, she had never known him as anything but a rude, self-willed boy, growing into a coarse, thoughtless man.

Consequently, when the brow came, Ethel was pained for her parents' grief, but was hardly surprised.

Tom Forbes was at last arrested, and convicted of having embezzled largely from his employers. In mercy to his parents he was let off, but only on condition of his father paying the sum stolen and shipping him off to the colonies. Tom, though too reckless to feel remorse, was staggered by the discovery of his guilt, and the exposure that threatened him. He was sent out of the country, without seeing his mother or his sister, and with a warning from his father that, if he showed his face in England again he should be handed over to the rigor of the law.

Ethel during this hard time divined much that her tender parents tried to keep from her. Since we her mother embalmed, and visibly failing away. She saw the shop given up, and the stock sold off. She knew then that hanging off the sea, to shield her from disgrace, had ruined her parents. This thought of their great love, taken with certain inward prompt-ings and desires which had long agitated her, led to the germination in her mind of a grand idea—a most heroic resolve, which ripened daily and grew to be the great purpose of her life.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes were something above the run of ordinary tradespeople. In at least one branch the family was unusually substantial. A brother of Mr. Forbes, known as Uncle Ben, was a clever reporter and journalist. The Forbes's were given to refined recreation after business hours. They often went to theatres. Their little shop window displayed these elegantly printed bills and pictorial cards with which modern drama is planned to advertise itself. In exchange for thus loading his shop window, courteous acting managers sometimes favoured Mr. Forbes with orders. Thus Ethel early became acquainted with exhibitions of dramatic art.

What was a pleasure to the old people soon grew into a passion with the imaginative Ethel. The sensitive chord in her nature once struck, responded quickly and harmoniously. A great actress became to her mind a kind of goddess, and the drama of her life was to be an ovation.

An accident determined her career. After her brother had been turned out of the house whose peace he had destroyed, there was a spare room in the house. This was let to a very poor musician, a hard worked-artist, who led the orchestra at a minor theatre, scored pages of 'incidental music,' and provided condensers' overtures, &c., and plodded through rehearsals, ad infinitum, and all the wearisome trials of keeping in order a poor band; and all this for a salary which barely kept body and soul together—clothed the one in a shabby black coat, and dumped the aspirations of the other. The man was, however, a good musician. Ethel and he soon became acquainted. He was a reserved man and a gentleman, and admired Ethel more than he allowed her to perceive. One day, when he openly told her parents that she had a good songs face and figure, he gladdened her heart more than he guessed.

The old people merely shook their heads, and said, 'It's a hard life, Mr. Hammond, especially for a young girl.'

'Yes,' he replied, 'a little bitterly; 'it is a hard life. Only the artist himself knows how hard. Others only see the mask; but the artist himself is behind it.'

The purport of all this showed itself a week or two after.

Ethel stopped Mr. Hammond one day, and quietly asked him to tell her candidly if he thought she would stand any chance of success on the stage.

John Hammond felt that the girl was speaking earnestly, and answered her truly.

'Do not think me flattering if I say that you have every personal qualification for the stage. A manager would approve your face, figure, and general deportment; but it would be years before you could hope to make money. I might perhaps get you an introduction at eighteen shillings per week. It is the best way to begin. You must learn stage business.'

'Thank you, sir. May I hope you will give me any little assistance in your power? I love the stage, and do so want to help my dear parents.'

'I think if your parents consent to your wishes, I may get an introduction for you. That is all I can promise. Think well of the matter. The struggle is hard. And pardon me if I add, the temptations to a poor girl are many. But, as you have indications and a good heart, I think you would be safe.

And so this earnest man showed wisdom.

He neither unduly raised her hopes nor damped her youthful aspirations.

In the evening, when seated with her parents, and and silent enough now, she startled them.

'I am no longer a child; let me help you, my dear mother.'

'Dear child, you are not inured to hardship. We must do our best.'

Secretly, in their hearts, they hoped for a chance to marry her well.

'I don't think I could endure, father,' she said. 'But I want to do something—something that I think I can do.'

'What is that?' asked her mother, suddenly.

'I want to go on the stage.'

The mother gave a scream, and then said, firmly, 'Never!'

Her father stared at her.

Ethel looked at him with a smile, and said, 'Consult Uncle Ben, father.'

This was true feminine cunning.

Uncle Ben was an oracle in the family.

CHAPTER II.

A WARNING

Ethel allowed no excitement to show itself at this cold reception of her proposal. She remained firm in her determination, and left the rest to time and Uncle Ben.

Mr. Forbes saw that her whim was no one.

Uncle Ben was consulted.

He was a short but well-made man, upon whom old age sat lightly.

His hair was white, but his face not overseamed with wrinkles.

He took life easily.

He had one peculiarity—he was a Theorist.

He heard of Ethel's proposal in silence.

He had a theory about the family, and his theory touched Ethel nearly.

In his moralising moods he talked in a rambling way about what he called the 'intermittency of hereditary taints.

Bad habits and vices, he said, appeared at intervals in the generations of people. A great grandfather of Ethel's had been a terrible drunkard.

Uncle Ben took the fact of Ethel's brother's drunken life as a proof of his pet theory.

But what had this to do with Ethel? That Uncle Ben kept in his own mind.

He replied to Mr. Forbes in these words:

'Your daughter is very sensitive, and she is not strong in self-government. He had known her all her life, and had studied her nature keenly. 'Don't thwart her!'

'But,' said Mr. Forbes, who, though a man without prejudice, did not like the idea of a public career for Ethel, 'I dont think the life is all suit her.

'Papa,' said Ethel, 'I feel a great desire that way. I can make money by and by for you. Even at first, Mr. Hammond says I can make enough to keep myself: for, of course, I shall live with you'

While she spoke, Uncle Ben looked very earnestly at Ethel.

Mr. Forbes felt rather hopeless about his own future.

When very much as after middle age, it is only the iron-moulded amongst us that can confront it firmly.

He felt that, for the sake of a little repugnance of feeling, he had no right to deprive his daughter of a chance in life.

'Uncle Ben,' he said, 'you shall decide. Do you think she will be happy?'

'I can't say,' he replied. 'I know she won't be happy if she don't try. But, Ethel, it is a feverish life, and your nature is one that quietly moulds itself to circumstances if they be comfortable, and rebels if they be hard.'

'Well, uncle,' said Ethel, 'if I see no hope of success in twelve months, I will do anything papa wishes.

'I do not think you will be able to leave the life when you have once tasted it.

'I wish you could be married,' said Mr. Forbes.

'Bah!' said the old man, harshly. 'The young men who marry penniless girls are very rare now-a-days Besides, unless that girl marries happily, marriage would be her ruin.'

Ethel felt that these words were true; but took them not as a stern warning for the future.

'Now, what do you say, Ben?' said the father.

'Let her have her own way. But, Ethel, girl,'—this tenderly—'take an old man's advice. Work hard at your art, stick to your own nose

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 27, 1880.

OUR POPULATION.

Our truly good contemporary the Review seems to feel an incumbency of responsibility for the fact that the population of the town, as exhibited by the sworn returns of the assessors, is less by over two hundred than it was last year. The fact is not a pleasant one to contemplate. It is not cheering to those engaged in the various business enterprises of the community to know that there are one hundred fewer ratepayers this year than last, and that those who remain will have to make up the contribution to the civic treasury which those vanished one hundred would have paid. It exhibits a condition of affairs very different from that pourtrayed by Mr. Billiard and his friends previous the last elections, which was to result from the "national policy." A contemporary in an adjoining county intimates that in drawing attention to this deplorable condition of affairs, we are "rejoicing" that evil has fallen upon the town. This gives us the permission to remark that the publisher of the EXAMINER has quite as much at stake in the town of Peterborough, as any other publisher or publishers, and that he would be more than pleased to be able to record truthfully and conscientiously any advance or expansion of the business of the town, because such a condition could not exist without reflecting advantageously upon his own interests. The EXAMINER has only been compelled to draw attention to the actual condition of affairs, to the real condition of our community, because of the false and boastful assertions of the Review, which has persisted in attempting to force upon the public mind the impression that the town of Peterborough had benefitted and progressed under the "National Policy." Had such been the case, we should most gladly have acknowledged it, because in any prosperity which the town might achieve we have a fair share. As it is, we know the working of the N. P. in our midst has most materially and detrimentally affected every kind of business—ours among the rest. The Review knows very well that an increase has taken place in the cost of the very paper upon which its impressions are made, of five per cent. No doubt this extra cost of production is made up in its case, by a liberal supply of government advertisements, and perhaps a soothing balance to its credit to induce it to uphold, with a show of virtuous earnestness, what it knows to be a fraud and an imposition upon the people of this country and of this county. With this object in view in its issue of last week it makes the attempt to prove that there is a mistake in the calculations which have been set before the public, and that there is not really any very serious falling off in the population and prosperity of the town. It states: "We find "that an oversight of the assessors in not "including persons assessed for Statute "Labor in the column of 'Number of "persons in the family of each person "rated as resident,' necessitates a re-"vision of the list as published by us on "6th inst." Such an assertion is not only insulting to the assessors but to the public intelligence of the community, and it is only surprising that any ordinarily intelligent person should resort to so transparent a dodge to excuse an ostrich-like attitude towards the facts which surround us. Any person of common sense knows that every person "assessed for statute labor," is included in the "number of persons in the family of each person rated as resident," so that the attempt to add to the population on the ground that the assessors have failed in their duty is not only ridiculous but contemptible. It is a trick so paltry that no one will be deceived by it. One thing certain—no business man, property-holder, or tax-payer will be bamboozled by empty assertions that he is increasing in wealth when his actual experience tells him that he is not, and that the reverse is the case. One would judge by the pragmatical annunciations of our contemporary that it had a monopoly of common sense and intelligence, and is at liberty to palm off upon a less favored public any subterfuge which might appear to suggest a defence for its advertising patrons at Ottawa.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Our contemporary the Review says:—"We find that a few people who have not "taken the trouble to inform themselves, "or who have read only the prejudiced "accounts of the more unscrupulous por-"tion of the Reform press, are under the "impression that the proposed construc-"tion of the Yale-Kamloops section of "the Pacific Railway, or, indeed, of any "portion of it in British Columbia, is a "new proposal of the present Adminis-"tration, and a culpable extravagance on "their part." We presume that our contemporary in writing meant Yale-Kamloops, which is the term of the section of the Pacific Railway in British Columbia upon which the present Government, in defiance of every suggestion of prudence and common sense, have decided to squander ten millions of dollars. The Review is perfectly correct in its idea that a "few people" regard this expenditure as a "culpable extravagance" on the part of the Government, and it would be astonished beyond measure if it were able to test by an appeal to the ballot how many people constitute the "few" in question. Our contemporary goes on to state that in making this expenditure of ten millions, the present Government were simply carrying out the arrangements of the Government of Mr. Mackenzie, and that the Globe was in favor of it. That is simply a statement which is not correct. The late Government never contemplated such an expenditure except as an ultimate necessity to the completion of the whole line of railway, which was to be postponed till the growth of the country and the development of its resources, by the prosecution of railway construction and settlement in the fertile North-West, would enable them to enter upon the task of completing the railway with some endorsation of prudence. During the late debates in parliament it was shown most clearly by Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, by Mr. Blake and other members of the late Government, that there was nothing in the record of the late Government which made it the slightest degree incumbent upon the present Government to squander this enormous sum of ten millions, and in fact both gentlemen most strongly appealed to Sir John Macdonald not to sacrifice the interests of the country by an act of such stupendous folly. The Globe itself, to which the Review appeals to justify the conduct of its political leaders, strongly urged the Government not to plunge into this enormous burden of debt, and its advice and all good advice was unheeded by a Ministry whose only object in existence seems to be to plan schemes for the benefit of contractors, political favorites, engineers and all that class of leeches who are draining the life-blood of the industry of the country. The very apologetic tone of the Review in its treatment of the subject shows, more plainly than anything else, that it knows in its inmost mind that the course of the Government was wrong and unjustifiable.

ONTARIO'S WESTERN TERRITORY.

We have frequently urged the Review to an expression of its opinion upon the conduct of the Government at Ottawa in seeking to thwart the solemn award of a tribunal of arbitrators, in reference to the fixing the western boundary of this province. We need not remind our readers of the great importance of this subject to the people of Ontario. By the decision of the Boundary Commissioners, an addition was made to the area of this province which just doubled its exhibit upon the map. The only income which the Government of the Province possesses, that does not come directly out of the pockets of the people is, from its public domain—from its mineral and forest resources. The vast increase of our territorial extent secured by this award comprises the richest portion of mineral estate in the Dominion, and enormous wealth in timber. By that award our Government was assured of a continued income for many decades which would enable them to administer the affairs of the province without increasing the burdens of the people by the imposition of direct taxation. It was to rob the province of this important factor in its future prosperity that the efforts of Sir John Macdonald and his friends were directed, and it was against his effort to despoil and rob the people of this province that the influence of the Liberal party was exerted. So far as his mechanical majority at Ottawa enabled him to do so, Sir John Macdonald and his fellow conspirators succeeded; but fortunately there are at the head of affairs in this province, able, honest and patriotic men who are determined at all hazards to maintain the rights of the province, and to enforce that justice which has been solemnly declared to be the due of the people of Ontario. We have reason to believe that the appeal of Mr. Mowat, on behalf of the province, to the Imperial authorities, will be successful and that the nefarious designs of the reckless and unscrupulous men who have sought to rob our people of their birthright will ultimately be defeated. But in the meantime we would like to have our contemporary assert its views upon this question, and to explain why its voice is not lifted up in protest against the great wrong which has been sought to be inflicted upon the people of this Province. Or if it remains dumb, let the people understand that its blind partizanship weighs more with it than its duty or its patriotism, and that it is willing to give silent approval to the treason to the interests of the province of which those concerned in the conspiracy to defeat the boundary award have been guilty.

Ontario Commercial College, Belleville.

Great improvements are being made in that part of the McAnnany Block occupied by the Ontario Commercial College. The main stairs leading to the college are being remodeled, and the college rooms are being enlarged and made more convenient and elegant.

The Institution has always possessed very attractive premises, but when the new arrangements are completed it will have the finest suite of rooms for Commercial College purposes that can be devised.

In noting these improvements we are pleased also to note the present prosperity of the College.

The attendance during last winter was larger than for the past four years, and the number of students entering now is larger than usual at this season.

Among the latest to enter are one young man from Bermuda, West Indies, one from Omaha, Nebraska, and one from Albert College. Three are coming this month from Halifax, Nova Scotia one from Pennsylvania and one from Michigan.

An institution whose fame attracts so many young men from distances so great reflects credit on our city, and it has been a pleasure to us as journalists to record from time to time for the past twelve years its great and ever continued success.

There has just been printed at the INTELLIGENCER job office the latest circular of the College, in which appear the names of about 50 recent graduates and the positions held by them to-day in banks and business houses.

It is a record to be proud of, and one that proves the practical nature of the teaching imparted, which enables young men to step out of the College into good positions.

Ontario Commercial College is not a mere "commercial department" of a college or academy, but is a purely commercial institution conducted by practical accountants.

The principals are known to the business community of the Dominion as accountants in the front rank of their profession, and their works on book-keeping—the "Canadian Accountant" and Johnson's Joint Stock Co. Book-Keeping—are the standard works on the subject.

We sincerely advise all young men to [illegible] a course at this [illegible].—Intelligencer.

Swiss Cream.—One quarter pound of macaroons, if not, six sponge cakes, sherry, one pint of cream, five ounces of sugar, two large teaspoonfuls of arrow-root, juice of half a lemon, rind of one lemon, three teaspoonfuls milk; lay macaroons in a glass dish, and pour over enough sherry to soak them; put the cream into a lined sauce pan, with sugar and lemon rind, and let it remain beside the fire until the cream is well flavoured; take out rind; mix smoothly with cold milk and arrow-root, and add to the cream; boil gently for three minutes, stirring it well; take it off the fire, and stir till nearly cold, then add lemon juice and pour over cake. Garnish with strips of candied fruit—ginger, citron, or preserve.

Wanted to Know all About It.

The other day a lady accompanied by her son, a very small boy boarded a train at Little Rock. The woman had a careworn expression hanging round her face like a tattered veil, and many of the rapid questions asked by the boy were answered by unconscious sighs.

"Ma," said the boy, "that man's like a baby, ain', he?" pointing to a bald-headed man sitting just in front of them.

"Hush!"

"Why must I hush?"

After a moment's silence: "Ma, what's the matter with that man's head?"

"Hush, I tell you. He's bald."

"What's bald?"

"His head hasn't any hair on it."

"Did it come off?"

"I guess so."

"Will mine come off?"

"Sometime, maybe."

"Then I'll be bald won't I?"

"Yes."

"Will you care?"

"Don't ask so many questions."

After another silence, the boy exclaimed: "Ma, look at the fly on that man's head."

"If you don't hush I'll whip you when we get home."

"Look! There's another fly. "Look at 'em fight; look at 'em."

"Madam," said the man, putting aside a newspaper and looking around, "what's the matter with that young hyena?"

The woman blushed, stammered out something, and attempted to smooth back the boy's hair.

"One fly, two flies, three flies," said the boy innocently following with his eyes a basket of oranges carried by the newsboy.

"Here, you young hedgehog," said the bald-headed man, "if you don't hush, I'll have the conductor put you off the train."

The poor woman, not knowing what else to do, boxed the boy's ears, and then give him an orange to keep him from crying.

"Ma, have I got red marks on my head?"

"I'll slap you again, if you don't hush."

"Mister," said the boy, after a short silence, "does it hurt to be bald headed?"

"Youngster," said the man, "if you'll keep quiet, I'll give you a quarter."

The boy promised and the money was handed over.

The man took up his paper and resumed his reading.

"This is my bald-headed money," said the boy. "When I get bald-headed I'm going to give boys money. Mister, have all balded-headed men got money?"

The annoyed man threw down his paper, arose and exclaimed: "Madam, hereafter when you travel leave that young gorilla at home. Hitherto I always thought that the old prophet was very cruel for calling the vile bears to frill children for making fun of his head, but now I am forced to believe he did a Christian act. If your boy had been in the crowd he would have died first If I can't find another seat on this train I'll ride on the cow-catcher rather than remain here.

"The bald-headed man is gone," said the boy, and the woman leaned back and blew a tired sigh from her lips.—Little Rock Gazette.

The Alabama Surplus.

LONDON, May 17.—The Times to-day, discussing the subject of the Alabama claims surplus, concludes its remarks as follows:—"It is not befitting the dignity of a great nation to put quietly into its own pocket money of which it was constituted trustee for its division among private individuals. A course at once magnanimous and satisfactory to the original and as well as to the present owners of the money would be for Congress and the President to expend their windfall of two million pounds sterling in some enterprise which might result in the gratification of both nations alike. There are hundreds of grandiose projects which no bourse might be willing to father, but by which two great Anglo-Saxon nations might be benefitted and made glad. Let the United States Government only let it be understood that it holds ten million dollars in trust for some costly international heresy and it will not be long before projects in abundance will be competing for it."

The Irish Solicitor-General has been re-elected at Mallow, receiving 391 votes against 33 for Kelly, a Parnellite. Mr. Parnell is fighting over the defeat of his candidate.

The Balked Prize Fighters.

THE VOLUNTEERS PREVENT A LANDING.

At daybreak on Tuesday 18th inst., Rooke and Donovan with their followers boarded a number of small boats at Erie, Pa., and proceeded west towards Long Point. Bob Smith left soon after midnight with ropes and stakes to erect the ring. No large steamer could be chartered, and the crowd was divided in squads, and compelled to pay a high price for passage. As soon as the boats left for Canada, the officer on guard telegraphed the sheriff in charge of the military at Port Dover.

At the same time, the steamer Anne Craig, of Port Dover, having on board a company of the 30th Batt., 12 special constables and Sheriff Deedes, steamed out, and following instructions from the detectives, found four steamers with the prize fighting gang on board about to land on the south side of Long Point. The soldiers were landed and drawn up at a convenient distance from the shore in such a position that they could command every practicable landing point. The Americans were forbidden to land for the purpose of fighting, and they steamed off after terribly cursing Canada and the officers. The crowd was made up of the worst and loudest roughs of the large Eastern cities, and though they first spoke of fighting, the Canadian party looked too big, and they left without a struggle. The Annie Craig followed them till sure there could be no fight, and returned to port.

The men who are pitted against each other are Michael Donovan, of Chicago, and Geo. Rooke, of California.

British Politics.

The Queen's speech at the opening of Parliament.

LONDON, May 20.—The following is the full text of the Queen's speech at the opening of the British Parliament which assembled on Tuesday last:—

My Lords and Gentlemen:

I avail myself of the earliest opportunity of meeting you after our recent general election, and the arrangements required upon the change of administration. The cordial relations which I hold with all with all other Powers of Europe will, I trust, enable me to promote, in concert with them, the early and complete fulfilment of the Treaty of Berlin with respect to effectual reforms and equal laws in Turkey, as well as such territorial questions as are not settled, conforming with provisions of the treaty. I regard such fulfilment necessary for the avoidance of further complications in the East. In accordance with this view I have deemed it expedient to despatch an ambassador extraordinary to the Court of the Sultan.

On the last occasion of my addressing you I expressed my hope that the measures adopted in Afghanistan would lead to a speedy settlement in that country. Since that period the gallantry of my troops has continued to be conspicuous and the labours of my government in India unremitting. But I have to lament that the objects I had in view have not yet been attained. My efforts are, will however, be unceasingly directed towards the pacification of Afghanistan and the establishment of such institutions as may be found best fitted to secure the independence of its people and to restore their friendly relations with my Indian Empire.

The condition of the Indian finances, as recently made known to me, has received my special attention. I have directed that you shall be supplied with the fullest information upon this weighty subject.

I invite your careful notice to important questions of policy connected with the future of South Africa. I have continued to commend to the favorable consideration of the authorities and people of the various settlements the project of Confederation. In maintaining my supremacy over the Transvaal, with its diversified population, I desire both to make provision for the security of its indigenous races and to extend to European settlers institutions based on large liberal principles of self-government.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I notice with satisfaction that imports and exports of the country, as well as other signs, indicate some revival in trade; but the depression lately perceived in the revenue continues without abatement. The estimates of income laid before the last Parliament were framed with moderation; but the time which has since elapsed exhibits no promise that they will be exceeded. The annual estimates, so far as they have not been already voted, will be promptly laid before you.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

The late season of the year at which you commence your labors, I fear, will seriously abridge the time available for useful legislation; but I make no doubt that you will study to turn it to the best account.

The Peace Preservation Act for Ireland expires on 1st June. You will not be asked to renew it. My desire is to avoid the evils of exceptional legislation. The abridgement of liberty would not induce me to forego in any degree the performance of the first duty of every Government in providing for the security of life and property; but while I am determined to fulfil this sacred obligation, I am perhaps persuaded that the good sense of my Irish subjects will justify me in relying on the provisions of the ordinary law firmly administered, for the maintenance of peace and order.

The provisions enacted before the dissolution of the late Parliament for the distress in Ireland have been serviceable to that important end. The question of the sufficiency of the advances already authorized by Parliament is also under my consideration.

Measures at an early day will will be submitted for putting an end to the controversies which have arisen with respect to burials in church yards and cemeteries.

It will be necessary to ask you to renew the Act for secret voting. Among the chief subjects which may be brought under your notice, as time may permit, will be bills for giving more effectual protection to occupiers of land against injury from ground game, for determining on just principles the liabilities of employers for accidents sustained by workman, and for the extension of borough franchise in Ireland.

These and all your labours I heartily commend to the blessing of God.

Passing Away.

We are called upon to record the death of another old resident of this village, Mr. William Glynn. For some months back the deceased had been ailing from a troublesome and painful inward complaint, but which did not confine him to his bed or even to his house. On Tuesday morning of last week he drove to visit his brother-in-law, Mr. Jas. Keller, residing near Warkworth, where he gave further symptoms of rapidly yielding to his ailment. A physician of the village was called in to see him, but at once saw that life was fast ebbing away, and, as understood, left the impression on the mind of deceased. He kept gradually sinking, and expired at Mr. Keller's on Saturday morning last, in the 58th year of his age. The body, as deceased's special request, was brought here for interment in the Harwood Cemetery, but his family relatives residing in that locality objected to his burial here, and directed the remains to be taken on to the Cemetery at the Township of Hamilton, where members of Mr. Glynn's family have resided since Deceased, and one of whose sons is a resident of Cobourg.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

RUMOR has it that Hon. H. Langevin is to be knighted. Undoubtedly in the the race of rascality he has won his spurs. Who has a better right to such a distinction than l'homme de $32,000?

TWO BREWERS are candidates before Sir John for the honor of representing the Queen in their respective provinces—Bunster in British Columbia and Carling in Ontario.

PRINCE LEOPOLD, who arrived at Quebec on Sunday, and was received by his sister, the Princess Louise and the Governor-General, has announced that he does not desire to encourage addresses or public receptions during his stay here, as he wishes to see as much of the country as possible. Sensible boy.

ON WEDNESDAY of last week at a meeting of the stock and bond-holders of the Midland Railway Company of Canada, held in London, the policy of the President and Board of Directors was heartily endorsed. This ensures the permanency of the progress which has marked the business of the railway under Mr. Cox's management. The scheme for completing the equipment of the Railway in first-class manner, the enlargment of facilities for transhipment of through freight, and the increase of rolling stock contemplated to meet the growing requirements of western freight will now be energetically carried out.

THE Toronto Globe comes to the conclusion that the Senate of the Dominion has been neither bad, nor good, but simply indifferent." It points out that its annual cost $140,422, capitalized, represents a sum equal to $3,500,000, which would build 200 miles of the Pacific Railway. It wisely reminds the public that it would not be wise to at once sweep away the Upper House, and that its abolition, which it admits to be a necessity, should be effected, if possible, in a manner not too precipitate. It recognizes that "a nominated second Chamber is opposed to the spirit of the age." In this the Globe adapts itself to the undoubted tendency of public opinion, and adopts a well settled conviction of the people. These considerations have long been familiar to our readers, and that the change, which is one of the necessities of the near future, will be early brought about, we make no doubt. So long as the Senate was merely a King Log, public attention was little directed to it. Of late years it has shown a peevish disposition to obtrude its empty dignities upon the public, and what is worse, at times to make the public aware of the dangerous and undesirable powers it possesses by arbitrarily thwarting the legislation of the people's representatives. Last session it presented scenes in debate which totally obliterated whatever feeling of respect was entertained for it. That a body should exist under our form of Government, as Lord Dufferin remarked, "equally independent of the Crown, the Parliament and the People," is an anomaly which cannot long endure in a country like this, and which it is the duty of statesmen to devise such means for removing as may be within the powers of Parliament. It contains many good men no doubt, and many, whose practical usefulness have ceased, whom the public have a right to remember for services in the past, and while it is necessary that the subject should be dealt with with firmness as to the purpose to be accomplished, it is equally right that proper consideration should be extended to those whom it directly concerns. Probably the greatest difficulty which stands in the way is the tenacity with which the Senate itself will cling to existence, and the temptation on the part of the Government to hold on to patronage which is calculated to give it strength politically. Still we make no doubt that when the will of the people is expressed in favor of its abolition, constitutional means will be found to give it effect.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY,

HOW IT WAS OBSERVED IN TOWN AND ABROAD.

THE BOAT CLUB SPORTS

THE IDYL-WILD REGATTA.

FIRE BRIGADE BALL.

However greatly the eccentricities of Mr. Vernor may have disturbed confidence in long established rules regarding the weather, the public was not disappointed on Monday in the "Queen's Weather," which rarely fails to smile upon the auspicious occasion celebrated with loyal enthusiasm, the whole world over, wherever the British flag floates over British freemen. The sun rose with royal splendor, and shone brightly throughout the day, as if nature itself were pleased to smile approval upon the loyal remembrance of one so worthy of all honor, as a monarch, as a woman, as a wife and as a mother. At an early hour the streets might have been seen thronged with men and women, boys and maidens, all in holiday attire, and evidently upon pleasure bent, and for a short time the streets presented quite an animated appearance. This was of short duration, however, for the crowd was evidently making their way to the steamboat landing to speed the day at Idyl-Wild, and after the departure of the boat at 7 o'clock with its mass of human freight, the appearance of the streets was anything but what is wont to be presented in Peterborough on the occasion of a national or loyal holiday. A few children and country visitors paraded the streets, evidently at a loss for the inspiration afforded by a band of music on a gala day, and many people enjoyed the pleasures of driving. The livery men were liberally patronized during the day, and were, we fancy, about the only class of business men who did profit by the holiday.

MILITARY.

About 10 o'clock, however, some little interest was manifested as the Ashburnham company of volunteers, under command of Capt. Rogers, took their way up George street to the Drill Shed, and soon quite a large crowd had assembled in the vicinity to observe the movements of the troops. After some preliminary exercises they formed battalion and marched in column of fours to the market square, where they were put through a number of evolutions which they performed in a very creditable manner. The following companies took part in the parade:

No 1.—Capt. Edwards; Lieutenants Beck and Hammond.

No. 2.—Capt. Langford; Lieutenants. Miller and Lea.

No. 3.—Capt. Rogers; Lieutenants Rogers and Haultain.

Collegiate Institute Cadets. — Capt. Bennett; Lieutenants Stevenson and Graham and Instructor Johnson.

The movements at the market square comprised forming line, wheeling from line into column, and column into line, marching past the colors, general salute, firing feu de joie, and giving three cheers for the Queen—if we can call that a "movement." Sh the marching past the school cadets did remarkably well, considering how short a time they have been under instruction. These proceedings over, the volunteers were marched to the drill shed and dismissed.

The Boat Club Sports.

Between one and two o'clock people began to make their way to the Agricultural Grounds, and gradually the grounds were very fairly filled, a large proportion of those in attendance being ladies and children, with whom the grand stand was quite thronged. Considering the very large number who went out of town, the attendance was most satisfactory, and quite a handsome sum ($118) was realised by the Club under whose auspices the sports were conducted. Order was kept on the grounds by a guard of six troopers, detailed by Lt.-Col. Rogers from his troop of cavalry, in charge of Sergt.-Major Stothart. The men looked remarkably well in their neat uniforms and helmets, and were exceedingly well mounted. They proved a terror to the marauding and ubiquitous small boy, who would persist in going where he didn't ought to, and when caught by the enemy was ignominously ridden out of the ring. One more enterprising youth created no little amusement by taking cover behind a convenient post where he defied the liveliest evolutions of the cavalryman to dislodge him. He demonstrated that a small boy can get round a post in quicker time than the experest dragoon, if he keeps close enough to the post.

The judges on the occasion were Judge Dennistoun, Hon. Mr. Hamilton, Mr. C. A. Weller, Mr. F. J. Lewis, and Captain Burk, of Norwood. Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers and Mr. R. A. Morrow acted as starters. The following was the programme of sports carried out:—

HOP, STEP AND JUMP.—Entered Geo. Mather, S. Winters (Port Hope), J. W. Fitzgerald, T. Rutherford and E. Rogers. It was keenly contested, 1st prize being taken by George Mather, distance 39 ft. 10 in.; 2nd prize, S. Winters, 37 ft. 7 in.

THROWING THE CRICKET BALL.—Entered G. W. Hatton, jr., J.E. Hammond, Geo. Mather, T. Rutherford, G. W. Fitzgerald, John Ryan, S. Winters, and J. Hayes. Hayes took first prize with a throw of 292 ft.; Rutherford 2nd, 289 ft.

RUNNING LONG JUMP. Entered Mather, Winters, Rutherford, Hatton, and Fitzgerald. Mather took 1st prize with a jump of 17 ft. 1 in.; and Hatton E. F. 2nd, 16 ft. 4 in.

PUTTING THE HEAVY WEIGHT.—Entered T. Lancaster, Mather, R. Stewart, P. J. Hurley, F. Weir, Rutherford, J. W. Baker, Ryan, Hayes, J. O'Brien, C. Coughlan, and F. Lytle. Lytle took 1st prize, distance 23 ft. 8 in.; Stewart 2nd, 22 ft. 2 in.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.—Entered, Hammond, F. W. H. Haultain, Mather, Baker, Blade, Hatton, O'Donnell, and Hayes. The jumping was remarkably well contested, but was finally awarded to Mather with a jump of 4 ft. 10 ins. high. Hammond 2nd.

100 YARDS RACE, HEATS.—Entered, R. B. Rogers, J. O'Neil, G. Mather, G. Buck, S. Winters, F. Weir, C. Brownlee, G. W. Baker, G. W. Hatton, E. Rogers, and F. W. H. Haultain. On the 1st heat Rogers was an easy winner, second place being keenly contested between O'Neil, of Lindsay, and Haultain, but awarded to O'Neil. The second heat was also won by Rogers, Haultain gaining second place. O'Neil and Haultain had then to contest for second place. The race was an exciting one, but Haultain left the Lindsay man in good style and won second place. Rogers' time 9½ sec.

100 YARDS, HEATS, (Boys).—Entered, C. Sanderson, Jason Eastland, John Eastland, Wm. Foster, M. Hamilton, H. Carnegie, G. Sherwood, Alf. Rogers, John Lynch. The boys ran the race for all it was worth, but first place in two heats was won by Master Hilliard Carnegie, (time, 12½ seconds); seconds place both heats, Alfred Rogers.

MILE RACE.—Entered: Jas. Sheehey, John Hallaray (Lindsay), G. C. Rogers, M. Bard and E Rogers. The race took seven times around the rink, and was attended with a good deal of interest as it was understood that the Lindsay runner had come down with the express intention of cleaning out all contestants. For the 1st quarter the race was a keen contest between G. C Roger and Hallaray, but Roger gradually and rapidly drew ahead, and, it was soon apparent, had an easy race. The interest now centered between Hallaray and Sheehey, who were struggling hard for second money, Hallaray having a narrow escape from taking 3rd place. He took second place by a lead of a few feet; Rogers winning first money easily, time, 6 min. 13 sec.; Hallaray's time, 6 min. 29 sec.

STANDING HIGH JUMP.—This was keenly contested between Hammond, Hatton and Mather, the latter taking first prize with a jump of 4 ft 4 in; Hatton 2nd.

QUARTER MILE RACE, (boys).—Contested by H. Carnegie, J. Fairweather, and B. Cameron. Carnegie 1st. Cameron 2nd.

PUTTING LIGHT STONE.—Entered, Mather, Stewart, Hurley, Baker, Hatton, Ryan, Weir, Rutherford, O'Brien, Foster, Hayes and Lytle. J. Hayes won 1st place, distance 43 feet; 2nd, T. Lytle.

TILTING AT THE RING.—This sport consists in riding at full gallop past small rings suspended at a distance apart from each other, the rider to take the rings fairly upon the point of a wooden lance. Capt. G. C. Roger, Trooper Snyder, Corporal Rackham, Quarter-Master Templeton, Sergeant J. J. Bromley, Sergeant-Major Rickard, and Trooper Henderson entered. Sergeant-Major Rickard was awarded 1st place and trooper Snyder 2nd.

QUARTER MILE RACE.—This was another event in which a good deal of interest was taken. There entered John Hallaray, (Lindsay), R. B. Rogers, Geo. Buck, G. W. Hatton, J Preston and T. Barchard. Rogers took 1st place; Hatton 2nd.

THREE LEGGED RACE.—Weir and Winters contested successfully against Preston and Barchard.

TUG OF WAR.—Twelve citizens against twelve firemen, the former winning 1st prize.

TWO MILE WALK.—Was contested by E. Rogers, Wm. Rutherford, M. Collins and Thos. Chapman. In this race Rutherford who was ahead, closely pushed by Rogers, was disconcerted by a well-meant but ill advised interference, which allowed Rogers to get ahead, and though Rogers finished ahead the judges decided Rutherford entitled to 1st money.

HALF MILE RACE (boys).—Entered C. Sanderson, James Eastland, John Eastland, Wm Foster, M. Hamilton, G. Orde, F. Sherwood, J. Lynch, John Mitchell and M. Orde. M. Orde took 1st place, C. Sanderson 2nd.

HURDLE RACE.—Eight hurdles, over 120 yards. J. Hallaray, D. O'Neil, R. B. Rogers, J. Frith, G. W. Baker, G. W. Hatton entered. The race afforded no end of fun and was well contested. Rogers won 1st money; Hatton 2nd.

BOYS HURDLE RACE.—Entered, F. Larkins, M. Hamilton, G. Orde, A. Rogers, Max. Hamilton and H. Carnegie.—Rogers 1st, Carnegie 2nd.

CONSOLATION RACE. — Entered, M. Bird, P. Bolton, A. Simpson.—Bolton 1st, Simpson 2nd.

This concluded the list of sports on the programme, and the large numbers present seemed to be thoroughly satisfied with the day's amusement, which they afforded. Meanwhile a quoiting tournament under direction of Mr. Joseph McClelland, had been in progress. Fred Mitchell played against John Firth, winning by 31 points to 20 points; Mitchell then played off against John Rose—Mitchell 31, Rose 13; Mitchell winning 1st prize, Rose 2nd. 1,700 persons were on the grounds during the afternoon.

The Excursion to Idyl Wild.

As had been surmised for some days previously the excursion to Idyl Wild formed the great attraction of the day. From an early hour excursionists by the score were wending their way to the Sherbrooke street wharf and by seven o'clock, the hour advertised for the Golden-Eye's departure, the boat was laden to her utmost capacity with human freight. The shores of the river for a block each way were lined with spectators, many of whom, when leaving home, had contemplated spending the day at Idyl Wild, but who fearing accidents owing to the extremely large number on board, were deterred from doing so. At 7.30 the signal for starting was given and in a few minutes the vessel was steaming for her destination, having in the neighborhood of five hundred people on board.

The pleasure of a sail down the Otonabee and the beauty of the scenery have been so frequently described in the EXAMINER that it is unnecessary to refer to it in this connection, except, perhaps to state that at no time can it be viewed with more advantage and greater satisfaction by the student of nature than in the early summer. Especially grand is the scenery upon entering Rice Lake with its southern shores studded with a chain of hills, rich in verdure and foliage—the villages of Bewdley, Gore's Landing and Harwood adding to the effect of the panoramic picture.

The Fire Brigade Band accompanied the party and greatly conduced to the pleasure of the trip as well as to the remainder of the day's proceedings by an unstinted supply of choice selections.

Shortly before noon the boat

ARRIVED AT IDYL WILD,

where already some four or five hundred people from the adjoining country had gathered, which number was soon augmented by very large excursion parties from Cobourg, Port Hope, and other points along the front, which were conveyed from Harwood by the steamers Golden-Eye and Fawn. The Belleville and Hastings excursion was the last to arrive, the King-Fisher and two large scows being densely crowded with the residents of those localities and points on the line of the Grand Junction Railway. Altogether the assemblage must have numbered between two and three thousand people, as apparently with their sisters, their cousins and their aunts. Assuredly it was a gala day for this summer resort, which is each season becoming more and more popular, and if the success of the opening day is any criterion of this season's business, our enterprising friend Calcutt will have no reason to complain.

THE GROUNDS AT IDYL-WILD

have, since last season, been greatly improved, and now present a clean, tidy, and trim appearance, and from their close proximity to the best shooting and fishing grounds of Rice Lake offer inducements to sportsmen and tourists, as well as to excursionists and private individuals who desire an enticing spot to spend their holidays away from the heat of the town and the turmoil of business. With each year the proprietor has made marked improvements and is constantly catering to the wants of his patrons, and we have no doubt that before long Idyl-Wild will have gained a name as favourably accepted by Canadians generally as it is now received by the residents of the Counties of Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham, and that the present hunting lodges will have given way to a larger and grander structure.

The Regatta.

The event on which most interest was centered at Idyl Wild was the regatta, which consisted of a single and double scull race, for the first of which a handsome silver cup valued at $200 was to be competed for, and for the latter two very handsome silver medals. The cup, which was on exhibition in a window of the hotel during the day, was much admired. It stands about two feet four inches high, of very choice and beautiful design, and handsomely engraved. On the base and surrounding the pedestal of the cup proper, are an anchor, rudder, and sculls in silver and a rope in gold. On one side of the cup is an engraving of an oarsman in his boat, and on the other a blank space on which to engrave the winner's name. The inside is beautifully grit. On the top surmounting the whole is an oarsman in costume, standing with an oar in his hand. The design and general appearance of the cup elicited much favorable comment from the hundreds who viewed it during the day, and is generally conceded to be the handsomest cup yet put up for competition amongst amateur oarsmen in Ontario. It was manufactured by the Merriden Britannia Company of Connecticut and ordered for Mr. Calcutt by Messrs. Bertram & Co. of this town.

THE SINGLE SCULL RACE.

Three o'clock was the hour named for the starting of the race, but owing to a brisk breeze blowing at the time, the referee—Mr. John McClelland, of Peterborough, postponed it till later on in the afternoon, in hopes the wind would fall. By four o'clock the crowd began to get impatient and although the course was anything but in a fit state for shell rowing, the manager determined on calling the men out, which was accordingly done. There were but five entries, and these, it will be seen, were confined to Peterborough and Rice Lake. After drawing for places the boats were ordered out to the starting buoy and drawn up in line in the following order.

1. D Cameron.....Peterborough.
2. W. Shaw.....Peterborough.
3. Thos. Wallis.....Gore's Landing.
4. W. D. Drury.....Peterborough.
5. F. B. Dobbin.....Peterborough.

At twenty minutes past four the men were in readiness to start, and the referee gave the words, "Are you ready; go." A splendid start was made, each man taking the water instantaneously. Scarcely had ten boats lengths been rowed when Cameron unfortunately broke an oar, this completely barring him out. From the start Shaw took the lead, closely followed by Dobbin, Wallis and Drury. As soon as that portion of the course which was sheltered by the shore, wharf and boats had been traversed, Shaw took the inside course and drew quickly ahead, Wallis taking second place, Dobbin third, and Drury last. As the race progressed Shaw kept increasing his lead, and when the turning buoy was reached he had gained such a distance that the race was virtually over. Seeing he had it to himself he took it easy for the home-stretch, and there being no inducement to secure second place the other contestants appeared indisposed to do more than row over the course. At twenty minutes to five Shaw crossed the line amid the cheers of the thousands of spectators who were on the shore, having made a fine spurt coming in, Wallis being about 150 yards behind in second place, and Dobbin about the same distance behind Wallis, with Drury fully half a mile behind. The course lay from the wharf along the Alnwick shore a mile and a half to the turning buoy, and taking into account the heavy sea, the time—30 minutes—was a record not discouraging to our amateur oarsmen.

THE DOUBLE SCULL RACE.

For this race there were but two entries, W. Shaw and C. Shaw, and John McClelland and J. C. Smith of the Bank of Toronto. Mr. A. H. Macdougall acted at referee and starter. A splendid start was made, and both crews struck out at a lively pace keeping evenly together till about one hundred yards out when one of the Shaw Bros. oarlocks became dislodged from its socket, and consequently occasioned them such delay that they turned round and paddled into shore. The other crew however, kept right ahead and crossed the winning line in eighteen minutes.

It being now nearly six o'clock the party began to make preparations for the return trip and in a short time were steaming for their respective destinations The Golden-Eye touched Harwood and landed a portion of her party and started for Peterborough, arriving home shortly after midnight, no accidents or mishaps occurring to mar the day's proceedings. Capt. Dion and his crew are to be complimented on their courtesy to all on board, and their excellent management in safely piloting what was without exception, the largest excursion party that has ever yet left town for Idyl Wild.

The Firemen's Ball.

A ball was given in the evening at the Huffman House by the Peterborough Fire Brigade. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a very handsome appearance. Music was supplied by Prof. Martins Band, and some 40 couple enjoyed a most pleasant night at the shrine of Terpsichore.

Verulam.

CONCEALMENT OF BIRTH.—On Monday last the wife and daughter of a Verulam farmer named Olver appeared before Messrs. Jenkin, Jordan and Dickson, J. P.'s on a charge of having concealed the birth of a child of which Miss Olver was delivered in August last. The proceedings were instituted by Mrs. McLaren, a neighbor of the Olvers, with whom she was upon bad terms. Dr. Allen, who was brought from Baden, where he now resides, as a witness, said that he was called to attend Miss Olver in her sickness; that the child was born before he reached the house; that it was dead when he saw it; that it bore no marks of violence, and that he could not say that it had ever breathed. The defendants were both committed to stand their trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, bail being fixed at $400 for the one and $200 for the other. The court will be held in Shagg's hall, with closed doors.

Alnwick Bows.

Boat for England—Sickness—Favorable Opposition.

ALNWICK May 22.

A very handsome yoke of oxen weighing upwards of 3, 900 lbs the property of Mr. Joseph Beamish'aite, Alnwick, were put on cars for England 4th inst. The price was $6 per cwt.

There has been during the past winter an unusual amount of sickness and for this spring there appears to be little abatement as quite a number are now suffering from severe attacks of inflamation.

The farmers are now fairly through with seeding. The rapid growth so far is considered unprecedented. The season has been very favorable for progress and although fall-wheat is almost a failure there are high anticipations of good returns.

Prompt Payment of Small Accounts.

Everyone concerned should take home to himself the remarks of the Journal of Commerce, and a considerable number of our subscribers can take the hint:—"The too common practice of putting off the payment of small accounts, usually for the reason that they are small, and therefore of no particular moment, is a very bad one. It works injury in a number of ways. Not only is the creditor wronged, and it may be seriously, for a good percentage of trade people's assets are often in small accounts, aggregating a sum very likely to affect the question of solvency; but the debtor, it sometimes happens, is also a direct sufferer from his own neglect. He subjects himself to annoyance from repeated demands for payment; he opens the way for disputes through the defectiveness of memory. When these arise he either submits to what he deems injustice, or resists and takes the risk of being drawn into a lawsuit, mortifying and unprofitable whether victor or vanquished, and, finally, when payment is made, it is done grudgingly and with double reluctance, by reason of the delay, the dispute, the litigation or whatever name the matter may have had. Every individual citizen should bear in mind that his action in the matter of paying bills has an indisputable, though, in ordinary cases, inappreciable influence on the general prosperity of the people. It would be just as sensible for an elector to refuse to vote because one vote is not likely to determine the result, as to neglect to pay small bills on the ground that the amount is insignificant. Indeed, the second proposition constitutes by far the most glaring offence of the two; for as to the healthful action and the potency of a vote there may be question, but as to the virtue of paying small bills promptly there is none. Let it be remembered that the great majority of bills for goods as they finally enter into consumers' hands are small ones, and a truer appreciation of the importance of this matter may be reached than would otherwise appears.

Brooms and other washing white materials for sweepers can be supplied at I. Robinson's.

The Boyne.—Robinson's timber passed down the river last week; also timber belonging to Mr. Fowlds.

Art Union.—Among those granted prizes at the last drawing of the Canadian Art Union was Rev. V. Clement of this town, $20.

An Easy Task.—The North Monaghan Court of Revision met yesterday. Their labors were not arduous, as there was not a single appeal to be adjudicated upon.

Police Beat.—The sign of the "star," corner of Hunter and Water streets was removed by Constable Mathes on Saturday, owing to the frightening of horses passing on the street.

Look Up.—The Police Magistrate is still suffering from the effects of his late accident. On Tuesday morning he had to leave the Bench and find a Magistrate to act in his place. On Wednesday he was able to preside again.

A Hint.—No matter how elegantly a lady or gentleman may dress, so long as the boots are not fashionable, well fitted and in good order, all other trouble is thrown away. Larmour supplies that requisite to a complete toilet. It.

Ferguson's Circus.—H. S. Dingess, advance agent of Ferguson's great circus, which is visiting Canada this summer, called upon us last week. He was endeavoring to make arrangements for the visit of the show to Peterborough.

Rare Avis.—A barefooted tramp with a large trunk on his back and a pitiable bundle under one arm, called down Queens street last Saturday and obtained the wonder and admiration of the throng, as well as sundry compliments of a dubious character.

Nonpariel.—It does not always pay to buy cheap goods, but when you can combine cheapness with good value and stylish make up, such as are offered in the boots and shoes offered for sale and made by E. White, common-sense tells you that that is the time and the place to invest your money. 29-1 in.

Silver Medals.—Mr. H. Calcutt yesterday ordered from Toronto four handsome silver medals, for a four-oared race to be competed for on July 1st, by four-oared boats, lapstrake, with outriggers. This event will be in addition to the second competition for the Lloyd-Wild Cup, to take place on the same day.

Board of Education.—The School Board of the town will hold its next meeting on Tuesday evening next, when the report of the School Supervision Committee and the gentlemen appointed to act with them, in reference to the subject of religious instruction in schools, will be discussed and disposed of.

Hope Given Up.—We regret to say that it has been ascertained beyond doubt that Lieut. Beck, R. N., son of Rev. J. W. R. Beck, sailed with the missing training ship Atalanta on her ill-fated voyage. All hope of the safety of the vessel has been abandoned, and there is little doubt that all on board perished.

Dangerous Assault.—On Friday last at Young's Point, John Elgar, a foreman for Rathbun & Sons, was struck on the head by a French raftsman, and has since been lying in a precarious situation from the effects of the blow. On Tuesday Constable Holmes, of Lakefield, arrested the assailant, and will hold him pending the result of Elgar's injuries.

Court of Revision.—The Court of Revision for the town held their first meeting this evening. There are ninety-seven appeals to be heard, and those members of the Council who do not belong to the Court are cursing their many misfortunes sorely than usual. The Court this year is comprised of Councillors Durnford, Yelland, Taylor, Robertson and Toole; Mr. C. D. Macdonald, Clerk.

Death of Mrs. F. Wigg.—The news was learned in town on Saturday of the death of Mrs. Phillip Wigg, of Lakefield. Deceased lady was well known in Peterborough and very highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. In his sermon at St. Luke's Church last Sunday Rev. V. Clement gave a touching and eloquent testimony to the Christian virtues of the late Mrs. Wigg, as one who had known her almost from her birth.

Chase's Recipes.—A book has been sent us of the revised edition of Chase's Recipes, a neat and handy compendium of practical information. It is not a cookery book, although a section of the work is devoted to culinary matters. In addition there are merchants', saloon, medical, tanners', painters', blacksmiths', tarmers', farmers', cabinet-makers', barbers', bakers' and other departments, each of them containing much useful information. The book is one of the best of the kind.

Ontario Cricket Association.—The following clubs have, up to the present, joined the Ontario Cricket Association:—Toronto, Barrie, Hamilton, Chatham, Paris, Brantford, Sarnia, Port Hope, Cobourg, Charleston (Toronto), Wanderers (Toronto), Guelph, St. Mary's, Peterborough. The following names of gentlemen willing to serve on committee have been received:—Henry Totten and William Lowery, (Toronto). R. Kennedy and P. E. Hope, (Hamilton), J. N. Kirchoffer, (Port Hope), J. H. D. Munson, (Cobourg), and John L. Bray, M. D., (Chatham).

Rowdyism on the Streets.—On Wednesday morning at an early hour the residents of George street were disturbed by a drunken brawl on the street between Hunter and Brock, which awakened the whole neighborhood with shouting, howling and profanity. A young man named Hammond was set upon by two others in whose company he was, and badly beaten. Mr. W. H. Wrighton dressed and came down to the street, when he found that the two assailants had disappeared. The injured gentleman was on the sidewalk, suffering from the effects of his beating. It is about time that some division of labor were arranged between the two peace officers, whereby a constable could on hand for night duty, for the prevention of such rowdyism.

Accident to a Scow.—A little over a week ago, a scow engaged by Mr. Calcutt in transporting lumber, drifted against the pier near the swing bridge, and had her head stove in. This is due to the fact that the entrance to the bridge is only 45 feet wide, and as the current is very swift, a barge in tow is liable to escape control of the rudder and run into the piers. What is wanted to remedy the danger is guiding-piers, such as the Ontario Government are constructing at Young's Point. We believe there is a question of disputed responsibility connected with the neglect in affording this safeguard to navigation, the Dominion Government, to whom the works belong, laying the responsibility on the shoulders of the County Council, which the latter repudiate. Mr. Calcutt would do well to test the matter in the courts, so as to secure some action being taken to obviate the difficulty.

Another Fire.—Shortly before one o'clock on Monday last, an alarm of fire was sounded and it was soon found that some sheds between the premises of Mr. James Campbell and the river, owned by himself and Mr. Wm. Mills, were on fire and burning with a fierceness and rapidity that threatened the neighboring buildings with danger. The Fire Brigade were on hand with great promptness, and, after steam was up sufficiently to throw water effectually, speedily dissipated any danger, and in a short time the fire was extinguished. The sheds contained nothing of value, and the total loss will not, probably, be more than $200. Mr. Mill's sheds, as valued by Mr. Thornton, builder, were worth $175, insured in the Queen's for $75. The Hooks rendered good service in removing a pile of wood to which the fire had communicated.

Brutal Assault.—On Tuesday morning, as Mr. William Hinchcliff, clerk in Mr. Geo. L. Mitchell's store, was on his way to work at 7 o'clock, in company with two young men named Patterson, they were accosted on Hunter street by a young man named Samuel Kearns, of Millbrook, in his shirt-sleeves, who expressed his intention of "licking the first man who came along." As they approached he struck at Wm. Patterson, missing him, and then knocked Mr. Hinchcliff's hat off. The latter picked up his hat, asking Kearns what was the matter with him, when Kearns struck a savage blow at him, striking him on the left eye, which is badly swollen and discolored in consequence. Hinchcliff then grappled with him, when the brute began to bite him on the hand. He afterwards followed Mr. Hinchcliff into the Mechanics shop, threatening him. Shortly afterwards, as Kearns was threatening another young man he was arrested by Chief Johnson and locked in the lock-up. On Tuesday he was remanded to gaol till Wednesday, when he was tried before P. M. Hutcon and fined $20 and costs for the assault, and $5 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. It seems a strange thing that a peaceable citizen should be assaulted, disfigured, and kept away from his business from the effects of it, to suit the ballcons whim of a drunken rowdy, and the general opinion is that six months in gaol would have been sufficient punishment. Such severe measures will have to be taken to put a stop to this disgraceful rowdyism, and the sooner an example is made that will give a salutary lesson to persons of that class the better.

Consumption Cured

As the proprietor, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility, and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N.Y.

When the Little Ones are suffering from Worms there will usually be one or more of the following symptoms: Pale countenance, Itching of the nose, Variable appetite, Slimy stools, Nausea, Griping pains in the bowels, Swelling of the upper lip, Disturbed sleep, Grinding of the teeth, Picking the nose, A dry cough, Offensive breath, Vomiting. It requires no medical skill to relieve to eat Ahrtenby's Worm Candy. Price 25 cents.

Field Off.—The Band received their pay (300) for the excursion to Lloyd Wild, on Wednesday evening.

Presbyterian Home Mission.—The following student missionaries are assigned for labor within the bounds of Peterborough for the present summer:—Harvey, Mr. John Cowie; Burleigh, Chandos and Cardiff, Mr. W. H. Hunt; Stony Lake and Bobcaygeon, Mr. Wm. Robertson.

Midland Railway of Canada.—Return of traffic for week ending May 7th, 1880, and the corresponding week of 1879:—Passengers and mails, $3,117.35; freight, $8,710.37; total for week, $7,827.72; aggregate from 1st January, $30,756.66. 1879:—Passengers and mails, $1,192.77; freight, $6,750.23; total for week, $8,942.46; aggregate from 1st January, $26,762.23. Increase, $3,994.37.

Dairy Fair.—We understand that, with a view to the encouragement of the important dairy industry of this section of the Province, a Dairy Fair is to be held at Lloyd-Wild on June 17th, when very handsome prizes will be offered for the best samples of butter and cheese, both home and dairy-made. The competition will be open to all comers, and will, no doubt, be largely patronized not only by exhibitors but also by buyers, who will have the opportunity of seeing in what section dairy produce can be purchased to the best advantage.

"Low Level Journalism."—The Review is equal to any kind of emergency. It records six distinct and deliberate misstatements concerning the Examiner into as many of twelve lines, under the above heading, and then intimates that there is some lower depth to which it will "not condescend to degrade" itself! Our contemporary need not attempt to measure our own by its half bushel—it can not deceive any one regarding the Examiner; but it makes its own "hypocrisy" in some things and "venality" in others so apparent, that he who runs may read.

Death of the Sisters of Harvey.—On Monday Dr. Kincaid received a telegram from Bobcaygeon, summoning him to attend Mr. Oliver, Reeve of Harvey, who was alarmingly ill. Dr Kincaid at once drove to Bobcaygeon and took the boat thence. Before reaching his destination, however, he learned that Mr. Oliver was dead, and returned. The late Mr. Oliver had been ill for some time, but latterly was recovering. His death was probably due to the bursting of a blood vessel. Deceased was a man of good parts and of amiable disposition, and his death will be deeply regretted by those who have been accustomed to meet him at the County Council Board.

A Novel Attraction.—The numerous visitors to the elegant store of Messrs. Long Bros. on Tuesday night found quite a novelty awaiting them in the illumination of their new "Radiant Arctic Fountain," which presented a most unique and handsome appearance. Whatever be the cause, it is most certain that the quality of the beverages from the Radiant Arctic are not to be surpassed. Any one who feels in want of a cool, refreshing and agreeable drink should go to Long Bros. If the temperance people could only turn the victims of alcohol to the Radiant Arctic Fountain, they would be doing a good work on a sound basis, for neither spirits nor malt would have any further attractions.

Dangerous Accident.—On Monday afternoon two boys, about 10 and 12 years of age, son of Mr. Enos Evans, Patterson street, had a narrow escape from a very serious accident. They surreptitiously acquired possession of a flask containing a small amount of powder, into which one of them thoughtfully dropped a lighted match. Had the flask been full, we would simply have to chronicle the usual result—the total disappearance of two boys; but there not being a large quantity in it, the boys escaped with a lesson that ought to last them a lifetime. They were somewhat burned with the powder, of which one will bear the marks for a long time, and the only wonder is that the fragments of the examiner did not inflict some serious injury.

Band and Battalion.—The Bandmaster of the Fire Brigade Band has received a copy of the following:—

BATTALION ORDER.

By the direction of Lieut.-Col. commanding, the bandsmen are required to return into store immediately every article of clothing or accoutrements in their possession. By order.

R. W. BELL,
Major and Adjt.

Peterborough, May 25th, 1880.

The band, we understand, refuse to return the clothes till they are paid their allowance for the year, $75, and have referred the matter to Lieut.-Col. Strambenzie. A gentleman stated yesterday that Col. Rogers denies having issued any such order. Another report says that if the band uniforms are handed over, they are going to a Norwood band. It is to be hoped that an amicable arrangement will be arrived at.

The process is simplicity itself, needing only a dish of boiling water and a package of dye of the desired colour. They are put up in 15 cent packages in all colours. Gentlemen:—The facts as to the instant effects of Yellow Oil in a case of Croup are as follows:—My little grand-daughter growing quickly worse with Croup, and was giving the sawdust croak so dreadful to hear. Some of the ordinary remedies seemed to help her; but as my two sisters of 1 had tried Yellow Oil, I did so at once, administering a few drops on sugar, and rubbing it pretty plentifully on her chest and throat. The effect was wonderful. In a few minutes the throat of the young sufferer opened freely and in half an hour was playing and laughing.

THE LATE WM. GUILLETT.

Funeral Sermon.

On Sunday last, the occasion of the lamentable death of the late Wm. Guillett, a young gentleman held in the greatest respect not only in his own church, but in the community, for his excellencies of character and Christian virtues, was improved at the George Street Church evening services by Rev. Dr. Harper.

The large church was filled to repletion, many of the friends and relatives of the deceased from Cobourg being among those present. The services were throughout solemn and impressive, the music rendered being in end harmony with the event.

Rev. Dr. Harper took for his text, Job 37th chap., 17th verse:—"Have the gates of death been opened unto thee? or hast thou seen the door of the shadow of death?" The lesson he presented was one of confidence in the character of God, and in the divine goodness of all his purposes. Man is too small, and too finite to understand or comprehend the ways of God. He depicted Job, brought down to the lowest depths of poverty and affliction, in perplexity at the persecution of a just man by God. Job had dared to arraign the Almighty at his bar, and charged God himself with unrighteousness. Then God spoke to Job out of the whirlwind. He impressed upon Job his utter insignificance as compared with his Maker and his inability to understand His ways. The speaker referred to the unsatisfied inquiries which had been made into the mysteries of the future. No man could see beyond the present, and he was thankful for it. It was enough to know that the good in life were happy after death and the bad the reverse. It was in mercy to man that he was not allowed to know all about the future—we could not bear the knowledge of the glories of Heaven or the miseries of Hell. It was kind on the part of God that he had made the particular date of death of each individual a mystery. Would any one be happier for the knowledge that each day was a step to a fixed date when he would be called to his account? Would Moses have undertaken the guidance of the Israelites had he known that neither he nor any one of them would ever enter into the Promised Land? Such knowledge was hidden in the mercy of God. The gates of death, it is estimated, are opened once every second of time, for some one to pass through. There was no distinction—they opened alike to kings and beggars, good and evil, and they open but one way, to eternity. We have to reflect upon our constant nearness to death. We do not know the day nor the hour that it may visit us. Those who serve Christ look forward to blessedness on the other side of those gates. Christianity takes away the repugnance of the idea of death. The Christian shrinks not at the grave; he fears not the dark valley; for Christ the deliverer is with him in the hour of trial. He advised the young people who were there to-night, to remember that their hearts were beating funeral marches to the grave. They should prepare early for the future. They were to take the good in life for what it is worth, but so live to enjoy a glorious sunset at its close. The good God gave them let them enjoy with thankfulness, but let them remember and be prepared for the hour of darkness and trial. Referring to the deceased young brother, he said we might wonder at the seeming strange act of Providence, but it was not for us in our ignorance to judge of the acts of the Almighty. We must bow in humble submission to his dispensation and rely upon the wisdom and goodness of his ways. It was enough for him to say what he wished to say with mingled emotions of sorrow and pleasure. He had known the deceased intimately, and had been looked to by him as a father. His guileless nature had won his admiration and esteem. With him there was no secretness, no reserve, no confidence that was not entire. His was a character of guileless, artless christian simplicity—a congruity of christian excellencies. In the Church, the Young Mens' Class had choosen him as the leader of their Christian exercises, and he had won the respect and esteem of all who knew him. If they would know how he was loved, he would say, especially to the Cobourg friends who had come to join in these exercises, to look at this large audience, perhaps the largest he had ever seen within those walls, assembled to bear testimony to the Christian life and excellencies of their dear brother. He would commend the character and life of their departed Brother to those of the young who had not yet made choice of religion. Though only twenty-four years of age he had long been a subject of regenerating grace. He had sought only the good, and had avoided sin and the appearance of evil. He read a touching extract from a letter from deceased to his brother a short time before his death, stating that if it should please God that night to call him to Himself, he would lay down to die as a child upon his mother's bosom. Though there was room to fear that the presence of the Master was not apparent to him in the darkest hour of all, we might know that when he passed through the gates of death the Saviour's arms were round him and that the Saviour folded him to His embrace on the bosom where he now rests.

The proceedings were then terminated by a prayer and the pronouncing of the benediction.

A Free Press.

The beautiful idea of getting something for nothing is nowhere more readily traceable than in a newspaper office.

So much has been spoken, written and sung about a "free press" that people have come to accept the term in a sense altogether to literal.

If a man has a scheme of any kind germinating he just steps into the editorial room and details it, with the remark: "I'm not quite ready to advertise yet but a few words will help me along." He gets the few words and never gets ready to advertise.

Two tickets admitting lady and gent to the "G. R. X. M. T.'s grand ball" are expected to produce a six line local and a quarter of a column description of the ladies' toilets after the ball is over.

Church fairs and the like are worse than balls. They never leave tickets, but demand more space because, "it's a matter of news" and a help to the cause.

Should a boy saw off his finger, "Dr. C. O. Plaster dressed the wound with great skill" would be a graceful way of stating it, and, besides, it is "unprofessional" to advertise.

The patent rat-trap man brings in one of his combinations of wire and mouldy cheese bait, sticks it under the editor's nose and explains how they catch 'em every time the spring works. "It something of interest to the community, and if you put in a piece save me a dozen papers," with which he quietly walks off, as though he had bestowed a favor in allowing editorial eyes to gaze on such a marvel of intricacy.

An invitation to "come down and write up our establishment" is a great deal more common than a two square "ad" from the same firm. Newspapers must be filled up with something or other you know.

The lawyer, with strong prejudices against advertising, is fond of seeing his cases reported in full in the newspapers with an occasional reference to his exceedingly able manner of conducting the case. It is cheaper than advertising. In fact, everybody who has an axe to grind sets the newspapers to turn the crank, and forgets to even say "thank you," but will take a free copy of the paper as part pay for furnishing news.

The press being "free," all hands are bound to get abused and ride it to death. That is why newspapers are so rich.

CHAPTER IV.

FIRST STEPS.

Ethel's parents, being so reduced in circumstances, felt it useless to object to the chance of their daughter earning an honest living. So Ethel was enrolled with Manager Hessel's troupe.

She found her situation comfortable enough but trying.

Her position, at first, entailed a certain amount of humiliation; but she showed such good temper and such earnest perseverance with real intelligence, that the company soon grew to like her. Hassel himself took a professional interest in her advancement.

She shared her lodgings at the various towns they visited with the chambermaid of the company—a jolly, bright, clever girl, who combined a good share of professional ability with something less than the usual quantity of professional jealousy.

The first towns they visited were mostly of the moderate sort.

The theatres were poor and ill-fitted places, the audience buccolic and dull.

Still, fair business rewarded their hard efforts.

Ethel soon proved herself, after she had learned the preliminaries of stage business and acquired professional confidence, capable of sustaining fairly good small parts.

Wherever there occurred a chance for a bit of character portraiture, she showed an aptitude for seizing and emphasizing its salient points, which was decidedly encouraging.

Hassel saw that she had talent, and was sufficiently in earnest to give her every available opportunity of testing her powers.

He was an admirable manager, who behaved in a fair and straightforward manner with all; and Ethel was wise enough to remain under his tuition.

She, consequently, escaped many of those disagreeable adventures and hardships which novices, too impatient of steady work, have to encounter.

Her parents were soon gladdened by happy letters from their daughter, and before very long came occasional enclosures of money.

So they felt that things had really turned out for the best.

Meanwhile, in Mondon, John Hammond had met with rare good fortune.

A song or two of his had been very successful.

He had been noticed, and at last had received promotion to the directorship of the orchestra in a small but successful West End house.

His future, therefore, looked extremely hopeful.

He did not forget Ethel, and through her parents learned how steadily she was progressing.

The old people had retired to a humble but comfortable little house in Lambeth, and their latter days promised to be, if not prosperous, at least peaceful and homely.

Their interest in their clever daughter's career gradually increased.

Thus three years passed without any striking events occurring.

Ethel's salary often amounted to three and four pounds weekly.

In after years she looked back to this as the happiest time in her life. Moreover, she had taken to secretly studying important parts.

Experience had taught her that strange opportunities occur in dramatic life, whereby a studious artist prepared for an emergency may sometimes make a bold and successful stroke for fame and fortune.

One part especially she made her favourite study—Eily O'Connor, in Boucicault's "Colleen Bawn."

This character was admirably suited to her and when the company paid a visit to Dublin, she took the opportunity of carefully studying the brogue.

Her voice was very flexible and soft, and she was fully capable of giving good effect to the pathetic side of the character.

Her imagination was fascinated by the tone of the true-hearted girl, and she believed herself capable of acting the part if she got her chance; but it was the property of one lady in the company, and as yet, all Ethel's performances had been confined to spirited rehearsals in the privacy of her own room.

At last, in the fourth year of her soviciate the chance came.

It came in the same commonplace way as it has come to hundreds of earnest artists. They were doing good business at Scarborough, and the second week of their engagement the ever-popular "Colleen Bawn" was rehearsed.

During the rehearsal, the lady who always played Eily complained of severe pains in the head and general lassitude; but as she pulled through the rehearsal, Hassel hoped she would revive in time for the evening representation.

An hour previous to the rising of the curtain, however, a message is brought to the theatre, with a medical certificate, to the effect that the lady is prostrate with sickness, and utterly unable to act.

Hassel is at his wits' ends; he has no double in his company; it is too late to telegraph to town for a substitute; there is no resident actress of ability. To change the piece is impossible, for no play of any merit is possible without a leading lady.

The green-room is in a ferment, when suddenly Ethel Forbes steps quietly before the distracted manager, and says, 'I think I can—I know I can—play the part.'

Hassel looks at her for a moment, as if he never saw her before, and then says, 'You could only read it!'

'Oh, no!' answers Ethel, 'I have played it often in private, and I know it by heart.'

'Why, my dear child,' says the manager, 'you are only a novice in the profession, and this is a most important part, and requires great study.'

'You have really studied the part?' reiterates the manager, looking her earnestly in the face.

'Really, I know the business by heart as well as the lines.'

'Well, we can't change the piece. Do your best. We must help you through somehow.'

This seemed ungracious; but Hassel was the Mein-an-Coppalem of the evening, and rather dreaded that his efforts would be neutralised by an incompetent Eily.

Ethel felt nervous at starting, but soon warmed to her work. Her brogue was singularly sweet and winning, she acted naturally, and her pathos in the concluding scene of the first act was so well toned that, to the surprise of all the actors, the curtain descended to thunders of applause.

Ethel's acting produced a charming effect, and at the conclusion of the piece she was vociferously called before the curtain.

Hassel rushed to her, all excitement. The unnecessary jealousy of her comrades was gone, as it always is with actors in the blaze of a success in the art they love.

'Well done!' he said seizing her hands. 'You have made your mark. Go on as you have begun, and you will be a great actress some day.'

That night Ethel felt such a glow of happiness and elevation as only comes upon any of us once or twice in a lifetime.

Meantime, something was occurring in the front of the house which nearly concerned our heroine.

In the dress-circle sat a gentleman who bore no sign of provincialism in his dress or person. He was calm, dark, and somewhat stately.

Outwardly this man was a gentleman at large, with ample means. In reality, a City gambler, a promoter of "bubbles" of all sorts. Like all men careful to gain a reputation for wealth, he was a person of some influence in circles more showy and noisy than select, or even socially respectable.

This man had been struck with Ethel—struck by her beauty and by her acting. He was a judge of acting in a commercial rather than in a critical way, and from regarding her as a commercial speculation, he grew to thinking of her as a desirable possession.

He thought he possessed the bait with which to hook his fish.

He showed no signs of appreciation; but rose when the curtain fell with the firm determination in his own mind to 'try a move,' as he phrased it.

No one knew him in Scarborough; but had certain frequenters of 'first nights' been present they would have recognised him as 'Mr. Herbert Gorringe, a man of money and brains, sir!'

This gentleman returned to his hotel, and before retiring to rest, forwarded the following curious telegram to a London agent—a sort of theatrical harpy:—

'Come down here. There's a piece of stuff with money in it. Safe to work. The field is clear.'

The 'Colleen Bawn' had been announced for three representations, and in consequence of the leading lady's continued indisposition, Ethel's name remained in the bills.

On the third night the dark gentleman reappeared in the dress-circle, accompanied by a fair, florid man, of stock and plausible demeanour.

Hassel had begun to show great interest in Ethel, and gave her great encouragement. He was sincerely delighted in having found so genuine an artist, and began to realise the fact that Ethel was "a very charming woman."

He determined to promote her interests in every way in his power. Her great success in the part of Eily led him to contemplate entrusting her with a part in a favorite play of his own, which as yet had not seen the footlights.

This piece was much superior to anything he had yet done. He had been aided in the literary portion of it by a friend who was both a critic and a practised writer. He was now only waiting a fair opening for producing this work.

These being his views, one may imagine his dismay at certain events which came to pass. The sleek barpy brought down by Herbert Gorringe was managing a London theatre for a young Viscount with dramatic proclivities, chiefly centred in a high-spirited and well-formed young lady, who could make a vast effect in pieces requiring a lavish display of feminine charms. But the Viscount's manager was on the look out for some artist likely to be attractive in comedy or drama.

Ethel, considerably to her surprise, received a card in her dressing room, with a request for a hearing.

The wary barpy waylaid her at the wing with the politest of bows, and made his proposal.

'Excuse my impertinence, but your acting has so charmed me! I heard of your success, but never expected to find my expectations so forcibly realised. I am armed with authority to offer you a year's engagement at the Polygon Theatre at twelve pounds a week, and all found.'

Ethel possessed a certain candor for which this man was ill prepared.

'You surprise me, sir. I cannot think of this now. I have your address and will communicate with you to-morrow.' And she passed on her way.

'Hullo!' thought the harpy; 'this Hazel has some hold on her. I must keep her well in view.'

'We must have her at any cost,' said Gorringe, when he heard the sleek one's account of the interview.

He had the run of the Viscount's theatre, as he had his own private designs for the new actress's future.

Meantime Hassel had not remained in complete ignorance of what was going on. The low comedian of the company had recognised the London agent, and, suspecting his purpose, had lost no time in communicating his suspicions to the manager.

Hassel was agitated by what he heard; not from any selfish motive. Certainly, from a business point of view, he had no desire to lose Ethel; but he had begun to take a personal interest in her, and had no desire that her inexperience should make her a victim to the unscrupulous. Besides, he knew she was not yet artistically fit to face a London audience.

He made haste to see her, that he might place her on her guard. Yet he felt a delicacy. He was afraid lest she should suspect interested motives.

Happily, for his ease of mind, she herself broached the subject to him that very evening.

'Would you believe it? I have had an offer for a London engagement! Do you think it can be genuine?'

'I am delighted to hear that your success has met with substantial recognition; but I hope you will not misunderstand me if I venture to advise that you do not accept the offer. You, yourself, must be aware that a little more experience would give you greater chances of success; that it is best for provincial actors to wait patiently for a really good opening before venturing on London engagements—for to be associated with bad plays or shaky managements is a bitter ruboff to an aspiring artist.'

'The offer frightens me. It comes on suddon. This is the agent's card. Tell me what you think?'

George studied the card attentively for a moment, and then said, 'You; I have no one but you to advise me.' [illegible] do with it. This [illegible] adamant.'

'I don't like his appearance,' she replied. 'I think you are right. I should not like to [illegible]

'You are wise. With a good grounding, I believe you will make an excellent position, by-and-by.'

Next day the stock one received a polite note, declining his offer.

Gorringe swore when he saw it.

'We must have her, Judson.'

'The manager's got her tight, somehow,' replied Judson.

'Then we must get her through him. Why not engage them both, and let them appear together?'

Who Killed Mr. Brown?

The Chatham Tribune speak thus on the murder of Mr. George Brown:—Where is the true cause of the shocking crime? It is in the same unholy and heaven-cursed enterprise that is the cause of four-fifths of the crimes which stain the history of our fair Dominion. Let the odium fall where it rightly belongs. The legalized whiskey business is the perpetrator. The strong hand of the law is stained with the life blood of the Hon. George Brown; and it is now expected that the same hand that made lawful the manufacture and sale of the intoxicating drink that maddened the brain of the man who fired the fatal shot, will turn round and execute him for it. Glorious consistency, indeed! It is the duty of a good government to protect the property, the peace, quiet and safety of its citizens, and any government that legalises the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks as a beverage, denies that protection. Let every subject be seen in its true color and every deed be traced to its legitimate source.'

For all Female Complaints.

For all Female Complaints nothing equals Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a most powerful restorative tonic, also combining the most valuable nervine properties, especially adapting it to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, or from nervousness, or neuralgic pains. Mr. G. W. Seymour, druggist of Canton, N. Y., writes Dr. Pierce as follows: "The demand for your Favorite Prescription is wonderful, and one man stated to me that his wife had not done a days work in five months, when she commenced taking your favorite Prescription, took two bottles and is now on the third bottle, and is able to do her housework alone and milk fourteen cows twice a day." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by all dealers in medicines.

A REALLY GOOD ARTICLE.—We would call the attention of all interested to an article of undoubted merit, which we would advise all in want of to give a trial. We refer to "Darley's Condition Powders, and Arabian Heave Remedy," now being extensively used by many of the largest horse dealers in the country; these men have discovered that it improves the condition of the horse by purifying the blood, and removes from the lungs and liver all that prevents their healthy action; its effect is soon apparent in the improved appearance of the animal, which is one great reason why horse dealers use it as as they are thus enabled to get better prices and at the same time give their customers sound and healthy horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

☞The efficacy of Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers in curing Coughs, Colds, and all Bronchial Affections, and cheering the afflicted, has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where these marvellous Wafers are known, they bear down all opposition and eclipse all rivalry; the demand for them has steadily increased the last twenty years, until now the sales average over one hundred thousand boxes a year. Eminent members of the medical profession without number admit that they know of no preparation producing such beneficial results as these Wafers. When taken in season they effect a permanent cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents per box.

THE base burner stove, the telephone and other improvements of a like kind have worked a domestic and social revolution within the last few years. Among these improvements it is not unfair to include the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. The great majority of men smoke tobacco; have done so for centuries past and will continue to do so. It is important, therefore, that they should smoke the best quality of the article. That is what they are supplied with in the "Myrtle Navy." All smokers who have used it know that its flavor cannot be surpassed, that its quality is always uniform and that the only care they have to exercise in its purchase is to see that the trade mark T. & B. is stamped on the plug.

NO MORE WHITE BUTTER.—No dairyman can afford to make and sell white butter. People who buy butter want it yellow, and are willing to pay several cents per pound more for it than they would for the lardy looking stuff they often have to take. By using Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color, every dairyman can have the golden color of June the year round. It is sold by druggists and merchants generally. 21-4ins.

Not the slightest Affinity

exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, is like itself and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against the dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing, emollient action of the cod liver oil on the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of the elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

The Most Valuable Gifts—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Affections of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not begun people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, any of whom and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you have afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for biliousness, their prevention and insinuation of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Song of the N. P.

BY THOMAS HOOD, JR.

With feelings deadened and cold,
With hearts all sobbing and sore,
The workingman sat in his ragged garb,
In front of his cabin door.

Tax! tax! tax!
Our cotton and fuel and tea;
And still with a voice that he could not relax
He sang of the cruel N. P.

Tax! tax! tax!
Our fuel, and light, and bread.
Tax! tax! tax!
The roof that shelters my head.
'Tis dreadful, oh, to be a slave,
To a worse than the barbarous Turk—
To the behind knight and the titled knave
Who promised us wages and work.

Tax! tax! tax!
Till the strongest heart despairs;
Tax! tax! tax!
Who now for the workman cares?
Bread, and fuel, and light,
Light, and fuel, and bread,
Till under our taxes' infernal night
Of gloom hangs over the head.

"Oh, men who live in state,
Oh, men with titles and power,
It is not the rich man's comforts you tax
But the poor man's fuel and flour.
Tax! tax! tax!
Through the weary days and nights,
Stealing away with a double theft
Our wages as well as rights.

"But why do I talk of right?
For what should a workman know
But the right to suffer, and toil, and pray
That the rich should richer grow,
That the rich should richer grow?
While the poor can only weep
Oh, God that bread should be so dear
And flesh and blood so cheap.

Tax! tax! tax!
Is knowing never flags
And what are its profits? A heavy heart,
And empty purse and rags;
A pauper's doom—a desolate home.
And wages declining sore,
Till compelled to leave the land I love
For a home on a foreign shore.

Tax! tax! tax!
Why shouldn't the workmen bleed?
Tax! tax! tax!
The money that Ministers need.
Bread, and sugar, and coal,
Coal, and sugar, and bread,
Till the heart is sick and the purse is light
And hope and comfort fled.

Tax! tax! tax!
Each morning's plain repeat.
Tax! tax! tax!
The workman first and last.
Tax him in field, and forest, and farm,
At market, bench, and store;
Tax chimes, and spades, and blankets and tea,
Tax him on sea and shore.

"Oh, but to be free again!
To break those galling bands
Which we forged ourselves for an artful knave
To clasp on our helpless hands!
Oh, but for a single day,
With a freeman's right once more,
To revenge the broken pledge made
And live as we lived before."

With feelings declining and sad,
With heart all aching and sore,
The workman sat in his ragged garb,
In front of his cabin door.

Tax! tax! tax!
Our cotton, and fuel and tea,"
And still with a voice that he could not relax
Would that he could reach the political quacks
He sang of the cruel N. P.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 3, 1880.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The town is to be favored to-day with the presence of two Ministers — Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. Mr. Bowell. All our citizens will be glad to welcome to the town visitors so distinguished, and one of whom we may almost call a neighbor. We shall be glad to see Mr. Bowell, in common with many of his old friends, some of whom, like ourselves, may not agree politically with him, but who respect him for his ability and conscientious discharge of what he conceives to be his duty. As a laborious and painstaking Minister, burdened with the unusual difficulty of putting into practical operation a revolution in our tariff, Mr. Bowell is entitled not only to credit for the manner which he manages his arduous task, but sympathy on account of the burden imposed on him by the policy of his party. We shall also be glad to welcome Sir Charles Tupper, differing widely from him as we do in our political views, because we expect him, during his stay here, to say something in words of which we can understand the import of the intentions of the Government respecting the Trent Valley Canal—a scheme destined to be of the greatest importance to the people of this portion of the Dominion, and to the commercial interests of the country. There is in the minds of a great many people in this and adjoining counties a deep-seated conviction that the policy of the Government is to temporize and play with this matter so that it may be used as a factor in the next general elections. Circumstances so far have seemed to favor this idea. It now lies in the power of the Minister of Railways and Canals to re-assure the public mind by asserting definitely and officially that they are prepared to undertake and prosecute this work. We do not want to bear Dr. Tupper's personal opinion as to the feasibility of the work, or as to the probability of the Government at some future time entertaining the subject. We don't want any of those vague promises calculated to mislead the public without pledging the Government to any responsibility. We don't want to hear any excuses about the poverty of the Government, or their inability to begin the work "just now"—the Ministry which found ten millions to engulf in the British Columbia mountains need have no difficulty in finding a third of that amount at the request of all the counties between Bay Quinte and Georgian Bay, and for a purpose justified by the commercial requirements of the country. If Sir Charles is prepared to come forward and say that the Government intend to build the Trent Valley Canal, we shall be compelled to lend him a loyal support, but if he merely comes here to say that the Government will, next year, make a vote for "further surveys" or anything of that kind, the public will understand exactly what is meant. We hope the public will turn out and give the two visiting Ministers a good, hearty reception—Mr. Bowell because we can all admit that he is a good, honest, hardworking and able servant of the people, and is entitled to our respect, and Sir Charles because, though we may not respect him so much, we have "great expectations" concerning the Trent Valley Canal. But Sir Charles must remember that our people are terribly in earnest about this canal, and no amount of "soft sawder" will pull the wool over their eyes. They expect the Government will announce either their acceptance or rejection of the scheme, in the one case to let us out of suspense, in the other to the end of making an early commencement of the practical work.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Toronto Telegram thinks there is "no good reason why Mr. Langevin should not get a ribbon with the rest, although, truth to tell, the conferment of a title upon him could hardly be said to add lustre to the order."

He barked as though his throat was all the rams' horns of Jericho. He was after that squirrel which was just as far out of his reach as the clouds. And the squirrel wasn't paying any attention to the dog, and indeed, didn't know what he was barking at. I am not certain that it had not gone off to another tree, an hour ago, and was away off in another part of the woods, down near the county lane. So I patted the dog's head as I came away, and said to him: "Carlo, keep it up. It seems to do you a heap of good, and doesn't bother the squirrel a particle. So keep it up. You can never climb the tree; you can never catch the squirrel; when he wants to come down he will come down another way, and you will not see him. He will live just as long and be just as happy with your noise as without it. It occupies your mind and doesn't distract his, and it shows a very humane trait in you, Carlo. I have know men just like you; men who spent their lives doing just what you are doing—barking at people who are out of their reach. Keep it up Carlo, good dog"—Burlington Huckster.

We feel that we would not be doing justice to our truly good contemporary, if we escaped bringing under its attention the only conceivable excuse in connection sense that can be offered for its joining in with the pack of curs that yelp at the heels of Hon. Edward Blake.

MEMBERS of the Senate, like members of the House of Commons, receive an "indemnity" for their services, being $1,000 for a full session. It appears, however, that some Senators have swindled the country out of the whole or the greater part of their allowance. By a recent debate in the Senate it is shown that for eighteen days attendance in two sessions a Senator received $1,280, another gentleman getting $669 for five days. Such a state of affairs is bad enough in itself, but it is made doubly so by the fact that this money was paid out of the public chest by a sort of conspiracy between Sir Alexander Campbell, the leader of the Senate, and the Clerk of the Senate. Recently this matter was brought up in Senate and the gentleman who brought it up was abused like a pickpocket by members on both sides of the House. The fact that members of both sides of politics in the Senate have been party to a disgraceful and despicable swindle, does not detract from its meanness and dishonesty, and that both sides join in defending it is a further reason why, for the sake of its own character, the Senate ought to be abolished. Had these members constituents to whom they would have to give account, they would not have been so forward either in perpetrating the fraud or in defending it after it had been exposed.

Removal of W. Jeffers, D. D.

From the nature of the "Medo-Persian" law of the Methodist Conference of Canada, Dr. Jeffers will in a few weeks be removed from Lindsay. We fully endorse the sentiments contained in the following resolution passed on Monday evening, at the Quarterly Official meeting:—

"Moved by Mr. L. Maguire, seconded by Mr. J. L. Winters, that the affectionate and respectful thanks of this Quarterly Official meeting be and are hereby presented to the Rev. W. Jeffers, D. D., for his diligent, faithful and acceptable services as the Pastor of the Methodist Church in Lindsay during the past three years. For his highly important and instructive discourses, especially on the great and essential truths of the Bible, and of the "Higher Life" of religion in the heart. For his untiring Bible Class efforts which have been so highly appreciated by the large number who weekly attended. Also for his kind, courteous and gentlemanly demeanor which has rendered him beloved by all classes of the community. Our individual and united prayers are offered to our Heavenly Father that divine blessing and consolations may accompany him and his beloved partner to their new field of labour."

Next Sabbath evening Rev. Dr. Jeffers will deliver one of his celebrated sermons, subject, "Heathen Punishment of the Wicked"—Lindsay Post.

A. A. Yeomans, M. D., brother of Messrs. David and L. H. Yeomans, of Mount Forest, died suddenly at his residence in Toronto, on Wednesday morning last, from an illness which began on Sunday.

An Old Speech Re-Published.

Mr. Brown's Noble and Manly Defence of His Father.—Triumphant Vindication of a Worthy Man's Honor.

At the request of some old readers of the EXAMINER we publish below the sterling speech in which the late Hon. George Brown replied to the attack made upon him by Mr. W. F. Powell, M. P. for Carleton, in the House of Assembly at Toronto, in July, 1857. The speech was a noble and manly appeal to the best feelings to the members of the House, and was so fully appreciated that even the Toronto Colonist at that time a most violent Tory sheet, rose superior to party ties, and vindicated Mr. Brown from so vile an onslaught. Indeed there was but one opinion, from one end of the Province to the other, as to the dastardly attack of Mr. Powell. A leading Opposition paper thus alluded to it: "The same address forms the most refreshing episode which the records of the Canadian House of Commons present. Every true-hearted man must feel proud of one who has thus chivalrously done battle for his grey-haired sire. We speak deliberately when asserting that George Brown's position in the country at this moment immeasureably higher than it ever previously has been. And though our political creed be diametically antipodal to his own we shall ever hail him as a credit to the land we love so well."

Mr. Brown—When the member of Carleton was interrupted, I entreated the House to permit him to go on and state all that he could. The attack that has just been made on me is in strict keeping with the tactics of the gentlemen on the Treasury Benches on other occasions than this. When they have found themselves unable to meet established charges of grave public impropriety, their habitual resort has been to assail with gross personal outrage those who disclosed the facts; and I hesitate not to affirm, that the assault the member for Carleton has just made is but the well understood climax of the scenes lately witnessed, that was to crush me forever as a public man. But if I can obtain the attention of the House for a short space, I think I will satisfy every man who hears me that this last arrow has been shot as completely in vain as those which preceded it. This is not the first time that the insinuation that I was a public defaulter in my native city has been aimed at me—it has been echoed before now from the organs of the Ministry—and at many an election contest have I been compelled to sit patiently and hear the tale recounted in the ears of assembled hundreds. For fifteen years I have been content to bear in silence these imputations—I would that I could yet refrain from referring to the painful theme, but the pointed and public manner in which the charge has now been made and the fear that the public cause with which I am identified might suffer by my silence, alike tell me that the moment has come when I ought to explain the transaction, as I have always been able to explain it, and to cast back that vile accusation of dishonesty on those who dared to make it. (Hear, hear.) That my father was a merchant in the city of Edinburgh—and that he engaged in disastrous business speculations, commencing in the inflated times of 1825 and 1826, and terminating ten years afterwards in his failure—is undoubtedly true. And it is, unhappily, also true that he did hold a public office, and that fonds connected with that office were, at the moment of his sequestration, mixed up with his private funds to the extent, I believe, of £2,800 sterling. For the sum in default, four friends and relatives were sureties, and they paid the money among them. Part of that money has already been restored!—every sixpence of it will be paid, and paid shortly—property has been long set aside for the payment of that debt to its utmost farthing. (Loud and continued cheering.) My father felt that while that money remained unpaid, there was a brand on himself and his family; and he has wrought—wrought as few men have wrought—to pay off not only that, but other obligations of a sac

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 3, 1880.

Open Air Concert.—The Band will play tomorrow evening in the Court House Park, for the first time.

Births, Deaths and Marriages.—During the past month there were registered with the Town Clerk, 12 births, 4 marriages, and 7 deaths.

Drowned.—One of Sherin & Strickland's horses, last week, walked over a crib on Stoney Lake, and was drowned.

Oddfellow.—Mr. A. P. Morgan's horse bearing this name has been sold to Mr. Mills of Toronto for $220, and is to be trained for the turf.

Theatrical.—The Hyer Combination played Uncle Tom's Cabin here on Monday evening to a good house. The Company gave good satisfaction.

The Grand Junction Case.—The Grand Junction Railway case against the County will come up again in the Court of Queen's Bench at Toronto, on Friday.

At his Post.—The right cent store man is still on hand at the old stand, all reports to the contrary, notwithstanding, and is selling good goods cheaper than they can be procured anywhere else in town. 23-1in

Police Court Case.—The charge of P. C. McGhee against Messrs. Smith, Allen, and Roddy, for obstructing an officer on duty, was investigated on Monday morning. After hearing some evidence, by advice of the Magistrate the charge was altered to one of common assault, and a nominal fine of $1 imposed.

The Police Magistrate's Work.—During the Month of May there were seventeen cases before the Police Magistrate, from which $27 in fines were collected. The cases were as follows:—Assault, 7; drunk and disorderly, 3; using boasts and insulting language, 2; fraud, 1; vagrancy, 1; supposed to be insane, 1; non-payment of wages, 1; fighting on the street, 1.

No Quorum.—The School Board was to have held its regular meeting on Tuesday night. Eight o'clock having arrived without any quorum being present, the meeting was adjourned. Members should be more punctual in their attendances. It is probable that a special meeting will have to be called, as business of importance awaits the disposal of the Board.

Medical Council.—On Tuesday Dr. H. C. Burritt, of this town, was elected to the Medical Council of Ontario, to represent the Newcastle and Trent Division, comprising the counties of Peterborough, East Durham, East and West Northumberland, North Hastings, and Lennox. The election was between Dr. Burritt and Dr. Herriman of Port Hope; the former receiving 51 votes, the latter 14.

Caught at Last.—Charles Brunning, was concerned some time ago in a fracas on the streets and failed to appear in answer to a summons. A warrant was issued for his arrest, but it was only on Thursday last that P. C. McGhee got the opportunity of executing it. He pleaded not guilty, and was let out on his own bail of $20 to appear on July 5th, when he offers to have witnesses to prove his innocence.

Cricket.—There seems to be a good deal of difficulty in getting a sufficient number of cricketers on the ground at once for a match. Last Saturday was the day appointed for the match of Town vs County. There not being enough representative players present, a match was played between teams chosen by Messrs Hammond and Rogers, and was won by the former by a score of 53 to 37.

Canada Thistles.—The following item floating the rounds of the press may be found interesting:—

"The Act to prevent Canada Thistles, amends the present law by taking away its optional character and making it imperative on pathmasters, to see that its provisions are fully carried out; without having first obtained the consent of the Municipal Council. It also requires the notice to the owners of land overrun with thistles to be served on them not later than the 25th of June."

An Exquisite Cake.—There was on view in the beginning of the week, in one of Mr. D. Lemay's establishment, one of the most beautiful and and elaborate bride-cakes we have ever seen, which has since graced a fashionable wedding, which took place on Tuesday evening. The cake is of the new design, called the "Diamond," and is five stories in height, surmounted by a wreath of bridal flowers. The ornamentation is most artistic and reflects the greatest credit upon the establishment where it was turned out. We understand the work was all done by hand, without the use of moulds.

Temperance Anniversary.—The anniversary of Peterborough Lodge I.O.G.T., was held in their Lodge Room, Water street, on Monday evening last, R. Weir, W.C.T., presiding. The entertainment consisted of readings, recitations, singing, and an address by Rev. Mr. Cannom. At the conclusion a handsome cake was drawn for by tickets, and secured by Mr. Russel. The evening was a very pleasant one, and notwithstanding some slight disappointment was occasioned by the organist failing to put in an appearance, yet her place was very satisfactorily supplied by another lady. The Lodge now numbers over eighty members, and is doing good work, having initiated over one hundred and fifty during the past year.

Painful State of Affairs.—The Review a few days ago said:—

"It seems as if we have to be continually bothered keeping the Examiner people right with their local news. Notwithstanding that they have the free use of the columns of our daily edition for copying all their local news for their weekly issue, free of charge, they keep getting themselves into a mess week after week by attempting to alter some of the sentences in our locals in the hope of plaining them of an original. We don't see much mind having the job of writing up their locals for them—although it does cost us something every week—but it is ungrateful to try to cheat us out of our work, and bother us every week keeping them straight."

We are really sorry for our little contemporary. It is too bad that it should be imposed on in that way. Of course it has a monopoly of the local intelligence of the place, and it is obviously very improper that any person else should presume to know anything after our contemporaries contemporary has appropriated the same information. Still our contemporary ought not to be too severe. Its "locals" do not appear to cost a great deal of trouble. A pair of shears is a powerful aid to the itemizer, and when those are mislaid, it is a very simple thing to shake the English language up in a hat and "draw" for local items. In fact, without being hypercritical it is we who should enter a complaint, for we are certain that the labor of finding out whether the average Review local is true or not, is far greater than the mere task of clinging the words together.

Worms.—Several varieties of intestinal worms infest the human body, and these disgusting parasites are the special scourge of young children. The most common species is the round worm (technically called Ascaris lumbricoides), which in shape resembles the large earth worm, and varies in length from four to ten inches. It has been proved, however, that still larger worms exist in the human bowels or stomach can be safely expelled, and a complete cure of every variety of worms is effected by Mother Graves's Worm Exterminator according to directions. Price 25 cents per package. 23-2t

TOWN COUNCIL.

Street Improvements' Programme—The New Treasurer—Shutting the Streets—The Great Water-Works Question Again, etc., etc.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening, His Worship the Mayor presiding. Present.—Councillors Cahill, Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Paterson, Dunsford, Yelland, Douglas, Tosh, Dunne and Robertson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

A communication was received from Mr. C. A. Weller, embodying his opinion as to the ability of the town to collect from the retiring Treasurer the amounts lost to the town by his errors as Clerk.

From John Leys, asking that the time for the commencement of construction of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway be extended to May 1, 1881. Referred to Committee of the Whole.

From the Secretary of the School Board, enclosing estimates for the year.

From R. W. Bell, asking construction of a sidewalk from Murray to McDonel streets.

From John Bell and 25 others, for a bridge across the ditch at south end of Rubidge street.

From R. Kincaid and others, for sidewalk on east side of Rubidge street.

From Abraham Ball, complaining of the condition of Downey street.

From John Kelly, for sidewalk on east side of Reid street.

From Kate Gallagher, asking remission of taxes.—Referred to Finance Committee.

F. W. Hall, complaining against being assessed on the ground that he was exempt by being a Government official.

From N. Laplante, asking for a drain from Aylmer street along Hunter to the creek.

From George E. Shaw, asking the usual Mechanics' Institute grant.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

An account of P. Counal & Co., of $1.85, was ordered to be paid when certified to.

Communications relating to the streets were referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Mr. DENNE gave notice of a motion that Mr. C. A. Weller be instructed to collect the amount due to the town by the omissions found by the audits of Messrs. Mills and Hogan, and Macdonald and Pearce.

GOOSE ISLAND.

Mr. T. G. HAZLITT was heard in reference to the condition of Water street north of Dublin. He asked the Council to provide cribwork and fill in the street so as to make it passable, as great inconvenience was entailed upon passers-by. He thought the earth being scraped off Water street would almost suffice to accomplish this improvement.

On motion of Mr. SMITH, seconded by Mr. TOOLE, the application was granted, and the Street Inspector was directed to deposit the scrapings from the extended water limits where he should be directed by Mr. Hazlitt, and a sum of $50 was appropriated for that purpose.

DUBLIN STREETS.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE was heard, and complained against parties taking earth off Dublin street, as it was injuring his property and the property of others on that street.

Mr. E. PEARSE also complained of the injury being done by the removal of earth from that street.

On motion of Mr. SMITH, seconded by Mr. ROBERTSON, the Street Inspector was instructed to restrain Mr. Macpherson and others from interfering with Dublin street, except in such manner as Messrs. Dumble and Pearse should permit.

THE NEW TREASURER'S BOND.

The MAYOR read the bond handed by the new Treasurer. It bound the Treasurer in the sum of $2,000, and Messrs. T. G. Hazlitt, lumber merchant, and R. Kincaid, Physician, in the sum of $2,000 each—in all $7,000.

On motion of Mr. TOOLE, seconded by Mr. PATERSON, the bond was approved and filed with the Mayor.

AUDIT OF THE BOOKS.

On motion of Mr. SMITH, seconded by Mr. TOOLE, Mr. E. Pearse was appointed to audit the books to June 1st, at a cost not to exceed $10, and the Clerk was authorised to purchase such new account books as he may require.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. SMITH submitted a report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of Thos. Billington's account of $6.00, which was adopted.

STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Mr. CAHILL moved the adoption of the report of the Street and Bridge Committee, which after a somewhat irregular discussion was adopted. The report was as follows:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report that they have made an examination of the following streets, and recommend the following improvements:—

1. Water tables on Stewart street, south of McDonel.
2. Sidewalk and crossing on Wolfe street, east of Aylmer street.
3. Perry street—A crossing and sidewalk east of George street.
4. Crescent street—The present bridge be taken down and replaced by a culvert of five feet.
5. Street leading toward the Locks—Sidewalk to be continued to the boundary.
6. Rubidge street—Crossing over drain on Rink street.
7. Paterson street—Sidewalk to be extended as far as the street is built upon.
8. Weller street—Gap in sidewalk on north side to be made up, and crossing on same street.
9. Cross street—An expenditure of $50 to be made when the parties interested furnish the Corporation with a registered deed of street free of charge.
10. Reid street—Sidewalk to be continued from end of present walk to Shepbrooke street.
11. Dublin street (west end)—Water table and large stones taken off when the parties who have fences on the street remove them to the proper place.
12. Downey street—Platform in front of Mr. Ball's house, and sidewalk and culvert to be repaired.
13. Loudon street—West end near Park street to be cut down about two and-one-half feet, the material to be removed to be deposited on same street where required.
14. Mr. John Cameron's petition; recommended that the east half of Downey street, from Brock street to the creek, be cut down and the stuff taken therefrom be used in that neighborhood when required.
15. Murray street—Sidewalk to be extended from Aylmer to Bethune street.
16. Aylmer street—Sidewalk to be extended to Paterson's tannery.
17. Smith street—Water tables from Stewart to Downey street, and culvert at the intersection of Reid and Smith streets to be repaired.
18.—Culvert on Smith street near railway to be cleaned and repaired.
19. George street, near Argyle street to be repaired and stump taken out.
20. George street, south from Smith street to be water-tabled and gravelled in some places.
21. Petition of C. Cameron and others—Recommend a drain on Sherbrooke street from Aylmer street to the creek, as recommended by a former Street and Bridge Committee, but which has not been carried out.
22. Charlotte street—To be water-tabled and gravelled from George street to the Midland Railway.
23. In reference to the application of Messrs. Medcraf and Whitefield, your committee recommend that the work asked be deferred until next spring, by this means the present year's wear will be obtained of the present sidewalks.
24. Your committee cannot at present recommend the granting of the applications of Mr. P. McNamara and Mr. J. Mack.
25. Would recommend that the Clerk call the attention of the Council of Smith to the dangerous state of the boundary at the quarry, this being the chief portion of the boundary as divided between them and this Corporation, and also that he request the Council of Monaghan to deepen the drain south from Park street, in order to correspond with the work done on a said drain by this Corporation last fall, and further that the Clerk notify the Midland Railway Company to make good the crossing and approaches on Park street.
26. In reference to the application of Mr. Hopkins and others, your Committee cannot recommend the Council to build sidewalks on any of the boundary lines of the town the present year.
27. Your Committee recommend that any portion of the above work may be let by contract by the Street and Bridge Committee if they think it advisable to do so.
28. London street—Sidewalk on South side from Geeorge to Harvey street.
29. Aylmer street—South of Hunter street, water-tabled.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

Peterborough, May 31st 1880.

MEETING RIGHTS.

Mr. ROBERTSON moved, seconded by Mr. DENNE, that the first Monday of each month be set apart for regular meetings of the Council, and that the Mayor be requested to give at least 24 hours notice of all special meetings.

Mr. SMITH and Mr. TOOLE pointed out the inconvenience of the working of such a rule, and the motion was withdrawn.

DRIVING THE STREETS.

Mr. CAHILL moved, seconded by Mr. TAYLOR, that the Health Inspector be instructed to prosecute all parties depositing filth or offensive matter within the corporation.

STREET EXPENDITURE.

Mr. MCNAUGHTON moved, seconded by Mr. DENNE, that the Street Inspector be informed to give a full account of the expenditure from January 1st to June 1st.—Carried.

THE GREAT WATER-WORKS QUESTION

Mr. TOOLE desired information respecting the cost of the new water-works tank and supply.

Mr. PATTERSON said they had paid Mr. Ramsay $40.25, and $5 additional for hauls to erect a sewer. Some extra expenditure had been necessitated by the leakage of a pipe.

Mr. TOOLE asked the Street Inspector or a statement of the extra expenditure.

Mr. JOHNSON said there had been some broken stones thrown, and some plumbing laid down to strengthen the platform. He thought the cost would probably be $15.

Mr. TOOLE thought the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, had exceeded their authority in making these expenditures without consulting the Council. He doubted if they could enforce a special rate to meet it.

Mr. MCNAUGHTON thought No. 1 Ward received too much at the expense of the other Wards and the people would not stand it.

Mr. SMITH said the petition for a special rate to be levied for street-watering purposes had asked only a certain sum to be expended. He did not think a special rate could be imposed for anything outside that amount, and he understood some of those committed intended to resist the collection of a special tax.

Mr. TAYLOR thought the scheme a proper one, and that it would result in benefit to the town. Mr. Stevenson had asked $200 for the water alone for this year, while for a small additional payment we now had water for the whole town, the supply of which would cost nothing for the next four years.

Mr. STEVENSON said he had asked only $250 for the extended limits.

The MAYOR said he had asked $200, and only offered the water for $200 after the contract was commenced.

Mr. CAHILL said the pipes were leaking badly.

Mr. DENNE said the pipes had bursted and were leaking badly. He thought it a pity that the work had ever been paid for till it had been ascertained that it was satisfactory executed. It might cost something to make the repairs, but he thought that the work would be found satisfactory in the long run, and prove a great benefit to the town.

Mr. PATERSON said when the Committee accepted the work it was thought to be all right. He thought they should hear what Mr. Ramsay had to say about it.

Mr. TOOLE thought it was a great pity the Committee had not proceeded with greater caution. He believed from the beginning that the tank would be a failure. It appeared now that it would cost $600 before it could be of any use and he would like to know how far this kind of thing was to be carried on. He moved, seconded by Mr. Douglas that the powers given to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, in regard to street watering be terminated and that unless the persons who applied for the street watering are liable to a special assessment, the contract for street-watering be also terminated.

Mr. YELLAND always thought the thing would be a success and a benefit to the town. He thought even if they spent $200 in repairs to the pipe, it would be a saving to the town.

Mr. DOUGLAS differed from Mr. Yelland.

Mr. DENNE said the thing was bound to be a success. Perhaps the Committee should have been more strict with Mr. Ramsay, but he thought they had acted for the best.

Mr. RAMSEY explained that he had merely carried out in the work the will of the Committee. He showed that the leakage was not a serious one, and could be remedied at a small expense and he had no doubt that the scheme would be found ultimately to give the most entire satisfaction.

Mr. SMITH had no fault to find with the Committee; he had no doubt they had done their best, but there had been a blunder made.

Mr. CAHILL said the Committee had made a bad bargain, and they would have to make the best of it.

Mr. STEVENSON made some explanations concerning his offer of supply of water. He had no interest in supplying the water, and had actually lost money last year.

Mr. MCNAUGHTON objected to entertaining this expense for the benefit of No. 2 Ward, at the cost of the other wards.

Mr. TOOLE's motion was carried.

On motion of Mr. CAHILL the Council adjourned for four weeks.

COURT OF REVISION.

The Court of Revision for the town met on Thursday morning last, and was organized as follows:—Mr. Geo. Dunsford, Chairman, and Councillors Poole, Taylor and Robertson. Councillor Yelland, the other member of the Court being absent. C. A. Weller, County Attorney, for the town, was present with Messrs. Lundy and McGrath, the Assessors.

The assessment on her house on Brock street was reduced from $3,000 to $2,500. The personal property in the drug store was reduced from $3,000 to $1,500. The assessment on the building was reduced from $3,000 to $2,625.

HENRY SHERIN complaining against over assessment on the house occupied by James Henthorn, Mrs. Barchard and William Hayes.—Left over.

JOHN GODFREY, complaining against over assessment on the houses occupied by Frank Vallee, Middy Carlton and himself.—Left over.

The Court then adjourned.

The Court met on Thursday evening, when Dr. O'Sullivan filed a declaration that his taxable income was $650.—Left over Eight cases were considered and left over, being the appeals of John Gamble re R. Morris, Thos. Poole re self, E. Brown re self, Thomas Thornton re Isaiah Thornton, Henry Sherin re Mrs. Barchard, Wm. Hayes and Jas. Henthorn, and John Garvey re Thos. Menzies.

R. Smith's assessment was reduced from $600 to $450; R. Borrowman's, from $300 to $250; John Godfrey's, from $1,200 to $1,100; Francis Vallee, assessment confirmed; M. Carlton, assessment confirmed; William Lech's appeals against assessment of Mrs. Bulmer and George Shiells were dismissed.

THOS. MENZIES filed declaration that his gross income from all sources not exempt by law from taxation is nothing, and that his personal property liable to be assessed is $2,550.30.

Mr. MENZIES being sworn in reference to his other appeals said, his property north Dublin and east George, assessed for $6,500, is worth $7,000, and he would sell it for that. The house on Simcoe, $2,000 and the land $2,700. The lot north Simcoe and east George assessed for $3,000 is worth $2,800.

E. C. HILL considered the land first mentioned worth $1,500, and the house $7,000.

The appeal in this case was dismissed. The assessment on the other lot was reduced from $3,000 to $2,800.

JAMES EDWARDS was ordered to be assessed for $400 income.

The Court met again last night.

Owen Sound carried on Saturday a by-law to grant $15,000 to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

The village of Savoy, on the Texas Pacific Railway, was totally destroyed by a cyclone on Friday night. Nine persons were killed and sixty wounded, and forty buildings were demolished.

Among the paid bills and other documents received by a St. Louis man from his fifteen-year old daughter, who was away at school, was a marriage certificate. That was his first news of her nuptials.

A Leicestershire (Eng.) farmer writes to the Mark Lane Express:—"Hundreds of farmers have lost the whole of their flocks of sheep. It has been one of the most disastrous seasons (for sheep) ever experienced."

Three blind girls went out for a walk in St Louis. They were familiar with the street, and made their way with ready confidence; but they knew nothing of a deep excavation lately made, and so walked into it. One was killed and the others badly hurt.

If Grant receives the Republican nomination at Chicago, the name of Morton of New York, will probably be presented for the Vice-Presidency. If Blaine is nominated, Gov. Foster of Ohio, Harrison, of Indiana, or Senator Terry, of Michigan, will be the candidate.

The father of the House of Commons has again been returned to it in the person of Mr. Mansel-Talbot, who has sat for Glamorganshire since 1830. The fact that a man of seventy-seven should have refused a peerage and sought re-election is significant of the fascination which the House, reputed "the pleasantest club in London," exercises over its members.

A freight train on the Air Line ran off the track near Simcoe on Sunday and plunging down an embankment, twelve cars were wrecked and destroyed by fire. The engineer died at his post and his body was consumed in the flames. The fireman and a brakeman were seriously injured, but escaped with their lives. The accident, upon which a coroner's inquest has been commenced, was caused by an open switch.

CHAPTER V.

TRIUMPH.

Judson believed every actor had his weak point—the spot where his vanity was too weak to support his interest. He determined to find out Hazel's vulnerable place.

The playbill helped him unexpectedly They announced for the next night's representation a piece of Hazel's own authorship.

Judson and Gorringe hatched a nice little plot. An offer was to be sent by Gorringe to Hazel for the production of one of his own pieces at the Polygon, on the condition that he and Ethel played in it.

Now Herbert Gorringe was a different man to the agent, so that when George received a polite letter from this gentleman, couched in flattering terms, to the effect that a new play from his pen was considered a promising item for inaugurating the winter season at the Polygon, his author's vanity felt soothed, and strongly tempted All suspicions were allayed. There were three months in which to prepare; and he felt that with careful attention he could coach Ethel up to the required mark. Besides, here was an unexpected opening for that play upon which he hoped to found a position for himself as a recognised dramatist!

Hazel called upon Gorringe with his play. Gorringe read it; and in a few days expressed his entire satisfaction. The play, indeed, was good; the plot was strong, compact, and interesting, and the dialogue—thanks to the experienced pen of the book journalist—was elegant and pointed. The bait took. Negotiations were arranged, and an arrangement was formally signed for the approaching season.

Hazel felt himself a rising man. Ethel was introduced to Mr. Gorringe; that gentleman had thus accomplished the main step to his own desires. He entered warmly into Hazel's views, and encouraged Ethel's hope of success. He was a man with that elegance and ease of manner which always tells upon a woman, especially upon one who, like Ethel, had had small experience among men of the world.

Hazel and Ethel entered warmly into the work of preparation. George began to regard Gorringe in the light of a benevolent patron, and Ethel thought of him as one who was giving her a great lift in life, and who was treating her with a singular and chivalrous respect.

So for the next three months Hazel and Ethel were studying and practising hard for the great ordeal which was, in a professional sense, to make or mar them both.

Gorringe entered warmly into their efforts, and, with the help of the wily agent, was working the London press, and placarding the boardings, to excite the London public for the new season at the Polygon.

* * * * * *

Of course, Ethel's parents felt greatly delighted at the importance their daughter was assuming and the money she was making. Only Uncle Ben remained unsatisfied.

'All is going smooth with her,' he said; 'but women are often their own greatest enemies. It remains to be seen if she has gained the wisdom of the heart as well as the knowledge of her profession. It is in the affections that the misery or the happiness of her life will be found.'

But in the great glare of approaching triumph his forebodings were regarded as the croakings of a cynic.

There was one other greatly expectant of Ethel's success—John Hammond.

He had made great progress—was independent and comfortably off, and shortly to be married to a pretty milliner.

He had been greatly pleased at the reports of Ethel's success; but when she returned to town, he was fairly astonished at the beautiful creature he met.

She surprised her own parents—so graceful, so well mannered, such charming expression and easy confidence; Ethel was simply bewitching.

The first great night arrived—a night teeming with anxiety for Hazel and Ethel.

George had been delighted with Ethel's ability and intelligence in grasping the points of his favorite character, and had expressed his thorough approval at her rehearsals. In his double anxiety as author and actor, he found no time to ask himself seriously if he were in love with his pupil.

Herbert Gorringe assumed intense interest in the whole affair, was present at every rehearsal, and paid Ethel close and tender attention.

Ethel began to look upon him as a very charming man indeed. Assuming, as he did, some degree of authority in the theatre, it was within his power to do numerous little things towards Ethel's comfort and success, which she could not well refuse.

Gorringe made his money people hardly knew how; but as he spared himself no luxury, and always seemed in funds, people thought him much richer than he really was.

The house was crammed.

Ethel's parents were there, and Uncle Ben. Professional engagements prevented the presence of John Hammond.

The piece was interesting, and went very smoothly.

Hazel was very nervous; but he acted well, for his experience was great, and he was well grounded in his art.

Ethel was not nervous. She had gained great confidence. When once they have conquered their shyness, women are less nervous than men.

Ethel had fairly grasped the character, and being a woman of resource and imagination, produced a vivid sketch, her natural independence of mind enabling her to present a personation of great freshness and apparent originality. There seemed no mannerism, no hackneyed reproduction of the styles of other actresses. She created enthusiasm.

The play was a great success, and the curtain descended to one of those spontaneous bursts of applause which show that the public heart is touched.

Ethel's career was made.

Hazel was deeply grateful to her, for his position as a dramatist was secured. Congratulations poured in on all sides.

Gorringe, among others, told her in significant tones of the deep impression she had made upon the audience, and upon himself.

Uncle Ben, too, spoke smilingly, significant words, which she scarcely heeded.

'Stick to your art, my dear,' he said. 'You are an artist. Stick to your art: it will be your best and truest friend in life. Let it have the first place in your affections.'

But she did not notice his significantly suspicious look at the elegantly-dressed gentleman whose words so touched her heated brain.

CHAPTER VI.

"HOW HAPPY SHE WILL BE!"

Ethel's private circumstances began to be very comfortable. She had an elegantly-furnished suite of rooms in Brompton, surrounded herself with much artistic taste and luxury, and had a maid all to herself.

She was very happy; but when the first glow of excitement had died out, began to feel a little lonely. True, her parents often came to see her; but they were scarcely in keeping now with her cultivated mind and tastes.

She began also to think an actress' position a little equivocal, and that to preserve her reputation she had to restrain much natural freedom and harmless mirth.

Hazel she found a true friend; but, as is frequently the case in professional circles, in proportion as he began to make the advances of a lover, Ethel found herself regarding him entirely as a friend, and treating him in quite a sisterly tone.

To Ethel's surprise, Hazel showed signs of attaching himself to her train. She had, indeed, without knowledge or intention, completely turned the honest man's head; so that his infatuation threatened to bring misery upon himself, and unhappiness to the young lady who honored him with her affections.

Men, unfortunately, are occasionally infatuated in this manner.

But with Ethel there was no reciprocity. She was, indeed, beginning to feel womanly yearnings for love. Naturally frank-natured, she began to feel sick of the empty flatteries and insolent assumptions of friendship to which every popular actress is subject.

Like all actresses, Ethel was dearly fond of money and luxury. But she was not an unsexed girl, and therefore demanded the right of all women, to some little love and affection. Moreover, her art now proved less sustaining than heretofore.

Great success is sometimes fatal to a play and its actors. With long runs, the healthy stimulus of renewed effort is lost to the artist.

Hazel, who was an active artist, got disgusted, too; but he was bound down. At the end of the sixth month Ethel and he found their professional duties getting irksome.

Meanwhile a private emotion was distracting our heroine. It was brought about by an outer influence, very powerful and very insinuating. Herbert Gorringe was a man who played many games in life, and all with skill. He now saw he had rivals. He also saw he be had no weak fool of a woman to deal with. There was no giddy flirtiness about Ethel's nature. She had been well brought up, by a humble but good mother, but could not but feel sensible of the kindly interest shown towards her by a person to whom she owed so much and whose appearance was so distinguished. Women who have had small experience of men are always attracted by appearance.

Art, it is true, teaches us to look deeper than the surface; but Ethel was met here by the great foresight of the wooer. He knew he must approach her through the medium of art. He knew exactly in what she required sympathy, and determined to make himself an object of interest as well as attraction to her.

There is a great deal of acting in real life; and very bad acting will pass current, because the audience is unsuspecting. Very inferior actors impress us in the theatre, at that age when illusion seems to us to be nearly allied to fact. Once we suspect art, we become critical. Now Gorringe was clever enough to deceive the wicked world, therefore he could the more easily impose upon innocence. He had paid Ethel every possible attention, and waylaid her in the carefullest manner, without and appearance of importunity. He begged to be allowed to visit her, and threw in a sly hint that he should be glad to enrol her parents among his list of friends. Once this point gained, he threw all his energies into the work of making himself an agreeable element in Ethel's life. He lent her books and educated her in the refinements of life. He was one of those men with sufficient excitability in their temperament to enable them to show an effective but spurious interest in art. But art was quite outside him. How was an unsuspecting, sensitive woman to realize that fact? She saw what the world saw—a charming and a wealthy man devoting himself to her. And Gorring was the more successful because he was a cynic who kept his cynicism to himself. He never said bitter or disagreeable things. Women thought him charming, and men said he was a "devilish good-natured fellow." Thus it was that when, at the end of a year, Herbert Gorringe, watching carefully the sly movements of his two rivals, came with a proposal of marriage, he came at the right moment and was accepted.

All the world said, "How happy she will be with such an agreeable man!"

Hazel grew sick of his work; the long run of the piece completely wearied him; and his vexation at his own want of promptitude in wooing clenched the bitterness of his disappointment, and caused him to enter into negotiations with an agent for a tour in America.

Hammond, for whom Ethel had shown considerable kindness, felt humiliated; but his heart had been so torn between his allegiance to his betrothed and his new passion, that he felt the result to be a great retribution on his faithlessness.

Man-like, he was not slow to console himself with the old love now that the new was appropriated. And Ethel, being rather of the languishing than the ardent temperament, detected not the simulated ardour of her lover, and was happy in prospects bathed in the roseate hue of her own sanguine credulity.

People who have felt the power of poverty are apt to set an exaggerated value upon wealth; consequently, Ethel's parents were pleased at the thought of their daughter's advancement.

Gorringe was so delighted with his triumph that he almost fancied his love was something really true and honest.

He was eloquent, indeed, in words and promises of love; not in a man who is a living lie, words are no pledges to restrain his own inclinations.

However, when, with well-timed pressure, he pleaded for an early wedding, as far as words went, Ethel had no need to fear for her future.

'Though I ask you for my sake, darling,' he said, 'to leave the stage, I pledge you my word I will give you no humdrum life. We, together, can enjoy one unending round of gaiety and joy. Together we will worship art, and you shall revel in the refined pleasures of every city in Europe. You shall see a play every night, if you will. I know what the stage fever is, and how custom will set you longing for the footlights. You shall see them only as a lady—in the stalls; not as a worker on the boards."

We are always the most influenced by the sensations of the immediate present, and so Ethel, wearied with the monotonous repetition of the same character she seemed no great hardship.

She assented.

Three months later the stage saw her farewell.

The papers announced her marriage with Herbert Gorringe, Esq.

Her sister artistes were bursting with envy.

Her's, indeed had been success professionally, and now it seemed she was to have the paradise of all actresses—a rich, charming, and indolent husband.

The breakfast was a very gay affair; and when the bride departed with her husband in a carriage and pair, amid showers of rice, her happy parents pressed each other's hands, and uttered, through their tears, the useless cry, 'How happy she will be!'

Only one man dumped their ardour—Uncle Ben. Yet he said nothing; he only looked very grave.

He was wise enough to know that the more you try to set a woman against the man she loves the more she will cling to him; and he could prove nothing.

Intuitive perception always sees more than it can substantiate.

He wished her happiness; but he could show no smile, and his heart felt heavy as lead. Of course; he was an old man, and a croaker.

It was a pity; but then he was near his dotage, and even a wedding would have no possible charm for him.

CHAPTER VII.

AWAKING.

Sagacious readers who have favoured this poor little narrative so far, know more of Herbert Gorringe's real character than his wife did, as yet.

They will, perhaps, if they know the world, wonder why this man took the trouble to marry the actress.

He married her for the same reason that men of his stamp have married virtuous women of all degrees before—because there is no shorter way open to the accomplishment of their desires.

To a cynic of this class, the sacrament of marriage is nothing more than words.

Neither words nor oaths can bind men of no principles.

As far as Ethel was concerned, her one throw for happiness had been cast; the step had been taken which a woman can never retrace.

For a while Ethel had no reason to doubt that she was loved. When a woman is attractive and hard to win, the worst of men could but feel proud and happy that he had gained her. There was a certain violence in Herbert's affection which rather repelled Ethel's tender nature, but she hoped to accustom herself to that. She was very happy; for she loved the man, and he seemed to be her very slave. She went about with him and had a luxurious home. One thing she noticed—they were not visited. The man seemed to have no intimates, no friendly families, but plenty of nodding acquaintances, nearly all male. That was all. Once she fancied her being known as an actress might have something to do with this. She had had sufficient experience to learn the prejudice against her profession; but not enough to realise that it is only among the vulger that such prejudice exists. She thought that, perhaps, her husband had made some sacrifice for her, made her feel more tender to him than ever. More than ever, then, she resolved to be a model wife.

She ventured gently to sound her husband on this matter.

'My dear Ethel,' he replied, 'I hate society. People without its pale always do. I think the association with humdrum nonentities tame and profitless. Until I won you, I always kept myself to myself, and I assure you, that now I infinitely prefer an unbroken continuance of your society.'

This sounded fair and flattering. His words were always so; and as yet no deeds of his had contradicted them.

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults, Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administrating nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" yet another —"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN, TORONTO.

PETITT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for a Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optive nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes. the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Petitt's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine did, is truly marvellous.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore Oct. 12, 1878. Yours respectfully.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have thirty-four of Scott's EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I cannot discriminate in favor of preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in fact, in my and other families, whom we can consider

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 10, 1880.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

VISIT OF MESSRS. HOWELL AND TUPPER.

Examination of the Route.

Another of Dr. Tupper's Patent Promises Everything Do-Nothing Speeches.

Thursday last was quite a gala day for the people of the County of Peterborough, by reason of the visit of the Minister of Canals and his colleague, the Minister of Customs, to the route of the Trent Valley Canal—the scheme which seems to have taken such a strong hold upon the interest of the people along the Valley of the Trent waters. It had been arranged that the distinguished visitors should be met at the village of Hastings, by a deputation from Peterborough, under the auspices of the Trent Valley Canal Committee of which Mayor Lundy was chairman. By the kindness and enterprise of Mr. H. Calcutt, the steamer Golden-Eye was placed at the disposal of the Committee and the party from town, who were invited to accompany them, and at 7 o'clock in the morning the steamboat landing at the foot of Sherbrook street were quite a festive appearance, being thronged with a merry party who were bent upon the triple object, of enjoying the scenery, seeing the Ministers, and promoting the interests of the Canal. Among those who got on board were Mayor Lundy, Councillors H. H. Smith, H. Denne, Thos. Cahill and Wm. H. Robertson; John Ludgate, E. J. Toker, George Hilliard M. P., R. A. Morrow, Samuel White, Henry Collins, Reeve of South Monaghan, John Hall, C. A. Weller, Dr. Boucher, T. G. Hastie, W. McBain, Mr. Banney, J. E. Belcher, Hon. R. Hamilton, A. White, of the Midland Railway, Wm. Toole, R. N. Roddy, R. Purser, and many others. The following deputation was present from the village of Lakefield:—Mr. R. C. Strickland, Reeve, and Messrs. Hull, Nelson, Garbutt, McWilliams, Isbister, Paton and Sanders. On reaching Ashburnham Mr. John Burnham M.P. came on board accompanied by Messrs. H. T. Strickland, J. Ludgate, R. D. Rogers, H. C. Rogers, P. M., and R. Calcutt, Lewis Davis of Smith and party were also on board. After a short stop at the Locks the steamer rounded to the beautiful entrance from Little Lake to the Otonabee, and in a short time the whole party were swiftly gliding down the stream, famed for its beautiful scenery, but never presenting a more lovely appearance than on this occasion. The green robes of the forest, were never more gorgeous, nor more beautiful—the placid waters sparkled in the sunshine, and kissed the feet of the forest o'bows wreath of verdure was only checked in its expanse by the flowing stream. Here and there an opening showed fine farms in the highest state of cultivation, though for the most part from the mouth of the Otonabee to Rice Lake is an unbroken stretch of beautiful and picturesque woodlands. There are some scenes on the way down worthy of the pencil of an artist, and we are sure that if Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise could be persuaded to make the tour, she would be able to add to her portfolio some sketches of pastoral beauty equal to the most famous of the sylvan celebrities of her native land. Even those who have often made the trip could not but feel fresh admiration for the charms of this silver thread upon a sea of emerald, while those who were making the trip for the first time were enthusiastic in their praises, as each turn of the river developed new beauties of prospect. Some of the gentlemen on board amused themselves, or amused the denizens of the forest, by practicing with the revolver upon an occasional crane or gull. No fatalities resulted, though one crane was pretty badly startled. Entering Rice Lake the party soon reached Harwood, where they met a deputation from Cobourg composed of ex-Mayor Gullet and Messrs. James Crosson, Major Smith, Geo. Boswell, R. Mulholland and W. J. Pentland. At Idyl Wild there were added to the party a deputation from Otonabee consisting of Messrs. Thos. Benard, M. P. P., A. Campbell, sr., J. MacLaughlin, Geo. Reid and Dr. Miller, who came to that point by the steamer Fairy, chartered for the occasion.

A Norwood deputation was also added, consisting of T. M. Grover, ex-M. P., W. E. Roxburgh, W. H. Stephenson, and J. B. Pearce. A brief stay was made here when way was taken to Hastings. When on the way down a gentleman was discovered making desperate exertions, with the assistance of a skiff, to reach the Golden-Eye; Mr. Frank Birdsall was soon descried as the party and was taken on board. On reaching Hastings the visitors were received by a large deputation of small boys, who were neither demonstrative nor enthusiastic, and made their way to the source of attraction, which was at the locks, where lay the steamer King-Fisher, just arrived and having on board Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. Jos. Keeler, M. P. for East Northumberland. Messrs. Bowell and Tupper had left Colborne in the morning and were taken by Mr. Keeler to Campbellford whence they drove along the route of the proposed canal to Healy's Point, where they were taken on board the King-Fisher, which had been sent down by Mr. Calcutt for the purpose of bringing the distinguished visitors up. The Ministers were introduced to many of the deputation by Mr. Burnham M. P., and Mr. H. H. Smith, Mr. Bowell meeting many old friends who welcomed him warmly and were glad to see him as hale and hearty as he appeared to be. Lunch was provided at O'Brien's hotel for the two Ministers and a few others and after a short stay the party started on the return trip at 1.15 p. m., the general opinion seeming to be that taking Hastings as a whole, it is a pretty good place to emigrate from. At 2.45 the Golden-Eye reached Idyl Wild, when Sir Charles and Mr. Bowell were escorted over the island by Mr. Calcutt. Both gentlemen expressed themselves in the warmest terms upon the natural beauties of the place, Dr. Tupper remarking that it was the most charming summer resort he had ever visited. The boat arrived at Harwood at 3.30 when the Cobourg deputation shook hands reluctantly, to return home by the Cobourg and Marmora Railway. The trip up the river was enlivened by a short race between the Golden-Eye and the King-Fisher, in which the latter got badly worsted. During the whole trip the Ministers gave their attention to the matter in hand, and by observation and inquiry from the gentlemen on board, could not but have acquired a useful fund of information in reference to this project, which they may or may not turn to account for the benefit of the people along the line.

At seven o'clock the boat neared Peterborough, where there was a large assemblage gathered at and in the neighborhood of the wharf, and where the band of the Peterborough Fire Brigade greeted the visitors with musical honors. Carriages were in waiting in which were placed the two Ministers and Messrs. Hilliard and Barbaan, M. P.'s for the East and West Riding, James Stratton, Collector of Customs, Thos. Blezard, M.P.P. for the East Riding, and others, and a sort of impromptu procession was formed headed by the Band to the Huffman House, where preparations had been made to give a banquet of a non-political nature to Messrs. Tupper and Bowell.

After a short interval of rest the banquet was proceeded with, some one hundred and ten guests sitting down to the table. Host Huffman had prepared an elaborate bill of fare, and deserves the greatest credit for the excellence of the viands provided as well as all the other arrangements in connection with the banquet. The affair was conducted on the strictest temperance principles, but the fact did not appear in any way to mar the enthusiasm with which the guests did honor to the occasion. As chairman of the Trent Valley Canal Committee, His Worship Mayor Landy presided, having on his right hand the guests of the evening, Mr. Hilliard, M. P., Dr. Kincaid, and others, and on his left Mr. Keeler, M. P., Geo. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble, Jas Stratton, etc.

After the cloth had been removed, the chairman in appropriate terms proposed the usual loyal and patriotic toasts which were duly honored.

MR. DUMBLE proposed the health of Sir Charles Tupper. He said the people of Peterborough would always be glad to welcome among them gentlemen occupying positions so distinguished as those whom they were honoring, but on this occasion they would give them more than the welcome of the Arab, interested as they all were in the object of their visit. The Trent Valley Canal was no new scheme; so early as 1836, two years before he was born, far-seeing men recognized that canal communication could be had between Georgian Bay and Bay Quinte at a trifling expense, and that that would afford the shortest and the safest means of avoiding the dangers and difficulties of upper lake navigation. Those men caused surveys to be made, and the work was actually undertaken. Locks were built at Burrit's Rapids, and some other work done, when the troubles that intervened at that period put a stop to its further prosecution. Since that period the matter has from time to time been brought before public attention. Committees of Parliament had been had and the feasibility and desirability of the canal demonstrated, but, as yet, to this time, construction has not been proceeded with. In the years past the subject had not been agitated, because there has been no great call for means of moving freight, and the same urgency had not existed as now. Had a larger place like Toronto been interested in an undertaking of this kind it would have long ago been constructed. It had been said that the day of canals was past. He pointed out the fallacy of such an idea, and showed that to-day in England canals were being constructed for carriage of freight wherever nature afforded the facilities, some of them being so small that the locks were only 8 feet wide. In Ireland two dollars were being spent now in canals to one in railways, so that it could not be reasonably said that the age of canals was past. But the scheme to which they were endeavoring to enlist the attention of the Minister of Railways and Canals was not a canal. It was a great highway made by nature, lying there to be developed at a trifling expense and utilized in the interest of commerce and for the benefit of the people. It was felt now more strongly than ever that there was necessity for having the enterprise brought into reality. It would give employment to men and to capital, and that in itself was an object to be desired. By the construction of the canal Chicago would be placed six hundred miles nearer to New York for commercial purposes than it now is by any existing means of transporting the traffic. The canal could be built at a very slight cost. Some years ago Mr. Storey had estimated that it would cost $6,458,000 but this estimate was for a ship canal with locks of 190 feet in length and 30 feet in width. Lately Mr. Stark's estimate for five feet of water was only $3,000,000 and this would give us a canal equal to any of the English canals and amply sufficient for all requirements of barge transportation. It was not a canal in its proper acceptation that had to be made, but little links to be filled in to connect existing stretches of navigation. Even if the canal would cost $5,000,000 he believed the Government could find no better means of investing the money, so as to make it remunerative to the people of Canada.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER, replying, said he thanked his entertainers most heartily for the kind and enthusiastic manner in which they had received the toast which had just been submitted, but he did not for a single moment assume that the toast, and the kind and generous manner in which it was proposed, had any personal or political significance. He was quite aware that, surrounded as this festive board was by gentlemen of both political parties, the enthusiasm with which the toast was received was rather a compliment to the Trent Valley canal, which it was hoped would at no distant day be constructed, than a compliment personal to himself or to his colleagues. Regarding the canal, he could only say, having had the pleasure of running his eye over an editorial which had appeared in one of the local papers, that he was afraid he was not in a position to give that unqualified pledge to the construction of the canal that was there demanded of him, and that he was unable to announce that he was in Peterborough practicably for the purpose of turning the first sod. He need not inform his hearers that the Government of the country had to deal with onerous and important obligations. He need not point out that it was the duty of the Government to look those obligations fully and fairly in the face, and judge of the financial ability of the country to meet those obligations before incurring further expenditures. At the same time every Government should, when a great question such as this presents itself, give it the fullest and most careful consideration with a view to arriving at a result which would be beneficial to the whole country. It was the visit to Ottawa of a deputation, perhaps the most influential that ever visited the capital, and the representations that deputation made as to the desirability of constructing the canal; that led the Government to feel it to be its duty to obtain all the information necessary to lead it to a just determination of a question of such importance to the country. As Minister of Railways and Canals, he (Sir Charles) had, however, anticipated that delegation and had sent Mr. Stark, a gentleman in whose ability he had the greatest confidence, to examine with Mr. Belcher into the matter. These gentlemen made an exploratory survey, and estimated that the cost of the canal would be about three millions of dollars. That report was eminently satisfactory, but, as your hearers were aware, Parliament was not sufficiently satisfied that it was based upon sufficiently sound and accurate data to warrant the Government in expending upon the work; and hence the visit of the gentlemen whose leading object he had just referred to, he was obliged to confess, had before it leading ground in regard to economy to have a careful location survey of the canal, in order to furnish Parliament with the closest and most accurate data as to the cost. But the question was not so much what the contracting would cost—it was whether the Government, in the existing condition of things, would be justified in grappling with it. The gentleman who proposed this toast had referred to the great North-West. He (Sir Charles) always looked to the North-West as likely to furnish the best means of solving the question as to the desirability of constructing the canal. He believed that unless a great mistake had been made in regard to the rapidity with which population would flow into that country, and in relation to the enormous amount of cereals that would at an early day demand export from that country, the Government of Canada would at no distant day be called upon to ascertain whether or not, by the construction of the Trent canal, it could not move more rapidly than at present, and at a smaller cost than by any other means offered, place the products of the future granary of the world in the markets the of world. (Hear, hear.) That, he believed, would be a great means of testing the undertaking, and, perhaps, of justifying such an expenditure as would be required in order to build this important work. He could only say that it was not his desire, when he left home, that any such demonstration as that which he had met with should take place. The object he had in passing along the route of the canal was neither a political nor a personal one. He merely felt it his duty as Minister of Railways and Canals to visit the district, and to gain such a knowledge of the whole subject as only a personal examination and a personal knowledge of the country could afford. He had intended only quietly to run over the country, and if his intention had been defeated, and a public demonstration had been made, the gentlemen present must be responsible and take the blame. (Hear, hear.) He could only say that from the time he arrived at Trenton till he arrived here, his trip had been one of pleasure and admiration. He had passed through a country of which no one could form an idea without witnessing it. He had seen stretches of water which furnished to perfection an easy and natural navigation. He had seen scenery, the beauty of which he could not describe, but in addition to all that he had had the pleasure of finding that the facilities provided by nature for the construction of a thorough system of navigation exceeded anything he had expected, and he had been led to entertain the hope that Mr. Stark's calculation would be susceptible to a large extent of being verified. He would, in the meantime, promise that he would endeavour to fortify himself with such information on every point, as would enable him at the proper time to place before his colleagues such a view of the whole question as would enable them to judge, fairly and dispassionately, whether it was their duty to ask Parliament to commit itself to the construction of the work. (Applause.) He need not tell his hearers that he would not abuse any opportunity like the present, when men of both parties were assembled with one object in view, to utter a single word of a partizan character. But even if he felt inclined to abuse the opportunity, he would refrain from doing so when he reflected that to-day the whole of Canada, Liberals and Conservatives alike, were engaged in view of the recent most solemn and most melancholy event that had ever occurred in our history, in sympathizing with those who mourned the loss of one of the greatest political leaders of the party to which he (Sir Charles) had not the honor of belonging. He need not tell his hearers that, irrespective of "the deep damnation of his taking off," the death of the Hon. George Brown had sunk deep into the hearts alike of every Liberal and every Conservative of the country. He (Sir Charles) had no hesitation, in the presence of a large number of gentlemen who sympathised with him in his party proclivities, in saying that there was no public man in Canada whose loss would be more generally deplored than was the loss of the Hon. Geo. Brown to-day. He (Sir Charles) differed from him in many important respects on political questions, but the fact of his having occupied one of the foremost public positions in his party, the fact that he had attained high standing as a journalist and a Parliamentarian, the fact that his name would be long honored as one of Canada's foremost men, made him (Sir Charles) feel, and indeed, should make all feel, in the presence of so awful and melancholy an event, that party and political questions might well be hushed for the hour. He (Sir Charles) need not say that the Hon. George Brown placed the whole of this country, and his party, too, under a deep debt of gratitude for his sacrifice in forgetting party and personal interest in a great emergency, and combining with his opponents for the purpose of carrying to success the greatest question that had ever been submitted to the people of Canada—that of Confederation. Had the patriotism of that honorable gentleman not risen to the height it did, had he not sunk personal interest, the people of this country would not to-day proudly boast that Canada was equal to any emergency. Nor would he (Sir Charles) ever forget that during the weeks he had the pleasure and honour of sitting by his side in the conference at Quebec, where were laid deep and broad the foundations of this Dominion, that hon. gentleman brought to the discussion on that occasion a mind well stored with information, and an ability to deal with every question that presented itself in a broad, statesmanlike, and patriotic manner. He need only say that no man in this country rejoiced more than he did that it had been resolved that a statue should be erected to perpetuate the dear consort gentleman's memory for all time to come. No person could join more heartily in that undertaking than he (Sir Charles) would. No person would be more ready to give his contribution tow

The Grand Show.—Forepaugh's Great Circus is booked for Peterborough on the 18th instant. No doubt the entertainment will be extensively patronized.

Purchase of Horses.—Mr. T. Cavanagh has purchased a handsome pair of coach-horses, for his cab. They cost $275, and were purchased from Mr. J. Death, of Emily.

Ashburnham Assessment.—Ashburnham Court of Revision last week considered four cases. Mrs. Keating had her assessment reduced from $285 to $200, no other changes being made.

In the Creek.—Last Friday a little lad named Lytle fell into Paterson's creek, and had a narrow escape from drowning, being only rescued by the prompt action of Mr. Hillier, one of the tannery employees.

Rivermen.—The festive raftsman has pervaded the town during several days past. They were from Rathbun's drive, which has reached Little Lake.

Shipment of Cheese.—Mr. James Elliott on Monday shipped to England 28,977 pounds of cheese, the produce of local factories. He paid 10½ cents per pound for the lot.

Refreshments.—Work at the extension of Mr. A. P. Morgan's hotel has been delayed by the scarcity of brick. It is to be completed by August 1st. Meantime the interior has undergone a thorough renovation.

Plate-Glass.—The plate-glass which arrived lately for Bertram & Co's window were placed in position yesterday. They present a handsome appearance, and are the heaviest plates in town.

The Golden Boot.—Fresh supplies of ladies, gents', misses and children's summer boots, shoes and slippers are being daily received by Mr. S. White, at the sign of the Golden Boot. Custom work a specialty. Cricket, Lacrosse and Rowing boots recei ve particular attention.

Repaired.—The leak in the pipe which conveys the water to the street-watering cart stand, about which the Council was so much exercised at its last meeting, has been repaired. It was a couple of hours job, and proved that the leak arose from an accidental flaw in one of the pump-logs.

Band in the Park.—Last Friday evening the Court House Park was opened to the public, and for a couple of hours a most pleasant promenade was enjoyed by a large assemblage, during which time the Fire Brigade Band discussed a choice selection of music. Strict care was taken that no injury was done to the young trees, a constable being on hand to that end.

Too Fast.—Some of the fiends of the press—connected with the Daily Evening Review and the Kingston Whig, have been taking liberties with the "handsome unmarried Mayors" of these respective towns. The probability is that these smart writers may ultimately arrive at the conclusion that a Mayor may be both handsome and unmarried, and yet wear a boot that weighs half a ton.

Accident.—About noon on Tuesday an accident of rather serious nature happened at Toole's factory, to George Toole, second son of Councillor Toole. While working at a rip saw, his hand accidently came into contact with the saw, which in an instant amputated the thumb and one finger and badly lacerated the other three. Dr. Kincaid dressed the wounded member, and the boy is doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

A Golden Opportunity should never be neglected—therefore those requiring cheap, comfortable and durable wear for their feet should not fail to examine Mr. W. J. Larmour's stock, previous to the closing of his great clearing sale of imported and ready-made work. Remember the stock is all new and this season's goods, and is being offered at prices much below the present ruling wholesale figures. 23-tf

In Trouble.—A small boy named Charles Connors was sent to gaol for two months, last Thursday, for assaulting the Italian vendor of pea-nuts, at the Market. It appears that Connors was not contented with taking the Italian's pea-nuts, but added insult to injury, by heaving boulders and other loose articles at the Italian. The complainant being a foreigner, an interpreter who could talk the skibbereen brogue was brought into requisition.

The Dairy Fair.—In order to make the Dairy Fair to be held at Idyl-Wild on the 17th instant more interesting and useful to farmers, Mr. Calcott is making arrangements, at considerable expense, to bring a distinguished scientist from New York, who will deliver an address upon the latest and most improved method of manufacturing butter and cheese. No doubt intelligent farmers will avail themselves largely of this opportunity of profiting by the best scientific experience.

Band in the Park.—The Band of the Fire Brigade will give their usual weekly concert in the Court House Park on Friday evening, when the following programme will be rendered. A collection will be taken up to defray the cost of lighting :—

Quick Step	"Jolly Demons"	Rand.
Valse	"Wayward Beauty"	Smith.
Fantasia	"Beauties of Scotland"	Smith.
Selection	"Rose D'Amour"	Boyer.
Quadrille	"Excursion"	Wright.
Schottische	"Pretty Blue Eyes"	Rand.
Galop	"Festival"	Smith.

"God Save the Queen."

More Compliments.—Our weekly daily, which doesn't believe in the art of appropriation, gets a left-handed compliment occasionally from its neighbors in the press. In correcting an error which had appeared in the Port Hope Times, the Guide of Saturday says :—" If our contemporary had copied the above item from the Guide of Wednesday evening instead of the Peterborough Review of Thursday, after that paper had copied it from us, it would not have been led into the mistake. They met in Port Hope, Mr. Times." Our have of the scissors and paste-pot should clip his original locals with more discrimination.

More of the Hum.—The Review mentions a rumor that the old tinsel store-house is to be purchased for a woolen-yarn factory. We fancy this is but another of those "signs of the hum," which are always photographed on the retina of the Review optic. Nevertheless, we shall be glad to see that, or any other enterprise which promises to benefit the town, put in motion, and will even be willing to give the N. P. credit for having accomplished something if this rumor can be traced to a foundation. The Review says the gentlemen who propose to inaugurate this new industry are "from the United States, whence they will bring the most improved machinery." This does not much ook like "encouraging home manufactures."

County Constables.—The following, which has been issued from the Provincial Secretary's office, will be found of interest to all whom it may concern: Sir,—With regard to services rendered in connection with the administration of criminal justice by police officers or constables who are paid for their services out of the municipal or other fund, I am directed by the Hon. the Provincial Secretary to advise you that in future no claims rendered by such officers or constables for such services shall be admitted against the Government, or paid out of the consolidated revenue, unless the officers or constables have been specially employed to perform the services by directions from the department of the Hon. the Attorney-General. I have, etc., Henry Totten, for the Secretary.

Lakefield News,

(From our own Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD, June 9.

News in Lakefield is very dull this week, so you must not expect a very large budget from your correspondent.

Last Thursday a man called Wm. Rowe working in the steam mill met with an accident which, while it might have been more serious, happily resulted in his escape with a cut head and a few bruises which prevented his working for a few days.

On Monday morning Dr. Caldwell went into his stable to see that his horse was being attended to, the horse playfully reared and struck the Dr. with one of the fore-shoes which inflicted a severe cut on the side of the head, the head was dressed by a medical friend, and the Dr. is now all right except being a little sore.

A farmer from Douro, called Ingram, received a thrashing from a young man called John Moore residing in the village. The men will come up before Mr. Hall on his return from Bowmanville.

The semi-annual meeting of the County L. O. L. was held in the Orange Hall Lakefield on Tuesday evening; quite a large number from Peterboro, Lakefield &c. attended, and a large amount of work was got through with.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Lakefield School-board held their regular meeting in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening the 8th inst.

Present Messrs. Casement chairman, Clarin, Sanders and Cox.

Minutes of former meeting read and on motion adopted.

Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Cox, that Mr. Postlewaith's account $6.25 for planting trees in the school grounds be paid.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Cox, that the Secretary be instructed to look up the agreement between the Council and Wm. Hamilton in regard to the trees planted in the School ground.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Clarin, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that the Managing Committee be requested to carry out the wishes of the board in regard to the copy books and the water.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that the board do now adjourn.—Carried.

Exciting Bear Chase.

About six o'clock on Saturday morning last, Mr. Robert McKibbon, who lives on the 8th line of Smith, observed in a field about 300 yards from his house, a large black bear. He at once resolved to give the unexpected visitor a warm reception and to extend to him all the Scandinavian befitting on unusual an occasion. He at once managed a horse and rode in hot haste round the neighborhood, giving notice that a bear hunt was on the tapis, sending his son around at the same time. In a short time quite a large number were gathered and a start was made in the pursuit of Bruin, who had evidently no disposition to be interviewed, and had taken to the swampy and woody Fall clause was given by the bear hunters, assisted by Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald's two dogs. His heavership made exceedingly lively time, and was followed by his attentive pursuers from Mr. McKibbon's swamp to Gwinnett, and back again, leading the hunters a chase of some four hours. Mr. Fitzgerald got in the first shot. Another by Mr. Jas. Donnelly broke the fore-leg of the bear, and then made his chances of escaping exceedingly slim. The dog hung on and frequently bayed the brute, thus affording from time to time a chance for members of the party to get a shot. On one of these occasions the bear managed to seize the dog and hold him in anything but a loving embrace. Mr. Hugh Davidson happened to be near by as the bear and the dog were struggling together, and as the dog made his escape from the bear the latter, infuriated, rushed at Mr. Davidson, who in backing up tripped in the brush and fell, leaving himself completely at the mercy of the animal. The encounter happened in a heavy thicket where Mr. Davidson had no opportunity of crowning, so that before assistance reached him he was very severely bitten on the leg from the thigh to the instep. Indeed, there is no doubt but the savage brute would have killed him, had it not been for the timely arrival of Mr. James Davidson, who came up quickly and struck the bear a terrific blow over the nose with a heavy club. It was almost a miracle that the bear had not bitten Mr. Davidson in a vital spot, but as it was his injuries were so serious that he had to be carried to Mr. McKibbon's house, where his wounds were dressed, and whence he was afterwards removed to his own house. Meantime, others of the party continued the chase, and finally succeeded in bringing the earthly career of his bearship to a termination. Mr. Fitzgerald had the first and the last shot, but almost every other man in the party found opportunity to make a private bullet mark on Bruin's skin, so that when he finally succumbed, his hide presented the appearance of a sieve, being thirty riddled with bullets. After stripping the much perforated hide from the defunct bear, the same was given to an Indian woman who happened to be at Mr. McKibbon's, while Mr. McKibbon was voted to be entitled to the hide, as he had been the means of furnishing the game. This is the fourth bear, within the past ten or twelve years, of which Mr. McKibbon has given notice of chase, and what is a little singular, on each occasion the bear has taken the same run-way, and been brought to the same untimely end.

COURT OF REVISION.

The Court of Revision met on Monday night. Present, Councillor Dunsford, Chairman, and Councillors Toole, Taylor and Ireland. Mr. C. A. Weller, County Attorney, appeared for the town.

Dr. JOHN O'REILLY'S adjourned case was further adjourned.

From THOMAS MENZIES, an adjourned case. Mr. W. H. Moore appeared for the appellant.

THOMAS MENZIES, sworn.—I was the purchaser of Davidson's stock; the stock amounted to $4,451.19 without book debts, which amounted to about $900; the actual value of them is about $1.25; I found that the stock was incorrectly taken; a lot of the goods were valued too high; I can buy many of them at 40 per cent. and 50 per cent. cheaper than they are charged; I have had competent persons to examine the stock; Mr. Harvey examined it personally; I considered the stock to be worth $1,923.42 in May; a note of $150 and other expenses amounting to $50 had to be taken from it; a fair valuation of the stock was $1785.42; when Mr. Davidson made the offer to me I understood it was to be at 4, 8, and 12 months.

To Mr. WELLER.—I took possession in April and the assignee in February; I made this valuation of the goods about the middle of May; I had sold about $150 worth in the meantime; the Sheriff did a better business than I did; I could not get cash for the stock; my debt was $6,700; I would have taken cash. The writing in the inventory is either that of Wm. Gilbert or Fred Birney. I paid the Toronto creditors 40 cts. on the dollar for their claims; I paid $1,305.36 for the whole estate besides my own debt; I did not take any dividend on my own claim; I would not take notes for the stock; I have collected about $58 of the book debts so far; I put in a lot of new stock during April and May; the Sheriff sold goods under cost; a book store has been kept in this stand for the last 17 years; Some of the goods have been in the store all this time.

Mr. HENRY HARVEY sworn.—I have been in the stationery and book trade for about eight or ten years; I was in Copp, Clark and Co's retail store in Toronto for six years; I was there every year; I was in Toronto in 1874; in Menzies' store in Peterborough and took stock on several occasions; I considered the stock in Davidson's store to be worth about $1,923 or $1,100; it contains a lot of old magazines which are good only for waste paper; I think this stock was valued too high; I found a great many school books that are now out of date.

Mr. RICHARD C. WRIGHT sworn.—I knew the stock in question at the time of the insolvency; I have been in the store frequently during the last few years; I did not assist in taking stock; I have seen the stock book; I think the items are greatly over valued; I have been in the stationery business for seven or eight years; school books can be bought for 60c or 65c off the prices on the stock book; there was a considerable portion, about one-third, of the stock was worthless; I consider the stock worth in cash about $1,100; I would not like to give that for it; I consider that an out side figure.

To Mr. WELLER.—I am employed by Mr. Menzies; he makes a small sum on railway and steamer tickets; I do not know how much he makes in a year; I could tell by the books; we keep a cash book; Mr. Menzies does the banking business; I have never seen a book with the amounts paid out and taken in for notes; he often refuses to buy notes; I do not think he does much business in this line; I know nothing about the percentage he gets.

Mr. Weller read a letter from Mr. Menzies to Mr. Wilcox, of Oshawa, offering to sell the claims of himself, James Campbell, and two other firms for $2750, and telling him that it would be "a good thing." The total of the claims was $5,772.11. The signature to the letter was admitted and it was put in as evidence by Mr. Weller.

Mr. J. L. DAVIDSON sworn.—I knew the stock in question; the valuation taken by the Sheriff was too low I think. There was an offer made by myself of 50 cents on the dollar on the assignee indebtedness at the first meeting of the creditors; Mr. Menzies would not accept that offer.

To Mr. MOORE.—I was not present when the stock was taken; some things were omitted, for instance some slat blinds were taken for green paper at 5 cents a yard, while they were worth $1 each; there were about 40 of them; I had not taken stock for about 18 months; I had a good idea of the amount of the stock; I thought I had about $2000 worth of stock; it was not taken high enough; I think they counted all the books covered with paper as magazines.

I never offered the blinds to E. Green for 50 cents each. There was very little old stock; there was some of it 7 years old. My stock was nearly all new; I put most of the goods from Mr. Menzies. Jas. Campbell's account against me was $651; I dealt with other Toronto and Montreal firms; when I made the offer I said I would give satisfactory sureties for the payment. Mr. Menzies would not give me a discharge until I gave up my bonds and lot; I spoke to Mr. Freeman, of Toronto, about the offer; I can remember saying that the stock was taken too high; they would not allow me to be present when the stock was taken; I said a few things but did not make anything out of them; the Sheriff told me that Menzies did not want me in the shop any longer; I have not spoken to Mr. Menzies since he issued the writ of attachment; I would be very glad now to get the goods at the valuation.

Mr. Moore submitted a statement from the assignee showing that the total liabilities were $6,305.74. That they were sold to Mr. Menzies for 30 cts. on the dollar or $1,906.34 including $900 book debts.

Mr. Weller reviewed the evidence at some length, and said the Court should raise the assessment about $600.

Mr. MOORE also reviewed the evidence and replied to Mr. Weller. This closed the case. Decision reserved.

From SAMUEL F. ALLIN, complaining against over assessment on a dwellinr house occupied by himself and Francis Fargey.—Reserved.

From DUNCAN MCLEOD for ANGUS GILCHRIST, complaining against over assessment on real estate.—Reserved.

From HIRAM MOORE, STEVENSON and ROWE, complaining against the assessment of the office occupied by J. J. Hall, Collector of Inland Revenue. It was assessed by law.—Appeal granted.

The Court adjourned until Tuesday night at 7.30 o'clock.

The Court met on Tuesday evening.

In the case of Dr. Fraser, his income assessed for $600, was reduced to $500.

Mr. STRATTON, Collector of Customs, appealed against the assessment of the office occupied by him, as it was in occupation of the government, and by law exempt.—Appeal granted.

Geo. HILLIARD, M. P., appealed against assessment of his mill and farm property. On the evidence adduced the assessment was reduced to $30,000 for the former and $6,000 on the latter.

Mr. A. BAPTIE appealed against Mrs. McEachern's assessment as excessive. After considerable discussion, the property adjourned, the assessment was reduced $300.

For Lesdon Only.—We appeal to all lovers of economy whether they can not prolong the serviceability of various pieces of silk or woolen garments by dyeing them anew. Any person with a very little taste can do it by the use of Mrs. Freeman's New Dramatic Dyes, prepared expressly to dye shades of colors as those produced by a hundred dyes. These dyes are simple, cheap, and of all colors, with full directions; price 15 cents; Magenta 10 cents. 23-2i

The Blood is the Life.—It is from the blood that our tissues are built up, and it is from the same source that all the secretions are formed. Impure blood is the cause of many diseases. To keep the blood pure, it is necessary, therefore, to keep the blood pure. If the stomach is deranged, or the liver sluggish, the blood becomes contaminated, and the whole system suffers. Burdock Blood Bitters will purify the blood, and restore the stomach and liver to healthy action. Try a bottle and be convinced. Price $1 per bottle. 20-2i

A Mother's Story.—Upon the mother devolves the responsibility of watching the health and guarding the tender infants of her household, and fatal diseases which often come before the parents have realized their danger themselves. If you ever come to know the value of Yellow Oil you will never feel safe without a bottle in the house. Price 25 cents.

Wonderful are the variations of intermittent visiting ladies' fashions, and the most wonderful of all are the wonderful changes of young children. For most wonderful of all, a bottle of Worm Powders will remove disorders of the stomach and bowels, which in change from the large earth worm, and varies in length from three to ten inches. It has been proved, however, that all worms infest the human system, and if not removed in time by some powerful remedy or other, will be fatal to life. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup is a safe, sure and speedy cure, and a complete cure of every species of worms. Sold by all dealers. Prepared by Dr. Low's Medical Institute, Toronto. Price 25 cents per bottle. 20-2i

CHAPTER VII.

AWAKING.

In actual life, incidents do not predominate, and the excitements of most lives consist more in phases of emotion than in startling events. Two month's of level life were happily passed without Ethel's interest being painful. And then? One day, she knew not how or why, there came a change! But we seldom fully realise an effect until we have traced the cause. Alas! Ethel's awaking was to be more terrible for the happy dreams her sleep had brought her. If she had only known how completely her husband held in contempt all and everything outside his own selfish will; if she had known how quickly and suddenly a raging passion dies, she would never have had even a dream of happiness.

Gorringe himself knew that a change had come. He awoke one morning, and felt that he was heartily sick of his wife. From that moment he threw all ties to the winds. His only desire now was to rid himself of that which had become a burden. His words remained fair and false. His deeds began to show themselves—coldly, cruelly, clearly. Ethel felt herself being quietly neglected in her own house. He made no proposals to take her out. He began to go his own way. He showed neither spite or anger, but he made no love. Ethel was stung, and yet felt helpless At last she broached the question. She had planned to attend a certain interesting first night at a principal theatre. She begged him to accompany her.

'No; he was engaged that evening, but the carriage was at her disposal.'

'Herbert, why do you never take me out now?'

'My dear, the honeymoon is over! Business claims me now. How do you think I am to keep you in money and dress if I do not work?'

'Is work to keep you thus for ever from me?'

He gave her a dark look, and said no word, but rose and left the house.

She was alone. And from that moment a shadow came to keep her company, and be always by her side—getting darker and more terrible every day—the shadow of despair. How would she be able to relieve herself of its presence?

CHAPTER VIII.

THE SNAKE IN THE GRASS.

The terrible feeling of isolation and desertion that fell upon the once happy actress at this period was all the harder to bear from the material luxury that surrounded her. Herbert Gorringe was a man who, like most sensual, selfish men, lived well. His table was well furnished, and his cellar well supplied. Now Ethel was a woman who had spirit enough to fight against external hardship; but once strike her heart and upset her peace of mind, and she became paralyzed. She was now filled with an abject terror of the cold, heartless man who had been the husband of her choice.

Naturally enough, she felt averse to going about by herself. She was not a hard woman, and had no strong temper to render her defiant. She was a gentlewoman, and such when wounded, usually pine. And she was more; she was weak, and inclined to try and drown her misery rather than conquer it.

All this paved the way to something terrible —the hidden meaning contained in Uncle Ben's words of warning.

She tried to find relief in reading; but to those used to active habits of life, reading is too studious and sedentary to afford much satisfaction.

She yearned, too, to resume her professional life; and perhaps, had she been bold enough to do so, might have been saved; but, like all good women, she did not wish to give up her home without a struggle. She was one who valued a home, and respected it.

And though she fully realised that the breach between her husband and herself was widening day by day, her sensitiveness so shrank from encountering the cold tones of a voice that had once simulated love, that she dared not risk a wordy battle.

Not even yet had she come fully to understand that her husband would gladly be rid of her once for all.

At last, one day, chance, or destiny, or dangerous impulses placed a frightful solace in her hand.

It was one day at dinner. Her husband always drank plentifully, and she had sipped to keep him company; but now there was no happy communion between them; he sat sullen and thoughtful; she, dazed with misery. He ate his fill, and rose and went out, as was his wont.

Oh, that I were a great artist, able to depict with due force the misery of a lonely home—of a domestic hearth from which all warmth has fled, and left the dead ashes of the past white, and cold, and bare!

Ethel sat with wide-staring eyes and drawn-out features, the picture of despair; and then, at first unconsciously, she drank and drank till the deadly influence put warmth into her veins, and dreamy laziness into her brain. It seemed to be a comfort, and so the wine was welcomed, as it is by all weak natures.

When at last she rose, it was with a strange feeling of forgetfulness and of relief from present pain. With scarce a consciousness of the dreadful thing she had done, she groped her way to her chamber, and there the fatal stupor fell upon her, and all was forgotten.

Hours passed; her husband returned. He saw her as she lay, her breathing quick, her hair disordered, and her cheeks flushed. The cruel cynic smiled a bitter, contemptuous smile. He was not sorry. He saw it all, and knew that now there was an easy way to freedom from his irksome bonds.

Here, indeed, was the fulfilment of the warning she had never heeded—the deadly hereditary taint which, like a snake in the grass, was creeping slowly on, sure and fatal, to a nature that was good—to a life that had so recently been happy.

CHAPTER IX.

NO GLEAM OF HOPE.

It was certainly unfortunate that Ethel at this time did not see much of her parents. They were sensible people, and knew that they had no business to intrude upon a gentleman's privacy. Moreover, they felt like intruders in Gorringe's grand rooms.

Ethel had done her utmost to make her parents comfortable in their old age; but since the great grief had fallen upon her, she feared to see them with the news of her misery, and shrank from meeting Uncle Ben, who, she remembered, had never favoured her husband.

The fatal enticement grew upon her, and demoralized her, and weakened her still more. She began to lose all hope. Vain regrets for the past rose up, added to the troubles in her mind, and impelled her more and more to yield to that fatal weakness by which she obtained a merely temporary oblivion.

Unfortunately, she possessed no tender, faithful female friend of her own age. She often now, in the moments she could think clearly, wished she had chosen Hazel or Hammond. She felt now that she would have been happier with either—now that it was too late.

One afternoon as she lay on the drawing-room sofa, drearily and wearily thinking of these things, a visitor was announced—John Hammond.

She rose and welcomed him with a little cry of delight. It was such a happiness to her lonely heart to see a friend of the old and truly happy days.

But Hammond was changed—older and more manly. He was a married man now, and well up in his profession. But he had a sad, concerned look which she could not at all understand. He, too, was startled at the sad, weary look in her countenance, which a momentary smile could not dispel. But he was too delicate to make any remark.

'I am so glad to see you,' he said; 'but I grieve to say that I come to prepare you for very sad news. I hope and trust your present happiness may help you to bear the blow.'

'What is it?'

'Your father——' he faltered.

She turned pale.

'He is not—ill?'

'Yes; very suddenly. He is worse—is dead!'

She staggered. He caught her hand.

'Don't give way. Your mother is too ill and stunned with grief to write.'

She stared wildly, but no tears would come as yet.

'Forgive me if I have spoken too abruptly,' he said. 'May I tell your mother you will come?'

'Yes, yes. But go now, please. Tell mother I will come in an hour, and remain with her. Say her daughter will never leave her again."

Hammond took these for wild words of grief. Going out hastily on the stairs, he met her husband. He was about to tell him all when he noticed a peculiar look about him—a cruel, disdainful look, which brought the hot colour to Hammond's cheeks.

Gorringe passed up the stairs.

'Heavens!' thought Hammond; 'that man has been a villain to her. I read it in the looks of both of them.'

Then he left the house.

Meanwhile, upstairs, Gorringe entered the drawing-room, with brutal triumph in his heart: and a cruel smile curling his lips. He saw his wife upon the sofa, her face buried in the cushions. She never looked up when he entered. He contemplated her grimly a moment or so, and then said, 'Ha, ha, my lady! I have found you out; you are no better than the rest of your class—drink first, and now a lover. Such being the case, of course, you have no longer a place in my house.'

She rose. The words had pierced her ears She faced him like a tigress.

'Tis false—such a falsehood as only you could invent! That man has brought me tidings of my father's death—my father, who loved me—and my tears will not flow, for my heart is too full of bitterness. And for the drink, who has driven me to it? Who has cheated my heart? Who, having won my love, has given me insult in return? You! You tell me to leave your house! I will not stay in it an hour! You have gained your ends; but to your dying day may you remember her whose life you have blighted. Go your way, you have done a brave deed. And much joy may it bring you!'

Gorringe had the bad blood in him of a savage, varnished though he was when his desires prompted him to amiability. Scenes irritated him, and he longed to be rid of the woman he hated. With a brutal oath, he struck her in the face, and, without looking to see where she fell, left the room.

She lay stunned awhile, and when she awoke it was to the knowledge of her shame and bitter sorrow. Yet she felt thankful she had her mother to go to. Ah! it had been a blessing if this horrid issue of affairs had occurred a month earlier, before she had in her despair yielded to that temptation which would be with her always now, nor never quit her so long as life should last to her.

CHAPTER X.

BROKEN BONDS.

She was free, if freedom it could be called to carry about the weight of a heavy heart. She returned to her mother, who was too ill and absorbed with her own grief to notice at first her daughter's changed and bruised face. Ethel had very little money now. She knew, for the sake of her mother and herself, she must return to the art to which she had been so devoted. But she felt so old and weary now—so bitter at the cruelty of what she called her fate.

It is one of the failings of weak natures always to take the most gloomy view of things She nursed her mother, but to one brooding as she did this occupation was indeed but poor comfort.

Secretly she obtained the means to procure false sleep and false forgetfulness. Her mother soon came to notice the change in her. By degrees she learned her daughter's story, and then her indignation burst control, and, with that disregard of private delicacy which characterizes some women, she urged her daughter to summon her husband for assault. Ethel could not do that. No; she would wait and wait. But, meanwhile, they must live.

One day, therefore, she called upon a dramatic agent, and stated her wish to take an engagement.

It was not forgotten that her name had been a power. But the first the public heard of its once favourite was through the police-court. She took her mother's advice. Gorringe was fined, and bound over to keep the peace, and a decree of judicial separation was soon after granted.

The mother's ire was appeased. Ethel had lost all will of her own. She was changed, indeed.

An offer soon came. The same theatre recalled her. It had got into low water. The fatal long run system had done its work. The public were tired of the last weak piece that had been bolstered up with advertisements. A revival was contemplated. But pieces completely worn out will not bear revival. Hazel, in America, was wired for permission to revive his old piece, and Ethel was announced to appear in the character in which she had first charmed the public.

She appeared. Some excitement was afloat concerning her. It had oked out that she had made a miserable mistake in her marriage—that she was supporting a widowed mother. The public were ready to sympathise.

But, alas! the old fire was gone. She felt so old and weary. Her miserable heartache burdened her. The old freshness was absent. She had not that deep knowledge of her art which would have enabled a trained actress to conceal her defects. Hazel was not there to act with her, to inform some of the old interest in her art, and to cheer and encourage her with advice. Hazel's part was entrusted to a a consented young carpet actor, who was so fully occupied with his own importance that the character she played was altogether a secondary one.

It was soon felt that Ethel's acting was stiff and formal. There was no life, no imagination. It was a very palpable effort of stage artifice, without colour, for inexperience showing through her every effort at effect. Before the fortnight was over she knew she had failed. In vain she drank brandy in her dressing-room, in vain she made wild efforts to infuse a false spirit of gaiety into the lighter passages. The critics lamented the falling off. The audience, in spite of themselves, felt depressed The circuits fell until entirely stopped.

Ethel, alas! unsteady on her feet, pallid and despairing, saw the manager looking dark and glum. She knew that her reign was over. It was a horrid thought. It drove her on the downward path.

When she got home her state was palpable to her poor mother.

'Well, dear,' she said, 'you will feel better now you are back with the kindly public to cheer you on.'

'Yes mother,' replied Ethel with feigned lightness of tone. 'I was very nervous to-night, but it will be all right to-morrow. We shall have plenty of money now!'

And she laughed a hollow, mocking laugh, and went to her own room with a burning brow and a heart bursting with pain and despair

The mother saw, and passed a sleepless night of agony. She could hardly believe the shame that had come upon her dearly loved daughter.

The next morning found Ethel's mother under a release. But notwithstanding her rapidly failing strength, Mrs. Forbes besought her daughter, with fearful solemnity, to fly all temptation, and indulge no more in so horrid a vice.

'My child, it will ruin you, body and soul! It will grow upon you—it will drag you to poverty and shame, for it is a more terrible curse to a woman than to a man!'

Ethel listened apathetically. She was in that low, morbid state of mind that comes upon weak natures when they lose what has been the sustaining influence of their lives. She made resolutions of amendment, but everywhere she met with disappointment. Her re-appearance and the pieces were failures. The critics who, when not embittered by the rejection of their own adaptations of French plays, or not touched upon sore points of critical principle, are generally good-natured, let her down very gently, and from the press notices no one would have fancied that her re-appearance had been a most decided and lamentable failure.

After one or two nights she saw a written notice in the green-room to the effect that a change of managerial tactics was to be inaugurated in a fortnight. This drove her to desperation, for at home her mother was seriously ill—so seriously that the doctors dared not say how bad. And Ethel found herself playing night after night in a dull, listless way to scantier audiences.

The manager avoided her, and she began to be conscious that the people in the theatre had an idea of what ailed her, or the kind of consolation she indulged in.

The climax arrived a few nights later. Her mother had been terribly ill all day—senseless. Ethel was most utterly wretched. The terrible agony of her heart's pain was now supplemented by the wretched craving for drink. She was fast getting into that fearful condition which renders brandy the only restorative temporarily from a general morbid apathy of mind and body. She excited herself with determination to force applause from the cold audience. She was driven off to the theatre in a highly dangerous state of excitement.

The first act showed her a half-empty house. She played boisterously, and won some slight applause. This drove the blood to her brain. She poured more brandy down her throat; and in the second act the audience felt that her part was grossly over-acted. Still there was a certain infection which made them applaud. She was called before the curtain. To her dresser's horror, she drank half a tumbler of nearly raw spirit.

'I'll have a success to-night, anyhow!' she screamed.

The scene came on in the third act; but she had overdosed herself. She staggered on to the stage. The hot blood was boiling in her brain. The sudden blaze of light, the mist of faces, seemed to choke her.

The audience saw her gaze stupidly round, without uttering a word. Then her head fell on her bosom She swung from side to side, and fell forward, helpless, inert.

The curtain fell amid a perfect storm of yells and hisses, so clearly was it seen and understood that the heroine of the evening was horribly, disgracefully inebriated!

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administrating nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" yet another says—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil"

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN TORONTO.

The Most Valuable Gifts—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not begus people in embaard of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Not the slightest Affinity

exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, is like itself and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly effected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against the dreaded scurge The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paralyzing rapidly diminish in violence. In consequence of the soothing, emollient action of the cod liver oil on the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of the elements. Thus the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 17, 1880.

RELIEF FOR THE IRISH POOR.

When the news of the deplorable situation of the unfortunate victims of the famine in Ireland was brought to Canada, there was but one impulse throughout the whole land—that of common brotherhood, of sympathy and of recognition of the duty to do all that lay in the power of our people to alleviate the distress. Both by private action, by municipal aid, and in other directions, the channels of benevolence flowed out freely towards the starving poor of the distressed districts. Before such a calamity all considerations of race or creed vanished, and our people, from one end of the land to the other, gave with a liberal hand for the relief of the famishing victims of gaunt starvation. When the Legislature of the Province met the sum of $20,000 was appropriated for the succor of our fellow-countrymen who were suffering under distress so dire. When the Dominion Parliament assembled a like course was adopted, and $100,000 was set apart by unanimous consent of both parties to be devoted to the the immediate relief and succor of the sufferers. At the time the vote was made, it was distinctly requested by Hon. Messrs. Mackenzie and Blake that care should be taken that the money should be applied to the object for which it was voted, and that it should be at once applied to the relief of suffering consequent upon the famine, and to the amelioration of our present distresses. The Government stated that they would see that the money voted would be so bestowed, and Parliament rested satisfied on that assurance that its benevolence would not be abused. Yet we find now that, either through the negligence or design of the Government the $100,000 which the representatives of the people here had granted for immediate relief of those who were fighting against famine is to be devoted to the construction of public improvements in Ireland, which should properly be a charge upon the British Government, and which were, most certainly, not contemplated by our Parliament in making the grant. While our people, at some sacrifice, desire to be generous, and to do their share in affording relief to the famishing poor of the mother-land, they cannot afford to donate the money which they are compelled to borrow from British capitalists for the purpose of creating permanent works in Ireland, or elsewhere, and we cannot but hold the Government guilty of very great culpability in allowing a generous grant to be so grossly misdirected from its object. Had Parliament known the destination which the Government have allowed its generosity to reach, we venture to say that neither one hundred thousand dollars nor one dollar would have been voted for such a purpose. It is but another instance of the reckless management and the gross carelessness which characterizes the dealing of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues with the public funds entrusted to them, and for which we can only look for a remedy in the next general elections.

TOO MUCH GOVERNED.

Our excellent contemporary, the Hamilton Times, discusses a proposal to cut down our Legislatures, and concludes its article by propounding the following conundrum:—"The question is, if thirty "millions of Britons, with diverse and "world-wide interests and a foreign policy "can be adequately governed by six "hundred representatives in the Com"mons without any pay whatever, what "need have five millions of Canadians, "whose interests are purely local, for any "addition to the two hundred commoners "who receive their travelling expenses "and $1,000 apiece per session beside." Our contemporary seems to be of the opinion that fifty members of the House of Commons could perform all the labor now performed by two hundred and six gentlemen. All that may be perfectly true, but it does not follow that it would be wise or prudent to entrust the business of the country to fifty politicians. This would leave a government of fourteen, with only thirty-six private members, and if it should ever arise, as was the case in 1873, that twenty-seven were mere paid agents of some wealthy schemer with axes to grind, we fancy the independence of Parliament would soon disappear. "In the multitude of counsellors there is safety," and we believe the system adopted of allowing a representative to every 20,000 population a wise and judicious one. It would not be prudent to limit in any way the privileges enjoyed by the electorate, but we can cordially agree with our contemporary that it would be highly desirable if a reduction of the expenses could be effected, and there is no doubt that such reduction could be made without in any way impairing the efficiency of the public service. For instance, while in a young country like this men eligible for Parliament are seldom able to afford to spend two months out of the year away from their personal avocations, and it is right that a reasonable indemnity should be allowed; but it is wrong that that indemnity should be so large as to be in itself an object by which men are induced to seek admission to the Legislature. The occasional allowance of $1,000 is entirely too great and might be reduced by one half, and still be most liberal, considered as an indemnity and not as a salary. By this means $100,000 a year could be saved, and appropriated to some useful public work for the benefit of the people. Again, by the abolition of that useless contrivance of the political quarter, the Senate, $60,000 per session, would be saved, almost enough, capitalized, to build the Trent Valley Canal. Another economizer of the political system is the nominal dress-heads of the local governments, the Lieutenant-Governors. They have actually no duties to perform. The formality of opening and closing the House could be done by Commission, and there would be saved to the country $74,000 a year which we now pay in salaries alone to these officials. Were it not that experience has taught the Province of Ontario that under a legislative union she would be subjected to the same treatment as was meted out to her under the old Provincial regime, we might even dispense with the local legislatures, at an enormous saving to the people, but in view of that experience, the taxpayers of Ontario will never consent to abandon its provincial autonomy. But here are three items alone in which by the simple application of the pruning knife to political extravagance, a sum might be saved annually, which, capitalized, would represent some $6,000,000, to be invested in public works. We make the Government a present of the suggestion, and as the only excuse for not undertaking the Trent Valley Canal is the alleged want of money, we trust they will act upon it. The Trent Valley Canal would be of more value to the people of Canada than fifty generations of Senators. Let Sir Charles take the bull by the horns, according to our suggestion, and the whole difficulty is solved at once. But we fear our friend of the Hamilton Times will have to wait a long time before such a stroke of common sense and economy will be entertained by the present Ministry. Though the uselessness of the Senate is admitted, on all hands, so long as it affords a refuge for needy politicians, we may not expect either Sir John or Sir Charles to divorce the patronage from their control.

THE Toronto Mail undertakes to explain that Mr. Kingsford, a Civil Engineer who has for some years been employed upon canal works was dismissed recently "because the Government is anxious to retrench." The story is too thin entirely, as is suggested by the fact that another man has been employed to do similar work. We cannot say that Mr. Kingsford was dismissed because he was a Reformer, or that the public service lost very seriously by his dismissal. He was, however, well fitted for the duties entrusted to him, and he was dismissed, not because the Government had any idea of "retrenching," but because they wanted to find a place for a friend.

THE PORT HOPE Times referring to an editorial in the Review, in reference to the Trent Valley Canal, says, somewhat ambiguously, but evidently not without meaning: "We have merely to "say that we are quite prepared when "the public interests require to re-discuss "the whole question in detail, and say "what we think of the project and of the "parties concerned in it."

The Cat Out of the Bag.

A gentleman named Belford, who says he is a brother of the late editor of the Mail, writes to that organ to say that he alone is responsible for the garbling in pamphlet form of Mr. Blake's speech on the Pacific railway. He admits that he did this in the interest of some Kansas railway with lands to sell, for which he is the Canadian agent, but denies he fouled his own nest, because he is now neither 'Grit nor Tory', having become a 'naturalized American.' He, therefore, deems himself peculiarly fitted to slander Mr. Blake; and no doubt he is. Speaking of his new nationality reminds us of the fact that during his brother's editorship of the Mail it gave evidences of it-anti-British sympathies. On one occasion it sneered at the 'sentimental drivel about the old flag,' while at another it declared that 'if in the collision with the N. P.' British connection suffered, so much the worse for British connection.' Disloyalty seems to have been a family failing. Mr. Blake can afford to treats such calumniators with contempt.

Bible Christian Church.

The twenty-sixth annual conference of the Bible Christian church in Canada and the United States opened in Bowmanville on Thursday last, Rev. A. Clarke, retiring president, presiding. After devotional exercises Rev. H. J. Nott and Rev. W. Kenner were nominated for the presidential chair and the latter was elected. Rev. John Kenner was elected secretary and Rev. S. J. Allin was appointed journal secretary. The usual interesting meetings and services were held.

Canadian Press Association.

The Executive Committee of the Canadian Press Association met at the Rossin House, Toronto, on Tuesday of last week. There were present Messrs. A. Mathieson, Stratford Beacon; Jas. Innes, Guelph Mercury; W. R. Climie, Bowmanville Inspector; E. Jackson, Newmarket Era; Chas. D Barr, Lindsay Post; H Hough, Cobourg World; Geo. Tye, Brampton Gazette; and J. B. Trayes, Port Hope Times. Considerable business was transacted and it was decided to hold the annual meeting in Toronto each year in the last week in July or the first week in August, as can be best arranged. The annual excursion will be to Duluth, via the Northern railway and Collingwood line of steamers, taking in Prince Arthur's Landing and including a run up the line of the Pacific railway. A capital time may be expected. The trip will be one of the most attractive that has taken place under the auspices of the association, and no doubt there will be a large attendance. The cost of the trip will be quite moderate.

A profane and many times excessively offensive discharge from the nose, with "stopping up" of the nose at times, impairment of the sense of smell and taste, watering or weak eyes, impaired hearing, irregular appetite, pressure and pain over the eyes, and at times in the back of the head, cold feet, and a feeling of lassitude and debility are symptoms which are common to catarrh, yet all of them are not present in every case. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures catarrh in its worst form and stages. It is pleasant to use and contains no poisonous or caustic drugs. So sure a cure is it that its former proprietor offered for years in all the principal newspapers of the land a standing reward of $500 for a case it would not cure. Sold by druggists at 50 cents.

THE experiment which Messrs. Tunbott & Billings entered upon about a year ago commenced to make their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco of such a quality as to give the public a good smoke, has proved successful, as at the present time the demand for it is increasing far beyond the capacity of the factory to supply it. The firm have therefore decided to enlarge their premises, and have purchased the property on the corner of Simcoe and Water streets, and will erect a large factory thereon. The new building will be of brick, three stories high, and will be 40 feet by 100 feet. The work of erection will be commenced at once, and it is expected that the factory will be ready for occupation by the 1st of September next. The firm will then employ about 100 hands.

"ONLY LOOKING AT IT."

There was a very pertinent cartoon in Grip last week, representing Sir Charles Tupper carefully gazing upon the waters of Gull River. Grip impresses upon people who were interested in Gull River that the doctor was "only looking at it." The moral of this trite illustration of the ways of the Minister of Canals is obviously that the people along the Trent Valley Canal route are not to imagine that because Sir Charles came and "looked at it," anything serious is contemplated by him. As we indicated before Sir Charles' visit, his speech here, so far as it related to the Trent Valley project, was a laboured effort to say as much as he could to delude the people interested into the belief that the Government might take up the scheme at some future time, "when the financial condition of the country would permit," and to say absolutely nothing that would in any way pledge him to undertake its construction at any time. We were told, however, by some enthusiasts that it was actually contemplated to at once go on with a location survey. Now we learn that Sir Charles has left for a tour in the North-West, where he will be equally open to "look at" the navigation of Red River, the Saskatchewan, or any other navigable stream, and to give his Delphic approval to any scheme which the good people of that country may have to present for his consideration. We should not be at all surprised if between now and the general elections some trifling improvement in the Government works at Bobcaygeon (which are indeed urgently needed) be made, as a sop to expectations which he will undoubtedly disappoint, and still less surprised if, after the next session of Parliament, a Trent Valley Canal Commission should be created, which would enable some very disinterested advocates of the scheme to get their fingers a little way into that common plunder of the Conservative party, the Dominion Treasury. But so far as undertaking in earnest the construction of the Trent Valley Canal is concerned, the people along the line may rest assured that during the present generation at least, or so long as the present Government remain in office, the time will never arrive when Sir Charles will feel "justified" in announcing to Parliament that the "financial condition of the country" enables the Government to ask for a vote for the construction of this canal. We should be agreeably disappointed if the reverse prove to be the case, and we can promise him that if a sufficient appropriation for this work is set aside next session, it will go a long ways to recommend his Government to the people who are so vitally interested in an undertaking of such importance to the commercial future of the country as the Trent Valley Canal project unquestionable is.

ANNEXATION IN DISGUISE.

It used to be a favorite ruse in the old days of the hue-and-cry for the pickpocket to join in the crowd and cry lustily "Stop thief!" That is just the position which the Toronto Mail is assuming towards annexation. By maligning men whose loyalty is not a mere boast, but a deep and earnest sentiment, and who are striving to save this country to British connection from the consequences of an anti-British customs policy and of a reckless course of government whose whole tendency is towards annexation to the neighboring Republic, the Mail seeks to divert attention from the disloyal policy of its party, and its own readiness to take up the cry of annexation, if the interests of its party seem to be served that way. Shortly after the introduction of the "National Policy," when its anti-British tendencies were pointed out, the Mail said: "IF THE "PRESENT TARIFF ENDANGERS BRITISH "CONNECTION, SO MUCH THE WORSE FOR "BRITISH CONNECTION." No longer ago than Friday last it repeated that opinion in the following words:—"When the Mail "said, 'If the present tariff endangered "'British Connection so much the worse "'for British Connection,' IT MEANT "'JUST WHAT IT SAID.'" Again it says:—"FOR THE PRESENT we prefer our present "tariff and our present status to either "independence or annexation." That is to say, so long as its leaders are maintained in a position to squander the earnings of the people, it will not propose either independence or annexation, but rather than resign office, or to give up its "National Policy," it is prepared to let British connection take the consequences, and to take up annexation, independence or any other desperate adventure, that may seem to offer its party the means of remaining in office; and we cannot doubt that a man so unscrupulous as Sir John Macdonald, who has proved more than once a traitor to his country, would not hesitate to become a traitor to his Queen as well, to gratify his personal ambition, and the lust of office which is the principal characteristic of those who surround him.

JUSTICE AFTER MANY DAYS.

It will be remembered that in 1874 Mr. George Wheeler ran against Mr. W. H Gibbs, the former member and also "of Norman descent," whom he defeated by a majority of 54 votes. Immediately after the election a pettifogging lawyer named Hurd, who had formerly supported the Conservative party, but who worked for Wheeler during the election, made a demand on Mr. Wheeler for alleged services as a speaker, for the modest sum of $1,000, which Mr. Wheeler very properly refused to pay. Hurd then returned to his old friends and volunteered the information on which a protest was made, the result of which was that Mr. Wheeler was unseated and disqualified on the oath of the fellow Hurd. Mr. Wheeler appealed against the disqualification, and notwithstanding a persistent persecution by legal technicalities at the hands of those who did not wish him to be in a position to be a candidate again, at last succeeded in securing a judgment in his case, nineteen months after his election, by which the undeserved disqualification was removed, and the evidence of Hurd characterised by the Judge as utterly unworthy of belief. Mr. Wheeler will again be a candidate, and we invite the government not to delay the issue of a new writ and to test the N. P. and the Pacific Railway policy in the person of Mr. Gibbs or any other gentleman. We make the prediction that if the government venture to contest the seat, they will get such a fortaste of the verdict of Ontario in the next general elections as will make the soul of Tupper and brithin him. It is a singular fact that in this case it is a Tory who volunteered his services to the Reform candidate, who was the means of unseating him, just as in Argenteuil, the illegal act which unseated Dr. Christie was done by a Tory who gave his unasked support to the Reform candidate. It looks very much like a plot in both cases, and we would advise all Liberal candidates in future not to allow any convert, whose character is not entirely unexceptionable, to assume a position which can be construed into agency.

MIDLAND HARBOR.

On Thursday last, by invitation of President Cox, of the Midland Railway a party of citizens of Peterboro and Port Hope paid a visit to the harbor at Midland City, the western terminus of the railway. The party consisted of Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President, and Mr. A White, General Traffic Agent, of the Midland R. R., Thos. White, M. P., and the following prominent citizens of Peterborough: John Bertram, D. W. Dumble, Jas. Stratton, Collector of Customs, D. G. Hatton, J. W. Roper, F. J. Lewis, Dr. Kincaid, Geo. Edmison, Jas. Stevenson, Wm. Toole, Wm. Hamilton, P Hamilton, W. A. Morrow, J. L. Hughes, Jas. F. Dannistoun, D. Pentland, J. McClelland, T. W. Robinson, W. W. Johnston and James G. McDonald of the Review, and from Port Hope W. B. Ferguson, Superintendent of the road, Mayor Rendal, Lewis Ross, E. Peplow and G. Stewart. At Lindsay they were joined by Mayor Taylor of Lindsay, and Brother Barr of the Lindsay Post. From Millbrook the company made a rapid run by special train to Midland City, reaching there about 12.30 o'clock. The company took a tour through the town, which presented a thriving appearance, and has evidently made rapid progress within the past two years. Indeed, with the prospect of an extensive through traffic which the company has already assured, and the construction of elevators, no village in the Province has a more promising future. It is surrounded by an excellent agricultural country, which is only being developed since the completion of the Midland, and which will add more and more to the prosperity of the town. A visit was made to the extensive saw-mills of Mr. H. H. Cook, M. P. P. to whose enterprise and energy Midland City owes its origin, which is one of the finest equipped mills in the country. In order to get an adequate idea of the capacity of the harbor, and the unrivalled facilities which it affords to the commerce of the western lakes, a trip was made around it in Mr. Buck's steam yacht. There was but one opinion expressed, and that most strongly by those who were most competent judges, that Midland Harbor has no equal on our upper lakes, either for the protection which it affords to vessels, as a harbor of refuge, or for the accomodation which it offers for the movement of a vast quantity of shipping. Deep water, perfectly protected, is found quite close up to the shore, and no artificial works whatever, beyond the construction of wharfage, is necessary to accomodate the whole shipping of the upper lakes. It is undoubtedly destined to become, with the outlet eastward afforded by the Midland R.R., the great emporium for the reception of western commerce on its way to the seaboard. On the return home a stay was made at Victoria Harbor, and a visit made to Powers' mill as well as an inspection of the new sidings recently constructed for the accomodation of lumber shipment, which is an extensive business at this place. A short stop was made at Waubaushene where are the extensive mills of Georgian Bay Lumber Company, and which is another point from which large quantities of lumber are shipped, and where ample facilities are provided by the company. At Beaverton an impromptu meeting was organized, Mr. D. G. Hatton being called to the chair, when Mr. D. W. Dumble, in a felicitous manner proposed a vote of thanks to the President Mr. Cox, and to Messrs. White and Ferguson, for having afforded them the opportunity of visiting the magnificent harbor at the terminus of the railway. Mr. White, M. P., seconded the motion, and Mr. Cox replied briefly, referring to the excellent feeling which existed among all the officers and employees of the road, which has materially helped the management in the efforts which had been so successfully made to advance the road to a first-class position. It should be stated that the hospitality of the Company was exhibited in the most substantial manner on their arrival at Midland, and on the return, at Waubaushene, where dinner and supper were provided for the guests. The company unite in acknowledging the kindness of the President, Mr. Cox, in affording them an opportunity of observing the progress made by the railway, and the unrivalled harbor at its terminus, and to Messrs. White and Ferguson as well, for the courtesy and attention exhibited throughout this most enjoyable excursion. All came away impressed with the belief that Midland City will, at no distant day, become so, not only in name, but in reality.

IN THE COURSE of his speech anent the Trent Valley Canal, the Minister of Railways and Canals took occasion to pay a high and well-deserved compliment to Mr. T. D. Belcher, who has charge of the government works of the Trent waters, not only for his ability in his position, but his services in the matter of the canal, in conjunction with Mr. Stark.

BROWN MEMORIAL FUND.

A meeting was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening to consider the propriety of joining in the general movement for the erection of a Memorial Monument in honor of the late Senator Brown. The attendance was not large, but was representative in its composition of both political parties.

His Worship Mayor Landy was voted to the chair, and alluded briefly to the object of the meeting, which he explained was strictly non-political, and intended only to acknowledge the public services of the late Mr. Brown as a public man.

Mr. DUMBLE said that in the untimely death of the Hon. George Brown Canada had lost one of her greatest statesmen, one whose memory would linger long in the annals of his adopted country. All classes of people, without dissinction of party or creed, had bowed their heads in sorrow over his grave, and the tear still lingers on the cheek of his country. The animosity and unnecessus bitterness of party strife was laid aside to do justice to the memory of a man whose private life was spotless—who, by his open and genial deportment, had made even his political enemies into personal friends. The country would never forget the man who, during long years of change, had consistently upheld the honor and dignity of Canada, and had with unswerving loyalty maintained that Canada's greatest good and greatest glory was in being a part of the British Empire—who used all his influence to confound those who advocated alienation from England, and ever labored to make Canada independent in her political institutions and in her resources, yet bound to the Mother Country by the silken bond of love and national glory. The spontaneous offering of condolence and sympathy, and the universal regret for his death speaks the best monument of the worth of the departed statesman. Yet, that due honor may be rendered to his memory, and that disinterested and patriotic labor for our country may be duly honored, it has been resolved to erect to Mr. Brown's memory a monument in Queen's Park, Toronto. We desire to aid in this effort, and with that view to subscribe towards the fund. I therefore move the following resolution:—

Moved by D. W. Dumble, seconded by Rev. T. Clementi,—That the people of Peterborough, lamenting the untimely death of the late Hon. George Brown, desire to put on record by a permanent memorial, their appreciation of the services rendered to Canada by the deceased statesman, whose liberal and patriotic services have won for him the respect and gratitude of all true Canadians irrespective of party or creed. This meeting approves of the action of his countrymen to erect, in the Queen's Park, Toronto, a monument in honor of the deceased Senator, and nominates John J. Lundy, Esq., Col. Haultain, the Rev'd. Vincent Clementi, John Bertram, Dr. Kincaid, John Carnegie, George A. Cox, H. H. Smith, James Elliot, Michael Sanderson, D. W. Dumble, James R. Stratton and Dr. O'Sullivan as a committee to solicit subscriptions for the erection of said monument, and that Col. Haultain be Chairman of the Committee.

Rev. VINCENT CLEMENTI seconded the motion in an admirable speech. He said the object which brought them together was worthy of a larger audience, but he felt that both parties were equally represented and equally united in the object which had brought them together. Though he had not agreed politically with the late Mr. Brown, yet he thought the patriotism which had marked his career was a reason why all parties should join in a common tribute to his memory. He had had the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the late Mr. Brown for many years, and had spent many pleasant hours in social intercourse with him in that very room where the tragic event occurred which resulted in removing him from a sphere of active usefulness, and he could testify to his integrity of character and his cultivated mind. Even those who differed with him must admire his force of character, his energy, and the ability with which he had raised his paper to the highest position. This resolution would also be received as an expression of condolence with the family of the deceased Senator, and also as an expression of abhorrence of the cowardly act by means of which he came to his untimely end.

Col. HAULTAIN, said he had known the late Mr. Brown for a great many years, and he knew him as a man who was worthy of the highest respect that could be paid to his memory. Though he had been an active politician on one side, yet he was glad to see that since he was taken from amongst us all shades of politics were united in acknowledging his public services, his patriotism and the honesty of his intentions. He was worthy of honor if but for one thing: that he was a staunch and unflinching advocate of British connection, and we owed him respect for that, for such men may be sometime needed. We owe him respect also for the uprightness which always characterized his transactions and his moral character, which set an example worthy of imitation. He was a man of strong and clear convictions and great force of character, and those characteristics led some to consider him domineering, but these were qualities to be admired and which had made the success of his life. He had known the late Senator before he left the Service, and the last year he was in Parliament had sat at the same desk with him, and he had acquired a great respect and affection for the late Mr. Brown. He was a singularly patriotic man, as all acknowledged, now that the grave had closed over the petty prejudices of politics.

Mr. E. J. TOKER said while he had not the honor of belonging to the same party to which Mr. Brown belonged, yet he believed that his public services merited a tribute of respect from the citizens of his adopted country for his services as a public man. While we had to have government by party, it was well that in one party as well as the other there should be men of earnest convictions and patriotic intention, and he hoped such men as the late Mr. Brown would never fail the country in the front ranks of the party with which he had been associated. He paid a high tribute to the unselfish and patriotic action of Mr. Brown, who in the heat of a party strife of a bitterness which we do not now know, sunk his personal and party feelings, and for a patriotic purpose joined hands with his opponents in bringing about the confederation of the Provinces which made this Dominion. He also alluded to Mr. Brown's distinguished ability as a journalist, and warmly endorsed the object of the meeting.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON, said that he had been requested, as the journalist in this county whose political views were in sympathy with the principles whose inculcation was the object of Mr. Brown's life-time labor, to inaugurate in this county the object which is just now being pursued throughout the Dominion by Conservative and Reformer alike, of erecting a monument in honor of the late Mr. Brown. They were met for the purpose of devising means to join in the general tribute of respect which is being paid throughout Canada to the memory of a statesman whose unselfish labors for his adopted country all acknowledge, whose integrity all admire, and whose struggles, according to his light, in the cause of popular liberty in this country, we are all ready to respect, even if some of us have not always approved. As a Christian man, as a sagacious statesman and as a loyal and a patriotic subject of the Crown of which he was always through life a zealous defender, who had a large share in moulding the fortunes and shaping the institutions of the confederated provinces which are fast assuming the vigor and importance of nationality;, we can all join without a difference of opinion in paying a tribute to his memory, and it is gratifying indeed to see this acknowledgement so generally and so generously sanctioned in by those who have, in loyalty to their own convictions, differed often with the deceased statesman. It makes one feel that life is worth living, if, after its labors are over, honesty, integrity and patriotism are able to elicit from a political opponent, so generous and so warm a tribute of regret, respect and esteem, as was so honorably and so manfully paid in the late Senator Brown, a few evenings since to our midst, by the Charles Tupper. And it suggests to us that perhaps in the conflict of differing opinions, we allow too much asperity and too much bitterness to creep in, and that the rancour of party strife ought, in justice to the honest convictions and the patriotic intentions of one party or the other, to be ameliorated—that we should—more than we have done in the past, if we cannot agree—agree to differ, and to respect the honest convictions of those who differ from us.

The Committee are called together this evening, and will meet in the Council Chamber.

UNIVERSITY PRIZE POEM.

The following is the Prize Poem which was read at the recent University Examination at Toronto by our talented young townsman, Mr. J. M. Lydgate. The blank verse is of unusual merit, and the conception poetic in the highest degree:—

LIVINGSTONE RIVER.

On dreamy silent river deep and strong.
Oh river rich in life and gleaming light.
Along thy sloping shores, and watching hills
No legendary past, in glory rich,
Rise left in's many-towered battlements
To moulder, crumble, and too soon decay,
To weave around each falling turret's base
The thrilling tales of mythic warrior days.
Thy richly rounded hills, in endless throng,
Glance h'ok no faint, far-distant, shock of arms
That, soon, be still, rolls on from year to year;
No where stroke on heavy plated mail
The peaceful flow of thy dark flood disturbs;
No thunder peal of war's artillery
Along the winding passages of Time
Reverberating still, doth wildly start
The wary fowl upon thy breast asleep.
A mist impenetrable hides thy past;
A brooding silence stills historic tones:
We see nb visions of the days gone by;
To us no wrecks float down the stream of Time.
No wierd and mellow tones float on the wind.
And so, we say, thou hast no memories.
Ah well! we know not; it is dark to us.
For we are but the children of to-day;
Our knowledge reaches only back to morn.
Perchance to thee are known the great events
Of histories full of wondrous deeds. Perchance
As much good blood hath mingled with thy stream
As ever tinged the waves of fabled flood.
Historic flow. Perchance, could we but catch
The rythmic undertones of thy deep roll,
We might then hear a fragmentary thrill
Of scours whose grandly swelling tones, whose sweet,
Wild music, grander, sweeter is, than all
The songs thy European fellows know.
Perchance, by thee have wandered, deep in thought,
As mighty men, and minds as great, as e'er
By Roman Tiber, German Rhine, or e'en
By English Avon.

But now a tropic calm,
A tropic haze hangs over thee, and soothes
Each trembling murmur into speech rest.
With fitful sob the sighing winds sink down
To sleep, and twilight shade in softness falls,
And weaves a subtle tint with filmy light.
That gleams like strained mist athwart the leaves.
Along thy margs the tall and slender reeds.
In accents hushed, and nodding half asleep.
Their strange wierd tales upon thy waters pour.
The lofty trees bend over thee and droop
Their pendant branches, swaying softly down
To kiss thy smiling face, and trailing vines,
In clusters rich, creep down to sip thy breath.
Along thy ready shores no sound of bells.
No rich, full majesty of organ tones.
No human voices, chanting praise divine
On holy days, in dreamy accents float:
But in the reeds, thy rippling waters break,
And through the trees the winds do softly sigh
And touch in every leaf a chord of song.
And myriad hymns of praise, and wild delight,
Through all the long bright tropic day
From feathered songsters rise to pierce the sky,
And float through azure domes with star dust strewn
Until they reach the very throne of God.
Oh silent river lying still and lone,
Thou hast unnumbered visions all day long.
Of gleaming golden sun and fleeting cloud
Of distant mountains, overhanging trees.
Of birds that sweeping down a moment seek
To peer within the hidden depths beneath,
And then, on fleet and flashing wing, are gone.
At night thou art a richly jeweled sky,
Where southern stars in trembling downward sink.
And dost thou, silent river, nowhere keep
A record of the beauty thou hast seen?
Hast thou no secret chambers filled with song.
Where vanished melodies are lingering yet?
No hidden corridors with canvas hung
Whereon the faded scenes still brightly glow?

Eternal monument of lofty fame!
A fame that fades not with the fleeting years.
But like thy waters, full and pure and deep.
Grows ever richer as it onward flows.
A fitting semblance of a noble life
That calmly still flowed on 'neath darkening skies
Through desert drear and gloomy forest wilds.
With rarely, here and there, a sunlit vale.
Enchanted deep in song and odours sweet.
A life that left its blessing all along.
On every shore and people that it passed.
And flowing on, still deeper, broader, grew.
Until its gleaming waters reached at length
The boundless sea of Immortality.

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

Logs Going Down—Smash-up—Loss of the "Chippewa"—School Attendance.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD, June 15.

Gilmour's drive of 30,000, and of 35,000, were cut loose on Monday night and are now going over the dam here. The Cruiser was unable to go up on Tuesday, the lake was so full.

As Mr. S. P. Wigg was returning from town on Monday evening, when near Lakefield part of the breeching broke, causing his horse to bolt, first kicking the dashboard to pieces. Mr. Wigg held on for a time but found he could not stop it, and jumped out, escaping unhurt. The horse came to the bridge Mr. H. Garbutt had just entered, and as it attempted to pass the wheel of the buggy struck Mr. Garbutt's waggon, taking a wheel off and smashing the buggy. The horse freed, continued his course up the main street to his stable, when, he was found to be a good deal cut and scratched.

The loss of the steamer Chippewa will prove a serious one to Rose & Co., as they had so many contracts on hand to tow wood, ties, &c. The village will also feel her loss, as she has been the means of giving employment to quite a number of families and assisting in the trade of the place. We have not heard what is to be done, whether they will at once build, try and bring a boat here, or charter the Cruiser for their work. As no alarm was given very few of our citizens knew anything of the matter and were astonished to think that a fire had occurred without their knowledge.

Report of the attendance of pupils at the Lakefield school for the month of May:—First Division, roll No. 45, average 35; second division, roll No. 44, average 36; third division, roll No. 57, average 45; Fourth division, roll No. 53, average 62; total roll No. 229, average 178

The Lakefield District L. O. L. met in the Orange Hall on Tuesday evening, and after considerable discussion determined to go to Stoney Lake, and celebrate the 12 July by a picnic, as was done last year.

The steam yacht Tiger, which has been laid up for the past season, is being repaired, and will be on her old route next week. Her owner, Capt. Lillicrap, who had command of the Chippewa, will run her.

The first fruit of the season, strawberries, have made their appearance for sale, and are taken as fast as offered at 15 cts. per quart.

Cobourg.

FIRE.—At an early hour on Saturday morning an alarm of fire was sounded, which was found located in a roughcast double dwelling-house on University Avenue, owned by Mr. T. Giddy. The Fire Brigade did their utmost to save the building, but without success, as it was entirely destroyed. One of the apartments was uncompated, but an old man named Isaac Crozier resided alone in the other, and lost everything. Cause of fire is unknown. Insured in the Liverpool, London and Globe for $300, loss about $400.

Cobourg, June 14. — Shortly after twelve o'clock last night a fire broke out in Mr. W. Sattel's planing mill, which in a very short time was burned to the ground. The steam fire engine succeeded in saving the lumber, etc., in close proximity to the mill. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss is about $6,000; insurance $2,000.

HARWOOD June 14.

Pic-nics are the order of the day most of them as usual go to Idyl Wild. The Island presents a very neat appearance this year quite a number of young trees have been put in and rustic seats are dotted all over the grounds. Mr. Wm. Gilbert, the manager, is spoken of in very flattering terms.

Quite a number of Americans are at present staying at the Brady House, Harwood. Among them we notice Col. McMahon, of the New York Customs, on his annual fishing tour. They all speak very highly of the House and of Mr. Garnett the proprietor, and are recommending their friends to come over.

The C. P. & M. R. Co's steamer Isaac Butts was launched at Harwood on Wednesday. She has been thoroughly overhauled by Mr. Harry Whelply who has had a very difficult job as the steamer has been out of the water and exposed to the weather since the fall of 1878. We learn it is the intention of the Co'y to draw iron ore with her as soon as the scows are overhauled, which is being done as fast as possible.

Mr. Joseph Taylor, the Government Steamboat Inspector, is to inspect the Steamboats of Rice Lake on Tuesday.

G. J. R.—THE CROPS—GRANGER'S PIC-NIC—FAREWELL SERMON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

[Crowded out from last week.]

The Grand Junction Railway is progressing favourably through this section of country.

Crops of all kinds are looking well.

On Friday of last week a pic-nic was held under the auspices of the Dufferin and Keene Grange Lodges. The weather was all that could be desired, being very cool, with a slight shower during the course of the day. They left Keene wharf at half-past eight, a. m., on the steamer Fawn and proceeded to Spooke Island, Rice Lake, where they partook of refreshments, from thence to Gore's Landing, where a short stay of half an hour was made. On her return she called at Cameron's Point for tea, when all got on board again and arrived in Keene about six o'clock. There were about two hundred and twenty aboard. Peace and quietness prevailed during the entire day, all on board seeming to enjoy themselves pleasantly and agreeably.

Farmers around here have finished their spring work and grain is looking well. There is every indication of an abundant yield of fruit of all kinds; it is to be hoped that late frosts may not come and injure our prospects in this respect.

Statute labor has been on hand during the last week or two in some of the "beats" in this neighborhood; in others it has not yet commenced.

On Sunday, 6th inst., Rev. R. McCulloch, Pastor of the Methodist Church, Keene, preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation. Mr. McCulloch has been with us three years and we wish him abundant success in his new field of labour.

Fenelon Falls.

MELANCHOLY DROWNING ACCIDENT.—On the evening of Tuesday last, it is supposed at about half past 5 o'clock, Mr. G. H. Mitchell's son George, not quite 11 years of age, was drowned in the little bay, owned by Mr. Joseph McArthur, on the north side of the river, nearly a mile from the main street of the village.

OPENING OF A SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The people of this community came together on Sunday, June 13th, and organized a Sabbath School. After Colonel Haultain of Peterboro', who presided over the meeting, had gone through the usual opening exercises, the following officers were elected.—Mr. A. M. Millar, Superintendent; Mr. Thomas Huston, Sec'y Treas; Mr. D. Kennedy, Bible Class teacher, and five other teachers viz; Misses M. and A. Bennett and Messrs. W. Robson, G. Robertson and J. Bennett. The Colonel then addressed the school in a few very appropriate remarks. He spoke of the benefits of a Sunday School to children. He thought there was a benefit in union schools, as it brought the children of different denominations into more direct intercourse with one another to study the word of God. He addressed the teachers especially upon the great importance of their position, and said the "Word was a dead letter", if not accompanied by the Spirit of God. The first service will be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Cold Springs School House when further arrangements will be made.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 17, 1880.

Dog Poisoning.—A dog belonging to Mrs. McGregor, of Ashburnham, was poisoned on Thursday last.

The Dairy Fair.—The Dairy Fair at Idyl-Wild will be held to-day, and promises to be very successful. A full report will appear next week.

Grangers' Excursion.—On Monday the steamer Golden-Eye took a largely attended excursion of Grangers from Hastings to Idyl-Wild, all seeming to be very much pleased with their visit.

How to Make it Rum.—Since Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald began to advertise in the EXAMINER he has sold several carriages, and has been compelled to engage extra hands to keep abreast of the work.

Brought Home.—Ferdinand Gagnier, a young man who resided with his mother on Charlotte street, was accidently drowned while working on the drive at Coboconk on Thursday last. His body was brought home on the Midland Thursday and buried on Friday.

Cattle Sold.—The stable of 25 fat cattle fed by Mr. Chas. W. Moore, of Smith to which we referred recently, was sold on Thursday last to Mr. Boanane of Toronto, for shipment to England. They brought the highest market prices.

The Golden Boot.—Fresh supplies of ladies, gents', misses and children's summer boots, shoes and slippers are being daily received by Mr. S. White, at the sign of the Golden Boot. Custom work a specialty. Crickets, Lacrosse and Rowing boots receive particular attention.

Grand Junction R. R. Case.—This case was re-argued in Toronto a few days since before Hagarty, C. J., Armour, J., and Cameron, J. Jas. Bethune, Q. C., and Mr. Edwards, of this town, appeared for the County, and Blake, Q. C., for the Railway Company. Judgment was reserved.

A Golden Opportunity should never be neglected—therefore those requiring cheap, comfortable and durable wear for their feet should not fail to examine Mr. W. J. Larmour's stock, previous to the closing of his great clearing sale of imported and ready-made work. Remember the stock is all new and this season's goods, and is being offered at prices much below the present ruling wholesale figures. 23-tf

Midland Railway of Canada.—Traffic receipts for week ending June 7th, 1880, were:—Passengers and mails, $1,610.33; freight, $4,491.15—Total for week, $6,101.57. For the corresponding week in 1879, passengers and mails, $1,552.83; freight $3,723.70—Total for week, $5,276.53. Increase, $824.13. Aggregate from 1st of January, 1880, $114,214.48. Increase over 1879, $23,553.74. Miles open 142.

Moonlight Excursion.—On Saturday evening about three hundred persons went down the river on a moonlight excursion under the auspices of the Ashburnham Fire Brigade, by the steamer King-Fisher. A covered scow for dancing accompanied the boat, and dancing was kept up with zest and vigor during the whole voyage. The party returned well pleased about 11 o'clock.

New Music.—"When Sorrow Dies," is the title of a graceful song by Pinsuti, sent to us by the publishers, O. Ditson & Co., who also enclose "Birdie in the Cradle," one of the fifteen attractive songs for children, by Franz Abt. The picture title is very pretty. "In Dell and Dingle," another song, is a very musical "flower song" by Roeckel. With these come three good piano pieces: "Flower Bells," by H. Scott, "Bright as a Button," Polka by Cloy, and "Queen of my Heart," Polka by Fairbach.

Boom Break at Lakefield.—On Thursday morning last, by some means, the boom containing some 40,000 logs being the seasons cut for Messrs. Strickland & Sherin's mills, at Lakefield, broke and some 15,000 logs went over the dam and came down the river. Most of them were caught above Hazlitt's Mills, and in the vicinity, and will be sawed here for Strickland & Sherin. About 4,000 found their way into Little Lake, and will probably be cut for the owner at McDonald's mill. The accident will entail a heavy loss on the above firm.

Reading Explained.—You have doubtless noticed again and again with what resignation and delight some good Christians can sit in a circus for three or four hours: but let the parson preach more than forty minutes on a Sunday and you see a general twitching restlessness all over the congregation. Why is this? Can you tell?—New York Herald. It is very easily explained. When they go to church they doubtless wear their black suits that they have worn for several years and which are out of style and uncomfortable, but when they go to a circus they wear some of those comfortable summer suits bought at R. LeBrun's Fashionable Clothing Store, corner Hunter and George streets, who is always ready to accommodate the public with the best, cheapest, and most appropriate to the season when they are offered for sale. It

Sheep Stealing and its Reward.—On Saturday morning Mr. Alex. Scott, of the township of Smith, missed two lambs from the front of his residence. He at once came to town and made enquiry among the butchers, and found that early in the morning a man had sold a lamb to Mr N. Lapierre, and acting on information he received he went to Quinn's hotel, opposite the Market, where he found two lambs which he identified as his, with another. He secured the services of P. C. McGhee, and finding they had been left there by a man who gave his name as George Daly, had him arrested. Before the Magistrate it was proved by Mr. Lapierre that prisoner had offered four lambs to him for sale a few weeks ago, saying he came from the back country. James Howden proved that prisoner had offered the three lambs, two of whom were identified by Mr. Scott, that day, for $6.50, saying he came from Millbrook. The prisoner was committed for trial.

A Youthful Criminal.—On Friday afternoon as Mr. Geo. Cochrane, Fishery Inspector, was engaged in assisting in the recovery of some of the logs which broke loose from Strickland & Sherin's Lakefield mill, near Hazlitt's saw mill, he left his coat and vest, containing a watch and some money on the shore. Discovering he was disagreeably surprised to find his valuables missing. On enquiring he got the description of a boy who had been seen loitering about there, and went in pursuit. Luckily he ran across a lad answering the description asking bread at a house, where he had apparently laid down to hide. On being accused, the boy confessed his guilt and showed Mr. Cochrane where the watch was hidden, under a stump. Mr. C. took the youth by the ear and led him to the station. On Saturday morning he was tried and pleaded guilty, when the Magistrate very properly sentenced him to three years in the Penetanguishene Reformatory, where he will have a chance to learn a trade, and become an honest citizen. The boy's name was Charles Stewart Yahn, 11 years of age, son of a Frenchman who lives in town, who served a term in the Penitentiary.

Steamer Burned at Lakefield.—At an early hour on Sunday morning an alarm of fire was given at Lakefield, and it was soon found that the steamer Chippewa, lying at her wharf, was in flames. The vessel was cut loose and floated off, finally bringing up near the residence of P. Strickland, where it burned to the water's edge. In the meantime, before leaving the wharf, the burning vessel had communicated the flames to the wharf and the storehouse, and it was only by the active exertions of the villagers that the building was saved. The probable cause of the accident was the carelessness of the fireman in raking out the fire on Saturday evening. The vessel had formerly belonged to the Strickland estate, but had passed into the hands of Mr. Jas. G. Ross, of Quebec. She was insured for $2,000, and is said to have been worth about $5,000.

Chapter of Accidents.—A few days since a young son of Mr. John Young, of Douro, was brought in to Dr. Kincaid's surgery to have his collar bone repaired. He had accidentally fractured it by falling off a bench.....On Saturday afternoon a little fellow, son of Mr Edward Strain, of Ashburnham, while playing among some rocks near Little Lake, fell and broke his arm in two places. He was attended to by Dr. Kincaid.....On Monday morning as the Midland Railway train was coming to Lakefield the engine ran into a cow belonging to Mr. J. Holmes, hotel-keeper, killing the animal instantly. The damage to the train was trifling. Mr. Holmes will endeavor to make the Company pay for the animal.....On Monday morning Mr. Dencon's horse ran away with the butcher cart down George street, bringing up at Deane's mill. The horse was uninjured, but there wasn't enough of the cart left to hold an inquest on.

Accident in Burleigh.—On Thursday evening last as Mr. Isaac Mears, who lives in Burleigh near Julien's Landing, was driving home from Burleigh Falls he was accidently thrown out of his buggy receiving injuries which rendered him insensible. The horse went on and went to his home. On Friday morning as the men employed on the Government Roads were going to work they found Mr. Mears lying on the road unable to move. He was able to speak and explain the accident, but his body appeared to be completely paralyzed. He was placed in a boat and sent home as carefully as possible. Medical aid was sent for on seeing the horse and buggy come home without the owner drove down the road, and found her husband had been sent home, when she returned. At last accounts he was still in the same condition. The doctors were notified in Lakefield, but at the time of our informant's visit had not gone to his assistance. Later we hear that Mr. Mear's spine was broken and that he is dead.

Municipal Excursion.—On Friday last the Warden and members of the County Council of Northumberland and Durham, by invitation of the enterprising proprietor, visited Idyl-Wild and Hastings on the steamer Golden-Eye. The visitors, many of whom had never seen that inland lake, were highly delighted with the beauty of the scenery, especially at Idyl-Wild, and with the facilities of navigation afforded. The Commodore made every arrangement for their comfort and they enjoyed themselves thoroughly. On the return trip they encountered between Idyl-Wild and Harwood one of the most violent storms of wind and rain ever known on the lake. By the good management of Capt. Dion no accident occurred, but as it was head wind, so much delay was created that she was unable to get to town in time for the moonlight excursion to have taken place that evening. One lady and five gentlemen had their hats blown away into space, but these were thankful that the wind did not blow their hair off.

The Band in the Park.—On Friday evening the Fire Brigade Band gave another of their open air concerts in the Court House Park, when there was a large and well pleased audience. The Band rendered a well selected programme in their usual excellent style, the overture being especially admired. A collection was taken up amounting to the munificent sum of two dollars and twenty cents, of which one gentleman gave 50 cents, or about a fifth of a cent for each person present. The system of collection, however, was not such as enabled them to reach all who were willing to give. A collector should be stationed at the gate to give each person entering or leaving an opportunity of contributing. The object of the collection was to pay for the light, which costs $4 per night. The next collection will be for the purpose of purchasing new music for practice for the Toronto Band Tournament ,and we hope the people will give liberally. Each gentleman ought to feel bound to give something at least.

Peterborough Paddlers.—The following which we clip from the Mail's Cobourg sporting news speaks for itself:—"A few days ago the Rowing Club arranged a canoe race between J. Delaney and W. Stennett, both of this town, to be paddled between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock on Friday evening. The distance was two miles. At 7.30 the men were called out, when Stennett was seen coming up to the starting point. Shortly after Delaney appeared on the scene and a discussion arose between Delaney's and Stennett's backers, the former objecting to his opponent's canoe, and declining to paddle unless he paddled in the canoe he used on a former occasion. The large crowd present were disgusted with the affair and shouted "Courtney," "Ross," "Get a saw," &c. Finally a young gentleman, Mr. James Adams, from Peterborough, stepped up and volunteered to row the course against Stennett. It was a very close, exciting race, the Peterborough man winning by about a length. Bets on the race to the amount of three or four hundred dollars were declared off."

Sad Drowning Case.—On Thursday evening last a little fellow, named Alexander Simpson, four years of age, son of Mr. George Simpson, who works at the Auburn Mills, was missed from home, and all search for him that evening and the following days proved unavailing. He had last been seen playing near the Railway Bridge, and it was conjectured that by some sad mischance he must have fallen into the river and been drowned. Conjecture was made certainty on Saturday when the steamer Golden-Eye on her passage down the river brought the body to the surface, near Hale's Landing, and being observed by some of those on the boat they called it to the notice of two young men of that locality, named R. Latimer and J. Wright, who happened to be standing on the shore. The young men procured a boat and took the body ashore, and in the afternoon brought the remains to Peterborough, and gave them in charge of the Chief of Police. Coroner Kincaid decided to hold an inquest. The body of the unfortunate little fellow was conveyed to his father's residence, whence it was buried on Sunday afternoon. The parents have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

Bushwacker Before the Bench.—Mr. Finch Millar, the able and popular leader of the Fire Brigade Band, appeared yesterday morning before Messrs. Lundy and Edwards, to answer a charge of unlawfully neglecting to deliver up divers tunes and pantaloons, the property of Her Majesty the Queen. The trouble it appears arose out of the refusal of the band to turn out for the Queen's Birthday parade, they having a profitable engagement at Idyl-Wild. The result of the refusal was a reprimand order to return their clothes into the armory. Being under the impression that the band were permitted to hold their clothing till paid up, and as the battalion, as they allege, owe them $20, the members of the band did not comply with the order, and on a consequence, the arrest of Mr. Millar on this charge. After hearing the complaint of Col. Sapson, the case was ordered two weeks in order to afford time to communicate with the Department at Ottawa, and ascertain the legality of the case. It should be stated that Mr. Millar had received the clothing on his own account into the armoury before the summons was served upon him, so that it is simply a question as to the costs of the suit. Meantime, the member for the North Riding of Peterborough will consult with the Hon. the Minister of Militia, who is expected to be in Toronto on Thursday next, and the regiment, which it seems have been somewhat of an irregular nature.

Business Abroad.—The steamer Golden-Eye yesterday morning took down 25,000 lbs of iron from Mr. Wm. Hamilton's foundry for Hastings. It is handiest to say the iron was in a manufactured state.

Alleged Assault.—Patrick Halpin, on Wednesday morning, charged C. Britton with assault on Saturday evening, during the moonlight excursion. The opposition cost complainant $1.75, the case being dismissed.

The Idyl-Wild Regatta.—The Executive of the P. B. C. on Monday appointed a Committee to confer with Mr. Calcutt respecting the Idyl Wild Regatta on the 1st July. They will report at a general meeting of the club to-night.

Election in Harvey.—The election in the township of Harvey of a successor in the Receivship to the late James Oliver, came off on the 9th instant. The candidates were Mr. Parker, a former Reeve, and Mr. Chase, the former receiving 75 votes and the latter 64.

Distinguished Visitor. — His Lordship Bishop Sweatman, of Toronto, arrived in town on Tuesday evening, and remained at the Stewart House, till Wednesday at 10 o'clock, when he left by train for Lakefield. He spoke highly of the good treatment received during his stay here.

Getting up their Muscle.—The Peterboro' Lacrosse Club is now in thorough working order and the members are taking no end of practice daily, to find out the strongest team to play against Belleville in the match to be played on the 1st July. In order to give the members a stimulus to a kind of practice very requisite in the game but which is not by itself very attractive, the popular President, Mr. H. LeBrun, has presented two handsome medals, to be run for fortnightly, alternately during the season and to become at its close the property of the highest average winner. Members must have been on for three weeks previous to the 16th to be eligible for these races. The first of the series was held on Monday evening for the ½ mile medal, when Messrs. W. Sanderson, W. Morrow, F. W. G. Haultain, J. C. Robertson, M. Halpin, A. B. Craig, James Mackinnon, C. LeBrun, W. Davis, P. Corkery, and L. McNaughton, entered the lists, Haultain won easily, J. C. Robertson taking second place after a hot tussle with M. Halpin who came in third. Mr. Sanderson, a member of the Club Committee, has presented a handsome cup for the best straight thrower, to be competed for every Wednesday during the season. The first throw was had on Wednesday morning and was won by C. LeBrun. A meeting of the Club is in progress as we go to press.

CHAPTER XI.

THE LAST STRUGGLE.

Amid all this disgrace Ethel had one friend —John Hammond. He, poor fellow, was dreadfully pained. The horrors of that fearful night did not conclude with the public disgrace Driven home in a senseless state, Ethel was not conscious of the last dire calamity. Her mother was dead—mercifully spared the knowledge of her daughter's public shame.

Nearly mad when she heard it, Ethel realised it all. In England her career was closed.

Hammond had, however, been active. He telegraphed to an agent in America, and was successful in securing for her fair terms for a year's engagement. He hoped that the long sea-passage might cure her. A sea-voyage has been known to appease such cravings. Alas! he knew not how firmly the evil grip was upon her. The taint in her blood, the especial weakness of her nature, and the cruel searing of her young heart by a villain!

Drink! There is no drawing back for a woman

Six weeks after her mother's death, Ethel sailed for America.

She had made resolves, but when alone and unseen had often relapsed. Her secret sin grew surely, if not rapidly.

She was in a fearful straight; for, had not her true friend secured her this engagement, poverty would have come upon her, and very speedily, too.

She had no power in London, and the managers fought shy of her since she had indulged in a vice that had already produced scenes unrehearsed and unexpected in the theatre.

True it was she knew all this, and felt how her future lay in her own hands to make or mar.

To the victims of drink there comes times of frenzied craving. The second disease kills the soul, blunts the mind, and weakens all the coverings of resolve.

John Hammond hoped for the best But when he told his wife Ethel's history, he little thought what would be the next that he should hear concerning her.

CHAPTER XII.

"THE SOONER IT'S OVER, THE SOONER THE BETTER."

Ethel arrived in New York, she was announced to appear at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in a revival of "The Colleen Bawn." Her spirits had risen somewhat. The voyage had done her good

She had succeeded in moderating her indulgence. If only she could have abjured all kind of stimulants she might have been saved. But she only forsook the stronger for the milder drinks.

She had received, on arriving at New York, to seek out her old friend, George Hazel.

She confidently hoped to achieve a great success.

The part selected for Ethel's debut was not happily chosen. Boucicault's Irish plays have been so long and constantly acted in America.

Ethel did her best, but she was getting less hopeful. Fatal sign!

She had been bitterly disappointed at learning that Hazel was in Philadelphia.

Her bad habits of life had destroyed the charming freshness of her manner and the bright influence of her eyes, while care and grief had aged her considerably.

She found herself coldly received. The critics sovereignly commented on the vaulting ambition of the Old Country's second-rate artiste.

She found her dreams of a starring tour destroyed. She would have to become a mere stock actress.

To alleviate her disappointment, the old temptation came again upon her, and was not resisted Brandy became once more her closest friend.

She retained her place in the company, playing a round of parts very indifferently.

She wrote to Hazel. He replied, saying that he regretted he had no opening to offer her, wished her success, and stated that he should be in New York in six months to produce a new play, when he would do her all that lay in his power.

But her bad habits grew upon her till she got into ill odour at the theatre.

In other respects she was most exemplary She was not reckless or fast as some are, but she sunned alone this horrid, solitary vampire —drink.

At last the manager told her he could no longer retain her at so high a salary.

"You have been ill-advised," he said, "to cross the pond. There are plenty here worth more than you."

And in truth she was too inexperienced in her art for a good stock artist. Moreover, the deadly drink was dulling her brain, and weakening her power to please.

She had to change to poorer lodgings For two months she was without an engagement; her money dwindling fast—absorbed by brandy. It is useless to dwell upon the details of this misery.

At last she got an opening in a very minor theatre to rant through fustian parts, at ten dollars, about, two guineas a week. Alas! all pride was gone. She barely kept herself sober enough to do her nightly duty. One day, when walking to rehearsal, a gaudy placard met her eye. It was the preliminary announcement of Hazel's return, and the new play he was to bring. He: then, had been successful. A flash of shame came over Ethel. She could not present herself to him now. A week after, she repeated at the miserable little playhouse the disgraceful scene she had enacted once before in London. From that time the American playgoing public saw her no more.

* * * * *

George Hazel had had a brilliant career in the states, so much so that he had postponed his return to England indefinitely. He had not forgotten Ethel's letter, and determined the first leisure he had to look her up. As it was he made enquiries but could glean nothing. Vague rumors came which pained him deeply, for he could not understand them. He knew nothing of the dreadful fiasco of her married life. His play was produced with great success, and he himself is the principal part, was loudly cheered. As soon as the anxiety and excitement of all this was over, he resolved to seek out his old pupil. He could not forget that once he had really loved her.

On the night of the very day on which he had made this resolve, as he was leaving the theatre after performance about midnight, a mean, dirty and mean-looking was handed to him.

He opened it and read the following in a feminine hand; but all blotched and tremulous:—

"DEAR GEORGE,—

"I am dying. My misery is more than I can bear. I am ashamed to show you how low I have fallen But if I have not forfeited your esteem entirely, come and see me—come for the sake of the old happy days when we played together in the old country I shall never see again. My father and mother are dead, and my husband has deserted me.

"Yours, in sorrow and shame,

"ETHEL."

George was stunned for a moment.

"Who brought this?" he cried.

Behold, there appeared noiselessly before him, as if sprung out of the earth, a silent figure in blue, with a face all blandly grinning, and two twinkling, bead-like eyes, a Chinaman with a yellow face and a pigtail. So are the horrid and grotesque mingled in real life!

Startled, George could only say "Go on; I follow."

John Chinaman smiled broader than ever, turned and glided on noiselessly and softly.

On, on, on through a maze of filthy streets in the poorest and lowest district of the Empire City. George could not bear the thoughts which crowded on him as to how she had come to that dreadful pass. The silent progress of the guide irritated him, so coolly did he conduct him to what he knew must be something horrible.

At last, just as George was about to ask how much farther they were to go, the Chinaman stopped before an evil looking house in the dirtiest street they had yet traversed.

He pushed open the door, bowed and signed to George to enter—bowed with bland smile, and said, "Straight up; last door at top."

For a moment only Hazel hesitated. Then he said, "Follow me," and began to mount the stairs. They were rude and rickety. When half-way up he heard a female voice shrieking and uttering wild words. On he went till he came to the last door. The shrieks within were fearful. He turned to the Chinaman. "Shall I enter?"

Again the yellow face wrinkled with a smile, and nodded.

He opened the door, and there, in a miserable garret by the dim rushlight, he saw a haggard form tossing on a truckle bed! The room bare—all but a chair and a table; the window stuffed with rags. Could this wretched woman be the once bright Ethel?

What is she saying?

"Go away—away—away! You stare at me so cruelly! Have I not loved you? Why have you turned against me? Do you not love me? What! my father dead? Ah, you will strike me! Because I love my father! Ah, I will not come! See those green snakes! Take them away! Save me! They come nearer! Save me! Hold me! Ah!"

And with a horrible long-drawn shriek, she fell back senseless.

George knelt by her bedside, and put his hand upon her heart. It beat very, very feebly. On the table stood a bottle, empty.

He understood all. He turned to the Chinaman, and put money in his hand

"Go!" he said. "Get wood and coals for fire, and some warm soup somewhere, quick!"

The Chinaman nodded, smiled as usual, and vanished silently. The room was bitterly cold. George took off his great coat, and flung it over Ethel's wasted form, clearly discernible under the thin coverlet. Then he sat down and waited, gazing sadly on the strained, haggard face of the woman he had loved

After a while he became conscious of a third person in the room. He raised his head—there stood the blue blouse, the yellow face, the inevitable smile. In one hand the automaton held materials for lighting a fire, and in the other a basin of steaming soup. The simpleton being, with his bland and apparently ironical smile, irritated George. He took the soup, and sharply commanded the mute to kindle a fire. With a nod, the man obeyed. George knelt down by Ethel's side, and strove to force a little soup between her lips. Her heart scarce seemed to beat She seemed in a comatose condition. George sat and watched, and inwardly determined to provide her with every comfort, to cure, and, if possible redeem her The mute having lighted a fire, disappeared. In about an hour's time Ethel breathed a long sigh, and regained consciousness.

"Ah, me! ah, me!" she muttered. Then presently recovering to perceive a presence in the room, she whispered, "Who is there?"

"You remember George Hazel?"

"What! are you George? I am so glad! I shall die happy now!"

"Don't talk of dying!"

"George, I sent for you because I knew I was dying! I shouldn't have—I shouldn't have—dared to summon you else!"

"Would I had known before! But I am in time. You shall have every comfort!"

"In time—George—to bid—me farewell! In the presence of death you will look kindly on my shame?"

"I am so grieved to see—"

"I have killed myself; my sin—my sin has overtaken me!"

"You will live to repent."

"No; I am past that! Better I should die! Oh, George I hate myself! My life is a burden to me! I do not fear death, George—for I have thought that—when my soul—is freed from the burden I may strive—and hope—to be better—and—purer!"

George, was struck with the simple thought!

"You have suffered deeply."

"Seldom my life!"

She was gazing hard He poured some of the warm soup into her mouth.

"Oh, George," she said, when she regained her breath, "if—if—I had only married you" She choked.

George began to be alarmed. A dark shade was on her features.

"Don't give way. You are only very weak."

"No, I am strong in death, for death is my salvation! I shall be beyond the power of sin. Think kindly of me, George You are my only friend! Remember me to Mr. Hammond. Tell him I died blessing him for his goodness. How sorry I was that I did him him no little credit! Good-bye, George! Kiss me—hold my hand! I feel rested now!"

Fainter, fainter were the words. And with an awful suddenness the weakened form of her life died out like a candle dropped in its socket.

So suddenly that George shuddered with amazement The end had come to the once bright, hopeful life. Blighted by a curse, extinguished on a truckle bed in a garret, in a strange land!

I have not heard that Herbert Gorringe has met with any retribution in the world, as yet, I am not aware that Ethel's brother ever came back, or ever retrieved his disgrace.

I am not sure that Uncle Ben was any happier for the fulfilment of his and prophecy, or that his theory of hereditary taint was strengthened by the fall of Ethel

But I am sure that Hazel grieved and sorrowed all his life for the loss of the beautiful girl he had loved!

Life is, indeed, a very masquerade. All wear some sort of mask.

Happily for us, we, for the most part, see only that, and not what is hubbed.

TWO LIVES SAVED.

Not dead, Feb 19th, 1880.

T. Milburn & Co.

GENTLEMEN:—I notice that you have become proprietors of that old and well tried medicine—FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. I have sold it for the last twenty years and in no case have I known it to fail to give relief when used for Summer Complaint in any of its forms. People often tell me what it has done for them. Not long since I was at Colborne Station awaiting a train, when a gentleman approached, calling me by name and holding out his hand. You don't remember me," said he, "but I have reason to remember you, for I shall always believe you were the means, under God, of saving the lives of my two children." I took his hand, and asked him his name and the particulars as to how I could have done him such a service. He said his name was "Downer," and that "some years before he had known me while clerking in a store in Auburnham" One day, after hurrying two of his children who had died of Summer Complaint, he was telling me his trouble. Also, "that two others of his children were at that moment very low with it, and the Doctors unable to do them any good." I then remembered the circumstances myself, and that I had told him to go back to Messrs. Ormond & Gilmour's drug store, in Peterboro' and get a bottle of FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. He said that "he did so," and that "there was an improvement from the first dose," and "that it saved the lives of his children."

I may add that it is equally good for adults, often checking and curing this dreadful disease when nothing else will. Hoping that this may be of service in extending a knowledge of its virtues,

I am, yours truly,

JNO. A. M. BOTTERELL,
Clerk 2nd Div. Court.

Rev. Dr. Eddy told the following story with gusto at the recent pastoral reception to Rev. Dr. Anderson at the south Baptist Church, South Boston: An old lady who was somewhat demented attended on his early pastorate. She was constantly railing about the deacons speaking so foolishly in the prayer meeting. The Doctor told her not to answer them so spitefully, and as she was somewhat of a vocalist, he advised her instead of scolding to sing something after one had made a very foolish speech, and suggested the following stanza:

Were half the breath so vainly spent
To heaven in supplication sent.

At the next meeting the Doctor delivered an address and sat down with a feeling of perfect satisfaction, when instantly the voice of the old lady was heard sonorously rolling out the words of the above couplet.

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR CR., equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 500 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administrating nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight ;" yet another —"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—save to take the place or all the common oil "

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public are cautioned against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is on both the wrapper and directive label.

The undersigned having purchased HENRY T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN TORONTO.

PETITT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficacy as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optive nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ Also, for all persons whose occupation requires an incessant action of the eyes. the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of Dr. Petitt's American Eye-Salve' while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as all imitations are to be regarded as counterfeiting.

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish the result. This preparation has all the virtues of those two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more leading physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Bronchitis, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine fact, is truly marvellous.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 24, 1880.

IDYL WILD DAIRY FAIR.

The Dairy Fair which was announced to take place at Idyl Wild on Tuesday last came off, according to programme, on that day. By the invitation of Mr. Calcutt, the County Council visited the fair, taking at the same time the opportunity, now to some of the members, of seeing something of that much agitated enterprise, the Trent Valley Canal waters. Among those who visited the fair from Peterborough were the Warden, M. Sanderson, Esq., Henry Collins, Reeve of Monaghan and wife, Wm. Burgess, Reeve of Belmont; John Moloney, Reeve of Douro; J. B. Pearse, Reeve of Norwood; Thos. Rorke, Reeve of Asphodel, and daughter; John Lang, Reeve of Otonabee; J. McCarthy, Reeve of Ennismore; Thos. Clark, Reeve of Galway; Thos. Walsh, Deputy Reeve of Asphodel; Jas. McCligott, Deputy Reeve of Douro: L. Parker, Reeve of Harvey; Jas Golborne, Reeve of Burleigh; Dr. Harvey, Jos Dunlop, R. Sellars, of London Eng., Dr. O'Sullivan and family, E. H. D. Hall, F. J. Hall, Chas. Winn and wife, E. Phelan, Thos. Weir of Ashburnham, R. Jackson of North Monaghan, and wife, R. Goodfellow, William Brick of Ennismore, J. B. Fowler of Smith, Miss Henry of Douro, F. Mason and others. A very pleasant sail was enjoyed down the river by the steamer Golden-Eye, the day being all that could be desired by the most fastidious excursionist. Going down the river the party were joined by Mr. Stewart, Deputy Reeve of Otonabee, who brought on board some exhibitors from his section, and further down Mr. Edward Kerr, of Beaufort who also brought a contribution to the show. Stoppages had to be made in fact at nearly every landing place to take on board butter or cheese, and their custodians. At Harwood, the party was joined by ex-Sheriff Hall, and family, Mr. Charles White, of Cobourg, Mr. Johnston, of Hastings, and others. On arriving at Idyl-Wild the island presented an animated appearance. Everything was looking its best, and some of those who had never visited the place before made some very flattering comments upon its appearance. The party disembarked and found themselves fortunately just in the nick of time for a most excellent dinner at the Lodge, and it is needless to say that the most ample justice was done to the good things provided for the occasion. Shortly after dinner time the party from Hastings arrived, and in the meantime the exhibits had been arranged in a neat building destined for the purpose, and presented a most attractive appearance. Unfortunately, however, it appeared that rival attractions had prevented that attendance which the occasion deserved, and which might have been expected in connection with such a fine exhibition of dairy products as were on view. The day was most inopportunely chosen, as it turned out, the annual monster pic-nic under the auspices of the R. C. Church of Warkworth, completely cutting off visitors from that end of the lake, while the "circus," which was to visit Peterboro' on Friday, caused a good many to postpone their holiday who would otherwise have made the trip to the Dairy Fair. It was the opinion of a good many that it would be nothing more than right that the Fair should be postponed till another occasion so as to ensure a better attendance, but as the attendance of exhibitors was as large as could have been expected under any circumstances, and as a great many of those had been at no little trouble in preparing and bringing down the exhibits, on account of the wet, the Committee decided to carry out the programme as he had announced on the bills. The Judges were then appointed as follows, Mr. H. Collins of North Monaghan being appointed referee:—R. Goodfellow, North Monaghan; W. J. Westington, Plainville; Joseph H. Walton, Smith, and Squire Laing, Otonabee.

The work of Judging was on account the excellent quality of the various classes of butter and cheese, a most difficult one, the judges being anxious to award the prizes with justice, and where all appeared to be without a flaw it was no joke to certify that one lot was superior to the other. In the meantime the visitors amused themselves by excursions over the Island visiting the many points of interest which it presents. Many took advantage of the boats which are provided for the use of visitors to examine the Island from the water, a tour round Idyl-Wild in this way being one of the most enjoyable means of spending an afternoon that can be desired. The place has been wonderfully improved since last summer, the whole being nicely underbrushed and thoroughly cleaned up. Rustic seats, tables for pic-nicers, swings and other means of amusement are provided in profusion, and everything done that the most thoughtful care could devise, to make life on the Island attractive. Among the visitors at present on the Island are some American gentlemen, who are making their first visit, and who state, that were the place better known abroad, it could not fail to become a favorite resort in a short time. Not to return to our Dairy Fair, the Judges finally agreed upon their award and the result was read as follows:—

FACTORY CHEESE.—1st. prize, Otonabee Union; 2nd. prize, Lakefield Factory.

DAIRY CHEESE.—1st. prize, J. Lightfoot, South Monaghan; 2nd. prize, John Breakenridge, Asphodel.

As soon as the decision was announced Mr. Calcutt went forward to where the handsome prizes were displayed and call each owner forward in turn, presenting with a few appropriate words the article which has been won. The representative of the Otonabee Union received a most elegant biscuit jar with silver handle and lid. Mr Moore of the Lakefield factory got a silver cruet-stand. Mr. J. Lightfoot, of South Monaghan, was awarded a very handsome silver cake basket. John Breakenridge of Asphodel took home with him a dozen silver teaspoons. Mrs. T. Welsh, of Keene, received for crock butter an elegant and valuable pickle stand, and for first prize also in table butter, a silver butter cooler. Mrs. T. E. Bell, of Smith, for second in crock butter, was awarded a silver cup, while Mrs. George MacConnell, of Otonabee, came in for a handsome table bell. This ceremony being ended, the exhibitors and visitors organized an impromptu meeting when the following resolution was put and carried unanimously:—

Moved by Henry Gosling, of North Monaghan, seconded by Charles Wurtz of Otonabee, —"That this meeting do hereby convey to Mr. Calcutt their thanks for the straightforward and honorable manner in which the programme announced for the Dairy Fair has been carried out, and their appreciation of his enterprise and public spirit in affording encouragement to this important industry."

Mrs. T. Welsh made a present of her prize table butter to Mr. H. Calcutt. The first prize factory cheese was sold to Mr. Ed. Phalen for 11 cents a pound. The second was bought by Mr. Golborne, Reeve of Burleigh.

About 5 o'clock the party started on the return trip, by the steamer King-Fisher, which made the voyage home in 17 minutes less time than usually made by the Golden-Eye and landed the party at Peterborough wharf about 7.30 in the evening, everybody being well pleased with the day's enjoyment. We must not omit to mention that every attention was paid to the comfort and enjoyment of the guests by Mr. Wm. Gilbert the manager of the Lodge, during the day at Idyl Wild—Mr. Gilbert appears to be the right man in the right place; Mrs Grear, the lady manager requires no better recommendation than the splendid bill of fare which was presented to the excursionists at dinner time. Mr. Foot is a polite and attentive waiter. On board the boat Capt. Dion and Mr. Kelsey, traffic agent of the line, left nothing undone that could promote the comfort of the passengers, and the latter gentleman was unanimously voted a vote of thanks by the ladies. It is to be hoped that the next dairy fair at Idyl Wild will be a success success, not only in the exhibits of dairy produce, as this one was in a very high degree, but in the attendance of farmers, their wives, and "their sisters and their cousins and their aunts," so that Mr. Calcutt's enterprise may be rewarded as it deserves.

Cruelly Hoaxed.

The rumor circulated last week that the Princess and her brother would embark on the Royal Mail steamer Spartan at Toronto, and enjoy a sail down the lake. At Port Hope and Cobourg this announcement created quite a stir among the elite, and during all the afternoon belles worried themselves over their toilets, refusing to see callers, and refusing to be comforted until the last curl of hair, the rouge on the face, and the sweep of the train suited them exactly. The beaux, too, were anxious to appear to the best possible advantage, and took special care to have their get-up faultless. Early in the evening crowds began to move towards the wharf where the steamer would touch with the Vice-Regal tourists. Favorable positions were monopolized long before the boat was in sight, and attitudes assumed calculated to "strike" the eyes of the august party. After a tedious hour's waiting the steamer was signalled, and no one seemed to note the absence of flags, which always indicate the presence of important personages. With almost breathless expectation the crowd waited the arrival of the boat, and as she neared the dock somebody called out "That's them!" "That's the Princess for'ard! Guess I know her." Then a faint cheer was given, which gained considerable force when the urchins perched on the wood-piles chimed in. The Captain was seen to "grin audibly," and the passengers looked equally bewildered and amused. The boat once fastened, the officer enquired what was up, and who they were cheering. "Aint the Princess and Prince Leopold on board?" asked a ragged boy sitting on a spile. "No," was the laconic reply. That ended the demonstration, and a madder lot of men and women never tramped the streets of Port Hope and Cobourg. Not much was said, but there was a power of thinking done. The ladies went straight to bed, and the gentlemen went down town to talk over business. Everybody was fooled, so nobody tried to be merry over the hoax. It is not safe to speak of the Princess and her brother up that way just now.—Ontario.

SOVEREIGN LODGE.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will hold its 56th annual session in Toronto, commencing on the 20th September, 1880. The meeting will be one of special interest to the members of the Order in this province, and, indeed, to Canadians generally, on account of the international character of the gathering. The Sovereign Grand Lodge is composed of representative men from each State and Territory in the United States, each Province in the Dominion of Canada, the German Empire, Switzerland, Chili, Australia, New Zealand, the Sandwich Islands, &c., such as governors, senators, judges, etc. men of high public and social standing. The nature of the institution is non-political and purely moral and benevolent. It exercises a most beneficial influence among its members, and often extends its charity outside of its own ranks. By thorough organization and prudent management it now numbers nearly half a million of members, and has accumulated a vast fund for the benevolent and general purposes of the Order. According to its last published report it expended during the year, for the relief of its members, $1,740,405. It is therefore no longer experimental, but is an established permanency, diffusing its beneficience to those in need. The Ontario Government, considering the cosmopolitan nature of the meeting, and following the usual custom in the United States, has granted the use of the Legislative Assembly Rooms for the purpose of the session, a courtesy which the representatives will appreciate, and the importance of the meeting will justify. Arrangements are in progress to have a grand gala day during the progress of the Industrial Exhibition, civic reception, &c. &c. A number of uniformed encampments have signified their intention to be present, each accompanied with its band, amongst them some of the best in the United States. It is to be hoped that the visit of those distinguished guests will be made pleasant during their sojourn in Canada.

MURRAY CANAL.—Yesterday morning Mr. Austin, Chief Engineer, from Ottawa, and Mr. Kesler, M. P., started for the purposed Murray Canal route, with a number of diggers, to test the "rock" question, by sinking a number of trial holes along that part of the route where rock is said to exist. They also make enquiries as to the rise and fall of the waters of Presque Isle Bay and the Bay of Quinte. We hope to give the result of the examination in our next.—Colborne Express.

If young woman would extract the greatest possible happiness out of life, says an old writer, let them never exchange the pleasure of their own social circle, humdrum though they may be, for the society of bright young men who can give them suppers and invite them to balls, drives and excursions. This is wholesome advice, and we commend it to the young women who are looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to enjoyments of the kind named during the next few months. Men whose intentions are honorable move girls at their homes, and not by stealth and in out-of-the-way places, unless the old folk interfere.

It is a significant fact that nearly all John Macdonald comes into to supply the consumption of Ogdensburg, and the adjacent country, especially. It is no secret that 60,000. This is a simple fact, but more eloquent in its figures upon policy of the present Government, than endless pages of Pickle's in the Mail.

THE RUM AND BOOM—THE CATTLE TRADE—CONTRACTOR IN GAOL—SALMON &c.

MONTREAL, June 1880.

A few words concerning matters and things from this great city may be of interest to the readers of the EXAMINER. "Things will be better as soon as navigation opens," was what everyone said a couple of weeks ago, and for once everyone was right, as trade and business generally seemed to have come with the ships, and all day long the "hum" and buzz can be heard. On still nights the "boom" of the bars of iron and rails of steel discharging from steamers and ships at the wharves can be heard in all quarters of the city, while they who live near the river-side can go to sleep every night with the noise ringing in their ears of thousands at work loading and unloading vessels.

The Harbor Commissioners have made arrangements with a Cincinnati firm to light the harbor with electricity, and last week the lamps were lit for the first time and since then they have been in successful operation.

The cattle trade of the port has assumed such vast proportions that a few words about the way the cattle are shipped will interest your rural readers. A few years ago the cattle were driven from a pen one at a time to the vess

REFORM CONVENTION.

We remind our readers of the meeting to be held at Norwood on Tuesday next, when every Reformer in the East Riding, who can make it convenient to attend, is expected to be present. Business of importance to the party will be brought under consideration, and organization effected for the work which is before them in the next general elections. Mr. Blezard, M. P. P., will be present and will give an account of his stewardship to those who last year entrusted him with their confidence. An invitation has been extended to John Bertram, ex-M. P., to address the meeting, and we are pleased to be able to signify Mr. Bertram's acceptance of the invitation. Other speakers will also be present. We have no doubt the meeting will be a large and representative one, and that the proceedings will be both interesting and instructive.

BROWN MEMORIAL FUND.

The Committee appointed at the meeting held last week to take steps to represent Peterborough in the contributions to the Memorial Monument in honor of the late Hon. Geo. Brown, have opened subscription lists which have been placed at the following places:—with Mr. John Carnegie at the Review office; Mr. J. R. Stratton at the EXAMINER office; at the places of business of Messrs. Bertram & Co., J. McClelland, McKee & Davidson, Davidson's bookstore, T. Mensies, Ormond & Walsh, Adam Hall, Wilson & Davis, John Erskine and P. Connal & Co; W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood; Messrs. K. Urquhart R. Graham and Dr. Caldwell Lakefield; Jas. Golborne, Burleigh; Dr. Dean, Keene. Subscriptions are entirely voluntary, and the amounts expected from those who do subscribe are small, as the lists are looked to more as a mark of public respect, than as a means of securing a great amount of money. The names so far show that both Conservatives and Reformers join in this mark of respect to a dead statesman whose partyism is forgotten, and only his patriotism remembered. This is in keeping with the design of the memorial which is desired to be wholly devoid of any political bearing or significance, and to be a public tribute in the broadest sense of the word.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA R. R.

Mr. Bailey, Chief Engineer of the Nipissing Railway, and Mr. Geo. A. Stewart, yesterday made an examination of the townland Ashburnham sides of the Otonabee river, with a view of examining available locations for a bridge in connection with the proposed Toronto & Ottawa Railway. They will proceed from here eastward, making an examination of the route proposed by the Company under the old Directorate, and ascertaining, if possible, a more direct line between the objective points. Of course this has the appearance of an honest intention on the part of the new Directorate, but it is idle to attempt to ignore the fact that a very strong suspicion has been excited, by articles in the Toronto papers and by public rumors, that Mr. Gooderham's purchase was in the interest of the Grand Trunk Company, and not for the promotion of the scheme on which so much time, labor and liberality have been expended by the people of this section of the Province. So far as matters have gone there is nothing in any action taken since the transfer of the charter but what reflects favorably upon Mr. Gooderham's intentions in regard to the road; but it would be more satisfactory, and, indeed, would greatly aid him the future, if he intends to build the road, were he to make some formal pledge respecting the course he proposes to adopt, and by so doing re-assure those who now feel doubt about the subject.

SATURDAY'S BLAZE.

The fire of Saturday night must have brought the question of fire protection most forcibly home to the hundreds of citizens who witnessed the disaster and the utter failure to cope with it which was exhibited. Short supply of water, breakages of hose, conflicting authority, etc., are a tale that has been told too often to be edifying to the people of Peterborough, and it is to be hoped that some steps will be taken at once by the Council to see that, as far as ordinary chances go, these shortcomings may be removed. The reflection must have struck the mind of any one who observed the march of destruction at the point of Saturday's fire: "What would become of the town were another conflagration to break out?" Had a second fire broken out, say on the business portion of George street, the town would have been helplessly doomed to destruction. It is clear in the first place the Fire Brigade must be placed on a footing of responsibility. The Chief Officer should receive a sufficient remuneration from the town to enable him to devote time for regular practice drill of the Brigade, and for ensuring efficiency and discipline in case of emergency. Then it is necessary that the men shall have proper facilities for working with. Hose should not be rotting for want of the proper appliances for drying. Two engines should be had in case of two conflagrations occurring at the same time, or in the emergency of one engine being disabled, and by this means the emulation between two bodies of firemen would ensure better and prompter work. The loss by taxes this year to the town from the burned district left by Saturday night's disaster would in itself have gone a long way towards the cost of erecting the hose tower, which has been under consideration for so long a period. But it is clear that the better, wiser, cheaper plan is to afford the town a system of water-works, such as exists in Port Hope and other places, which could be had at a comparatively trifling expense, and which would afford the protection which it is quite evident the town is now without. The subject is a serious one, and such a lesson as that of Saturday night ought surely to make an impression on the minds of those who have not hitherto been convinced of the necessity for water-works for fire purposes.

On motion of Mr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, the Committee on County Property was allowed to report.

On motion of Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Stewart, the report was adopted.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Council met at 9 o'clock, the Warden in the chair.

On motion of Mr. Golborne seconded by Mr. Rork, the By-law for extending the time for commencing the construction of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, was read a first time.

The By-law was passed through committee reported, read a second and third times and passed.

Mr. Pearce moved, seconded by Mr. Walsh, that the committee on equalization be allowed to report.

Mr. Collins moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, that the report be referred back to the committee with instructions to reduce the assessment of North Monaghan by $2 per acre and to raise Otonabee by the same amount, so as to make both townships equal.

The amendment was lost and the report received and adopted.

A By-law to confirm the report of the Equalization Committee was then introduced, passed through its different stages and carried.

On motion of Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Stewart, the Committee on Roads and Bridges were allowed to report.

The Committee went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Lang in the chair, and reported the report with some amendment, when it was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, the Committee of schools was allowed to report, and a by-law founded thereon to raise money for the school fund for the current year was adopted.

Moved by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, that whereas the Council of the County of Victoria has requested the Council of this County to take joint action in repairs required on the Bobcaygeon bridges and whereas this Council consider that they are not liable for any of the expense required on said bridges, be it therefore resolved that in event of the Victoria Council taking any steps to compel this county to pay any share of such expense, that the Warden be and is hereby authorized to defend the same, and to employ legal advice and assistance if necessary.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Parker, seconded by Mr. Golborne, a free license was granted to Benjamin Ventres to peddle with a one horse waggon, he having lost one of his arms.

Moved by Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That in the matter of the suit now pending between the County and the Grand Junction Railway, the resolution passed last session of this Council, authorising the Warden to carry the case to appeal in case of an adverse judgment, be now repealed, as the Council are of opinion that it would be unwise to further increase costs, and that, perhaps, suffer an adverse judgment.—Lost.

Mr. Carnegie was allowed to address the Council in relation to the Bobcaygeon bridge.

SATURDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Council met again on Saturday, the Warden in the chair; all the members present.

On motion of Mr Golborne seconded by Mr. Burgess, the Finance Committee was allowed to report.

On motion of Mr. Pearce seconded by Mr. Kidd, the report was received and adopted.

A by-law confirming the report was then introduced and passed through its different stages.

On motion of Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Parker, a by-law levying the county rate for the current year was introduced and passed through its different stages.

On motion of Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, a by-law to appoint a game inspector for the county at a salary of $10 was passed through its different stages, the blanks being filled in with the the name of Mr. Garnet Nichols.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott the By-law to raise the School Fund for the current year, was read a first second and third time and passed.

On Motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Burnham, the memorial to the family of the late James Oliver was ordered to be signed by the Warden, Council and County officials and forwarded to the family of deceased as well as inserted in appendices of the Council minutes.

The Warden then read the following letter from Mr. W. H. Robertson, of the Peterborough Times:

To the Warden and members of the County Council.

GENTLEMEN:—In view of the fact that so little of your patronage is bestowed on the Times, I respectfully ask that you should cause the list of convictions for the remaining two quarters to be inserted in that journal at the same rate as paid the Norwood Register for the same. This would be of advantage to many in this section, where the circulation of the Norwood Register is very limited.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Yours Truly,
W. H. ROBERTSON.

Mr. McCarthy moved, seconded by Mr. McCliggott that the Clerk be instructed to cause the publication in the Times for the next two quarters, of the list of convictions, the cost not to exceed what is now paid to the Norwood Register.

Mr. Pearce moved in amendment seconded by Mr. Moloney that the matter be referred to by the Printing Committee.

On motion of Mr. Walsh Mr. Robertson addressed the Council, urging that on account of the small amount of patronage accorded to the Times by the Council, they should advertise these lists in that paper.

Mr Burnham said the Council only advertised the lists at all because they were compelled by law to do so. Mr. Robertson seemed to think the Council advertised because they wanted to spend money.

The Warden drew attention to the fact that a motion to expend money after the rate for the year had been struck, would require a two-thirds vote of the Council.

Mr. McCarthy withdrew his motion and the matter dropped.

On motion of Mr. Moloney the Council then adjourned.

The following are the reports of the several committees as adopted:—

COMMITTEE ON SCHOOLS.

Your Committee beg leave to commend that the sum of $3605 be raised in the several townships of the County for the use of Public Schools for the year 1880 in the proposition set opposite the name of each township hereafter mentioned, said amount being required by the Public Schools act as equivelent to the legislative grant to the said County.

JOHN MOLONEY
Chairman.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Committee on Finance beg leave to report recommending:—

That the poll clerks and constables employed in taking the vote on the T. & O. R. R. By-law be paid $1 each and that the poll clerk of No. 8 Burleigh be paid in addition $3.

That a game protector be appointed at a salary of $10.

That the payment of $100 to Mr. Hatton for acting as Magistrate in County cases be discontinued.

That the following accounts be paid:—Peterboro' Gas Co., $22; W. English, $1.85; J. McClelland, $8; Geo. Stethem, $1.54; J. E. Belcher, $33; H. Rogers, (postage), $16.39; R. B. Rogers, $35; W. That the County Treasurer be authorised to press the town for their share of the cost of improving the Court House.

Your Committee find that the total resources of the County for the current year will be about $40090, and that there will required for expenditure the sum of $23,762.33 which will require a rate of 2¼ mills on the dollar on the equalited assessment of the county.

That in the matter of the debenture rates your committee recommend that inasmuch as it appears that the amount that is provided shall be levied under debenture by-laws Nos. 355 and 373 will produce a sum largely in excess of the amount required, that the clerk be instructed to levy only such an amount as will be sufficient to meet this year's sinking fund and interest, and that the half only of the rate provided under by-law 454 be collected for the reason that only one-half of the debentures authorized to be issued thereunder have been issued.

JAMES GOLBORNE,
Chairman.

COUNTY PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

The following report of the Committee on County Property was presented and and adopted for the session on Wednesday:—

The Committee on County Property beg leave to report as follows:—

That in regard to the communication of H. H. Smith, Esq., in reference to the old burying ground, the committee recommend that the Warden ascertain the number of members on the committee of the Town in reference thereto and appoint an equal number in behalf of the County.

The Committee approve of the action of the Warden in allowing the band to play in the Court House grounds, and would recommend that the band be allowed in the same henceforth, provided the town undertake to protect the grounds and property from damage.

They recommend that the Registrar be authorized to get the interior of the Registry Office white washed.

That Mr. McWilliams be authorised to have the water tanks in the goal repaired and a proper drain made to carry the water away from the north-east corner of the Court House. That he also have the roof of the caretaker's residence repaired, and the bank on the north of the grounds seeded down and protected.

That in all cases, when practicable, prison labour be employed in doing repairs.

JOHN BURNHAM.
Chairman.

A MESSAGE FROM THE ATLANTA.—Some children of a gentleman from Halifax, while playing on the beach at Cow Bay on Monday, picked up a piece of barrel stave about four inches by 2½, on which the following was written with lead pencil:—"Atlanta going down April 12th, 1880; no hope; send this to Mrs. Mary White, Piers, Sussex, JAMES WHITE." The piece of wood appeared by its look to have been about two months in the water. The place where it was picked up is about twelve miles east of the city of Halifax, and opens directly into the Atlantic ocean.

Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company.

The annual meeting of the above company was held on Tuesday afternoon at half-past three o'clock. The chair was occupied by Maj. General Haultain, the Vice Chair by Rev. V. Clementi; Mr. J. H. Rogers, Secretary. Among those present were Messrs. John Watson, A. Hall Sr., Geo. E. Shaw, A. P. Poussette, H. J. LeFevre, Col. Haultain, Richard Hall, A. C. Dunlop, M. Heron of Glasgow, Scotland, John Hall, D. Moore and other gentlemen.

The following annual report was read.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT of the Directors of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company (Limited) for the year ending 31st May 1880.

The Directors in presenting their second Annual Report of the affairs of the Company are pleased to be able to state that it has continued to prosper, the net earnings having been sufficient to pay two half-yearly dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum and still leave a surplus of $1288.32 (£268.17.10 stg.) at the credit of profit and loss account to be carried forward.

Although the surplus is not so large as desired it is satisfactory to observe that, notwithstanding the increased expenses of management arising from the sales of Debentures and general promotion of the Company's interests, the clear profit for the year is much larger than for the previous year, thus assuring the shareholders that the means of producing a surplus has already been acquired. When it is considered that at the end of the first year the total amount placed on Debentures was only $23,200 (£4,833) it will be conceded that the surplus earnings of the past year have been as large as could reasonably be anticipated. It is better borne in mind that the difference between the interest paid and that received on sums placed on Debentures is almost the only source from which any extra profit can be derived.

During the year the Company's agents at Glasgow, Messrs. Finlayson & Auld, have succeeded in allotting the shares remaining in their hands, upon which the amount called up is $63,775 (£13,286.9.5), and have disposed of the Company's Debentures, which bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum, to the amount of £13,300 ($63,980) a sum, although competing in a market where a higher rate was offered by much older companies.

By authority of the By-law, the Directors, in October last, made a second issue of Debentures to the extent of $40,000 ($134,666.67) bearing interest at the rate of 6% per annum, running for a term of not less than 5 years; the first issue has been all disposed of and $8,200 of the second issue taken.

The plan adopted last year of charging against the Profit and Loss account only such portion of the expenses as may be justly deemed a charge upon the year's business has been again pursued.

The loans during the year have been made with the utmost regard for security and consist of the following:—

At 8 per cent.	$23,994.27
At 8½ do	106,888.34
At 9 do	4,300
	$137,672 61

The whole yielding an average rate of 8.43 per cent per annum:—

Payments of both principal and interest have on the whole, been met satisfactorily; the total amount of principal repaid being $36,697.39 and of interest received $25,073.41. The net increase of the investment account is $114,483.67. Although it is usual for Investment Companies to keep their Dividends at such rate as will enable them to create a Reserve which is intended for the purpose of meeting possible losses, the Directors feel confidently that, considering the exceptionally favorable circumstances under which the Company commenced doing business no Reserve is necessary—at least for the present. Out of deference, however, to the expressed opinion of some of the Shareholders, both Canadian and British, that it would be well to have a Reserve, it may be advisable to consider, at some future meeting, what steps should be taken towards that end.

It will be gratifying to the Shareholders to learn that the Directors have had the pleasure of visits from four of the principal Shareholders at Glasgow viz: Henry Cowan, Esq., Gilbert Heron Esq., (who is cordially welcomed to our midst to-day) Neil Kennedy Esq., and W. Wingate Gray, Esq., all of whom, after a searching examination into the Company's business, as well as a personal inspection of many of the properties held by it in security, have expressed satisfaction with its affairs.

F. W. HAULTAIN, President.

[We are compelled to hold over till next week the statement of Assets and Liabilities, &c.—ED.]

The following directors, being the only nominations, were then unanimously elected: Maj.-Gen. Haultain, John Walton, Geo. E. Shaw, H. J. LeFebre, Col. Haultain, R. Hall, A. C. Dunlop, A. P. Poussette.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Clementi, Messrs. C. D. McDonald and Edg. Pearse were appointed auditors.

Mr. Poussette said the time appointed by By-law for the holding of the annual meeting, the fourth Tuesday in June, had been found to be very inconvenient, as too short a time was allowed to prepare the accounts of the year ending June 1. It was only by working night and day that they had been able to have the accounts ready for the present meeting. He thought it was not desirable to have such pressure, and moved that by-law No. 4 be amended so as to make the annual meeting on the first Tuesday in July.

Mr. Poussette also moved for an amendment in By-law No. 19, respecting the conditions of transfer of shares which had been found desirable to be changed to suit the British shareholders. The effect of the amendment was that except by the consent of the directors no shareholder could transfer his shares without giving satisfactory assurance of his ability to pay up his indebtedness to the company.

The meeting went into Committee on the amendments, Rev. Mr. Clementi in the chair, and they were reported and adopted without amendment.

The chairman then called on Mr. Gilbert Heron, a Glasgow shareholder to to make some remarks, which he did, congratulating the company, but advising them of the necessity for caution.

On motion of Col. Haultain, seconded by Mr. LeFebvre, the thanks of the meeting were returned to Mr. Heron.

Gen. Haultain proposed a vote of thanks to Poussette & Rogers and remarked the toil and trouble they had undergone in order to insure the success of the company.

Rev. V. Clementi in seconding the motion, said the labors of the directors had been lessened by the able manner in which the business had been always placed before them by these gentlemen.

Mr. Poussette in acknowledging the motion, on behalf of his partner and himself said it was only a pleasure for them to do what they could for the company, many of the Canadian directors of which they had known before the Company was formed. They had resolved not to seek any compensation till the business of the Company was such that it could paid out of the surplus funds, and they would take pleasure in transacting the Company's business until that time arrived. And of course it was never intended to go on in this way for ever, nor was it ever anticipated, but till that time arrived they would continue in the same way as at present.

Mr. LeFevre moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. A. Hall to the Investment Committee, Messrs. Geo. E. Shaw, John Walton and R. Hall.

The motion was acknowledged by Messrs. Shaw and Walton.

After a vote of thanks to the chairman, the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Brown's Murderer on his Trial.

Bennet Sentenced to Death.

TORONTO June 22nd.

The trial of Bennet for the murder of the Hon. Geo. Brown was commenced at the Court House at 9.45 a. m., before Mr. Justice Cameron. The prisoner presents a haggard appearance. After Mr. Irving's address to the jury, Mr. Blue, the night editor of the Globe, A. S. Thompson, the foreman, I. Ewan, a reporter, and Mr. Trimble, a compositor, and Owen Pardee, editor, were examined repeating the evidence already published.

The jury retired at a few minutes to eight, and after about two hours' deliberation they returned without having agreed on a verdict, and asked to have the evidence of Dr. Aikins read to them, which was done by the reporter of the Court. Dr. Wright's evidence was also read to them briefly, and after a few explanations from the Court on some points in the evidence the jury retired to their room. At a few minutes to eleven they returned with a verdict of "Guilty."

Mr. Irving then moved for the sentence of the Court upon the prisoner. In reply to the usual question from the Court as to whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, the prisoner replied, "I have only to say that I have not wilfully committed this crime."

His Lordship, addressed the prisoner, said he was sorry to have to perform so painful a duty, but painful as it was, it had to be performed. The jury had not taken a very favorable view of this case. Upon evidence that warranted them in coming to such a conclusion they had found him Guilty of the gravest offence. He could say that he could hold out no hope for him. He had no discretion. The law imposed a duty upon him, and he must pass the sentence of death. If he (the prisoner) intended in point of fact to destroy Mr. Brown's life on that occasion, he intended to send him to eternity without any opportunity for preparation, but the law would be more merciful to him, in giving him time for reflection, to make his peace with the God whom he had offended. He trusted he would use that time allotted to him in an endeavour to make that peace, in order that his chance of salvation in the future might be greater than if he left this world unrepent of the crime of which the jury said he had been guilty. His Lordship then sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on the 28 day of July next. At the conclusion of the dread formality the prisoner, who did not seem at all affected by his position, rubbed his hands and said to his Lordship, "I would rather you would make it a little shorter if you could; it would be more suitable to me." He was then removed to his cell, and the Court adjourned.

ROUND TOWN—LECTURE—POLITICAL—PERSONAL

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NORWOOD, June 21.

Norwood at this season of the year is probably the dullest place in Christendom. There is nothing to relieve the monotony save the occasional croak of the bull-frog or the tuneful song of mosquito. Down in the swamps everything is lively, even the blackflies with their wonted energy pursue their vocation. The birds sing—and the potatoes bugs flourish. But on the streets the occasional yawn of a village loafer is of as much importance as the advent of a circus in Peterborough. Speaking of the circus reminds me of the fact the average Norwoodite has probably seen enough of Peterboro to afford reminiscences (and bore his companions) for the balance of his natural life. Numerous and varied are the stories and experiences of those who visited the county town on the 18th. Yet we have much to be thankful for; we live in such a little world of our own that we have come to believe that other places must necessarily revolve around us. We are not narrow nor contracted in our ideas, on the contrary—we appreciate the noble and humane efforts of those who break through the barriers of society and travel twenty miles to see a circus and give us something fresh, and who in turn become heroes for their boldness in venturing so far from home. But enough of this, you want news; the fact of the matter is there is none. I might manufacture some, but I feel a good deal like Mark Twain when he said he could lie, but he wouldn't.

Mr. J. B. Watson, the Canadian orator and humorist, delivered one of his entertaining and instructive lectures in the Town Hall on Tuesday night, and the subject, "Society Unmasked," was cleverly handled. By special request Mr. Watson delivered another address on "Pluck, Patience and Perseverance." This was well patronized and left everybody who attended better pleased than if they had gone to the circus. This gentleman is engaged to deliver another oration to-night (Monday). The subject I have not yet learned, but he is certainly a genius and should draw a large crowd. His delineation of Irish, Scotch and German characters is true to life. He lectures here under the auspices of the Presbyterian body.

A public meeting will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening the 29th inst. under the auspices of the East Riding Association. This meeting is for the purpose of organization. Addresses on public topics will be delivered Mr. T. Blezard, M. P. P., and other gentlemen.

We received a call a few days ago from Mr. A. Wilson, of the firm of Wilson & Davis, booksellers and stationers, Peterboro', and I can assure you we are always pleased to see the face of an old friend.

Serious Accident—The Crops—Almost a Fire—Concert—Council—Dairy Fair.

(From our own Correspondent.)

SOUTH MONAGHAN June 19th.

A short time ago Miss C. Dawson, daughter of Mr. J. Dawson, while out driving met with an accident which might have resulted more seriously—the horse, becoming frightened, ran away, throwing her out, spraining her ankle so severely that she has been confined to the house since.

The crops are looking well, the weather has been most favorable and the growth is very rapid. There is every prospect of an abundant harvest.

On Monday last, between 6 and 7 o'clock, Mrs. John Riddel who lives on lot 13 in the 4th con. went out to milk. Some 20 or 25 minutes after she observed the cook house in a blaze. She at once gave the alarm and the neighbors turned out and after a vigorous fight succeeded in getting it under control in a short time The loss will be about $100, on which there is no insurance. The fire was supposed to have caught from a few matches, which had been left near the stove, igniting.

Prof. Crow and his daughters gave a concert at Union School house a short time ago. Your correspondent was not present, but the audience was highly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

The Council will meet on Tuesday 29th as a Court of Revision. The chief work of the Council of 1880 has been the filling in of Squirrel Bridge, which work has been most satisfactory accomplished by the contractors, Messrs. Hall & Erskine.

Messrs. Kerr and Lightfoot represented South Monaghan at the Dairy Fair at Idyl-Wild on Thursday. No doubt your reporter has the particulars.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 24, 1880.

Assaults.—On Friday last George Chambers was fined $1 and costs for assaulting Wm. Byers the previous day.

Pensioners.—Foreman left ten discharged men on the hands of this town, as a memento of his visit.

Silver Medal.—On Friday last we had an opportunity of examining the handsome silver medal awarded to Mr. J. M. Lydgate at the recent Toronto University Examinations, for prize essay.

A Family Friend.—We have received from Wm. Bryce, Publisher, London, Ont., a copy of an admirable work called the "Canadian Cookbook," which ought to be in every housekeeper's hands. It is sold at the low price of 25c.

The Golden Boot.—Fresh supplies of ladies, gents', misses and children's summer boots, shoes and slippers are being daily received by Mr. S. White, at the sign of the Golden Boot. Custom work a specialty. Cricket, Lacrosse and Rowing boots receive particular attention.

Band in the Park.—The attendance at the Park on Thursday evening last was very large, and the programme of music rendered on the occasion was highly commended. The collection taken up was something of an improvement on the former occasion, but still far too small to be creditable to the large numbers who enjoyed the superb music afforded them.

Open Air Concert.—The following is the programme to be rendered by the Peterborough Fire Brigade Band on to-morrow (Friday) evening in the Court House Park :—

Quickstep	"Les Hasterons"	Rosenda.
Valse	"Day Dreams"	Smith.
Fantasia	"On Parade"	Marie.
Selection	Grand Medley	Pepper.
Polka	"Empress"	Cook.
Galop	"To the Rescue"	Wright.

"GOD SAVE THE QUEEN."

A Golden Opportunity should never be neglected—therefore those requiring cheap, comfortable and durable wear for their feet should not fail to examine Mr. W. J. Larmour's stock, previous to the closing of his great clearing sale of imported and ready-made work. Remember the stock is all new and this season's goods, and is being offered at prices much below the present ruling wholesale figures. 22-tf

Owl Shot.—Yesterday morning Mr. R. Sheffield espied a large owl near his residence on Brock street, and succeeded in wounding the bird, which flew up and perched on the corner of Mr G A. Cox's building, opposite the Post Office. Mr. Sheffield mounted the roof, and another shot brought his owlship to the ground in very unceremonious manner. Later—It is rumoured that the deceased owl was a tame one.

Moonlight Excursion.—On Monday evening last the Fire Brigade Band gave a free excursion round the Little Lake on the steamer King-Fisher. Tickets were by invitation. Music was furnished during the evening by the band and by the Peterborough Glee Club. A dancing scow was attached, where lovers of the Terpsichorian art indulged their propensity for "tripping the light fantastic" to their hearts content, to the music of Prof. Martin's quadrille band. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

Canadian Order of Foresters.—At a meeting of Court Peterborough No. 23, of the Canadian order of Foresters, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term. They will be installed on the first Friday in July :—T. Bithray, Chief Ranger ; L. Spry, V. C. Ranger ; H. Nesbitt, Rec. Sec. ; W. Strain, Fin. Sec. ; G. S. Kingdon, Treasurer ; J. Fraser, Sr. Woodward ; J. Fanning, Jr. Woodward ; T. Sabin, Sr. Beadle ; W. Drury, Jr. Beadle ; R. King, M. D., Physician ; A. P. Morgan, E. J. Toker and J. Mitchell, Trustees.

Peterborough Four-Oared Crew.—The sporting column of Monday's Mail has the following : "The Peterborough Club was unheard of outside their own district until last year, when, by the excellent performances of their four-oared crew they suddenly sprang into fame. It is pleasing to learn they are doing their utmost to increase the reputation they won in 1879, and it is to be hoped other clubs will follow their example. The Association regatta will soon be here, and it is time the intended entries were polishing up their rowing."

Baptist Church Appointment.—Rev. John McLaurin, who has for a number of years past been engaged in missionary work on the Telugu district, in India, as an agent of the Canadian Baptist Church, will preach in the Baptist Church, Peterborough, on Sunday morning next, 27th instant. On the same day at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. McLaurin will preach in the People's Christian Association Hall, at Lakefield. The rev gentleman has the reputation of being an able and eloquent preacher of the Gospel.

T. & O. R. R.—Mr. Bailey, Chief Engineer of the Nipissing R.R., under instructions from Mr. Gooderham, is, in connection with Mr. Geo. A. Stewart, who conducted the surveys under the late Board, engaged in an examination of the proposed Toronto & Ottawa Railway, for the purpose of reporting to the Directors information upon which they will determine their course. So far there does not seem on the surface of Mr. Gooderham's proceedings any reason to doubt the bona fides of his intentions; and opposite unfair to impute sinister motives to him as has been done, in the absence of any indications of collusion on his part with the Grand Trunk.

Strawberry Festival.—The festival given by the young people of the George street Methodist Church, in aid of the funds of the Sabbath school in connection with that church, came off on Tuesday evening at the Drill shed and was a very successful affair. Some 400 or 500 persons were present and enjoyed themselves during the evening by promenading in the grounds, listening to the excellent music discoursed by the Fire Brigade Band, and in discussing the merits of the luscious strawberries and delicious ice-cream provided by the ladies. The affair was a pleasing success and we trust will be one of a series of similar entertainments, which afford innocent recreation and an opportunity of doing good at the same time.

Threshing Aroun.—Mr. Alex. Scott, of Smith, who prosecuted the sheep thief, Daly, a few days ago received the following letter, which is post-marked Peterborough, though dated Millbrook. The signature is no doubt bogus. His "dear friend" has since been despatched to the Central Prison :—

"Millbrook, June 16th, 1880.

"ALEXANDER SCOTT :

"SIR,—You evidently made yourself very conspicuous the town of Peterborough last Saturday. By a revengeful act you have cast a companion of mine into prison, with an awful disgrace hanging over him. But remember that some comrades has friends, ever watchful, ever active, burning to arrange a cruel act. For the sake of two miserable little lambs you have cast a human being into misery—before you rest him into the jaws of hell. Now Mr. Scott I earnestly ask one favor of you, viz : to release this dear friend of mine from prison. If you do not immediately comply with my request woe betide you! In the name of all the gods that Quinsion ever believe, I will never rest until I have taken a horrible revenge upon the destroyer of my dear comrade. Once more I ask you in consider my plaper or by all the powers above I will reduce your horse to ashes before a week.

"D. McLEAN."

Destructive Fire.

On Saturday night about 11 o'clock, the inhabitants of the north portion of the town were startled by a brilliant light, evidently proceeding from some building on fire, and a few minutes later the flames were distinctly visible from every quarter of the town. The alarm was given some minutes later from the hall at the Town Hall, and in a short time, a large proportion of the population was congregated at the scene of the conflagration. The fire was found to be situated in the extensive carpenter and machine shop of Mr. John Britton, on Harvey street, near London. The contents of the carpenter shop of the driest and most inflammable material, the fire grew with incredible rapidity, and it was at once evident that nothing could be done to save either of Mr. Britton's buildings or their contents, while a high wind from the north-west placed the adjoining property in imminent peril. Meantime the Fire Brigade had arrived, and the engine was stationed at the race at the foot of London street, but no water appeared to be available. A pump on Mr John Brown's place did valuable service, with the assistance of a bucket brigade which was speedily formed, and the building occupied by Mr. Sage, north of the carpenter shop was prevented from taking fire, and was eventually saved. The fire worked southward and communicated to Mr. Britton's house, passing from there to the dwelling occupied by Mr. John Parnell and owned by Mr. Richard Parnell. The fire had also been gaining ground at the rear of the lot containing a quantity of staves and headings piled there, and was added in its progress by the sheds and outbuildings which offered facilities for extending the ravages of the fire-flood, till the dwelling facing on Macdonald street, owned also by Mr. Parnell jr., and occupied by Mr. Welsh, was in flames, as well as the row of sheds in the rear of the fine dwelling occupied by Miss Kennin, at the corner of McDonald and Water Streets. Mr. Welsh's residence was totally destroyed as well as the greater portion of the sheds in question. The service of Miss Kennin's residence was in flames several times, but by the energetic efforts of a number of citizens, Mr. Wrichton, Mr. T. D. Belcher and others, water was applied with pails, and the supply kept up so steadily that the further progress of the fire in that direction was checked. Meantime the Hook and Ladder company had been active in demolishing sheds etc., which were likely to endanger other property, and the fire engine had been got to work, though in a rather spasmodic manner, owing to several breaks in the hose during the contest, and the fire, checked from further progress to the south or west, exhausted itself. Mr. Britton estimates his loss at about $6,000. A large quantity of valuable machinery was destroyed in the machine shop, as well as a considerable portion of the stock in the yard. He had an insurance of $2,200—$1,500 in the Queen's, and $600 in the Imperial. Mr. Britton's house was a total loss, but his furniture was safely removed as well as the furniture in Mr. Parnell's house, adjoining. Mr. Welsh lost a great portion of his furniture, owing to its distance from the outbreak it was not for some time thought to be in any danger. There was, unfortunately, no insurance on Mr. Parnell's two houses, and he will be a heavy loser. The loss at Miss Kennin's place will be about $300. The total loss will probably foot up to the neighborhood of $8,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. There had been no fire at the cooperage for three weeks previous, and the fire is evidently the result of a match carelessly thrown among the inflamable material with which the yard adjoining the factory was filled, or the work of an incendiary. We understand it is Mr. Britton's intention not to rebuild the cooperage in that locality, a resolution which affords relief to property owners in the vicinity. During Sunday and Sunday night the fire blazed up dangerously from the smouldering debris, and a ward engine was called into requisition, to guard against the contingency of another outbreak.

—Mr. S. White, who was confined to the house by a severe attack of illness last week, has recovered his health, and is attending to his business as usual.

—"Rev." Arthur Devlin, phrenologist, etc., who made such lively times in town last summer, was one of the delegates at the late Chicago Greenback Convention.

Messrs. Henry Wade, jr., General Traffic Agent of the Great Western Railway, and J. A. Richardson, General Travelling Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, were registered at the Caisse House on Friday last.

—Mr. D. G. Hatton, Police Magistrate of this town, has gone on a trip through the United States for the good of his health. He will be absent about a month, during which time his place will be filled by His Worship Mayor Lundy.

—The San Francisco Call of a late date has the following :—"Hon. Edward Carswell, the Canadian Temperance Orator, has been on the coast for some time, laboring in the interests of the Sons of Temperance, and as practical results, several divisions have been formed, and a large number added to that organization. This earnest worker is soon to leave for his Eastern home, and a mass meeting of his friends will be held in the Metropolitan Temple on the evening of the 16th, to bid him "good-by."

—Rev. N. R. Willoughby, M. A., President of the Methodist Conference, has been stationed at Brampton. Concerning his election as President of the Conference, the Belleville Ontario had the following :—"We most heartily congratulate Rev. N. R. Willoughby, M. A., on his election by such a large majority to the Presidency of the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada. He is, we believe, the youngest man that has yet been so honored, and the friendship and confidence of his ministerial brethren must be a source of gratification to himself and friends. That Mr. Willoughby will ably and successfully discharge the important duties of his office may be taken for granted."

1st July Programme.

The programme for Dominion Day has been published, and it certainly sets forth a bill of fare which ought to satisfy any reasonable holiday-hunter. The celebration will be under the auspices of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, and the Committee in charge are assisted by His Worship Mayor Lundy and Councillor Dunford. The first event of the day will be the Lacrosse Match, between the Peterborough Club and the Belleville Club. This will open at 10 o'clock, the Fire Brigade Band being in attendance during the progress of the game. At 1 p.m., there will be a grand parade of the Fire Brigade, when they will appear for the first time in their handsome new uniforms and helmets. Leaving the Central Station, Simcoe street, they will parade the principal streets, headed by their band, winding up at the Agricultural Grounds, where the afternoon entertainment will be opened by a great Baby show. Four handsome silver cups are to be given for the Handsomest, the Fattest, the Largest and the Smallest Baby under 2 years old. A splendid programme of athletic sports will then be gone through with, comprising Running Broad Jump ; Throwing the Cricket Ball ; Quarter Mile Flat Race ; Running High Jump ; Putting the Heavy Weight ; Running Hop Step and Jump ; Two Hundred Yards Race, Lacrosse : Putting Light Weight ; Mile Walking Race, Heel and Toe ; One Hundred Yards Flat Race ; Boys Race, under 14 years, 200 yards ; Bun Eating Match ; 120 Yards Hurdle Race, 6 hurdles ; Three Legged Race ; Potato Race ; Mile Race, for the Championship of the Midland District ; Sack Race ; Tug of War ; Slow Horse Race, for a purse of $15. The Champion Amateur Band of the Dominion will present a choice selection of music during the progress of these games. At 7.30p.m Grand Promenade Concert will be opened in the Drill Shed, where the prizes will be presented, and a concert be given by the Peterborough Glee Club and the Fire Brigade Band. At 9 p.m. the Grand Display of Fireworks will be given to redshirt procession, around the principal streets of the town, the whole to be crowned by an exhibition of fire works under direction of Prof LaDee, of Hamilton. This is about the finest Dominion Day programme ever presented in town.

Obituary.

The Port Hope Guide records the death of another old settler, in fact, we believe one oldest resident in the township of Hope. Samuel Corbett, Esq., was born in the County of Monaghan, near the city of Belfast Ireland, in the year 1789, and emigrated to Canada in 1822. He first settled in the town of Niagara, then resided for a term in Little York, and afterwards in the township of Cavan. In 1834 he settled on the farm on which he died, near Perrytown, in the township of Hope. Mr. Corbett had always taken an interest in public matters. He was appointed a Justice of the Peace many years ago, has filled the office of Deputy-Reeve of the township, and was a member of the Counties Council. He was an Elder of the Presbyterian Church, one of its staunchest supporters and a consistent Christian. Mr. Corbett, from his first settlement county, was an active member of the Reform party, in fact, an Ultra-Liberal; still he took up arms in support of the Government during the rebellion. His aged partner and four sons still survive him. Two of his sons, Drs. R. A. and S. C. Corbett, have attained honorable and prominent positions in their profession.

Lines on the Death of William Gaslfet.

He knows it now :—"To die is gain :"
In Heaven, far from the rack of pain.
And every ill he suffered here
While striving for that heavenly sphere.
His "gain" is bliss without alloy.
Peace, rest, delight and endless joy :
The presence of the Sacred Three,
And all the blood-washed company.

We mourn our loss.—but forgive pain
Our God we praise ; our hearts restrain.
Hoping that when our race is run
To hear as he hath heard, "Well done!"
And with him praises ever sing
To Christ our Savior, Brother, King.
Bestowed through all our Christian race.

He lived for Christ.—with willing heart.
Wisely and well performed his part.
In all life's duties to the end—
A gem, as brother, Christian, friend.
With open hand he freely gave
From suffering want the poor to save.
Who knew him best, him best did love—
Wise, just, and harmless as a dove.

In life, his mission to fulfill
He spoke, and, hark! he speaketh still,
To old and young, now, now "Prepare
To meet your God"—then take and wear
A crown of life ; with Jesus reign
Washed in His blood from every stain.

May we these graces emulate,
Willing to go ; patient to wait :
Submissive to the will Divine
To suffer—never to repine.
Then, when from earth we're called away.
Join him in realms of endless day.

BARD OF NIAGARA.

CIRCUS DAY.

Incidents and Accidents.

The great 4 Paw's Circus arrived, according to advertisement, on Friday last, and attracted a large gathering to the station, to see the landing and the organization of the procession. By ten o'clock some ten or twelve thousand people thronged the streets, making locomotion, except in the roadway, next to impossible. The procession was formed according to programme as was described in our columns last week, and was a very attractive one. The immense tents were filled at each exhibition, and probably the treasurer of the organization took away with him some $6,000 of good money, which might, much more profitably, have been usefully expended in our own midst. The performances gave general satisfaction, and were concluded shortly after ten o'clock. At midnight the circus-men "folded their tents like the Arabs and(not very) silently stole away" to the station, whither they were soon embarked on their train and on the way to Port Hope, where they exhibited on Saturday.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

While loading on Friday morning a circus attache named Parker fell from a car breaking his arm.

A young lady driving up Charlotte street fainted from the heat, which was most intense, and had to be carried into an adjoining house, where she was recovered.

A farmer named Chambers was assaulted on Hunter street in the morning by a man named Byers who had apparently imbibed more excitement and circus lemonade than was good for him.

Two of the small bridges over the drain near the circus grounds were broken through with the weight of the heavy vans. They were immediately repaired.

An alarm of fire in the morning raised no little excitement. The Brigade turned out with alacrity, and started off down Simcoe street in the direction of the fire at a rattling pace. Before going far they ascertained the fire had been extinguished and returned to the engine house. The alarm was caused by a fire at Mr A. Sawers woolen mill. The fire originated from one of the pickers, and was easily extinguished by the hands.

Early in the morning of a little son, four years old, of Mr. Wm Bell, who keeps the St. George's Hotel, on Simcoe street, was leaning out of the front door window looking at the wagons passing, he lost his balance and fell to the sidewalk, a distance of fifteen feet. It was feared at first that the poor little fellow was killed, the shock of the fall being so violent as to make the blood gush from his mouth and eyes. On examination by the doctors it was found that providentially no bones were broken. He suffers severely from internal shock, but, under good treatment, will probably recover. He is under care of Dr. Fraser.

It took sixteen horses and as appalling amount of profanity, to pull a canvas waggon out of a mud hole at the north end of the grounds.

To preserve order in town, the Mayor, on the evening previous to the advent of the circus men, swore in special six constables. The town was very quiet during the day, however, and "specials" had an easy time of it.

Fenella News.

NEW ORGAN—MEASLES—THE DAIRY FAIR CHEESE MAKING—OFF FOR A TOUR—CHURCH PAINTING—THE CROPS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A new organ has been purchased for the W. M. Church in Fenella the retail price of which is said to be upwards of $250. The instrument is a fine specimen and the list for the required subscription had been filled in by members and others prior to purchase.

The majority of the children in Alnwick who have not had the measles are now victims of that sickening malady, which has resulted so far in the death of a little boy, son of Mr. J. Brown, while others are in an extremely helpless condition.

Those from Alnwick who attended the Dairy Fair on Thursday at Idyl Wild express their appreciation of enterprises of this kind and also of the very efficient manner in which matters in connection with it were conducted by Mr. Calcutt according to advertisement.

Cheese making in this locality is this year superseding the creameries and prices realized so far are more than equal to the highest paid for better last year.

Mr. James Edington and wife left on Wednesday en route to Rochester. Mr. Edington thinks reasonably that time and means are available in the country for a pleasure trip as well as in town. We wish him an enjoyable trip as before, and expect to see others do likewise.

The painting of the Centenary church was given the other day to Mr. W. Isaac, of Gore's Landing, for $90.

The growth of crops of all kinds has not been as favorable and promising for a number of years.

IMMANUEL.

(Written for the Examiner.)

"His name is an ointment poured forth."—CANT. I. 3.

When our hearts were crush'd 'neath a load of sin,
And God's wrath 'gainst it like a flood rush'd in
To overwhelm our souls, then in His blest name,
His's debt was all cancell'd, and pardon came,
And sweet peace and joy, and we first could tell
Of the wond'rous grace of Immanuel.

When earth's trials come and all helpers fail,
We have strength in His name, or when our frail
Weak vessel is tempest-tost, there is seen
On the crested wave One with God-like mien.
Then we cry unto Him the storm to quell.
For it is our Guardian, Immanuel.

How kindly in midst of doubts He shows
His hands and His side, that we may repose
On Him simple trust, for as then we see,
Know, "He lov'd me and gave Himself for me."

How precious the thought that we ever dwell,
On the loving heart of Immanuel.

His presence sheds such radiance bright,
That our ravish'd soul in the hallow'd light
Sees His matchless beauty and charms divine
That in rays resplendent effulgent shine
Round His throne bright brow, but no tongue can tell,
What our eyes have seen of Immanuel.

In the hour of pain when the promise true
That we lov'd so well and so early knew
From our mem'ry fade, then a name is heard
And our soul is in utmost depth is stirr'd,
And through days of sickness we fondly dwell
On the sweet, sweet name of Immanuel.

When lively Faith sees our risen Lord stand
Pleading for us at our Father's right hand,
'Tis assur'd in each pain and sigh, that He Feels the tenderest sympathy, as we Know that it was for us that such anguish fell
On the suffering, stricken Immanuel.

When returning health thrills the quicken'd vein,
And we wond'ring stand on life's shore again,
Shrinking its trials and sorrows to face,
We lean on this promise, "He giveth grace."
But fresh in our minds the perfume shall dwell
Of the Border-land of Immanuel.

Yes, e'en though our skies severely should smite
With enduring delights and joys to beguile
The weary-wing'd hours, how inspir'd to those,
That he who is oft on Talbot's Mount knows,
Who gladly can bid death's pleasures farewell,
For the joys that flow from Immanuel.

When the message comes for our souls to appear
In our Father's house, we need not fear
To cross the river, for as the bond'd rest
Of the tender babe on the mother's breast,
So safely we glide over the billows swell,
In the folded arms of Immanuel.

Now His name is fragrant, what shall it be
At the break of day when the shadows flee!
And fullness of joy from oceans of bliss,
Shall fill our hearts, when we see as He is.
In peerless glory that doth excel
Our own, All-Glorious Immanuel.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 24, 1880.

GOLDEN PARAGRAPHS.

A good conscience is like a corner lot. Everybody would like to have it, but few are are willing to pay the price.

As sins proceed they ever multiply; like figures in arithmetic, the last stands for more than all that went before it.

In most quarrels there is a fault on both sides. A quarrel may be compared to a spark, which cannot be produced without a flint as well as steel.

Prosperity is the blessing of the Old Testament; adversity is the blessing of the New, which carrieth the greater benediction and the clearer revelation of God's favor.

I sleep most sweetly when I have travelled in the cold; frost and snow are friends to the seed, though they are enemies to the flower. Adversity is indeed contrary to glory, but it befriendeth grace.

God walks with the simple; He reveals Himself to the lowly; He gives understanding to little ones; He discloses His meaning to pure minds, and hides His grace from the curious and proud.

An old clergyman said: "When I come to die I shall have my greatest grief and my greatest joy; my greatest grief that I have done so little for the Lord Jesus, and my greatest joy that the Lord Jesus has done so much for me."

A cunning man is never a firm man, but an honest man is; a double-minded man is always unstable; a man of faith is firm as a rock; honesty is faith applied to wordly things, and faith is honesty quickened by the Spirit to the use of heavenly things.

The only cure for indolence is work: the only cure for selfishness is sacrifice; the only cure for unbelief is to shake off the ague of doubt by doing Christ's bidding; the only cure for timidity is to plunge into some dreaded duty before the chill comes on.

Talent will not be bid; and those who have true genius for any particular art or science develop themselves without much help from their surroundings. In fact, history teaches us that narrow circumstances and uncongenial associations are more often a good to effort than a drawback to success.

Every natural longing has its natural satisfaction. If we thirst, God has created liquids to gratify thirst. If we are susceptible of attachment, there are beings to gratify that love. If we thirst for life and eternity, it is likely that there are an eternal life and an eternal love to satisfy that craving.

The story is told of a clergyman, that after preaching an interesting sermon on the "Recognition of Friends in Heaven," he was accosted by a hearer, who said:—"I liked that sermon, and now I wish you would preach another on the recognition of people in this world. I have been attending your church three years, and no five persons in the congregation have so much as bowed to me in all that time."

Josh Billings' Advice to Joe.

By awl means, Joe, get married, if you have a fair show. Don't stand shivering on the bank, but pitch rite in and stick your head under, and the shiver is over. There ain't no more trick in getting married than there is in peanuts. Many a man has stood shivering on the shore until the river run out. Don't expect to marry an angel; them hav all been picked up long ago. Remember, Joe, you ain't a saint yourself. Do not marry for beauty exclusively; beauty is like tea, awful sloppery, and thaws dreadful easy; don't marry for luv, neither; luv is like a cooking stove, good for nothing when the fust gives out. Bet let the mixture be, some how, becomingly dressed, with about $250 in her pocket, a good speller, handy and neat in her house, plenty of good sense, tough constitution and by-laws, small feet; a light step; add to this sound teeth and a warm heart. This mixture will keep in any climate and will not evaporate. If the cuss happens to be left out the resurgh ain't good, Joe. Don't marry for pedigree unless it is backed by bank notes. A family with nothing but pedigree generally looks sorter.

LOVE AND HOPE.

"A QUEEN OF HEARTS." Such was the name the admirers of Estelle Glyndon had given to her, and, petted and praised for her grace and beauty as she had always been, it was hardly to be wondered at that the girl had come to the age of eighteen with conviction that not for her were the trials of life.

Deep down in the girlish heart slumbered many noble impulses; but on the surface the rank plant of worldly pride had taken root.

As she stands now, beneath the shade of the old oak which guards her favorite nest, the most casual observer could not help but pronounce her rarely beautiful. The brown is lifting gently the dark locks from the blushrobed temples, and its rude caresses have called up in the rounded cheek a delicate peach-bloom. But the lovely mouth is marred by a haughty expression, as with averted head she listens coldly to the young man by her side.

It is Douglas Macdonald, and in earnest tones he is speaking thus: "Oh, Estelle, can it be that I have deceived myself in thinking that you cared for me? And all this summer, in which I have been so foolishly happy, have you only been playing with me? It cannot be true; you cannot be so heartless! I have been told that Foster Severne is the favoured suitor who has superseded me; but I said that until you confirmed it with your own lips I would not believe it. Oh, my darling, whom I love more than life, do not be so cold! Look up, Estelle, and tell me it is false!"

He had been growing more impassioned as he went on, and now he seized her hand.

At his touch a strange thrill shot through Estelle's heart, and suddenly a mask seemed to fall before her eyes. In that moment she knew that she loved this man then pleading before her.

Estelle hesitated. Only the previous day another had laid his heart at her feet, and with it the richest fortune in all the country round. She had not given her answer; but to her young heart pride was very strong, and she felt that to be mistress of The Elms would be an enviable position.

Then the thought flashed swiftly through her mind of what her father would say if she should tell him that, for the sake of one who, though noble and respected, was poor, she had refused another who could keep her in the atmosphere of luxury in which she had been born.

Douglas, eagerly watching her expressive features, conjectured her thoughts.

"I see!" he exclaimed, "it was true—the report I heard. You intend to marry Foster Severne—displeased man of the world though he be—simply because he is rich in this world's goods!"

The delicate hue on Estelle's countenance changed to a burning red.

"You have no right, Mr. Macdonald, to speak thus to me!"

"No right!" he exclaimed; "when I love you, Estelle, and see you dooming yourself to life-long unhappiness? Listen," he went on, as she was about to speak. "I came to-day to ask you a question upon which a great deal depended. Two openings are before me—one to settle in an honorable position in my native town; the other to go abroad, far away to the distant land of China. You do not love me—my choice is made. This will be my last farewell. To-morrow will see me on my way to a foreign shore."

He grasped her hand, wrung it; then without waiting for answering words, turned and left her. She watched his tall form till it passed from her sight. Then suddenly, with lightening flash, the knowledge of what she had done came to her, and she realized that in rejecting Douglas Macdonald's love she had wrecked beyond retrieval the happiness of her life.

That evening we see her in the midst of a fashionable throng. Though the heart bleed, it must not be worn on its sleeve for "daws to peck at," and Estelle is outwardly calm, though one knowing her well would wonder at her strange looks. Her rosette suits robes sweep in rich, flowing folds about her graceful figure, rendering even more exquisitely white the dimpled neck and arms upon which priceless diamonds gleam and glisten.

As he looks down at the woman on his arm, Foster Severne's heart leaps triumphantly as he thinks how proud he will be when he can call her his own. As if by accident he leads her to the conservatory, where, amid the splash of fountains and the fragrance of flowers, he can speak undisturbedly. There once more he offers her his hand and his heart—all there is left of it—and, never doubting what it will be, awaits his answer.

Not for a moment does Estelle waver.

Her reply is unconvincing: "Mr. Severne, I cannot become your wife."

An angry flush springs to the young man's face.

"Miss Glyndon! you cannot mean what you say! Think a little longer! You surely do not mean to refuse such a position as I can give you?"

It Estelle has been fearful that she will cause him pain, all such idea is swept away by his words, and she cannot help comparing him to the lover who in her false pride she rejected.

Ah! no more will pride's baneful influence overshadow Estelle Glyndon's young heart.

She sees it in its true light at last.

When she reaches home Estelle is called upon to bear another trial. Truly the day has been a hard one for the girl upon whom hitherto the winds have not been suffered to blow too roughly.

"So you have refused Foster Severne, who you know that it was the dearest wish of my heart that you should become his wife? Then let me tell you that in doing so you have done you have doomed both your father and yourself to penury. I am a ruined man! For a year past I have seen the crash approaching, and it is even now at hand. Estelle, there is yet time—retract your refusal, become Mr. Severne's wife, and all will be saved."

Ethel trembled as her father's words, first angry and then imploring, fell upon her ears.

"Father, I cannot! It would be a sin were I to marry him, for—I—love another."

With an angry gesture, Mr. Glyndon made a step forward; then, with an exclamation, he raised his hand to his head, staggered, and fell to the floor.

Poor Estelle! Bitter were the days that followed! On the very eve of his failure her father was stricken with paralysis and before long the girl found herself homeless and almost penniless.

After the first shock had passed, then the noble nature that had slumbered quiescent so long in Estelle Glyndon's soul sprang to the surface. Steadily refusing all offers of assistance, she set herself unflinchingly amid the ranks of the world's workers. It was easier to obtain employment in the neighboring city than in their own small town, and to the city Estelle went.

After three years had glided by, Estelle was called to her dying parent; and as she knelt by the bed where he lay calm and still, she felt that she was, indeed, alone.

But still she never once regretted the decision she had made when, at a word, wealth and position would have been hers for life.

Better to be a poor man's wife, poor and hard-worked, than the unloving wife of Foster Severne.

It was evening, a few months later. The streets were wet with the fast-falling rain. Clasping a large parcel in her arms, a girlish figure essays to cross a crowded thoroughfare. A carriage swiftly passes. There is a cry in a woman's voice. Then, amid a Babel of voices, "How and!" "Who is she?" "How did it happen?" a slight form is borne upon some's arms into the nearest house. There is no clue by which to tell who the unconscious girl is "It does not matter who or what she is," says the kind minister into whose house the stranger has been carried. "We will care for her." And so, learned of being sent to the hospital, the sufferer remained at Doctor Stewart's home.

Time went by, and, at length, after the most agonizing soul-battle Estelle Glyndon—for it was she—came back to reason and life.

As the weeks went by, her strength began to slowly return. Then, one day, with a voice whose trembling pathos showed how deeply their kindness had touched her heart, Estelle told her beneficent friends that very soon she must leave their hospitable roof and go once more into the world to care for herself. Old Mrs. Stewart took the girl's thin fingers in her motherly clasp.

"Wait a little longer, my dear," she said, "before you think of running away from us. You must promise that you will not speak of it for at least another month. Then we will see."

Estelle looked up gratefully into the speaker's face. She had never known a mother's love, and in this short time the old lady, who in early life had lost her only child, and the girl thrown so strangely into her care had grown very dear to each other.

Another week went by, and one morning, with a beaming face, old Doctor Stewart, came into the room where his wife and Estelle were sitting.

"What do you think, wife?—our boy is coming home! He will be here this week. Isn't that news?"

Tears of joy sprang to the old lady's eyes.

"My dear boy! how glad I shall be to see him!"

When her husband had left the room, Mrs. Stewart explained to Estelle that it was her dead brother's son, who was as dearly loved by her husband and herself as though he had been their own, who was then eagerly expected.

"It was a sad blow to us when he went so far away," she concluded; "and what made it sadder still was that the noble lad carried with him a heart full of pain. Some fashionable beauty had bewitched him, and then had deliberately crushed out his happiness. But I hope and trust he will return cured of his heart-wound."

Estelle winced as she listened. From the past came back the voice exclaiming, "All this summer, in which I have been so foolishly happy, have you only been playing with me?"

The days passed until the one came in which the expected guest was to arrive.

"I am anxious for you to meet and know my boy" (as the old lady always called her nephew), "for you cannot help but like him," said Mrs. Stewart to Estelle.

Clad in a simple dress of white, Estelle was reclining upon the library sofa when the carriage wheels sounded upon the gravel.

She heard the eager tones of welcome, and then the voices approached the room in which she was. The door opened, and there older and graver than she remembered him, but still the same, stood Douglas Macdonald! For a moment he remained as if in a trance, his eyes rested incredulously upon the wasted figure of the girl who, with a face whiter than her dress, returned his gaze.

Then with a hasty bound, he was across the room; forgetting entirely the years that had passed, the way in which they had parted, and everything save that he once more beheld her to whose image his faithful heart had ever clung

"Estelle!" he cried, "my darling! I came to seek you, and I have found you already! Oh, tell me that I am welcome—that you are glad to see me!"

With wondering faces, old Doctor Stewart and his wife stood quiet spectators of the strange scene before them.

As Estelle looked up into the noble face bent over her, she felt that the love which she had once rejected was still hers. It was easy to read the joy which filled her heart to overflowing; and Douglas was not blind.

"Estelle," he exclaimed, "I only lately heard of your refusing Mr. Severne and of your misfortunes. Then in my heart a faint hope sprang into existence, and I determined to return and seek you and try once more my fate. Can it indeed be that my hope is not to prove in vain?

Estelle lifted her eyes to his, and in their luminous depths Douglas read his answer.

Later everything was explained to Douglas, how it was that he had so unexpectedly found Estelle in his uncle's home, and all that had occurred since they had parted.

'My dear friend, you little thought who was the fashionable, heartless girl who had refused your boy's true heart," said Estelle, safely, to old Mrs. Stewart, as the happy group of four were drawn together around the lamp that evening; "but you will forgive her, I am sure, when she promises that henceforth 'that boy's' happiness shall be her foremost care, and she will try to do the utmost in her power to repay him for the pain which, through her wicked, foolish pride, she once caused him to suffer."

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 800 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medicinal qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is boney; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We send and hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against such by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN. TORONTO.

The Most Valuable Gift—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonee Remedy has faithfully performed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, Affections of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not bought people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, whose honest verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonee Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonee Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for biliousness, Sick Headache and insensitivity of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Not the Slightest Affinity

exists between the numberless cough mixtures with a black the mother of Seneca and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, is like itself and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against the dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites combine to enhance the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the nervous are rapidly drunk in violence. In consequence of the soothing, emollient action of the cod liver oil on the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with bare all ma'ters components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, incite a sufficiency of the elements. Thus the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 1, 1880.

THE CUSTOMS UNION PROPOSAL.

Some journals, supporting the Reform party as a rule, appear to deem it incumbent upon them to devise a policy which in their more or less luminous judgment, they appear to consider it necessary for the party forthwith to adopt and agitate. Among these many foundlings which await the recognition of the Liberal party and which are anxiously presented to its chief for the paternal smile, is one presented by a few journals, noted principally for obscurity and want of influence, calling for a customs union between Canada and the United States. The absurdity of such a proposition is so evident, upon the least reflection, that we do not consider it necessary to seriously discuss it. Nothing could be clearer than that the effect of such an arrangement would be to make the smaller country the prey of the larger one. Our national interests would be swallowed up by the older, stronger and wealthier country. Our industries, artificially stimulated as they are under present arrangements, instead of competing with those of the United States, would dwindle and pass away, while our markets would be readily usurped by the manufactories of the neighboring Republic. The ultimate result of it would be that Canada would be driven in sheer desperation to the adoption of annexation. The agitation of this absurd political nostrum by the journals alluded to is taken advantage of by the Conservative organs, which seek to fasten the policy of a Customs Union upon the Liberal party. The party, however, repudiate the proposal, and those of the party press which have brought the matter forward would do themselves credit by dropping it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the British House of Commons the motion of Sir Wilfrid Lawson leaving the subject of licenses to local option—similar to the Scott act in force in Canada—which has been voted down every session for years, has at last been carried, and the result will be no doubt that the Government will take steps to deal with the liquor question. Sir Wilfrid's success with a measure that for years was a sort of standing joke in the Commons, shows what may be accomplished by an earnest perseverance in a good cause.

A Bill has been introduced in the Imperial House of Commons by Mr. A. Dilke, providing for the extension of polling hours till 8 o'clock in the evening, in order to permit workingmen, mechanics and others, whose occupations often practically disfranchise them, or leaves them too much in the control of employers, to have full opportunity of exercising the franchise. There are certainly cogent reasons in favor of such a measure, which apply equally to Canada as to Great Britain, and the subject is one which is worthy of consideration.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"Only very silly people will be led by Sir Charles Tupper's speeches to the belief that he has the slightest intention of asking for an appropriation of money from Parliament for the construction of the Trent Valley Canal. He himself said that the prospect of the canal depended on the probability that at a future day the demand for increased means of transportation from the North-West might lead the Government to consider the project."

Sir John is evidently bound to make his prophesy in reference to the population of the North-West good, even if he has to do it at the expense of the people whom he sought to bamboozle when making it. Not a great while ago an order was adopted by the Department of Immigration, to check pauper immigration from the old country, which provided that immigrant must show $20 in cash before being permitted to land in Canada. Now all is changed. The Government's confidential adviser in England, Sir A. T. Galt, a few days since advertised in London for 3,000 navies, whose expenses were to be paid to Manitoba, on condition of their engaging on the Pacific Railway, the advances being refunded out of wages earned. Of course if the Government pays the expenses out of the public purse of immigrants to go into the North-West, Sir John's numerical calculation may be realised, but it is hardly likely that out of such a class of immigration he will derive money enough to build the Pacific Railway.

Within the past eight months sixty thousand Canadian emigrants passed through Port Huron for the West. The Sarnia Observer is assured by the Customs officials that the entire 60,000 were actual American settlers, and "that no account was taken of those who were merely passing from one Canadian Province to another." And this is the kind of prosperity which the N. P. has brought to the Dominion! This is the way in which the policy of the present Government, which was to restore prosperity to our "mining manufacturing, and agricultural interests" in heaping "Canada for the Canadians!"

The ingenuity with which Sir John Macdonald devises means for providing for needy political followers, would be worthy of admiration, if there were not the more serious question of the expenditure which it entails upon an already over-burdened people. A few weeks ago Mr. Kingsford, who had charge of the harbours etc., on the lakes, was dismissed on the ground of economy. Within a week thereafter, his place was filled by half a dozen devoted Tories to do one man's work at a far greater cost than before But the most original appointment is that of Mr. W. W. Watt of St. Catharines, as "thistle boss" on the Welland Canal at a salary of $1000 a year. Even the Canada thistle can be turned to account, by the political thistle-rippers at Ottawa.

TOWN COUNCIL.

THE FIRE BRIGADE GRANT—AN ECONOMIC COUNCILLOR—THE T. & O. R. R. PETITION.

[The following report was left over from last week.]

After several ineffectual attempts to get a quorum of the Town Council together a sufficient attendance was secured at a special meeting on Saturday evening last, when there were present His Worship Mayor Lundy, and Councillors Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Paterson, Dunsford, Tools, Deane and Robertson.

After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the following were read:—A. N. Shaw, asking for a grant of $100 for celebration of Dominion Day; from P. C. McGhee stating that Local License Inspector Beavis had taken $2 license fee on circus day on a game of chance, contrary to the by-laws of the town; from Jas. Corkery, Secretary of the Separate School Board, stating that the amount required to be levied for the Board this year would be $1544.37. The latter was referred to the Finance Committee.

PETITIONS

were received from Jas. Stevenson, asking permission to erect an awning on Aylmer street—granted; and from W. J. Regan, asking refund of $2 statute labor tax—received.

ACCOUNTS.

Peterborough Gas Company, $9.65; James R. Stratton, printing, &c., $125.45; Geo. Stethem, $5.45; Times Printing House, $11.30. Referred to the Finance Committee, except that of the Times, which was ordered to be paid when certified to.

1ST JULY GRANT.

Councillor Robertson moved, seconded by Councillor Deane, that the sum of $100 be granted to the Fire Brigade for the purpose of aiding in the celebration of Dominion Day.

Councillor McNaughton said it was not right to throw away $100, as the ratepayers were not able to pay their taxes, and there having been such a large amount paid in charities there was no money in the treasury to spare. He was willing to give five dollars himself, and challenged the other members to give accordingly and they would raise the money without imposing on the ratepayers. Last year a grant was made, but it was to entertain visitors from a distance and was justifiable; no such reason, however, now existed. He raised the point of order that motions for expenditure of money required notice to be given.

Councillor Smith held that the motion made at the previous meeting, when Councillor McNaughton broke up the meeting by going off with the quorum, was sufficient notice. He moved, seconded by Councillor Robertson, that rule 43 be suspended for this evening.

Councillor Paterson would prefer to grant a larger sum on a regular business day, so that merchants and business men would get the benefit.

The Chairman of the Celebration Committee was heard, and said the $100 would be spent entirely for fireworks. He suggested that a committee of the Council be appointed to act with the Celebration Committee.

Councillor Robertson's motion was then amended by adding: "And that the Mayor and Councillor Dunsford be added to the Celebration Committee, to see that the money is properly expended." The motion as amended was then put and carried, Councillor McNaughton voting Nay.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

Councillor Deane said the county had refused to vote any more money for boundary lines, between the town and county. He wanted to know what was to be done with the money already voted by the town for the purpose of joint expenditure.

The Mayor suggested that a small sum of money be placed in the hands of the Treasurer to pay trifling bills. They had been put to a good deal of inconvenience by having to sign cheques for small payments of 50 or 75cts.

Councillor McNaughton warned the Treasurer not to pay any money to the firemen, as it would be illegal.

Councillor Toole drew attention to the fact that the new By-law granting aid to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, lapsed on July 1st. He hoped the Committee appointed by the Council would procure all the information possible to be laid before the Council as to the position of matters connected with the railway as effecting the town.

Councillor Smith said he had a letter from the Secretary of the Road, which he would bring with him to the next meeting.

The Council then adjourned.

A Riot in Ireland.

Affray Between Police and Militiamen.

London June 20.—Acheson, who killed the farmer Meehan near Ballinamore, was arraigned at the sessions of Croghan, county Roscommon, on Saturday, on a charge of manslaughter. The feeling was so strong against him that grave apprehensions were entertained that the investigation would not pass without trouble Since the arrest of Acheson he has lain in Carrick goal, and was removed secretly at 2 o'clock in the morning to Croghan, a distance of sixteen miles, by a circuitous route, to avoid ambush. He was under an escort of fifty-three constabulary, armed with rifles and fixed bayonets. Acheson rode in an omnibus with the Inspector of the constabulary and surrounded by police mounted by cars. The ride was accomplished without an incident. The testimony before the magistrates was the same as before. When it had been taken Acheson's counsel asked that the prisoner be admitted to bail. Colonel King Harman offered to be surety to any amount, but the magistrate said he had no power in the matter. The hearing was then adjourned till Monday.

Acheson, with his escort, therefore started back to Carrick amid hisses and groans. As the escort reached Carrick, it was met by a crowd, including many militiamen men, who are training at present. A large stone was thrown through the window of the omnibus and struck the chief constable, who sprang out and ordered the arrest of a militiaman whom he saw throwing the stone. The police seized him and went off again at full gallop, three hundred militiamen following and threatening to rescue their comrade. Acheson was lodged in safety, but on returning from the goal to the barracks, the militia attacked the police fiercely, some mounting the fence and firing a fusilade of stones among the police, who fixed their bayonets and sabred to force their way when a bloody riot ensued.

Desperately seizing the policeman's bayonets, and trying to wrest them away, several of the rioters were bayonetted and clubbed. Six or seven of the police were dangerously wounded. The police having finally succeeded in lodging their prisoner, the militia, maddened beyond control, started for their own barracks for their arms. The officers of militia prevented them for the moment, but finally they sent word to the police that if the militia man taken prisoner was not given up they (the officers) would not be responsible for the consequences. The militiamen was surrendered, and much bloodshed was thus prevented.

ESSAY ON TEACHING.

The following address was delivered by Mr. D. Johnston, of Cobourg, before the recent Teachers' Association in Peterboro' on the subject of

"TEACHING."

Met here for the purpose of mutual instruction, we may to some extent attain a common end by laying aside the trials and failures of the past, and merely institute a few reflections on a subject of vital importance to teachers.

I will, therefore, refer especially in my remarks to the subject of "Teaching."

Hackneyed and common place though the subject may seem, it is one of those to the consideration of which it is vitally necessary that our attention should ever and anon be recalled. Just as it is well for the individual man to be constantly reminded of the main end and aim of his existence, so it is advisable for the member of any profession to be constantly reminded of the purpose which his profession is to serve in the being of the body politic. Not only so, but so much are we surrounded in these days with an atmosphere of doubt an unbelief, and so strong are the attacks upon the fundamental articles of our faith and practice, that it is absolutely indispensable for every individual once and again to revive the sections of his professional creed in order that he may anew intellectually grasp and practically live them. If this is true in any profession, emphatically is it so in ours. Surrounded as we are by methods innumerable, encompassed by systems estimable in themselves, and coming in contact with routine at every point, I have found from my own experience and noticed in the experience of others, that we are extremely prone to forget the living thing, and fix our attention solely or principally upon its environments, and, ladies and gentlemen, no greater mistake can be made in life for any one thus to mistake the clothes for the man, the words for the idea, the how and why for the what. It is from the latter standpoint that I wish to consider this subject, and, though I hope to present to you nothing new, yet if I can but recall and enforce the well known and the real, my desire shall have been satisfied.

What, then, is teaching? It is one of those questions easy to ask but difficult to answer. In its widest meaning I should be inclined to aver that it is the making of men and women, but in the narrower, more restricted, and technical sense in which the term is usually employed, it will be found to mean these two things: first the giving of facilities, and second intellectual training. Though the simile is not exactly correct, the first part may be called the distribution of the raw material, and the second the making of the machinery; the life of the individual taught furnishing the motive power whereby the machine uses the raw material and turns out the manufactured article. In other words, we may consider the man with all his powers and facilities thoroughly trained as the perfect machine ing facilities at hand for the formation of his own character and the solution of the problems of life. Of the two the latter is by far the most important, and to illustrate and explain the position taken let us examine briefly the subjects taught in our Schools and Colleges. Thus when we give to our children the three R's our object is not so much the training of intellect as the giving of facilities. The same remark holds good as regards the study of the child's place in space as Geography, or time as History, and, again, it is true in the study of all the Natural Sciences and largely so in that of the Modern Languages. No one will deny that the study of the subjects mentioned may be used advantageously as a means of training the intellect, but the subjects themselves are given not so much with that object in view as facilities in the possession of which the individual can the better hew his way in the warfare of life. And, again, in the study of Language, as Grammar, in Algebra, Geometry, and the Higher Mathematics, in that of the Mental Science and largely also in Classics, the main object is not so much the giving of such facilities as the training of the intellect. Here again, no one will deny that the facilities at hand for life's work are increased in number and quality by such studies, but on a careful examination it will be found that the main object to be kept in view in teaching them is the training of mind. Hence it will be seen that the two-fold definition of teaching that I have given runs through all the practical work in School or College. The first part of the definition requires no explanation and is so fully recognized in all our methods and systems that I may, as our time is limited, safely pass over it to a more careful consideration of the second and as I conceive more important — intellectual training for the clearer understanding of one's work here. Suppose we divide the individual man into body, intellect, and spirit. It is the second part of the man—the intellect—that in teaching we aspire to train, and if we consider the intellect to form under certain aspects what the old Scotch metaphysicians loved to call 'powers or faculties' we will be the better able to comprehend our work. The intellect then may be manifested in the faculties of observation, memory, reasoning, judgment and will. The last more properly belongs to spirit and not to intellect, but enters as a factor into judgment And as when we wish to train the body we must exercise it so the training of the intellect can only come through careful and constant exercise. If a man wish to be a skilful oarsman he must bring his body under a thorough system of training, make long and careful practice, and in the same way must any powers or faculties of intellect be trained for success. In the first place then, we have to train the powers of observation in the child. This lies at the threshold of all teaching, and yet it is one of the very powers we too frequently fail to call into being. It is one of the faculties that is most required in the active business of life, is absolutely necessary in the study of Geography, or the Natural Science and a great deal more should be done in our schools, by object lessons, or by the more extended use of the Kindergarten method of instruction, to bring into play the child's intellectual faculty of observation. Before any memory, reasoning, or judgment, can be used, facts and phenomena must be noted, and the more carefully and systematically these are required at the hands of the child the better is our elementary teaching. Again the memory of the child is to be trained by constant and continual exercise. This is too frequently forgotten by those who would have everything explained to the pupil before being learned by him. It is well that his reasoning powers should be early brought into exercise, but we must not forget that many things easy to be understood by us are difficult if not impossible to him, and yet they must be memorised by him. But I would go further and say that it was the bounden duty of the teacher to cause his pupil to memorise many things of which it may be years before he understands the reason, in order that the faculty of memory may be the more thoroughly trained. Again the faculty of reasoning requires training by constant and continual exercise. It is the faculty whereby we arrange and systematize the facts and phenomena already acquired through observation and memory, perceive the resemblances and differences between them, and analyze them in order to discover the laws which bind together the isolated phenomena into one grand whole. It is the exercise of the faculty that we properly call thought. And the teacher that can train it in his pupils, that can in other words make them think, has done something of which both he and society may well feel proud. And no teacher can, in the true sense of the word, be called successful who does not thus awake into active being a creative intellect. Happy he who has the heaven-born power so to do for then may he truly be called a co-worker with the most High! But along with the honor comes the additional responsibility of seeing that the faculty of judgment is also at the same time duly and contemporaneously developed and trained. The judgment may be called the action of the intellect, and as though divorced from action in the life of the individual becomes self-destructive, so in the action of the intellect, reasoning and judgment should ever go hand in hand both "beating in one full pulse—life." It is here, as I have previously observed, that the spirit enters as the will, giving the determining power to the judgment, and the will bringing all the products of reasoning to some standards gives the decision that we know as the judgment. The formation of those standards is largely the work of the teacher, and while the direction of the spirit in the region of will can be largely guided by him, yet upon this subject I will not enter, but content myself with having thus imperfectly opened out what I conceive to be the essence of intellectual training.

But, ladies and gentlemen, though this be the essence it is by no means all that is included in the signification of the term.

The nomination of officers having been ratified, the chairman called upon Thos. Blezard, the member in the Local House, was received with applause, and spoke as follows:

MR. Chairman and Fellow-Electors. —I cannot say to you with what a feeling of pleasure, after a trial of two years, I again occupy the position with which in June last you honored me by your suffrage. I again meet some of those to whose generous confidence and arduous exertions, I owe the distinction to-day of being the member for East Peterborough. I am pleased to have the opportunity of expressing my sincere gratitude to you for that confidence, and my thorough appreciation of those efforts, though I feel that in the labor of securing my election, it was not so much myself whom you desired to elevate to a position of distinction, but those principles which we all in common profess, and which we believe are necessary to ensure the happiness, the prosperity, and the moral, and material welfare of the people, not only of this Province, but of this great Dominion I am proud to come before you with the conviction, and I feel assured in my heart that it is not a vain conviction, that in discharging the important trust which you in June last committed to my charge, I have fulfilled so far as in my power lay, the pledges which I made to this constituency and the intentions of those who placed their franchise in my hands. If I have in any way failed so to do, the fault has been in the judgment and not in the heart, for my earnest desire has been to express in my every action as a member of the Legislature of this Province, the views, the desires, and the intentions of the people who honored me by electing me, and in every vote which I have given in the Legislature, I acted not from a mere desire to give a blind support to the leaders of our party, but from the higher motive of carrying into effect the duty with which I was charged by you. Happily we have in the Government of this Province a set of men whose motto is to govern for the benefit of and in the interest of the people, and whose administration of the affairs of the Province has been beyond reproach, and if my vote has been cast in almost every instance in support of the measures of the Government, it has been because those measures have been so designed for the interest and the benefit of the people that I would have been recreant to my duty as your member had I voted against them. The action of the Legislature throughout the last session, the measures brought forward, the criticism to which they were subjected and the decision which the Legislature reached in each case, are all familiar to you, and I shall not trespass upon your patience to review the whole of the record of the last session. I think however, that the misrepresentation of which I have been made the subject, and the slanders which have been directed against me by a person who was formerly a member of the Legislature, but who forfeited the confidence of the people who put him there, require that I should refer briefly to each of the principal charges which have been thrust forward by this unprincipled person. The most prominent of these has been that I had voted for and supported a measure which was alleged to be detrimental to the interest of the settlers. I believe that the man who so maligned me has sufficient intelligence to know that since the inception of legislation in this Province, there never was an Act passed more distinctly and definitely calculated to advance the settlers' interests, than the Act amending the Free Grants' Act. Heretofore the settlers in our Free Grant district have been the prey of unscrupulous people who imposed upon them at their will. It is true that the lumberman's right to cut timber under the old regulations, limited him to a five years occupancy, but it is equally true, and there is not a settler in the country who does not know it, that no lumberman ever allowed that period to elapse without stripping the land for which he was licensed of everything of value upon it in the shape of timber. The settler was forced to compromise with the lumberman at such terms as they choose to dictate, and the result was that the Crown was often defrauded of its duties, while the settler has been equally cheated by the rapacity of the lumberman, who would not scruple to violate an agreement which he could not in law be compelled to carry out. I need not remind you that the only source of revenue in this Province beyond license fees for various purposes, is from that source, and that the only thing that stands between direct taxation and the people is the revenue from crown lands. It was therefore in the interests of the people of the Province generally that measures were taken to put a stop to a practice which not only cheated the crown out of its dues, but which left the settler entirely at the mercy of the lumberman, who might or might not be honest enough to fulfil engagements, which being themselves illegal, could not be enforced in any court of law. By the provisions of the new law of Hon. Mr. Pardee, all this anomaly has been removed, and while your interests have been protected by having the Crown assured of its dues, the settler has been given a vested right in all timber cut upon his location, which he had never had before, and which is not given to the mass of ordinary dealing, but which is assured to him out of the Consolidated Fund of the Province. Your interests as taxpayers are as much concerned in this measure as that of settlers upon free grants, for the revenue robbed from the Province by collusion between the settler and the lumberman, had to be made up on extra charges upon you, and hard to come out of your pockets. By this legislation both your interests and those of the settlers were protected, the practical effect of the law being to prevent dishonest and unscrupulous lumbermen from imposing upon the Province upon the one hand, and the settler on the other. Another subject upon which the Government has been assailed has been in regard to the erection of new Parliament Buildings. For weeks and weeks we were denounced from the same source for the offence, which it anticipated, of spending $500,000 on the proposed new buildings. They took the ground of economy, and were horrified in advance at an extravagance which never took place. I do not mean to say that, even had it been found necessary to expend $500,000 in providing accommodation for the meetings of Parliament and for the transaction of the public business, that such an expenditure would have been unjustifiable, The people of this Province are wealthy enough and have pride enough to be willing to consent to a liberal expenditure for public buildings of which the Province need not be ashamed, and I only draw attention to the question of expense to point out to you that the man who so violently assailed the Ontario Government for an alleged extravagance which they did not commit, is up to this day oblivious, so far as his paper goes, of the fact that ten millions of your money are being squandered for the benefit of contractors and political favorites in the mountains of British Columbia. By the wisdom and prudence of the Government, Mr. Mowat was able to meet this difficulty and to devise means by which we shall have public buildings which will be a credit to the province, erected at a cost of only $143,000. The "cork-screw" matter has been so fully laid before you that I will devote but brief attention to it. I may say that the expenditure for the Lieut.-Governor's "hospitality" did not meet with my approval, and that I would never have voted for the expenditure of one cent for such a purpose. I may say that from the time these accounts were brought before the Public Accounts Committee, I took the ground that they were part of the personal expenses of the Lieut.-Governor and were entirely apart from the useful purpose for which the visit to the new Ontario territory was designed, and that the Liberal party would never sanction them. It is sufficient to say that the charges were withdrawn by the Lieut.-Governor and that he paid them out of his private purse, as he had a right to do. But it is only fair to say that the Government in no way sanctioned or were responsible for this kind of expenditure. The person, a good Conservative I believe he is, to whom the management of the expenditure on the occasion was entrusted, acted on his own responsibility, and according to the precedent by which Hon. John Carling paved the colonization roads with champagne bottles. And I would only say that when my critic mentions the subject of corkscrews, for which the province did not pay, we may well remind him that when the celebrated Chicora excursion was made under his auspices, there were no corkscrews used, for the simple reason that his party took their liquor away in barrels and brought nothing back but the bung-holes. The province paid for the barrels and their contents, but it did not pay for the corkscrews. I think it is but right, and I take a pride in doing so, to allude to the legislation of last session by which the farmers of this province, its backbone and sinew, were acknowledged as the first interest in the Province and recognized accordingly, and I am proud to say that it is a Liberal Government which has been found ready to give to the farmer his proper standing and the influence which he is entitled to, in the administration of the affairs of this Province The fact is one which should weigh well with such a county as this, whose interests are entirely agricultural, and which should be gratefully remembered in favor of the Hon Mr. Mowat. I think that it would hardly be fair for me to sit down without referring to a question of some importance to this county, concerning which we have recently had some rather singular developments. I refer to the question of railway aid. As you are aware I took an active interest, according to the instructions given me by the vast majority of my constituents, in endeavoring to induce the Government to grant aid to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, and I did exert myself to secure that object in the faith that the promoters of that scheme were honest in their desire to build the road and in the knowledge that the people desired it to be built. The Government, however, found it advisable to check the expenditure for railways, and in giving a refusal to other schemes, did so also to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. I do not wish to make any reflections upon any person, but I would have you remember that I have been publicly accused by the Tory organ in this county, of having acted in the interest of the Grand Junction Railway and the insinuation has been made that the failure to secure a bonus to the Toronto and Ottawa was in some way blamable upon me. I did my best to secure aid for that understanding, as Mr. W. H. Scott can testify, but at the time I believed as you believed that it was an honest enterprise being prosecuted in your interest. I do not wish to say more than that those who imputed motives to me can now look at home, and I can fearlessly ask the judgment of every man in this county as to which of the two, the Tory member for the West or the Reform member for the East Riding of this county, did best his duty to the people. If my worst opponent can trace a dollar of the proceeds of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway enterprise to my pocket, I shall be glad to resign the honorable position in which you have placed me. I think I have touched upon the salient points of the arguments which has been directed against me, but before concluding I must refer to a matter of the greatest moment to the people of this Province, and to its future welfare—I allude to the outrageous attempt made by the Government whose organ is so docilely ground in this county by the man who has the presumption to charge me with neglect of duty of which he is not able to offer a single proof, to rob the people of this province of their legitimate inheritance By the award of the Boundary Commission this province was given an extension of territory of great extent and value, whose resources of mine and forest offered to me the means of staving off direct taxation for half a century to come. That award the Government of Canada, were bound in honor and by constitutional precedent to ratify. But because of the conspiracy to which Sir John Macdonald has lent himself, with the aid of the French Canadian Conservatives, the province has been so far cheated out of its rights and the necessary ratification withheld. To that gross act of injustice both the Tory member for this riding and the gentleman who has honored me with so much misrepresentation, have lent their sanction and approval, and they stand not charged with ignorance of the most infamous betrayal of the interests of this province. I have no doubt, however, about the issue. By a vote of which I am not ashamed, Mr. Mowat went to England seeking from the Crown that justice which has been refused here, and I am confident that Her Majesty's advisers will need more than the welcome move, that the unscrupulous recklessness of Sir John A. Macdonald will not be allowed to override sacred constitutional obligations, and that the people of this Province will be confirmed in their rights. Fellow electors, I fear I am trespassing upon your good nature but I cannot take my seat without again thanking you for your generous confidence and expressing the hope that you feel that at least you have as your representative an honest man who has honestly endeavored to do his duty.

was called on and spoke as follows:—

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen,—It is with the utmost pleasure that I take advantage of this opportunity of addressing a few words to those assembled here on this occasion, and I esteem it a privilege to be able to do so to a gathering so largely representative in its character of the thrift, the industry and intelligence of this Riding. I feel that we are assembled here upon no idle mission, but that each of us is impressed with a responsibility of a grave and important character. We are met here in the performance of the highest duties of citizenship in a free and enlightened country, to discuss matters of public import, to determine our course for the future, and to take counsel together as to the most effective means by which may be advanced those broad, liberal and progressive principles which give both a name and an object to the party to which we belong. I am sure I am not mistaken in saying that with each of us there is an earnest conviction that the principles of the Liberal party are those which are best adapted to this Canada of ours—best adapted to promote its interests and to enlarge and perpetuate the liberties of its people, to advance its material progress and to elevate its moral status. We address ourselves to the inculcation of those principles, to the advancement of the objects of the party which is organised to carry them out, if possible, in the legislation of the country, with the sure belief that in so doing we are performing a patriotic work, and working together for the good of our common country. I believe, with all solemnity, that there never was a period at which the labors of the Liberal party were more essential than they are to-day—never existed a crisis which demanded, for the safety of our institutions, the moral and material welfare of our people, greater or more zealous efforts on the part of that party, than they are called upon to make at this period. I am sure that those labors will not be neglected by any one who has the honor to rank in party of the people, and more than that, that they will not be in vain. I believe that the great heart of the people of this Dominion beats as sound and true to-day to the principles of Reform as ever before—that the electorate which was so grossly deceived and misled by designing men in the summer of 1878, only await the opportunity of remedying their mistake. Already we have abundant evidence that the sober second thought of the country has become alarmed at the criminal recklessness of the men who filched from the country by false and dishonest pretences a confidence of which they have not been deserving, and which they have so grossly abused. The people have found to their cost that not one of the fair promises upon which they were induced to abandon those principles of political economy which were a bequest from the wisdom and experience of the Mother Land, has been, or is likely to be fulfilled. They have found that prosperity is not to be conjured up by any experiment in legislation, and least of all by an experiment which places fetters upon the motion of every industry, and which grievously taxes with an intolerable burden the consumers, of the country. We all know, by the experience of our every day lives, that we have to pay, as the result of the fiscal nostrum known as the "N. P." a greater price for everything we buy—for our tea and sugar and all the simple luxuries that enter into common consumption, for the articles of dress of every description, and for every species of implement by means of which we have to carry on our several labors. We know that the cost of living, no matter in what direction you consider it, has been increased by one-third by the operation of this tariff, which was to bring prosperity and happiness to the country which was deluded into adopting it. And what have we as the result? We have seen in the first flush of its existence the Government compelled to meet Parliament with the humiliating confession that despite the enormously increased burden of taxation, they have sustained a deficit of two millions of dollars. We find that while the country pays upon an average an increased taxation of 25 per cent. more than formerly, its trade and commerce have been so shrunk that revenue is actually less than it was under the wiser system of true British political economy which the Liberal party seek to retain in this portion of the Empire. We find our people being actually driven away from the country and forced against their will to seek homes among an alien people, because of the ruinous effects of the working of the N. P. We find by the results of the municipal census which has just been completed in accordance with our municipal system, that in every town and village and township, there is a shrinkage of value in property, and a decrease of the population. It was the first thought of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, and a guiding principle in the policy in which he educated the party led by him, that it was the first duty of the Government to make Canada a cheap country to live in, whereby it might offer to those who in the overcrowded populations of Europe were casting about for new homes, advantages which would attract them hither in preference to the neighboring states. Of the wisdom and prudence of this course we have abundant proof in our experience of the past two years by which we have seen the practical working of the opposite policy. We find this Province rapidly becoming depopulated, the value of its property depreciated, its energies repressed, its progress retarded, and its material interests everywhere crying out for the change back to the old and true system of light taxation for revenue purposes only. I do not think, Mr. chairman, that it is necessary to discuss the question of a revenue versus a taxation tariff. We have something to go upon which appeals more strongly to our intelligence than the pretentious sophistry of trade theorists, in the practical experience which we have had of a tariff of taxation, and that experience tells us of the mistake which the country has made, and warns us of the danger of persisting in so suicidal a policy. But, Sir, it is not alone the reversion of the misnamed National Policy which demands the united and arduous labor of the Liberal party. True to their former record—a record which might have warned the country against putting trust in them again—the Conservative leaders have carried into every branch of administration the same reckless and demoralizing tendency which has created the revolution in the fiscal policy of the country under which we are suffering. Not satisfied with having adopted an anti-British tariff which threatens the permanence of a connection dear to the heart of every loyal and patriotic Canadian, they have revolutionised the public services of the country and adopted the American principle that "to the victor belongs the spoil," and they have equally revolutionised the currency of the Dominion by taking the most dangerous step of lowering the standard of value of our currency, and reducing the security which our credit has heretofore offered to holders of the notes for which the country is responsible. They have tampered with the constitution, by encroachment both upon the privileges of the Crown and the powers of the people, and by seizing to the Executive prerogatives which are threatening to the liberties of the people and which can never be tolerated with safety to the future of Canada. If there were no other reason offered to us why honest men should be asked to take the places of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, the high-handed outrage which they perpetrated in the arbitrary expulsion of the Lieut. Governor of Quebec from his position to gratify the malice of party supporters and for no other reason, is sufficient cause why so serious a trust as the stewardship of the people, should be withdrawn from men who could be guilty of conduct so reckless, so dangerous, and so fatuous. But, sir, to resume all the reasons which present themselves in the policy and administration of the present Government for their removal by the people who placed them where they are, would be a tedious and an unnecessary task. You are all sufficiently familiar with the current events of the country, as recorded by the press, to make it unnecessary that I should enter into details of the many acts of jobbery, corruption, nepotism and dishonesty, which have been exposed both in the press and in Parliament. But there are two questions, aside entirely from the necessity for a change in the present fiscal policy, which should go far to sway the public judgement of this Province, and which command themselves to our reflection and consideration. The one is the alarming nature and extent of the obligations with which the country is being burdened, by the members of the Government in reference to the Pacific Railway expenditure, and the other is the attitude of Sir John Macdonald and the policy he has adopted toward the people of this Province. Never, during the whole period of Lower Canadian domination, which cost this Province so severe a struggle to be freed from, was the hostility of Sir John Macdonald towards the interests of Ontario more pronounced, more active, more aggressive, or more injuriously asserted than it is to-day. A more gross outrage upon the rights of the people of this Province, was never perpetrated—and they have endured many wrongs—than the unprincipled, unjust, and unpatriotic attempt to rob the Province of Ontario of a territory to which the award of a solemn arbitration had entitled her. In defiance of every principle of honor and justice which pledged the Government to carry that award into effect, we find a mechanical majority in Parliament used for the purpose defrauding this Province out of its lawful inheritance. Without entering into the subject at length, it is proper to draw your attention to the importance to the people of this Province of enforcing the validity of that award. We are aware that the only source of revenue to this Province is from the public domain, from the Crown lands and mineral rights. Sooner or later, the construction of public works and the advancing expenditures which progress entails, will have absorbed the present accumulation of wealth which the prudence of our local Government has stored up, and the only resort to meet the expenses of carrying on the Government will be to direct taxation, the worst of all evils that could befall the country. By this award, however, Ontario was given a territory double its present extent, containing vast wealth in the forest and the mine, capable of unlimited development, and which would have been our safeguard against any necessity for direct taxation for the next hundred years to come. In this matter not only are our just rights violated, but our material interests are threatened in a manner that demands an earnest and united protest against the continuance in office of a man so devoid of principle as the leader of the present Government. In regard to the expenditure upon the Pacific Railway, I am sure there is not a man of thought or intelligence, who gives the subject a moment's consideration who does not feel appalled at the magnitude and reckless character of those burdens which have been with so much eagerness imposed on the country by the present Government. We all admit the necessity for the construction of a railway, for the purpose of colonization in the fertile prairies of the North-West, and the country is ready to bear a somewhat heavy load of debt to secure that object. But when we see a Government casting away ten millions of dollars upon a short section of railway in the British Columbia mountains—a line without connection, without object, without the remotest prospect of being either a commercial or a benefit to the country—then it is indeed time to protest against such madness, and to endeavor to make certain that at the first opportunity offered by the popular franchise the affairs of the country shall be placed in different hands. That is the work which is before us to do, and that it may be successfully and speedily accomplished, must be the desire of every honest and patriotic man. Ten years of such reckless misgovernment and insane extravagance as have been characteristic of the past year, would mean ruin and national bankruptcy, and a continued addition those crushing burdens which are so heavily felt. I feel confident that the statesmanship of the leader of the sagacity, the integrity, the prudence, and the patriotism of Edward Blake, the issue cannot be an uncertain one. I believe the country is prepared to-day to place the public interests in his charge, if the people were allowed the opportunity of expressing their desires, and nothing is more certain that every day in which Sir John Macdonald remains in office will add to the reasons why a change should be made at the earliest opportunity. In the meantime we must not forget that each one of us has an individual responsibility—that each one owes a duty to his country, to take his part when the proper time arrives, in the removal of men from power whose continuance in office is a menace to the moral and material welfare of the country and a danger to its future progress and prosperity.

It is but proper, that met together on an occasion like this, we should remember that the Liberal party have but recently sustained a most serious loss—the loss in a most lamentable and grievous murder of a veteran who had served both his party and his country with rare fidelity, with unexampled patriotism, and with great results, which shall endure to the benefit of future generations of Canadians when the last of his detractors shall have been lost in oblivion. I need not say that I refer to the tragic and unfortunate death by the vile hand of an assassin, of Hon. Geo. Brown. Many of you were thereto with him in those early struggles in which the foundations of popular liberty were laid, many of you can testify, from your personal recollection and knowledge, to his unselfish devotion to the popular welfare, to his indomitable courage and perseverance, to his arduous labors, and the great ability which he brought to the service of his country. No public man in Canada had laid his countryman under a deeper debt of gratitude and affection than did Mr Geo. Brown, and now that he is passed away, even his bitterest opponent has been compelled to admit that a truer patriot, a better man, or a more able honest and conscientious statesman has never been known to the people whom he served so well.

MR DAWSON KENNEDY,

of Otonabee, was called upon and said that he would not undertake to make a speech. He had however always taken considerable interest in the politics of the day, and had always been pleased to give them more than passing attention. He was pleased with the prospects of the Reform party to-day, and he was pleased to see Mr. Blezard there as one of themselves, and a true representative of an agricultural constituency. He hoped to see more of those kind of men in our Legislature in the future. He recollected at a meeting in this place, when Mr. Scott was opposing Mr. Blezard, Mr. Scott, had expressed his unbounded faith in the National Policy and the benefits it would confer on the farmer. He had said at the meeting 'instead of getting $1.25 for your wheat, what are you getting now? Instead of getting 40 cents for your oats, what are you getting now? Instead of 35 cents for your wool what are you getting?' implying that the N P. would bring the farmer $1.25 for their wheat 45 cents for their oats, 35 cents for their wool and so on. He thought if Mr. Scott would repeat his question to-day, 'what are you getting now?' there would be no difficulty in answering it. He would give another instance of the National Policy working. A short time ago he had met a gentleman from Kingston, in Peterboro, conversing with him as to the price of grain, the gentleman had remarked 'you are getting a pretty good price for your grain here, only a few cents less than in quad as the frank. But its going to come down.' Knowing as he did then there was not actually then in the province sufficient grain in store for home consumption, he stated the fact and expressed curiosity to know how the price of grain could come down under the present circumstances, and was told 'Oh, we'll bringing grain from Millwaukee, and next fall will grind the same amount of Canadian wheat and ship it out of the country, so there's no duty on it you see.' That was the kind of protection the National Policy gave to the farmers. He would like to see a greater interest taken in politics by the people of this Riding—a constant and continued interest, and not that kind of interest which only asserted itself on the eve of an election, and hoped in the future to see a closer interest taken in public affairs by the electors generally of the county.

MR. JOHN BENNIAH

was then loudly called, and in response, said that he understood that they were assembled more for the formal business which had been performed, them to hear addresses. The object was to elect officers for the Association for the ensuing year, and to perfect organization, not for speech making. They were of course prepared to hear from Mr. Blezard, an account of his stewardship, and speaking for himself he was free to admit that it was evident from the manner in which Mr. Blezard addressed himself to this task, that he must have paid particular attention to, and been assiduous in the discharge of his duties during the session, to be able to speak to them as he had done in every respect but one, he he had found himself in full agreement, with the Government of Mr. Mowat, and in that instance as Mr. Blezard had explained the fault lie not so much with the government as with the system which had been inherited from their predecessors. As to the Parliament buildings, anyone who had never been at Toronto could have no idea where to be convinced that new buildings were not a luxury, but an absolute necessity, for the proper accommodation of the public business, and the safe custody of the public records. As to the buildings being unhealthy, he had had the pleasure of visiting the House last session and so far as Mr. Blezard was concerned, his appearance certainly was not a good voucher for the unhealthiness, unhealthy though they undoubtedly were. He found their members looking just as hearty and genial as he does to-day, and looking as if he had been at the business all his life. He hoped he might long continue to be at it, and if he accounted for himself at the end of every session as he had done just now, he was sure they would long keep him in that position. He was pleased to hear Mr. Blezard express himself as well as he did. He (Mr. B.) had spoken of the question of the Northwest boundary arbitration, and had referred to the failure of the government at Ottawa to give us the legislation which was necessary to confirm to this Province the award of territory which that arbitration had made. By that award the Province of Ontario, instead of having an undefined boundary at the north and west, had her limits extended and fixed, comprising a vast increase of valuable territory calculated to give her an importance and an influence which no doubt had excited jealousy in the eastern Provinces. But Sir John A. Macdonald had failed in his duty, in the first place as the leader of the Government, in not carrying out his constitutional obligations to ratify the award of an arbitration to which the Government of Canada had referred the decision of this matter, and in the second place he had betrayed his duty as a citizen of Ontario by refusing to give the people of his province that justice which was their due. For this reason alone he deserved as the hands of the electorate of this Province to be hurled from power, and he had no doubt they would do their duty when the opportunity was afforded. They had met there to-day to elect officers for an association whose object was to assist in carrying out the principles of the Liberal party. The principles of that party were always the same, but the questions to be decided under those principles changed as new issues developed in the progress of events. The Tory principle was always the same, without regard to changing circumstances—obstruction to popular rights, objection to popular privileges, and tenacious advocacy of class legislation. Up to 1874, there had been no question of difference of opinion between the two parties as to how to raise the revenue of the country. Sir John Macdonald Mr. Tupper, and Mr. Tilley were equally the advocates of a revenue tariff with Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Blake. But after that time, taking advantage of a cry which had got up arising from trade depression, Sir John Macdonald had gone back upon his principles and adopted the moral heresy of Protection as a means of acquiring office. The great question of taxation was that which now divides the two parties—how and to what extent the tax-gatherer shall put his hand into the pockets of the people. On this question the Conservatives had changed front, while the Liberal party did not change front. We hold the doctrine that it was the duty of the Government to take just as little money out of the pockets of the consumers of the county as they can help. The Conservatives hold the other view, that taxation should not be governed by the requirements of the revenue, but should be applied for the protection of industries. Protection was of two or three kinds. There was effective protection, and non-effective protection, and there was a protection so-called, which was a positive injury to the people to whom it was granted. As an example of effective protection he would take the manufacture of cotton. If the duty charged were high enough to shut out imports and to enable manufacturers in Canada to sell their manufactures to you, such a duty would constitute effective protection. Non-effective protection was the placing of duties upon articles where the duty was of no consequence whatever—where you are not enabled thereby either to export or import more than if the duty were not imposed at all. That is the kind of protection which the present tariff affords to the farmers of this country. Where we export largely of our surplus product of grain, and do not import, a duty on grain can't have any effect whatever on the price of grain. For instance, this Province exports annually five, six, or seven million bushels of barley, the surplus product, over and above what is consumed in the country. Having that surplus, and importing none, it was the height of nonsense and of foolishness putting a duty on barley when we import little or no barley, on the pretence of affording "protection" to the farmers Then there was the case where protection was a positive injury to those whom it proposed to protect. Take the case of the manufacture of agricultural implements. A heavy duty was imposed upon coal, on iron, and upon every article which entered into consumption by the manufacturers of agricultural implements. This duty pressed upon them and unless they can get more for their implements, it must be a positive injury to every one engaged in that branch of manufacture. Owing to the excess of competition among the manufacturers, they had not so far been able to raise the price of implements, and they had to bear the loss which with less competition would fall upon the farmer. Then there was what might be termed literally "bogus" protection—that is a duty imposed upon articles which do not come into the country at all, which you are led to suppose is to protect some interest in it. There was the duty on wool for instance, which was framed for the purpose of cheating the farmers into the belief that the Government was giving them protection. There are particular kinds of wool of which we produce a surplus and of which we do not import a single pound, and it is that particular kind of wool which the Government select to put a duty on! Could any greater foolishness be conceived than that of putting a duty on an article of which we export largely to the United States, which we do not require to import at all? He thought he was right and witain the mark, in characterising such a "protection" as bogus legislation. There were a large number of factories which required for certain classes of manufactors to import foreign wool. If the Government actually desired to protect the farmer, they would put a duty on all wool. By this means, perhaps, the production of those classes of wool, not now produced here, might have been stimulated, and the protection in some degree made effectual, where now you have no protection whatever. When Mr. Mackenzie asked Mr. Tilley on putting the duty on wool, how much revenue he expected from it, he had replied "not much," showing that he appreciated the bogus character of the duty. Parties on one side and the other came before them, each arguing that his own case was the right one. He would give them a short and simple rule by which they might infallibly come to the right conclusion. Two men came before them

JUST WHAT WE THINK.

Dr. Franklin's maxim was a wise one:—"Nothing is cheap that you do not want," to which might be added:—"nor buy just when you want to get along with at first, as it is only by experience you can tell what will be the wants of yourself and family." If you spend all your money now, you will find you have purchased many things which are not actually needed, and have little money left to get many things which will surely be wanted. This for the heads of families to ponder on.

WE MAKE THESE REMARKS

In view of the possible BONANZAS just now offered in the public in the way of the so called Clearing Sales.

HOW IT STANDS TO REASON

—and the close observer and careful buyer will readily admit the statement is correct—that if a stock of goods is purchased with a due perception of what the public need, and dispersed at over the counter in the regular course of every day trade, there will be no necessity for Clearing Sales. This is just the position we stand in to-day.

OUR STOCK IS REDUCED, and we are glad to be able to say so. Still, we have a large assortment of goods to meet the present wants of customers, but nothing to carry over until next season. We know our stock was purchased at prices that could not BE BEATEN, and therein was the key to our success, and further, our prosperity is mainly due to the popularity we have attained among people everywhere on account of the excellent character of the goods, and the VERY REASONABLE PRICES at which we have offered them. Hence we shall advertise no

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 1, 1880.

Honors Won.—At the closing exercises of the Ottawa Ladies' College, the gold medal for instrumental music was awarded to Miss Annie, daughter of Mr. Geo. Edmison, of this town. The Ottawa press speaks very highly of this young lady's performances on the piano.

The Golden Boot.—Fresh supplies of boots, shoes and slippers are being daily received by Mr. S. White, at the sign of the Golden Boot. Custom work a specialty. Cricket, Lacrosse and Rowing boots receive particular attention.

Forestry.—Dr. J. J. Esmond, having left the limits, the offices which he held of High Physician and D. D. H. C. R. in this Order have been conferred, the former upon Dr. Moore, of of Tilsonburg, and the latter upon Mr. T. Bilkrey, of this town. We congratulate Mr. Bilkrey on his promotion.

A Luxury.—The Register says:—"The Normandian now new furnished with luxury in the shape of a bathing house, got up with the latest improvements, and where hot and cold baths will be provided at all hours between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m." Even from Norwood, Peterborough has something to learn.

A Golden Opportunity should never be neglected—therefore those requiring cheap, comfortable and durable wear for their feet should not fail to examine Mr. W. J. Learmont's stock, previous to the closing of his great clearing sale of imported and ready-made work. Remember the stock is all new and this season's goods, and is being offered at prices much below the present ruling wholesale figures. 22-tf

For His Holidays.—Rev. Mr. Torrance, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, left yesterday for Philadelphia, and will be absent from his charge about seven weeks, seeking much needed rest and recuperation. We trust he may return with earnest zeal and active labor. On Sunday next the pulpit of St. Paul's will be filled by Rev. Prof. Gregg, of Toronto.

Sheep Killed by Dogs.—Mr. F. Sanderson, who resides on the Communication Road, Smith, was a heavy loser by the appetite for mutton of some predatory dog or dogs, at this writing unknown. On the morning of the 19th found, on going to the field, that out of a flock of fifteen fine sheep only ten were alive, five lying dead in different parts of the field. Nearly every one of the others had been bitten, one of the so badly that it died since. The neighbors are on the look out for the ravenous destroyer, and if found his fate will be a warning to all canine manufacturers.

Advertising.—The lack of advertising, says the Monetary Times, is one of the chief causes of business failures. There are business men who don't understand the value of advertising. They don't see the direct connection between advertising and the entering of a customer, or the demand for any particular article. They also, with a self-importance which is amusing, fancy their business is known to the whole community, changing as that community is to an extent which they have no conception of. The principle upon which business men should act is, advertise the truth. If you have a good thing let the people know it. Furthermore, never let an advertisement get stale.

Look Out for Them.—We are informed that a couple of individuals from the west are travelling through this section of Ontario pretending to establish Masonic Lodges, and initiating greenhorns into the "mysteries" of Masonry, at $5 each. Mr. Francis Westlake, of London, who is running this little Masonic side-show just now, was in Port Hope yesterday, but failed to form a "Lodge." The whole thing is a fraud —the "Grand Lodge of Ontario," (an illegitimate body), having surrendered its seal, books, papers, &c., to M. W. Bro. Waller of this town, at the meeting of the Grand Lodge of A. F. & A. M., of Canada, held in Kingston in September last. People should see that they are not imposed upon by pinchible strangers, and the town should pass Mr. Westlake and his friend round. —Cobourg World.

Another Boy Drowned.—A second case of drowning occurred last Thursday evening near the Auburn Woollen Factory. A boy nine years of age, son of Mr. Fisher, lately employed at the factory, had been engaged with his father in gathering drift wood. He remained at work while his father went to tea, and on the latter returning had disappeared. His hat was subsequently found in the water. These repeated warnings should make parents more careful how their children are allowed either at work or play along the river in that neighborhood, without proper care. The body of the lad was recovered on Monday morning among the logs in the river below Dickson's dam. The drivers brought the body ashore and word was sent to the father and Coroner Kincaid. It was not, however, deemed necessary to hold an inquest. The body was removed to the residence of his father, for whom there is much sympathy, the deceased being an only surviving son.

Toronto and Ottawa Railway.—The Committee of the Whole Council, which met on Wednesday evening of last week was so only in name, there being present only Mayor Landy and Messrs. Smith, McNaughton, Deane, Yelland, Douglas, Paterson and Durnford. A letter was read by Mr. Smith. Chairman of the Finance Committee, from Mr. John Leys, complaining that attention should be given to rumors concerning the road, in the face of Mr. Goodenham's explanations, and the fact that they had furnished money to pay off the liabilities with which the road was encumbered, and put it on a square basis. Mr. Leys stated that the charter was "purchased with the object of utilizing it," and said, "when we have had a reasonable time to do something towards commencement of the work and have failed or neglected to do it, then we may reasonably be found fault with and asked for explanations, but until then I would ask that we be treated with some degree of fairness." No action was taken by the Council.

Sad Fatal Accident.—A rumor current on the streets on Friday morning last that a woman had broken her neck, proved on enquiry to be unfortunately too true, the victim of the fatal mishap being the wife of Daniel Cushing, who lives on Walker street, in the west side of the town, and who was away working in the meadow at the time of the melancholy occurrence. It appears that the unfortunate woman must have arisen during the night and in the dark missed her footing and fell to the bottom of the stairs, breaking her neck and causing instant death. The eldest boy, aged about 12 years, states that he heard a noise as of something falling in the middle of the night, but did not get up. On getting up in the morning the first object which met his terrified gaze was the body of his mother, dead at the foot of the stairs. It was not considered necessary to hold an inquest. The deceased was thirty-two years of age, and leaves a family of five young children. The fact that she was enceinte at the time of her death makes the sad accident still more distressing. She was a sister of Mr. John Kelly, Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery.

Mid-Wild Gap.—This handsome trophy has been photographed by Mr. James Little.

School Trustees.—The School Board will meet on Tuesday evening next.

An Outing.—The Fire Brigade Band will go to Mid-Wild on the 15th instant for a stay of one week.

Division Court.—This Court was held on Friday last, when a number of cases were disposed of.

Reed v. Batchelor.—The case against Batchelor Miller, preferred by Col. Rogers, was on Saturday dismissed, costs to be paid by defendant.

Left for their Country's Good.—Mary Ann Lee and her hospital son, Henry, were shipped from town last week at the expense of the Corporation—a good riddance.

Lacrosse Club Races.—The fortnightly race for the President's medal was run for again on Monday evening. There were eight entries, no contest being won by Mr. M. Halpin.

Street Cleaning.—The fortnightly pay-list of the laborers engaged in street-cleaning and repairs, handed last week to the Treasurer by Inspector Johnson, amounted to $207.36.

That Mean Tower.—The Corporation invite tenders for the erection of a hose tower, and it is to be hoped no delay will be permitted in getting this most necessary work under way.

Horse Buying.—Mr. James Walsh, who is buying horses for a Boston street car company, has already secured some twenty-five animals, his last sent to buy a large number to fill his contract.

Guarded Gun.—Owing to the length of our report of the Reform meeting at Norwood, we are compelled to hold over till next week editorial and other matter designed for this week's issue.

Tenders.—The Committee of the Garden Party, at the residence of Mr. John Burnham, M.P., on Tuesday evening, desire to return thanks to the Band for their assistance on the occasion.

Grand Junction.—The workmen of the Grand Junction are now operating near Indian River. A special force of constables will probably be put on when they approach the neighborhood of the town.

The Firemen.—The new helmets for the firemen arrived from Hamilton by Saturday's express. The tall having been paid by Chief Mitchell the goods were removed to the Fire Hall. They will be on parade to-morrow.

$5 Reward.—Lost, on Thursday, 24th June, somewhere between the Little Lake, Peterborough, and Robinson's Church, Smith, a large Red Pocket Book, containing gold, bills, silver coin, and other papers. The finder will receive the above reward by leaving it at this office. 1

Tall Barley.—There is every prospect of a fair crop this year of barley, of which a much greater breadth than usual has been sown. Mr. James Falls, of Cavan, the other day showed us a stalk of barley, finely headed, sown in the first week in May, which measured five feet one inch in height.

Blasting Sunset Rocks.—This work has been completed to the convenience with the George street sewer, and it is to be hoped that the open grating at the corner of George and Hunter streets may be replaced by a covered trap. The exhalations from this opening are very far removed from the odors of Araby the blessed.

Discouraging News.—We regret exceedingly to learn that the high hopes which had been entertained from the appearance and early growth of spring wheat in this county are likely to be doomed to disappointment. A large proportion of the spring wheat has been affected by a kind of dry rust, while most serious damage has been occasioned by the ravages of the Hessian fly.

Midland Railway of Canada.—Traffic receipts for week ending June 21st, 1880, were:—Passengers and mails, $6,497.71; freight, $4,398.93. Total for week, $10,896.67. For the corresponding week in 1879, passengers and mails, $5,182.86; freight, $3,703.13; total for week, $8,885.94; increase, $1,810.63. Aggregate from 1st of January, 1880, $120,459.89. Increase over 1879, $97,717.94.

Idyl-Wild Regatta.—The regatta at Idyl-Wild this fair to be largely attended to-day. The following entries have been made:—

FOUR-OARED RACE.—C. Shaw (stroke), A. A. Loch, G. Loch and A. Mercer. McClelland's crew.

SINGLE SCULL.—T. Wellis, A. Patton, J. Young, D. Cameron, W. F. Shaw and J. Sutherland.

SINGLE PADDLE.—R. Hilton, F. Adams, R. Cook and T. Wallis.

Deaf and Dumb Summoner.—A deaf and dumb man, armed with a slate, and fortified by more forty-rod than was good for him, ran into the embrace of P. C. McGhee, on Friday afternoon. He made his appearance on Saturday before Mayor Landy, who fined him $5 and costs, to be paid on Monday if he had not left town in the meantime. By Monday he appeared to have plenty of money, but the conduct of those who would supply liquor to an unfortunate in his position is most reprehensible.

1ST OF JULY.—The anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne is to be celebrated this year by the Orangemen, O. Y. B.'s and True Blues of Peterborough with their brethren in the town of Cobourg, where preparations for a very extensive demonstration are being made. The Midland Railway will run a special excursion train for the members of the Association and their friends, leaving Nassau at 7.30 o'clock a.m. and Peterborough at 8.00. Tickets for the round trip $2.25. Full particulars will be announced by posters in a few days.

Garden Party.—A very successful garden party was given on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. John Burnham, M. P., Ashburnham, the proceeds being devoted to the building fund of the proposed new Parsonage in connection with St. Luke's Church. The fine grounds were lit up and presented a very pretty appearance. The Band of the Fire Brigade contributed much to the pleasure of the evening by a series of choice selections. Vocal and instrumental music at intervals, promenading, and discussing the merits of strawberries and ice cream, occupied the evening. The latter luxury was dispensed by the Misses Revel, Miss Strickland and Miss Maynard. A very pleasant time was spent, and some $20 realized.

Runaway.—On Wednesday night last, about 11 o'clock, as Mr. T. Cavanagh's cab was standing at the wharf at foot of Sherbrooke street, to take passengers from Mrs. Calcutt's excursion party, just returned by the Golden Eye, the spirited team of horses, lately purchased by Mr. Cavanagh, made a bolt for liberty, disdained the tongue, threw the driver from his seat, and started up Water street at a terrific pace. They were not found till next morning, when they were secured near Mr. James Wallis' place. Fortunately neither the horses nor the cab were injured. The accident occurred so suddenly that a gentleman occupant of the cab, was not aware of the departure of the means of locomotion, till, genius! impatient at the delay, he enquired what was detaining him.

The Lost Atalanta.—The Admiralty have forwarded the following letter to the Rev. Rural Dean Bent, whose son was an officer on board the lost training-ship Atalanta:—

"ADMIRALTY, 20th June, 1880.

"SIR,—I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to express to you their deep regret that they have been compelled to abandon all hope of the safety of H. M. S. Atalanta, nothing having been heard of her since the 31st of January last, when she left Bermuda under the command of Captain Francis Stirling, R.N. In conveying to you this intimation, my Lords desire me to add the expression of their deep sympathy and of their regret that Her Majesty's service should have been deprived of so promising an officer as Lieutenant Arthur R. Bent, R.N.

I am Sir,
Your Obed't Servant,
ROBERT HALL.

The Rev. WALTON BENT, Rector of Peterough, Canada.

The Matrimonial Boom.—Yesterday morning Mr. Meagher, of Montreal, was united in marriage to Miss Katie Jordan, of this town. The ceremony was performed at the Roman Catholic church by Rev. Father Lynch, and was witnessed by a number of friends of the contracting parties. The bride's many friends in town wish them a prosperous voyage over the broad sea of life. . . Mr. W. H. Robertson, late of the Times, was on Friday of last week, at Fenelon Falls, married to Miss Elliss, only daughter of the late Andrew Brandon Esq., of that place. Mr. R. and the amiable and accomplished young lady who has assumed his name, arrived home on Saturday evening, from their wedding trip, and we sincerely wish them both all happiness and prosperity in their wedded life.

Collegiate Institutes.—This institution was closed for the summer holidays on Friday last, and in the evening the customary entertainment was given in Beddome's Opera House where there was a very large attendance of the parents and friends of the pupils. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental music, tableaux, recitations, &c. The vocal duet by Misses E. and S. Johnston, and song by Miss N. Hamilton were charmingly rendered, and elicited deserved applause, with which, indeed, the audience was more than throughout the evening. Instrumental duets by Misses Richardson and Hamilton, and, by two little girls, May Davidson and Miss Wilkie, were also well received and skilfully presented. Accompaniments during the evening were efficiently given by Miss Hattie Johnson, Messrs. Wright and Sandeman. Prof. Andersen, and Miss Hanson an essay on "Overdoing to do," suggestive to young ladies, and two comical readings by Mr. Hamilton elicited much merriment. A tableau was given at the end of each portion of the programme, with splendid effect, and being artistically arranged and admirably executed can, thus favoured by no mean the least attractive part of the programme. "God Save the Queen" wound up a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

The Rosemere Pic-Nic.

The annual pic-nic in connection with the R. C. Church, Ennismore, came off on Thursday last at Hennessy's Grove, under the management of the popular priest of the Parish, Father Kenny, assisted by a Committee composed of Messrs. W. Sullivan, J. H. Quinn, P. B. Sullivan, W. Kennedy, W. Creagh, T. Twomey, P. Travis, M. Collins, T. Flood, J. Collins, J. McCarthy and D. Costello, with Mr. J. M. Quinn, as Secretary, and was a most successful and enjoyable affair in every respect. The amusements provided were varied. A dancing pavilion was well patronized during the day, notwithstanding the heat, the music being supplied by Martin's Quadrille Band. A boy's race for a box of cigars, given by Mr. H. LeBrun, was hotly contested, first and second heats having been won by Edward Fleherty and Richard Tierney. In the third heat Fleherty was after a hard race. The hop step and jump contest was won by M. Collins, John Flaherty second. In the 120 yards race Michael Dunn came in first, and John McKelvie second. Only one step dancer appeared, George Darcy, from Lindsay, and he accordingly took first prize. George Darcy and Sarah Collins, and Michael Dunn and Mary Keenan, the latter couple from town, entered in the competition for the Irish Jig, and gave a splendid exhibition of grace and agility. The latter mentioned were awarded first prize. In the hare-pigs dance five couples entered, and the Judges, Messrs. M. Collins and J. H. Quinn, had no little difficulty in deciding to whom first merit belonged. Finally George Curtin received first for gentleman's dancing, and Miss Mary Keenan first among the ladies. Mr. Jeremiah McCarthy, Reeve of the township, then in an admirable speech thanked the committee for their attendance, and Dr. Kincaid for a donation of $20 towards the Priest's new rest dence. He was glad to see so many of their Protestant neighbors present, as it showed the good feeling and harmony which existed, and he hoped always would exist, among various creed and nationalities. We should mention that no intoxicating liquors were allowed on the grounds. After the proceedings were over a ball at John Collins' Hotel was largely patronized, and the sport maintained till early in the morning.

PERSONAL.

—Rev. R. N. Willoughby, President of the Methodist Conference, was in town last week.

—Paul McKee, of Woodstock, was in town during the week on a visit to his brother of Kemp's Drug Store.

—Mr. H. Davidson's many friends were glad to see him in town on Saturday last, having recovered from his injuries received by a bear a short time ago.

—The Broad Arrow has the following:—"The Queen has made the following appointments and promotions to the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George:—Among others, To be an Ordinary Member o the Third Class, or Companion of the said Most Distinguished Order:—Cecil Clementi-Smith, Esq., Colonial Secretary for the Straits Settlements."

—Rev. C Barker, founder of the Bowmanville Observer, the organ of the Bible Christian Church, has resigned the editorial chair and goes to England for a year's holiday. He has filled the editorial chair for fourteen years and now lays down the pen with a glad heart. A host of friends all over the Dominion wish him a pleasant holiday in his native land.

—The Lindsay Post says:—"Mr. W. G. Niblock, of Leadville, Col., formerly of Chicago, is in town on a visit to his uncle, Mr. John Dobson. He is in business with his brother, Mr. Thos. Niblock, and doing remarkably well. Mr. Thos. Niblock's many friends in this county will be glad to learn that his health is good and that he has a fine fat contract.

—The St. Paul's Tribune of the 19th ult. says Geo. B. Shaw was married on Saturday last to Miss Josephine Blotcher, at the residence of the bride's father. Mr. Shaw is secretary of the Daniel Shaw Lumber Company, and is prominently connected with the Telephone, Street Car and Opera House projects, and is foremost in all matters of social and public interest, and his wide circle of acquaintances will be glad to learn that he is thus permanently settled.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening, all the members being present except Councillors Paterson and Douglas.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

A communication was read from Mr. Pearse, stating that he had examined the books of the late Treasurer from Dec. 31st to May 31, which showed a balance on hand of $376 in the hands of the late Treasurer. He had been unable to verify the school assessment and the non-resident taxes uncollected.

A communication was read from the Secretary of the Town Trust requiring the issue of $6,000 debentures to meet a like amount of school debentures maturing July 1st, debentures to run for 10 years and to bear interest at 6 per cent.—Referred to Finance Committee.

D. W. Dunbar asked to have the taxes on property used by the town as a pound remitted. —Referred to Finance Committee.

W. O'Brien, Clerk of Downa, notified the Council that the Council of that township had appointed Ronoh Way as arbitrator to equalize the school assessment of the portion of the township joined with the town for school purposes.

On motion of Mr. SMITH, Mr. J. F. Dennistoun was appointed arbitrator on behalf of the town to act with Mr. Way.

A letter from Hatton & Sock for the Grand Junction Railway Company, asking permission to use a portion of Romaine street to run the railway to a connection with the Midland R.R. The following accounts were submitted and referred to the Finance Committee:

Peterborough Gas Company	$ 13 50
J. Pappin	1 50
Toker & Co	127 60

A letter from Mr. Pearse, County Clerk, demanded immediate payment with interest of $6,120, being the amount due by the town, as fixed by arbitration, on account of Court House improvements.

Mr. TOOLE thought it should be ascertained whether the County Council in January had not adopted the proposition to run this payment over a term of three years. If not, of course the money should be paid. He believed there was a considerable surplus over from last year, but he thought they should use it, if possible, in keeping down the rate for the year.

The Mayor said the County Council had taken no action on the recommendation to spread the payment over three years.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committe to report next meeting.

Mr. Cahill said it appeared by the report of the auditors that there was a balance of cash on hand in June 1st of $372. He asked if the Clerk had received that balance from the late Treasurer.

The Clerk said he had not.

Mr. Toole said it appeared that the town had overdrawn at the banks and thought it strange that that should be the case while there was $576 to their credit.

The Clerk said that the $576 was money which should be in the bank to the credit of the town, but which was not there.

Mr. Robertson asked if the Clerk had received all the books and accounts connected with the Treasurer's office from the late Treasurer.

The Clerk said he had not. Demand had been made for them, but they had not been received.

The Mayor said Mr. Edwards had come here on Friday evening to meet the Finance committee, prepared to have a settlement, but there was no quorum of the Committee. He had no doubt there would be no difficulty in securing a settlement.

Mr. Beck was heard in reference to the petition of the Grand Junction for the use of Romain street. He said the Railway were going to build a bridge under the plans at the locks bridge, and the line would cross the corner of Mr. Bowden's lot, running along if possible Romain street to the corner of Park street. If they could not get the power to run along the street they would have to go in rear of the houses on the south side. It was just a question whether the Rec should run along the street or through the back yards.

Mr. SMITH asked how the Company acquired the right to use the piers at the locks bridge.

Mr. Beck did not know, but they had advertised for tenders for the building of a bridge there.

Mr. SMITH said it would be going altogether out of the way to grant this request. The effect of it would be that they would drive away the trade from that portion of Otonabee which came in by way of that street, and would send it away to Ashburnham. He moved, seconded by Mr. MEDERIS, that the Clerk by instructed to notify the Grand Junction Railway Company that the Council cannot comply with the prayer of their petition.

Mr. Robertson said it was only courtesy to consider their request, and he moved in amendment that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee for report.

Mr. CAHILL said the travel from the Locks Bridge could come up by way of the Cemetery and Crescent street. He thought they should not put the petition aside without consideration.

Mr. SMITH said they knew from experience the damage a railway on a street did to property along the line. The effect of allowing the railway to run this street would be to drive our trade away to Ashburnham.

Mr. TOOLE said we had had a lesson from the Midland as to the effect of running a railway on a public street. If this petition were granted not only would the property holders along the street be the sufferers, but the merchants along the line would also suffer, from the trade being driven away. If the Company went along the rear of the lots they would have to make their own bargains for right of way, and no fault could be found with the Council. They should not hold ourselves responsible whatever for the Grand Junction Railway. It would not benefit the town to one dollar. Then there was a certain amount of animosity between the town and county, and this company were trying in the Course to squeeze rob the county out of $75,000 to which they were not entitled.

Mr. Robertson's amendment was lost.

YEAS—Cahill, Dunsford and Robertson.—3.

NAYS—Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Yelland, Toole, Deane and Meeniss.—7.

Mr. Smith's motion was carried on the same division.

Mr. SMITH presented the following report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of the following accounts:—

Peterborough Gas Company	$ 9 25
George Benham	9 25
James E. Stratton's Accounts	102 00

The Committee recommended that the usual grant of $300 be made to the Mechanics' Institute.

The report was amended so as to make the full amount of Mr. Stratton's account payable on being certified to by the Clerk to be according to contract.

The payment of six months rent in advance, under lease, to Mr. Bradburn, was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. DENNIS moved the motion of which he had given notice, instructing Mr. Weller to proceed with the collection of the money reported to be due to the town, by the awards of Messrs. Hogan and Mills and Macdonald and Pearse.

Mr. YELLAND thought if they were going to collect money under Mr. Hogan's audit it was time they should pay him for it.

Mr. TOOLE thought the reports of Hogan and Mills and Macdonald and Pearse were inconsistent with each other, and he was not satisfied that they had received any value in the audit of the former gentlemen.

Mr. CAZELL was opposed to going to law about this matter, as it would probably cost more than it came to.

Mr. SMITH pointed out the expensive experiments they had already made in the Courts, and would oppose going to law. They had only Mr. Weller's opinion as as to the possibility of collecting anything, while other lawyers were of opinion that they could not collect anything from the Treasurer except for wilful error.

Mr. Dennis's motion was carried on the following division:—

YEAS—Taylor, McNaughton, Meenies, Toole, Robertson and Dennis.—6.

NAYS—Cahill, Smith, Dunsford and Yelland. —4.

Mr. SMITH moved, seconded by Mr. DENNIS. —That the By-law granting aid to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway be allowed to lapse.

After some discussion the motion was withdrawn, it being decided to allow the By-law to lapse by expiry of time, without taking any action upon it.

Mr. SMITH moved, seconded by Mr. MEDERIS. —That the sum of $59 be at the disposal of the Treasurer for payment of petty accounts.—Carried.

Mr. TOOLE moved, seconded by Mr. MEDERIS. —That a sum not to exceed $60 be voted to meet a like sum voted by the County Council or Township Council of Monaghan, to be expended under the joint superintendence of the Street Inspector and D. Hopkins, Township Pathmaster, in improving the boundary line from Sherbrook street to Smith street.

After some discussion the matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

The CLERK complained of the condition of the books in regard to the non-resident taxes.

On motion of Mr. ROBERTSON, seconded by Mr. DUNSFORD, the sum of $30 was ordered to be paid to James Hogan, in full of balance due on account of special audit.—Carried.

Mr. ROBERTSON moved, seconded by Mr. DENNIS,—That James Hogan be employed at a cost not to exceed $60, to ascertain the exact amount due on each property on the non-resident roll.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. TOOLE, seconded by Mr. SMITH,—That the Treasurer be authorized to issue his check for the balance of Seanes' taxes, the amount to be repaid by Seanes to the Treasurer; and that the Street Inspector be instructed to give John McClennan work to pay his taxes, provided he commence work immediately, and that the Collector be directed to return the roll at the earliest possible date.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. DENNIS the Council adjourned for four weeks.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.—The July number of this popular magazine brilliantly commences the new volume, and is even more than usually attractive and interesting. Among its prominent features are an article by W. Robinson, "The British House of Commons," which has 20 illustrations and portraits; "How the Japanese Amuse Themselves," by Edward Greey; "The Feet of the Fast and Pressed," by Dora De Blaquiere; both articles are liberally and admirably illustrated, as is likewise "The Eye and its Use," by William Ackroyd. The engraving entitled "Fine Weather," is wonderful, and there are excellent short stories and sketches by popular writers. As article by Mr. Matthews on "Wm. C. Macready," will not fail to attract considerable attention. It has a graphic description of the Astor Place Riot. The poems possess great merit, and some of them are beautifully illustrated. The number, in fact, abounds with delightful reading, and as a literary and artistic publication may challenge comparison with the best of its contemporaries. Each number contains 128 quarto pages and size at 100 embellishments, together with a handsome colored fronti-piece; in the present one the subject is "A Morning Kiss for Dear Mamma." The price is only 25 cents a number, and the annual subscription $3, postage free. Address, "Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57, Park Place, New York."

Keene News.

RAILWAY — WEATHER NOTES — PERSONAL — ANNUAL PIC-NIC — HAYING — BURGLARY — S. S. EXCURSION.

(From our own Correspondent.)

KEENE, June 28.

Work on the Grand Junction is progressing rapidly in this neighborhood.

The last two weeks have been exceedingly warm, and a good rain would do a great deal of good. We had a slight shower on Sunday, 27th inst, but it was scarcely enough to be of much benefit.

Rev. R. McCulloch, the pastor of the Methodist Church here for the past three years, has been appointed by the conference to Lloydtown Circuit on the Bradford District. We wish him success on his new field of labour. Rev. C. Harper, B. A. son of Dr. Harper of Peterborough, has been appointed to Keene Circuit, and is expected to commence his duties next Sunday, 3rd, July.

The annual Union Pic-nic in connection with the Methodist and Presbyterian Sabbath Schools of this village is to take place on July 1st, at Roach's Point on Rice Lake. A good time is expected.

"Vanity of vanities, all is vanity," saith the preacher. A middle aged lady, the mother of a family, residing not a hundred miles from our flourishing village, refused to go to church a few Sundays since, because "she could not get her hair done up decently."

Haying has commenced in this vicinity.

On Wednesday of last week the Str. Fairy took a party of excursionists from Keene to Peterboro' by way of the Otonabee River. The day was fine though hot. They left Keene about 8 a. m. and arrived home in good time in the evening. There were forty persons aboard and all seemed to enjoy themselves profitably and agreeably in viewing the scenery of the winding Otonabee.

On the evening of Thursday last the store of Mr. Rob. English was entered into by burglars and quite a quantity of goods stolen. The thief has not as yet been captured.

On the evening of last Sabbath the review of the Sabbath School Lessons for the past quarter took place in the Presbyterian church by the Rev. Mr. Andrews. No doubt all were profited as the services were conducted in an able manner by the Rev gentleman.

DIED.

SOUTHARD.—In Warkworth, on Friday, the 18th inst., Hannah Southard, aged 71 years.

ROBERTSON—BRANDON.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Fenelon Falls, on Thursday, 24th June, 1880, by the Rev. Mr. Lochead, of the Canada Presbyterian Church, Mr. W. H. Robertson, of the Peterborough Times, to Miss Ellen J., only daughter of the late A. Brandon, Esq., of Fenelon Falls.

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 1, 1880.

FOR HERSELF ALONE.

CHAPTER I.

THE HEART OF MID-LONDON.

In one of the dirtiest courts, or alleys, opening upon Drury Lane a man lay dying. He had inhabited, for some years, a dingy garret of a dilapidated old house, vile in appearance, blackened by smoke, dirt and time, with broke stairs, half-hingless doors, patched-up win dows, a squalid colony of lodgers, and an aged vixen, who was held in awe by the other inmates, as the landlady.

No one knew who or what this man was. He had come there about seven years ago, bringing with him a little girl of three, now a beautiful child of between ten and eleven, who slept in a sort of closet on the same landing with her father's or guardian's room, for their exact relationship was not known.

What he did for a livelihood none could tell, except that he went out regularly every morning at a quarter to nine, and returned every evening, regularly, at a quarter-past seven. The general rumour—for the smallest mysteries will excite rumours, and all rumours have tongues—ran to the effect that he was employed as a copying clerk somewhere in the neighborhood.

About thirty-five years of age, handsome of form and feature, invariably courteous, unbendingly proud, he never spoke of himself; never was caught by any question, however cunningly put; would not permit his daughter—as he invariably called her—to associate with the frolicsome young tribes of the Drury Lane pavement; lived in the humblest manner, contracted not a penny of debt, paid his rent to the hour, and called himself simply Mr. Rutherford.

The child's name was Beryl; and strangely enough it sounded in the ears of that vicinity.

And this was all that the people in the parts round about Watson's Rents knew of the two strangers who had dwelt among its tenants for the last seven years.

No woman in all that time had ever crossed their threshold.

But now the man lay dying. A local doctor—he was too haughty to accept aid from the parish—had visited him, failing, however, to extract the slightest inkling of information concerning his family or previous circumstances.

Nor was Beryl, although so young, less reticent.

"Put your hand under my pillow, darling,' said Rutherford, in a feeble voice; 'you will find a letter. Promise me not to look at the address.'

'I promise, papa,' answered Beryl.

'Not now, nor ever! When I am gone, post that letter; not here, nor anywhere in the Lane, but far down the Strand, where no one is likely to know you. Then come back, and wait. You will sleep in this house once more. Kiss me!'

He spoke no other word; and Beryl Rutherford was, as she herself felt, an orphan.

At nine o'clock next morning the landlady of the rickety old tenement received a telegram.

She was not to trouble herself with any preparations. All would be suitable provided for.

At eleven a magnificent hearse, bearing a forest of plumes, and drawn by four horses in velvet housings, drew up at the entrance of Watson's Rents. Following it came a mourning coach, also drawn by four horses. From this descended a man and a woman.

The door of the hearse was opened, and a coffin taken out—huge, and evidently ponderous, since six bearers were required to carry it. Amazement! The covering was of the darkest and richest purple, with emblazonments of gold. The popular excitement reached its acme when a person, looking down from a window, declared that she had distinctly seen a coronet on the lid.

The man and the woman followed the coffin into the house.

In about half an hour the body was brought out, draped with a splendid pall, fringed with bullion, and placed in the hearse.

Shortly after, the man and the woman reappeared, leading between them, dressed in the deepest mourning, the young Beryl Rutherford, the poor orphan of Watson's Rent.

With the utmost respect they handed her into the mourning-coach, took their places on the front seats, and maintained a complete silence, while the cortege slowly moved away.

Of course, nothing else was talked of during that, or during many days after, throughout Drury Lane and its countless branches.

Who was this stranger that had thus lived and died secretly, as it were, in their midst? Why had he been left in obscurity and penury—nameless, no doubt; for they no more believed that he was Richard Rutherford than that he was John Bishop, the beer shop keeper; and then at his death, honoured—so the simple inhabitants of the locality thought—with the obsequies of a prince?

And that little, reserved, somewhat haughty, beautiful child, who would associate with none of them, or utter a word about her father's affairs—would be she made a great lady now?

It was not merely a nine day's wonder; it was a permanent source of curiosity and material of gossip.

Every new comer heard of it; every individual who went away carried the marvellous story with him.

Doctor Thorpe fancied he had hit upon an infallible means of discovering the clue.

Every morning, for a week, he studied the obituaries in the daily papers; but all to no purpose.

And, in this way, the rich maid met the young girl, Richard and Beryl Rutherford, passed away for ever from the sight of the poor and humble people amid whom they had lived for seven uneventful years.

About a month later a van stopped at Doctor Thorpe's door, and deposited a load of parcels, containing gifts for the dwellers in and round about Watson's Rents.

The purple coffin was borne through the low-browed, iron-studded door of an ancient crypt, built amid the foundations of a Norman-Gothic castle, in the deep centre of Norfolk.

The young girl was taken to a cottage, or, rather, a lodge-like structure, small, but commodious, that stood at the entrance of a vast park, full of oaks, and elms, and underwood, and moss-carpeted glades.

During the journey, Beryl Rutherford had ample opportunities of observing the companions with whom she was thus unexpectedly travelling.

They made few remarks, and replied to no questions.

The man appeared to be of middle age, with the dress and manners of a superior servant, who had a duty to fulfill, and understood how to fulfil it.

But Beryl gave very little heed to him.

It was the woman who interested her, and to whom, moreover, she herself was also an object of the most profound interest. For, though rarely speaking, she would, over and anon, take the child's hands into her own, gaze earnestly into her face, and once even kissed her.

'Anne Clayton!' said the man as if warningly.

Then the little hands were dropped, and they proceeded for a long way in perfect silence.

A woman, of strange appearance, thin, tall, dark, with a coronet of auburn hair above her brow; features nobly chiselled; large, sad-looking eyes; complexion of an intense pallor; a graceful form, a haughty carriage; perhaps between two or three-and-thirty years of age.

At last they arrived at a spot, in the midst of a tree-covered neighbourhood, where two roads branched off.

One seemed to be the entrance of a wood, sombre with fir, yews, cypresses, and cedars, extending in a long and melancholy avenue.

Down this, the vehicle, that bore a burden of death, rapidly turned, and Beryl saw, amid the dark foliage, the tossing of the darker plumes.

She uttered a cry.

'Am I never to see papa again?' she exclaimed, holding out her arms, as the gloomy carriage vanished among the shadows.

'Hush, child!' said the woman. 'If you wish to be happy, you must never speak of him again.'

'I may think of him?' asked Beryl, innocently.

'If you cannot help it,' was the answer. 'You will soon forget to do even that. This is your new home.'

It was a small house, half Swiss, half Gothic in construction, with a pretty porch, neatly curtained windows, an air of modest comfort, exquisite cleanliness, but bearing, to accustomed eyes, the unmistakable character of a gate-keeper's lodge.

Now, it must be confessed that Beryl felt a little surprised. Only her grief prevented her, indeed, from feeling disappointed.

With the fitful fancy of childhood, she had been weaving, amid the intervals of her tears, a little romance for herself as they came along.

If her papa had been, although poor, so grand a gentleman, might she not find herself in some splendid abode or fairy palace, and all her fortune changed?

Far off, she had seen, as the carriage rolled on, a great castle, crowned with towers, standing directly on the way they were travelling.

Were they going there? No. Her companion had said, as they alighted at the porter's lodge, 'This is your new home."

CHAPTER II.

A GLIMPSE OF THE FUTURE.

The life led, at first, by the bewildered child might have been happy enough, but for the curious contradiction which even she, though so young, could not help noticing.

The man and the woman who had brought her away from town never called her anything but Beryl; but still with a certain deferential manner.

She was not sent to the common school of the village, but received lessons from the old curate.

The man who had accompanied her from London came every day to the lodge, but did not live there.

Anne Clayton, as she now knew the woman to be named, was stern to her in his presence, and more than tender to her in his absence.

Finally, after going up for the night to her own pretty little room, with its snow-white dimity window and bed-curtains, she would often hear strange voices below, and the words 'she,' or 'Beryl,' continually repeated.

In such manner she was led to make a mystery of herself, for herself, and the days of her young life crept on. The past gradually faded; the time that had gone by in that miserable purlieu of mid-London became as a dream; and Beryl, who had never once been called Beryl Rutherford since she left that abject home had grown into a thorough denizen of the country, with its flowers and sweet breezes, and changes of season, and infinite varieties of enjoyment.

Two things, however, perplexed her still romantic mind. She was never permitted to approach the Castle, whose turrets she could see, and upon whose domain she felt more and more convinced she was dwelling. And the grand people who dwelt beneath its roof never drove or rode out of the park through the gate of the lodge where she lived. The carriage-way, in fact, had been grass-grown for years, and she had never met with a single inmate of Templetowers, except, as she presumed, Stephen Quail, the man who had accompanied Anne Clayton who she was fetched away from the squalid lodging in Watson's Rents.

Nor was she allowed to associate with the children or other young persons inhabiting the village, or small town, of Templetowers.

Comparative solitude had made the young girl thoughtful.

She reflected, in her own mind, 'They would not let me mix with the poor children when I was a child in that slum of Drury Lane. They will not permit me to go among the poor of the Templetowers hamlets now.' And she added, after a moment's pause, 'Or with the rich, either! There must be a secret in this, whether it concerns me or not. How old am I, Anne?'

The woman turned an almost startled, even wistful, look upon her.

'Seventeen this day month, my dear,' she answered; 'and on your seventeenth birthday there will be a "coming-of-age" at the Castle. You are invited—not among the guests—not either as a servant. You are not to dance unless the young Squire invites you, as he may many another girl of your age and station. And you must not expect to sit down to supper, except in the great hall with the tenantry; and, of course, you will not be dressed, like the others, in what these gentlefolks call their upper circle. Do you understand.

'I do—I shall remember it all, if I go.'

'If you go? I think it is a kindness on their part to invite you.'

But Beryl felt bitterly that she was being patronised. Why was she to go to the young heir's birthday festival, humbly attired, to attract no notice, and to be treated on a level below that of the farmers' daughters who lived around?

That night Beryl went to her room earlier than usual. The little ebony chest, which her father had told her so many times to take care of, stood locked at the foot of the bed, and its key was in her pocket.

'Whatever it is,' she reflected, 'it must be all moulded by this time. Seven years—perhaps even seven years before that! Someone told me of a damask dress, of a fashion a hundred years old; and a few pearls reckoned beyond the possibility of wearing them. And at any rate I will see.

She opened the ebony coffer. First, beneath the lid, lay the remnants of a bridal dress that crumbled under the influences of the air, and at her lightest touch. Then a large case covered in morocco leather, and lined with faded white containing a scrap of paper bearing the few words, 'My wife's last diamonds—a family inheritance.' Then a casket holding a perfect treasure—a coronet, a light tiara, bracelets, armlets and bosom ornaments, a necklet of emeralds, from which hung a cross of brilliants; and another written scrap, with this legend:—

"The treasure of a bride that was lost."

'What am I to wear then?' said Beryl, when the subject of the approaching festival once more came upon the carpet. 'The dress of Drury Lane, or the mourning suit in which I was taken away, or the homespun gray in which I am now dressed?' And she laughed a mocking laugh.

'You are to obey the orders of those who are put in authority over you,' was the answer.

'And what are they?—what are they?' the young girl asked in a voice more subdued.

'When did you last see Quail?' Anne Clayton inquired.

'This morning. He was going to Templetowers—the village, I mean, not the Castle, for that lies up the hill—to fetch a villager's dress for me—for a man!—that I might not make my lady ashamed—my patron I mean—on the day of the great festival.'

'Wait a little, child,'—and the pale gracious woman, who was so stately and so amiable, embraced Miss Beryl in almost a motherly manner—'and you may have one, at least, of your silly hopes fulfilled. The young Squire is sure to fall in love with you.'

'In love with me, Anne? But I have never seen him. And—he has never seen me.'

'You have never seen him, perhaps. As to his never having seen you, I am not so sure of that. But of one thing I am certain: he will plunge over head and ears in love, or admiration, at the ball; and the fit may last—may I predict so far?—four-and-twenty hours.'

The man whom Beryl had heard called Stephen Quail,' followed by a swarm of hounds and a gallant company of riders, dashed along the avenue. He was mounted on a swift and powerful horse, and reined up at the door.

'Ride her!' he exclaimed and dashed on.

'Come up-stairs, my dear,' cried the woman, clasping Beryl's arm.

'I will not, and I will not be hidden!' the young girl replied. 'I am not a criminal that I should hide, and I am my father's daughter, whatever else I may be!'

So she stood firm in the doorway of of the lodge, and stepped out to open the gate as the hunt and the hounds were coming by.

The hounds went on, but the hunt stopped, except a few, whose horses were resolved not to allow their masters any option in the matter. And the young heir of Templetowers pulled up, cap in hand, saying, 'I should feel for ever disgraced, young lady, did I allow you to open a gate for me.'

The gate was opened, however, and the triple pack of dogs, horses, and men passed through.

'You heard what he said?' Anne Clayton asked, looking the young girl anxiously in the face.

'He called me a lady.'

'Come in. Do not let him see you again when he returns.'

Beryl, in her untamable way, said, half-jocularly, half-fanefully, 'Who knows but that, after all, I may be the hope of Templetowers?'

'Who knows,' was the serious, almost solemn response, 'but that you are its disgrace?'

PETITT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. P. Petitt's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper. Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Not the slightest Affinity

exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, in its itself and nothing else, it embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against the dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing, emollient action of the cod liver oil on the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of the elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by Northrop & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food-medicine is truly marvellous.
